Freshmen, Sophomores, And Seniors Will Elect Class Officers Today

Rollins College breaks precedent today as three classes will cast ballots individually for the officers they want to head their class.

Freshmen and seniors will be doing their annual duty, but the sophomore class will make the shift from Upper and Lower divisions official by electing officers for the first time in two years.

The class of 1957, this year's senior class, elected sophomore officers two years ago, but its desire to remain a unit died almost in its tracks because of lack of academic reality to the "sophomore class" at that time.

Only the class of 1958 has failed organize at this time.

ANNIE RUSSELL THEATRE HOSTS CARLO CONCERT

The Rollins Concert Series for 1956-57 starts the season with the concert by Alphonse and Katherine Carlo on November 20, at 8:30 p.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre. As in previous years the faculty and staff will receive free tickets of admission to the entire series by sending requests for admission cards to the Conservatory office, and the Rollins College students will be admitted on presentation of their Student Association Cards.

Subscriptions for the annual series, which has come to be one of the outstanding musical events of the Winter Park season, may be purchased for 12 dollars and entitle subscribers to two membership cards. Names of subscribers will be printed on all programs in the series.

The eight recitals scheduled for this season are as follows: Tuesday, Nov. 20, Alphonse Carlo, violinist, and Katherine Carlo, pianist; Friday, Jan. 11, Helen Moore, pianist; Friday, Jan. 18, Ross Rosazza, baritone, and John Carter, pianist; Friday, Feb. 8, the Albeneri Trio; Friday, Feb. 15, Catharine Crozier, organist; Tuesday, March 12, Mack Harrell, baritone, and Robert Hufstader, pianist; Thursday, April 11, Rollins Singers with Robert Hufstader, conductor; and Friday, May 10, Gerson Yessin, pianist.

All performances with the exception of the concert of Feb. 15, which is to be in the Knowles Memorial Chapel, will be given in the Annie Russell Theatre.

Pete Adams, Jim Simmons, Gordon Hahn, and George Kosty were nominated for president of the senior class Wednesday. Adams, a Sigma Nu, has been starred in several Annie Russell productions and last summer attended school at the University of Oslo on the Strong scholarship.

Simmons, a member of the Tomokan staff, has served his fraternity, Delta Chi, as secretary and rush chairman.

Hahn is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity which he has served as president and vice president.

Kosty, an X Clubber, is comptroller of the Student Association and formerly a member of the Rollins basketball squad.

Ken McColester, Tom Hulihan and Ed Dinga were nominated for vice-president of the class. Jo Davis and Billie Jo Whipple will vie for the secretary position.

Jack Powell, former comptroller and now Business Manager of the Sandspur, was the only nominee for treasurer of the Senior class.

The sophomore class nominated Mo Cody, Len Wood, Tom DiBacco, Don Salyer, and Pete Kimball for president in its organizational meeting Tuesday.

Cody, a Sigma Nu, is a member of the varsity crew team. Wood was a member of the Rollins baseball squad last spring and served as vice president of his freshman class. He is a member of the X Club. DiBacco is sports editor for the Sandspur, and Sigma Nu student council representative. Kimball is sergeant-at-arms of the Delta Chi fraternity and played tennis in matches with the Rollins net squad last year. Salyer, a member of the Kappa Alpha Order, rows in the varsity crew shell.

Bill Dunnill, Tom Dolan and George Fehl are in the race for vice president. Lee Lazzera, Margie Myers, Muffie Murphy and Carol Lindgren make up the field for secretary.

Jill Josselson, Nancy Haskell, Mabel Healis and Les Sladkus are running for treasurer of the sophomore class.

The freshman class led off things Monday by nominating 21 candidates to run for the four class offices available, president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Nat Mendell, Richard Mansfield, Dale Montgomery, Dick Barnes and Chase Peabody won freshmen nominations to head the class.

Peabody is from Morristown, N. J. He attended Morristown Preparatory School, where he was senior prefect and active in three sports.

Barnes, from Rockford, Ill., attended Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, Wisconsin. He was active in dramatics, track and swimming while there.

Montgomery, a resident of Sarasota, attended Sarasota High School, where he was active in journalism, school honoraries, and vice president of the senior class.

Mansfield is from Scarsdale, N. Y. He attended the Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, Conn. where he was vice president of both his class and student council and president of the New England Student Government Association.

Mendell, a resident of Winter Park, attended Avon Old Farms School in Connecticut, where he was active in football and baseball and a member of the Outdoors club.

Peter Roe, Sid Burt, Walter Sallstein, Ronald Price, and Nancy Pfanner were vice-presidential nominees. Joan Brand, Linda Carroll, Jill Shoemaker, Cherry King and Charles Erdheim are in the running for class secretary.

The freshman class treasurer will be elected from among Nancy Watzek, Marshall Cliborne, Bill Shaffer, John Leffingwell, Marc Schoen, and Beverly Milliken.

Greenhut Will Meet With All Interested In Future Employment

Dr. Melvin Greenhut, Director of the Placement Bureau, will meet with all interested senior men about registration for placement service on Friday, October 26, at 3:30 p.m. in Carnegie 11. A meeting for interested senior women will be held the following Friday, November 2 at 3:30 p.m., also in Carnegie 11.

The Placement Bureau is a service of the college to help students find employment after graduation in the fields of their choice. Permanent files are maintained by the Bureau for all students registering for this service so that alumni going into military service or planning graduate school may request assistance from the Bureau at any future time.

