

A JOURNAL OF WESTERN OKLAHOMA

W E S T V I E W

Volume 33
Issue 1 Westview

Article 13

5-1-2017

Breath

Lance Nizami

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview>

 Part of the Fiction Commons, Nonfiction Commons, Photography Commons, and the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Nizami, Lance (2017) "Breath," Westview: Vol. 33 : Iss. 1 , Article 13.
Available at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview/vol33/iss1/13>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Westview by an authorized administrator of SWOSU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.

 SWOSUTM

Breath

by Lance Nizami

Sky, the sky so big, it streams in breezes into open mouths
The sky's exhaled by me, inhaled by other me's, the sky-inhalers
Air: it's colorless, yet blue with smoke and grey with grease and yellow-gold with pollen

My breathing's strained; I gasp to pull in air
My chest is tight with load of air, a burden, mass of smoke and grease and pollen
Can any man endure the stress upon the rhythm of his lungs

There must have been a prehistoric time when air was clean, invigorating–

Imagine that; primordial and pristine, imagine that–
Imagine atmosphere so clear that every night reveals the Milky Way
Imagine air so clear that every day reveals a blue horizon-line

Imagine subtle scents of flowers carried far on wind, or on still-air
Imagine sky, the sky so big, it streams in breezes into ancient mouths
The sky's exhaled by ancient mouths, inhaled by other ancient mouths, the sky-inhalers–