standing to serve

standing behind every farmhouse in Western Oklahoma

By Sheryl L. Nelms

porches
perch
on top of limestone steps

wait

with their cistern pumps white enameled sinks and bars of Lava
to pumice corn planting from calloused skin

five gallon buckets full of sweet well water
ask to be sipped
from tin
dippers
to wash down
field dust

overalls
and flannel shirts
back the doors
beg for tired
bodies
to settle in waiting

for the chance to soften the edge
of farm
life

dream to reality

Splendor in the Pasture

By Margie Snowden North

Once I was a ballerina twirling on bare toes in the sand, gliding through pasture-shinnery and ox-eye daisies kicking my leg high in the late afternoon sun.

The music in my head
was beautiful and so was I
and the invisible crowds gasped and cheered as I pirouetted on a corner post, enveloped in a splendor as tangible as the hot sun on my back.

In the sand and shinnery my finale was the dead-swan act and the world stopped and time hang suspended and the crowds were stunned into silence at so awesome a performance.

Then ole Daisy lowed,
questioning,
and the magic went in a poof
and I picked my way barefoot through the hot sand and long shadows and headed the cows toward home for milking time.