Job opportunities and campus visit dates by representatives of business, government and non-profit agencies are already running ahead of previous years.

Student Council Moves Into New Headquarters In Center

By Jean Rigg

The new Student Council office, equipped controversially with new desk, typewriter stand, and electric typewriter, was put to use at Monday night's Council meeting.

Officers, representatives, and guests filed down to the Center basement site and were seated in the newly furnished office. Business was conducted over the murmur and occasional sputter of the newly installed air conditioner.

The motion made at the last meeting regarding the expenditure of money for a big name band for the Fiesta Dance was again tabled. The motion was "to spend the appropriate amount of Student Council surplus for a big name band." As there is still dissension from some groups over the spending of a large amount for only one night's entertainment, it was felt that a decision as to whether to have the band or not be made before spending time on the problems of financing the dance. Another purpose of the second tabling of this motion was in order to wait for a report of plans from the Fiesta Committee.

The cost to each student will be the same as in previous years, about $2, if a big name band is hired. The remainder of the approximately $2,000 cost will come from the Student Council surplus.

Frank Wolfe, Pelican Representative, announced that a retired couple to replace Lucy Kenyon had not been found. Until chaperones have been hired and the building has been repaired and cleaned, no weekends will be scheduled.

Also under old business, Campus Improvement Representative Dave Williams reported on the Beanery problem. Along with the recommendations made at the previous meeting, it was suggested that more student cooperation with Mr. and Mrs. Mays would improve the general situation. To assist in the cleaning up of picnic debris, Mr. Mays told Dave that sufficient trash cans would be provided.

Dave Bowman, Traffic Committee Representative, was questioned about the problem of the narrow space between lines in marked off parking areas. It was agreed that the spaces are small, and traffic tickets given for parking on these lines will probably be disregarded. The Traffic Committee will look into improving the present conditions.

Dean Justice was asked to explain the student deans' memo regarding serenading. In order to warn the resident heads in advance and to prevent excessive disturbance, the deans have requested that they be told of any plans for serenading after closing hours.

FAMOUS PIANIST TO BE HIGHLIGHT OF CONVENTION

Rollins College will host the annual convention of the Florida State Music Teachers' Association Oct. 28-30, it was announced this week.

More than 400 music teachers are expected to attend the convention. Convention headquarters will be the Langford Hotel.

Beveridge Webster, distinguished American pianist, will highlight the convention. He will be presented October 29 at 8:30 p.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre. He will also act as moderator of the Piano Master Class Tuesday, October 30, another highlight of the convention. Price for the concert will be $2 and for Master Piano Class, $5.

Delegates will arrive Sunday, October 28 in time to attend the opening reception and tea at Martin Hall, the new Rollins Conservatory building on Genius Drive, at 5:45 p.m., a buffet supper at 7 p.m. and a choral music program conducted by Robert Hufstader, director of the Rollins Conservatory of Music, with Catherine Crozier Gleason at the organ.

The first general session of the convention will convene at 9 a.m. October 29. Featured will be an organ, church and choral music panel at 10:30 a.m., with Ruth Richard Carr, chairman. The annual banquet will open at 6:45 p.m., with Merle Sargent serving as toastmistress, and Mrs. Alice Anderson Hufstader speaking on the subject, "The Rewards of the Private Music Teacher."

The convention will close at 1:15 p.m. October 30 with a luncheon at which William Schumann, noted composer and president of the Juilliard School of Music, will speak.

The Student Council is shown Monday during the first meeting in its new private air conditioned office in the Center basement.

The Chapel Tower

By T. S. Darrah

Ours is a small campus and we have a tendency to know almost too much about one another. In a campus as intimate as ours we need to make every effort to be generous. Not only is generosity a worthy end in itself but sometimes we ourselves are not blameless.

Darrah

We are not unlike—to use the double negative—the man who complains to his Doctor about his wife's keeping goats in their apartment. "It is awful," he explained. "I can't stand the smell and she won't get rid of them. Doctor, I think she is crazy. What shall I do?"

"Why not open the windows and let the smell out?" suggested the Doctor.

"What? and let my birds fly out?"

EDITORIAL

WHY ORGANIZE?

Why are classes organizing at Rollins? Why vote in today's elections? These are honest questions and questions worthy of an answer and an explanation. One class has already asked them loudly in its failure to organize.

Rollins is a changing and improving college. It has improved its student body through College Board examinations and other measures. It has introduced a pension plan and improved salaries for its professors. It has inaugurated a building plan to improve the aesthetic atmosphere and living and teaching conditions of the campus.

More than this, however, as a privately endowed, liberal arts college, Rollins has as its ideal the improvement of the individual mind, an ideal that possesses a spirit in itself. It is both an individual and social spirit, which ties the student to his school by intellectual and social bonds with his professors and fellow students. Its purpose is to strengthen the individual, by helping him to seek inward towards the self-knowledge which will prepare him for life. But its methods are often social, to help him learn through argument and discussion, and association with others.

What does this have to do with the organization of classes? The ideal of the liberal arts education justifies its existence through the support of its students and those who have been a part of it.

This ideal allows the student to become an intricate part of his college. It needs no artificial ties such as expensive football squads to help him to identify himself with the college.

