WHAT'S GOING ON

Reflection Caught on the Mirror of Sanford Life Today

(A Weekly Feature)

We have just made an intensive study of conditions over Seminole county. It is unfortunate that so many Sanford citizens know so little of the sister towns that make up Semmole. It would be a good idea for the Chamber of Commerce or some civic body to arrange a cavalcade of Sanford folks to call on these good neighbors.

*****

The county is a small one and for that reason should show a united front and a cooperative spirit one hundred per cent effective. Longwood, Altamonte, Oviedo, Geneva Chuluota, Osceola should not be names only to Sanford folks; they should mean the visualization of the active communities that they really are.

*****

Talk about optimism, you'll find it there. These people are convinced that they live in the most fertile region in Florida, and they are right. They work hard, make excellent money and spend a large quantity of it in Sanford stores. It is to everybody's interest to get acquainted. What do you say to a Seminole family "get-together" some of these days, a barbeque, fireworks, and what-not? Something more for the Chamber to think about.

A Call For Action

(By His Honor, the Mayor)

I have returned from the North a firm believer that Florida is to see the greatest season in her history. Anti-Florida propaganda is dying out, as we knew it would; facts always win in the long run and when the people who were here last winter returned home their testimony made the stories of the "knockers" ridiculous.

At such an hour, Sanford as never before should prepare for action and growth. The city is well on its way toward a beautification that will delight the visitors as well as the home folks. We have done well, are doing well;—but much remains to be done.

Of great importance is the atmosphere of the city itself. Let us make up our minds now, as the new season approaches, that we will constantly boost and not deride, that we will be generous in our courtesy to strangers and that we will show by every act and deed an unfaltering faith in Sanford. It is of such caliber that great cities grow.

As mayor I want to take this occasion to thank the many organizations of the city, the civic clubs, Chamber of Commerce and all other bodies who by constant efforts have given Sanford the greatest progress of any year in its history. It is not to advance from this position to that where we rightfully belong, the greatest central city of the greatest state in the Union!

FORREST LAKE.

MARKING TIME An Evil and a Remedy

Sanford through force of circumstances which led to the resignation of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce is marking time:—at a time when the battle is on. Useless tramping of the feet even in rhyme when advance only can bring victory is calamitous.

Paradoxical as it may seem, it is equally true that marking time is in itself indicative of impending defeat. Sanford must move intensively and definitely in the next six weeks or lose the greatest opportunity in her history.

And many things are needed, many propositions that will benefit the community. The tourist needs to be entertained better than ever, civic improvements must be pushed harder, money must be raised for publicity.

At this moment, however, we speak of that either matter, apparently suffering with acute inertia:—the matter of industrial development. We have talked with scores of Sanford's friends inside the city and outside, and not one has failed to criticize the community for lack of attention to the bringing of new industries to the city.

Jacksonville sent a man north a short while back; he returned with new industries valued in the millions. New factories are rising in Tampa, in Miami, in Orlando, and many other cities. And Sanford discusses high water!

We propose immediate action in the establishment of an industrial bureau, (if of the Chamber of Commerce so much the better, but an industrial bureau anyway). It should be financed independently, without a tiestrung to any liabilities of any present body. It should be capitalized with at least ten thousand dollars.

It should make an immediate survey of the industries that are interested in placing main factories or branches in Florida; it should find the best available sites in Florida; it should arrange the best terms

"IT'S THE TOP"

Come all you travelers if you want to hear,
The praises we sing of Sanford's career,
'Tis "The City Substantial" without a doubt,
No fear of the bottom falling out.

She may hit the ceiling, she grows at such a rate,
The center of attraction, the center of the State,
Of all the cities with which Florida does abound,
There's more merit to her credit than any other town.

Movements set in motion that for ages will endure,
Progress and prosperity must substantial insure,
Sanford may hit the ceiling in her onward hike,
But no danger that the bottom she will ever strike.

—Bernie Pinkston

analyze the labor problem; it should prepare literature on the industrial power and strategic importance of Sanford in manufacturing; it should send a man or men into the manufacturing centers of the country within the next month to tell the story of Sanford to the industrial executives of the country.

A sleeping child grows, but a sleeping man decays. Sanford in the last year has achieved economic maturity. The city is in the most favorable position in its history from almost every angle of business conditions. The time is ripe for extension of every effort toward adding industrial strength to our agricultural and tourist resources.

This means the hiring of an industrial secretary, a man with a vision, a man who will go out and fight day by day for the upbuilding of manufacturing and assembling in this community.

We call for united action by the community now on this matter. We believe it is vital. We pledge our time and support to the limit of our resources to get Sanford's industrial attractiveness before the nation. Every man, woman and child who calls Sanford home will gain by the payrolls that follow new manufacturing; retail trade will increase, civic support will increase, banks will gain;—all Seminole county will gain.

Let's not only talk about it; let's do it!

WHAT'S GOING ON

If any doubt remains as to what is going to happen to Florida this winter, get out the bus and ride on the Dixie for a few hours. Cars are literally piling in with folks who are coming early to get the choice locations for the winter, people who are coming to make Florida their home. It is indeed wise that Sanford is rushing her lake and city improvements, for we will see a rush of visitors to the Central Section of the state unprecedented.