But are these ties to be broken at graduation? Must Rollins look to outside sources for aid, both spiritual and financial? Or isn't the logical place for that aid to come from, from those who have shared in the ideal and wish it to continue?

There are many organizations and social groups on the campus in which the student can follow his individual pursuits and fulfill his need for social activity. These are necessary, but often they pull the student away from, rather than towards, the unifying ideal of the college.

Ten years from now if you identify yourself with Rollins, it will probably be through the people you knew here. Class organization can establish a permanent identity between both you and your classmates and you and your college. This summer we met more than one Rollins alumnus who bemoaned the lack of a Homecoming at Rollins, and who, although he still felt a keen interest in the school, had no desire to help it or to visit it, because he had lost all contact with his classmates.

What is to be the purpose of class organization during the undergraduate years? The class must form a firm enough foundation to insure its permanent existence. It must also serve to associate the student with the ideals of the college.

But no outside force is going to compel successful class organization. The force must come individually, from the members within, realizing the individual benefits and the benefits to the school.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Dick,
Please send me this year's Sandspur including the issues already out this fall.

Sandy and I are busy, she is undergrad and I in the school of law here at Miami, but we have time to miss Rollins and we do a great deal, especially Mrs. Dean and the English department conference plan, Norm and the tennis, and, of course, the fun and hoo-rah of the fraternity system and the friendships that go along with it. At Miami we have 13,000 students . . . no spirited intramurals, no beach weekends; in fact the only thing the Independent does with the Greek is go to the same crowded classrooms. (Our classes average just over a hundred.)

As you see, Dick, we were quite spoiled by Rollins so now we want to check up on her.

Regards to you and your staff.

Dear Sandspur Editor,

I would like to subscribe to the Rollins Sandspur again this year. I am a graduate of the 1955 Rollins Class and a member of the armed forces. I am permanently assigned to an Anti-Aircraft Bn. at Castle AFB, California.

I think a lot of Rollins and hope to return some day. In the meantime I would like to show some of the westerners what kind of a school Rollins really is.

Very truly yours,

ON RAISING TUITION

(ACP) — The board of trustees at Cornell University recently approved a tuition increase. The Cornell Daily Sun editorialized on the increase as follows:

"Tuition increases are universally disliked, by administrators and teachers as well as students. But in the picture of mid-century American higher education, increased fees have become as necessary as they are unwelcome.

The University's recent announcement that endowed college tuition would be raised to $1,100 in September, 1957, comes as no surprise. It has long been evident that spiralling costs and development programs had to be financed from new sources. The single most important factor in determining the increase . . . faculty salaries . . . has presented a problem to all educational institutions for several years and something had to be done to meet the crisis.

The dangers of skyrocketing tuitions are at once evident; eventually the University may be able to draw only wealthier families, and adult students of both mediocre and high ability. Ideally, Cornell should be available to the best students from all income brackets.

Theoretically, of course, there are no limits to the amount a university can charge for the privilege of instruction. Practically, there are real dangers involved when tuition costs become appreciably affect the quality of the student body; moreover, we trust that the quality of instruction will improve. With promised increases in scholarship aid the University should be able to maintain itself as an institution of wide opportunity and high level education.

BE A JOINER

(ACP) — One of the big questions facing the college student is whether he should become active in student groups on the campus. The Furman Hornet discussed that question and came to some conclusions in the following editorial:

"Ask the average upper classman what he would do if he could start over as a freshman at Furman and he might say, 'well, I'd join this and that and get to know more people any way I could.'"

That's usually called the philosophy of the "joiner," a person who is often criticized unjustly. The advice we would offer freshmen is to be a joiner. Probably it's wrong to enlist in every organization available if you're doing it so you may have a section of the year book all to yourself. But if the motive is getting to know more people and trying to become interested in more activities, why the thing to do is join up.

Of course good grades are necessary to keep a big extra-curricular program. Many of the organizations at Furman require a certain scholastic average for admittance and others are restricted to students in the very highest academic brackets.

A lot of enjoyment can come to the freshman who tries to be a part of his college by participating in its activities. Scholastic distinction is one way to that goal. Joining and contributing to the success of an organization or two or three is another.

'ROUND ROLLINS

By Edge

Henrik Ibsen's great play The Master Builder deals with, on one level, the conflict between youth and old age. The Master Builder has in his employment a talented young architect, and he lives in constant fear of the younger man's usurpation of his powers. Consequently, he dominates the young man and will not let him show his talents. Finally driven by this fear and the desire to possess a beautiful young woman, he attempts to show his powers by climbing a high steeple as part of the dedication ceremonies. He gets giddy, loses his balance and falls to his death.

At Rollins most of us, who've been here a long time, do not feel as the Master Builder did. However it seems that many Freshmen feel we do.

After talking to a few of them, I came to the conclusion their combined attitude was "What right have I???" The truth is the Freshman class makes up over a third of the population of the Rollins Family, and they shall inherit the Spanish moss, the Beanery and beautiful Lake Fleet.

But let us also warn, the Freshmen, these contributions must be the products of independent thought and yet serve the college as whole. Rollins has a tradition, if it really has any at all, of creative thought.

Creative thought is the kind of ideas men like Einstein, Socrates, Shakespeare have had. Although these men were part of a society, they were able to see it's faults and have enough drive to attempt to correct them; they were able to think in terms of the future of man, while at the same time existing in their own contemporary niches in history.

An Englishman, named Colin Wilson published a book last summer which dealt with these men and their problems, it was called "The Outsider." I take issue with Mr. Wilson on this score, because I do not feel, that these men were essentially outsiders, nor do I feel that you have to be really out of it to contribute to your world.

To quote Mr. Arthur Wagner of the ART, "there is only freedom in creation." In other words a man must accept the disciplines of his times, at least in his Art, in order to create or have creative thoughts. You might say he must be more a part of his society than anyone else is, simply to understand it's short comings.

To sum it all up Mr. and Miss Freshmen, don't lie around like amorphous jelly fish or scuttle across the bottom like blind crabs, look around you, see what's going on, take sides (take them without regard to what your buddy thinks or an upperclassmen thinks) and get into the swim of things. Or as Mr. T. S. Eliot says: "We have lingered in the chambers of the sea/ By sea girls wreathed with seaweed red and brown/ Till human voices wake us and we drown," may be true of you.

Life in An Edge Shell

Peter Dearing and Jon Dunn-Rankin looking sorrowful at Robbins: Two characters in search of a cast . . . By what mystical device does the campus traffic cop arrive at infractions of rules which don't even exist. At least the students have never been informed of them, except by a little yellow tag.

Citizenship Clearing House Meeting In St. Petersburg

"Politics is as noble a field as any other," stated Florida Supreme Court Justice Stephen O'Connell before the statewide forum conference of the Florida Citizenship Clearing House, held last Thursday and Friday in St. Petersburg, during which over 90 students of Florida colleges and universities met to discuss "The Student in Politics".

Justice O'Connell, chairman of the F. C. C. H., went on to say that politics' bad reputation is due only to the few dishonest men who have taken advantage of the honor and disregarded the responsibilities which were given them as public servants.

Representing Rollins were professors Paul Douglass and Gordon Lewis and students Tom DiBacco, Caroline Aubry, Ginger Grimes, Tom Graves, and Marion Polson. These political-minded students were able to meet and listen to noted men in the field of politics during the two day conference.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts was the featured speaker, highlighting the conference with a speech on peace, prosperity, and progress of the present administration and urging his audience to like Ike again. Representative Saltonstall has been engaged in making a good-will tour through Florida.

Speeches, panel discussions and a debate made up the program of the convention. The debate, between local Republicans and Democrats, was on which of the parties had the best platform. Foreign aid, the Suez crisis, and the military drafts were subjects brought up during the debate. Student panelists discussed such topics as "Why Join a Political Party?" and "Responsibilities in Politics."

Other speakers at the convention included Florida Representative William Cramer and Florida Senator Spessard Holland.

National Teacher Examinations Will Be Given Feb. 9

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by the Educational Testing Service, will be given Saturday, February 9, at 200 testing centers throughout the United States.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non-verbal Reasoning. Also included are one or two of eleven Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught.

The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the National Teacher Examinations and which of the Optional Examinations to select.

A Bulletin of Information (in which an application is inserted) describing registration procedure and containing sample test questions may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, New Jersey.

Complete applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the Educational Testing Service office during November and December, and in January so long as they are received before the 11th of that month.

Dr. Blackstock Will Speak At Meeting Of W.P. University Club

Dr. Walter Blackstock, new assistant professor of English at Rollins, will speak at the meeting of the University Club at Winter Park on Tuesday, October 30. His subject will be "Practicing Poets in Today's Society."

Dr. Blackstock previously taught at Florida State University. He is widely recognized as a poet of ability. In 1953, he received the Literary Achievement Award from the Georgia Writer's Association. He has also published seven volumes of verses.

Meetings of the University Club are held at 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday afternoons at the corner of Webster and Park Avenues in Winter Park.

The leader of the Oct. 30th meeting is Clinton J. Ruch. All Rollins students and especially those in Dr. Blackstock's poetry class are invited to attend.

Reprints of Sandspur photos are available from the Rollins Photographic Department located in the basement of the Student Center.

Dede Lund Enters Orange Bowl Beauty Queen Contest

First campus charmer to enter the 23rd annual Orange Bowl Queen contest is Dede Lund, 19-year-old Rollins sophomore.

A resident of Daytona Beach, Dede is a member of Alpha Phi sorority. She is a theatre arts major and has ambitions for a career in drama.

Dede has already made a start in collecting titles. They include "Miss Orlando of 1955," "Miss Daytona Beach," "Miss Florida Television," and "Miss Lambda Chi Crescent Girl" at Tennessee, from where she transferred last year.

Dede lists her talents as hula and modern dancing, bongo drums, guitar, maracas (authentic and modern interpretation), voice and dramatic readings. For sports pastimes she enjoys golf, tennis, water skiing and horseback riding.

If Dede is selected as a semi-finalist in the contest she'll be invited to a luncheon in Miami to be followed by interviews with judges and selection the same day of the 1957 Orange Bowl Queen and her four princesses.

Orange Bowl Queen hopefuls for the 1957 court were warned lately that Nov. 3 marks the date when required photos to enter the glamor race must be mailed. The contest is limited to unmarried Florida residents or girls from other states attending Florida schools between 18 and 25 years of age.

Meanwhile, bowl officials announced that tickets for the New Year's Eve King Orange Jamboree parade and the fireworks festival finale the night of January 2 in the Orange Bowl are now on sale.

Tickets will be available in Burdine's in Miami and the Orange Bowl Committee box office, 615 SW 2nd Ave., where mail orders should be sent.

Box, reserved and grandstand seats for the parade, with "Magic Over Miami" as its theme, are priced at $2.75, $2.50 and $1.75.

Seats for the fireworks pageant, which features repeats of the New Year's Day football game half-time spectacle, with special lighting effects, major portions of the parade, and circus thrill acts will sell for $2.

Those coeds interested in entering the contest must send photos and accompanying information to Orange Bowl Queen Contest, 615 SW 2nd Ave., Miami.

Colleges and cities represented among early entrants include, besides Rollins, Tampa University, University of Florida, Stetson University, Florida State University, University of Miami, Daytona Beach, Orlando, Stuart, Fort Pierce, Largo, St. Petersburg, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach, Hollywood, Key West, Coral Gables, Miami Beach and Miami.

Last year Mary Jane Doar, a Rollins senior and member of Kappa Alpha Theta, was selected as one of the four princesses to the 1956 Orange Bowl court.

READER'S DIGEST CONTEST CLOSES ON OCTOBER 25

College students from coast to coast are testing their editorial judgment in the current $41,000 Reader's Digest contest and college presidents hail the scholarship fund feature of the competition as a contribution to higher education.

As contestants list in order the six articles which they consider the most interesting in the October issue of the magazine, the event is of special interest to journalism students and teachers.

First prize is $5,000 in cash with another $5,000 to the scholarship fund of the winner's college. Second prize is $1,000 cash with an equal amount to the school's scholarship fund. There are ten $500 cash prizes with an equal amount to scholarship funds.

The contest is open to only students and faculty members in the United States. On blanks available at college book stores, entrants simply list the six articles which they consider the most interesting in the current Reader's Digest. Those with listings closest to the results of a later survey of thousands of Digest readers will receive the prizes.

Entries must be postmarked before midnight of October 25 and addressed to the Reader's Digest Contest, Box 4, Great Neck, L. I., New York.

Chapel Activities Begin Functioning Sunday, Oct. 31

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Mendell will entertain the Chapel Staff Sunday evening with a dessert at their home on Ward Drive.

Mr. Mendell has served as faculty advisor to the Chapel Staff for the past two years.

Members of the staff are Ann Webster, Ken Pahel, Sandra Fogarty, Corky Borders, Ken McCollister, Pete Adams, Fran Swicegood, Bill Pace, Melissa Hudgins, Ford Oehne, Dick Burns, Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, and T. H. Darrah, Dean of the Chapel.

Another Chapel organization which will open its year of activity is Community Service. Fran Swicegood, president, announced the first meeting on the schedule for the third Tuesday of the month.

The following meetings will all be held on the third Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Conference Room of the Knowles Memorial Chapel. All students are invited to attend.

Sororities Pledge Eighty-Seven Women

Thirteen "angels in disguise" that overjoyed their Pi Phi big sisters Sunday disclosed themselves to be in reality Annie Robinson, Suzanne Lewis, Cherry King, and Helen Carroll, kneeling; Beverly Millkan, Gay Van Deusen, and Sandra Shell, sitting; and Janet Neal, Carol Fortier, Joan Wheatley, Dudley Robinson, Priscilla Drake, and Garrie Sutherland, standing

"G-a-double m-a P-h-i" spelled Gamma Phi to these 13 Gamma Phi Beta pledges Sunday afternoon. In the front row are Betty Bobel, Maribel Ferrell, Carol Muir, and Sue Baxter. Julia Schou, Carol Sitton and Sally Mitchell are in the second row and those in the third row are Nancy Watzek, Mary Fairchild, Bryce Hekma, Nadi Lane, Kay Leimbacher, and Pat Stevens.

Rollins Fall Golf Tourney Opens Tomorrow At Dubs

by Lowell Mintz

"Fore!" That is the cry that will be coming from the Rollins golfers competing in the Rollins Fall Open tournament this Saturday. I personally hope that the cry will be issued to warn the person that is standing far down the fairway instead of any poor soul wandering in the rough.

The 72 hole medal play tournament that will take two weekends to complete will open at Dubsread on October 20. The second round will be played at Sanford on October 21. The following weekend the third and fourth rounds will be played, starting at Dubsread and ending at Sanford.

Seedings made from the outcome of this tournament will apply to a match play tournament which will follow the 72 hole open. A similar tournament will take place in the winter. The final golf ladder will be chosen from a combination of the results of the tournaments. Coach Dan Nyimicz will carry ten men on the golf squad with the main team made up of the top six.

The golf team will have at least four major tournaments to compete in, besides the regular season play. The Mayfair Open, in Sanford will be held December 3-16. During the winter term the George Washington tournament from February 21-24 will be the main objective. These two tournaments are not strictly college tournaments and therefore any expenses incurred will have to be paid by the attending golfer.

The Florida Intercollegiate will take place March 14-16 without Frank Boynton, defending champion. The best college golfers in the South will be competing in the Southern Intercollegiate held in Georgia May 2-4. One of the main objectives of any athletic type of endeavor is to gain recognition. This is accomplished in golf by sending players to the NCAA tournament in Colorado Springs, June 23-29. This is certainly a main target for the players to shoot at.

The nucleus of this year's team will be sophomores. Two lettermen from last year's squad are not returning. Denny Folken was lost by graduation and Frank Boynton, first on last year's ladder, could not return.

The other members returning to burn up the fairways for the last year at the "Rolly Colly Country Club" are seniors Ed Dinga and George Kosty.

The squad hopes to be bolstered by four new additions. Dick Diversi, repeating as Maine Amateur champion again this summer, and Bob Lerner from Washington D. C. are freshmen. The two transfer students, Joe Miller, former captain of the Dayton team, and Bill Bonnie, a member of the Maine squad, are both sophomores.

The main part of the regular schedule will be taken up by playing every Florida college, including Florida Southern College for the first time, twice except for the University of Florida which will only be played once.

The outlook on the teams record of success lies upon the sophomore squad members. If they can come through, the year will be a successful one.

Showers Prevent Grid Action; New Rules Passed

The Delta Chi-Independent football game having been rained out provided the Intramural Board with the opportunity to hold a meeting to discuss two changes in the original rules governing the intramural league.

The changes to the rules are as follows:

1. There shall be no down-field blocking.
2. There will be no type of cleated shoe used.

In appraisal of the teams of the league, the two leading contenders for the championship are the Sigma Nu's and the X-Club. The X-Club's main attack centers around quarterback Dick Williams and their fleet footed backs Hal Durant and George Kosty. Handling the pass-catching duties are Jim Doran and former Winter Park High School star Eddie Overstreet.

Sigma Nu, the other leading contender, has a formidable backfield comprised of quarter back Tommy Hulihan and halfbacks Bud Traylor and Ron Paiva. They are ably protected by their strong forward wall of Tom Dolan, Ed Gray and Elmer Lott. Frank Willis, probably the fastest man in the league, will handle the majority of the pass-catching duties.

The outstanding players of other teams in the league that figure to give these clubs a battle in every game are Jim Davis, Kappa Alpha; Harry Glass, Independent, Karl Lohman and Phil Galente, Lambda Chi; and Bruce Longbottom, Pete Kimball, and Dick Haldeman, Delta Chi.

Sunshine permitting the Delta Chi's will play the Lambda Chi's today, and due to the changes in the rules the game will probably be highlighted by a strong passing attack from each team.

Next week's games will see the Clubbers and Sigma Nu's vie on Monday, the Lambda Chi's and Indies on Tuesday, Delta Chi's and Sigma Nu's on Wednesday, and the Clubbers and the Indies on Thursday.

The attendance at these games will certainly indicate whether or not football is here to stay!

The Press Box

by Tommy DiBacco

Probably one of the most irritating of all sayings is the familiar one "I told you so." Once someone fails in a particular chore or duty, there is always the fear of hearing this well-known phrase from individuals who, in most cases, have had more than their share of failures. Such philosophical advice can or can not be warranted. In any event, however, it does not have to be heard as often as it is if one exercises a little caution and foresight.

This column is dedicated to those individuals in the world of sports that chose those things in college that led to their downfall rather than to their success. We sincerely hope that "the following few words to the wise will be sufficient," and hope that by doing so, we will have fewer people that will fail to see the light.

All of you that have merited athletic scholarships realize that you are here because you are able to field a baseball in an expert manner, swish the nets for a great number of points, or maybe manipulate a twelve foot oar most skillfully.

With such a means of financial aid comes a few obligations that a person must meet in order to more than deem himself worthy of the $8,000 gift which he will receive in a liberal arts education during his four year stay at Rollins.

These responsibilities include more than just performing well in one's respective sport. They include that one maintain a good scholastic rating, observe training rules, and act as a mature individual in all activities.

Sacrificing a few brews and a few packs of cigarettes during training will not harm one's physical appearance. Furthermore, it is essential that a coach establish and maintain training rules. If these rules are violated, the coach must carry out his duties and release such athletes, not only for his own reputation but for that of the school in general.

Every person can be replaced. Every team can play without its star player, for there is always someone who can perform just as well as another. Hundreds of heroes die each day, and the world still manages to turn on its axis without them.

Every athlete must leave this college scene some day. When he does, we hope it will be as a result of his own free will and hope he will be able to hear from his associates the satisfying phrase, "I knew you would do well."

PREDICTIONS — We haven't as yet had an opportunity to view the IM football teams in a regular game for our rainy weather has prevented us from doing so. However, from the looks of last week's scrimmages, we predict that Sigma Nu will capture the grid crown. The X Club will be close behind in second place, and Delta Chi, Independents, Kappa Alpha, and Lambda Chi will finish in third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places respectively.

Secondly, we predict that the intramural program will hold more public interest this year than it has in previous years, but that the main stumbling block in the set-up will be the question of officials in intramural football. Students in Athletic Director Jack McDowell's physical education classes will do the officiating.

We realize that it will be difficult because of expense involved to hire outside referees, and although we have nothing against the quality of the students that will officiate, we feel that players will not respect as much the judgment of their fellow classmates as they would that of an older man.

What do we have to do to get you freshmen interested in basketball? Where is your class spirit? One day twenty four turn up and the next time thirteen. That is disgusting.

Although there isn't much to work with, Sarah Jane and J. P. have organized two teams, the "Sands and the Spurs." The captains of the Sands are Bev Nabers and Julie Van Pelt. Congratulations girls! The Sands consist of forwards—Gay Van Deusen, Bev Nabers, B. J. Bobel, Annie Robinson, Vallorie Burnett, Nancy Fowler, and Julie Van Pelt; the guards — Patti Dunlap, Lish Jacobus, Lloyd Hoskins, and Nancy Williams. The Spurs consist of forwards—Anita Alexander, Betty Van Mater, Pip Drake, Daphne Dennison, Bryce Hekma, and Penny Mensing; and the guards are Mary Goodier, Lucille Harvey, Anita Tanner, Marilyn Dupres, and Juanita Cameron.

The schedule for the '56 season is:

- Monday, Nov. 5
 - 4:15 Pi Phi vs Theta
 - 5:00 Spurs vs Kappa
- Wednesday, Nov. 7
 - 4:15 Sands vs Alpha Phi
 - 5:00 Phi Mu vs Gamma Phi
- Friday, Nov. 9
 - 4:15 Chi Omega vs Kappa
 - 5:00 Sands vs Theta
- Monday, Nov. 12
 - 4:15 Spurs vs Gamma Phi
 - 5:00 Alpha Phi vs Theta
- Wednesday, Nov. 14
 - 4:15 Pi Phi vs Phi Mu
 - 5:00 Chi Omega vs Gamma Phi
- Friday, Nov. 16
 - 4:15 Sands vs Phi Mu
 - 5:00 Spurs vs Pi Phi
- Monday, Nov. 19
 - 4:15 Kappa vs Gamma Phi
 - 5:00 Alpha Phi vs Phi Mu
- Monday, Nov. 26
 - 4:15 Chi Omega vs Pi Phi
 - 5:00 Sands vs Spurs
- Wednesday, Nov. 28
 - 4:15 Alpha Phi vs Spurs
 - 5:00 Kappa vs Pi Phi
- Friday, Nov. 30
 - 4:15 Theta vs Phi Mu
 - 5:00 Chi Omega vs Sands
- Monday, Dec. 3
 - 4:15 Gamma Phi vs Pi Phi
 - 5:00 Theta vs Spurs
- Wednesday, Dec. 5
 - 4:15 Kappa vs Sands
 - 5:00 Alpha Phi vs Chi Omega

The Pi Phi's have been working out this week, trying to get into condition for the intramurals. C. J. Stroll is the star forward with Jo Cayll battling in the guard position. With this talent how could anyone beat them? Better watch them in the coming games.

Remember one thing girls, be careful of the Alpha Phi's because they have only seven players. It would be terrible if they got tired out or fouled out. Have pity on them. Just watch out though, they're liable to take advantage of your kindness. After all, they aren't the "Angels in Disguise."

Timers and scorers meeting Monday at 1:30 in the Physical Education office. Be prompt!

Rollins hoopsters are seen in action during their first practice last Monday. Twenty boys reported to the initial session.

20 Basketball Hopefuls Report For First Practice

Tar coach Dan Nyimicz welcomed twenty prospective basketball players to the first practice session of the season Monday night at the Winter Park High School gym.

After receiving their equipment and after hearing a brief pep talk by Nyimicz, a two hour practice session was held consisting of drills and shooting contests.

Returning veterans this year were led by twice All-Stater Dick Bezemer, and included Gary Gabard, Boyd Coffie, Ra Moody, Jack Ruggles, Hal Lawler, Lee Martindale, Jack Gaudette, and Bob Schuder.

With this fine nucleus to support Bezemer, Coach Nyimicz feels that the Gold and Blue can campaign much more successfully and should be able to better last year's 4-16 record.

The first game of the season is against Tampa on November 30. This leaves the boys six long weeks to sharpen their shooting eyes and polish their floor work. Since this gives the team two more weeks of practice than they had last year, Nyimicz said he will be able to help straighten out the rough points which showed up last year early in the season because of lack of practice.

These extra days will give him a chance to look over the newcomers who are making their first bid for the team. Freshmen prospects making their bids for the squad are Bob Farmer, Jim Buchanan, Stover McIlwain, Ed Fury, Sid Abel, Jack Eivheljorg, Dale Ingmanson, Bucky Davis, and Tom Glymph. Sophomore George Fehl is also making his try for the varsity.

With the spirit these boys showed Monday night, it promises to be a real battle for the twelve uniforms which will be the number of players the squad will consist of this year.

Coach Nyimicz expressed that the only sore spot facing the team this year will be the annual problem of having a court to practice on.

Until the Winter Park Wildcats football season is over, the Tars are scheduled to converge on the Parkers' gymnasium at 4:15 Monday through Friday. Whenever this time is taken up by some other high school group, all players are requested to report at 7:30, dressed and on the floor.

Initial Soccer Practice to Get Underway Monday

Rollins varsity soccer gets into full swing on Monday, October 22, when the Rollins hopefuls meet at Harper-Shepard field for their first practice session under the coaching of President Hugh McKean and Dean of Men Joe Justice.

A number of male members of the Rollins family have shown that they are interested in the fall sport, but is not known just how many will turn out for practice next Monday.

No more games, besides the two already scheduled with Florida Southern, have been announced as yet; however, it is expected that President McKean will have more information on games when he returns from his trip to New York.

From comments heard around campus, it appears that soccer is a sport about which the average American person knows little. For the benefit of those individuals, the following paragraphs are designed to acquaint them with the new sport.

The field on which soccer is played is approximately 120 yards by 70 yards in size and has a goal at each end. The object of the game is to get the ball between the ends of the goals. The goals are eight yards long and eight feet high. Adjoining them is the goal area which adds twelve yards on each side of the region.

Surrounding all this is the penalty area. No one on the offensive side enters this area unless the ball has preceded him there. If one does, the ball goes over to the opposite team.

There are eleven players on each team which include one goalie, two fullbacks, three halfbacks, and five forwards. The fullbacks act as defensive helpers to the goalie, while the three halfbacks roam around the midfield, sometimes playing offensive and other times helping on defense.

The five forwards do most of the running and therefore, must be fast and shifty in order to get the ball from the opposite team. Even though the forward's main objective is to score, they must also hustle back to help on defense.

Equipment is inspected before the game by the referee, for it is imperative that nothing be worn that can injure another player. The referee has the right to throw players out of the game for unnecessary roughness. Moreover, when there is rough play, a free kick is given to the other team. The kick is made from the spot of the foul.

The game is started by having a member of one team kick the ball to another person. When a ball goes out of bounds, it is given to the opposite team, who then throws the ball into play. This, incidentally, is the only time one can throw the ball with his hands.

Here at Rollins the teams will play through four quarters whose time length will be fifteen minutes.

All interested men are urged to attend the practice session next Monday and should contact Dean of Men Joe Justice as soon as possible for further information.

Seminar On Liberal Arts Wrestles With St. Thomas

By Bob Eginton

An intellectual tag team wrestling match was fought with St. Thomas of Aquinas at Woolson House last Tuesday for the benefit of the 31 people attending the Seminar on the American Liberal Arts College.

Dean Theodore Darrah was the principle grappler. He was preceded in the ring by Dean of the College Sidney French, who bounced some 18 centuries of history around to soften up the day's opponent for Dean Darrah.

Aggressively the Dean tore into his adversary, although he apologized for the lack of good, understandable scouting reports on his opponent. Circling St. Tom with a brief biographical sketch, he threw a hammer lock on him with his explanation of his relation to Aristotle. "Aquinas met, tamed and half canonized him," pressured the Dean.

Working now with a step over toehold, the Dean grunted, put the contribution of St. Tom's delination between natural philosophy, which was man working towards God, and the Revelation, which was God working towards man. Aquinas was pinned with his statement, "God can be known by his effects."

Tagging Dr. Wendell Stone, whose eyebrows had been quivering in eager anticipation for some time, Dean Darrah withdrew from the ring. Dr. Stone toyed with the rubber legged Saint and then tagged Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, who tagged Dr. George Saute, who in turn tagged Dr. Constable, all having a good go at St. Thomas.

With victory decidedly in their favor, Dean French announced next week's match to be between Professors Rowland and Helwege and English and German educational systems.

Walking away from the arena, one undergraduate was heard to say, "Gee, it was just like any other class, only more intelligent."

US CIVIL SERVICE ANNOUNCES NEW POSITIONS OPEN

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced a new examination for Student Trainee positions in the following fields: Architecture, Cartography, Chemistry, Engineering, Mathematics, Metallurgy, Meteorology, Oceanography, and Physics. The entrance salaries during the training period vary from $2,960 to $3,415 a year.

Student Trainees will participate in special training programs consisting of on-the-job training in a Federal establishment and scholastic training at a college or university. To qualify, applicants must have had appropriate high school or college education and must pass a written test.

Further information and application forms may be obtained at many post offices throughout the country, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Bystander Bemoans Lack Of Typing Skill For Squ

By the Bystander

When I took this job on the Sandspur I was not sure if I would last over the weekend as I had very little experience on a typewriter and it seems that you cannot do justice to the job without knowing how to type.

So armed with a book called "How To Type in Twenty Easy Lessons", furnished by the Sandspur, I sat down to one of the typewriters here and went to work. It looked so simple after reading the book that I thought I could learn in no time, so I turned to lesson one. It told me all I had to do was to place my fingers on the keys a-s-d-f-l- and there you were.

So I struck all of these letters and was brought to a halt. My alert mind told me that the stop must have been set at that point and the next thing to do was to adjust it. I know a little about Pin Ball machines, but where do you find a place on a typewriter to adjust, and the book didn't want to help me at all. So I stood up and peered into a mess of ribbons, keys, bars and dust, mostly dust, searching for a gadget that would release the margin.

Finally lurking back in the corner where no one but a fool could find it, I found it, so after surmounting this initial difficulty I resumed my practice until suddenly a thought struck me. I wondered how is one to type so many words with so few letters, but my curiosity (something just made for girls) forced me to turn to page two, and there I discovered the catch. It says you are supposed to find the other letters by just jumping around the typewriter, so I just got up and jumped around for awhile.

Now I can type two or three lines without a mistake. Of course once in a while I hit the wrong key, but even piano players do that.

They tell me that these machines were bought during the First World War, but if you ask me I think mine was picked up on the battlefield and it should have been taken to the first aid station.

Of course it is obvious why this one became so hoity toity. As soon as the government clamped down on the manufacture of gadgets like this she realized she had become indispensable. Naturally the sudden elevation to the position equal to that of Saga Ubbert and other priceless commodities had inflated her ego to the bursting point, and though a very used machine, she has acquired delusions of grandeur worthy of a brand new Pipe Organ. But the more I practice the worse she looks, and I think the Sandspur would do me a favor if they came and took it away.