*****

We dropped into the Seminole Book Shop, the natty new shop in the McLander Arcade building, and saw an array of school books;—school day memories came flooding back. Old Man Caesar, that stubborn geometry, that exhilarating first French reader, —Boy, those were happy days!

Incidentally registration for the opening of schools in Sanford is on next Tuesday, and the children and parents are asked to get their books and school supplies early. Putting off this matter until the day before classes open will result in discomfort and delays.

Seems to be a lot of discussion about the location of the swimming pool. What do you think about it? Where is the best location? Will you use the pool when it is completed? Drop us a line right away about this undertaking. It should be finished this winter, and now is the time for the immediate settlement of site and design. Let us hear from you, now.

News that the shore boulevard to the Forrest Lake Hotel will probably be ready by the time of the opening of the hostelry November 17, is good news. We have been wanting ever since we have lived in Sanford to feel the whirr of auto wheels under us as we sped along the entire lake shore. That will come some of these days, too.

*****

Promises have been made by the city that the new tennis court will be rolled by next Tuesday and ready for play shortly thereafter. The Sanford Racquet Club is expecting to play Winter Haven on their own grounds in intercity tennis shortly, and we want to invite them for a return series of matches here.

*****

Don't forget to send word to folks of the north every week about Sanford. You owe it to yourself to do this one thing regularly. Sending a subscription of "This Week in Sanford" is an excellent way to do it. We will send this magazine for 52 weeks to any address for one dollar. Fair enough, isn't it?

*****

By the way, we have lots of folks dropping into the office with ideas on Sanford. We wish you would put these suggestions in writing. They are good for the general public. These pages are yours. Use them.

*****

Took a run down to Palm Springs the other day. Improvements there are going to make that spot a veritable mecca for miles around. Been there lately? The road is almost finished, too.

Chamber of Commerce Activities

The meeting Friday was unique in its lack of attendance. For some reason most of the leading lights of the business life of the city were otherwise engaged,—those that were supporting the Celery Feds in a game abroad were excused. But it was a lively meeting just the same.

We are unable to understand how any man who believes in Sanford can afford to stay away from the weekly gatherings of the chamber of commerce. As a means of knowing what is going on these meetings are invaluable,—but more than that, as an inspiration they are of great importance. When things are a little upset in your own business, if you catch the spirit of confidence and progress from such meetings as these, you will find yourself armed with new courage on return to the office.

Mayor Forrest Lake presided in the absence of E. A. Douglass, president. Considerable discussion developed on the entertainment of tourists. Messrs. Hulick and Hulick, of the Forrest Lake Hotel, have written from Loch Arbor, New Jersey, that reservations are coming in in large numbers for the season to open about the middle of September; especially they point out the need of having the golf course this year in excellent condition. Mayor Lake assured the chamber that work is progressing rapidly to make our excellent course even better than ever.

Assurance was given by City Engineer Williams that none of the roads in Seminole county will be blocked to traffic during the coming season. Improvements will be under way on several of them, but work will be so arranged that traffic may continue.

A most interesting report was given by acting Secretary Bob Holly regarding the "get-acquainted meetings" with other chambers of commerce of the county. These will be held in several of the towns shortly; the Sanford noon luncheon being transferred to those dates.

Warm welcome has been offered the local chamber by the outlying communities.

ENTZMINGER DAIRY REBUILT; COMPLETELY MODERN EQUIPMENT

The C. W. Entzinger Dairy Farm at Longwood is being entirely rebuilt to fit the exacting sanitary requirements and will be open to the public for inspection by the tenth of the month.

The farm is managed by H. C. Boggs, lessee, from the owner, C. W. Entzinger, and the new buildings and equipment were designed by him.

The farm has a selected herd of eighteen cows, five of them Holsteins and the rest Jerseys. Whole milk only will be sold.

The milk house where the lacteal fluid is strained and bottled, is well screened, has a concrete floor, and is supplied with running water. The water comes from a well on the farm 30 feet deep.

The milking shed has also a concrete floor with under-floor drains to carry off the wash water, and will accommodate ten cows at a time.

Unusual amount of room is provided in the milking shed, which has a grain feed compartment at one end and a silo at the other.

The silo is built of concrete blocks and has a capacity of from thirty to forty tons. The feed room has vats for soaking beet pulp feed. All of the places where water is used drain to a distance of 100 feet from the milk sheds.

In ordinary weather the cows stay in the pasture at night, but barns are provided in case of severe cold.

Longwood, Maitland and Altamonte will be supplied with milk by the farm.

In addition to the production of milk, there are thirteen acres of three-year old orange trees which will bear enough fruit this year to pay the expenses of cultivation. Corn and other feed for the cows is also grown.

LITTLE PICTURES FROM SOCIETY THE FASHIONS

(By Bobbie Chapman)

Youth reigned supreme in local social activities during the last week, entertainments by the college set temporarily crowding the doings of the elders out of the limelight. Prominent among the many parties given by the younger circle was the treasure hunt at which Miss Mary Elizabeth Puleston was hostess to Miss Margaret Neal of Orlando; Mis Rosa Gray, of Laurens, S. C., and Miss Katherine Pitman of Tampa.

Ed Lane is all agog these days over the big Shrine ceremonial to be held here October 19-20. At a meeting held in the potentate's sanctum sanctorum Tuesday plans were framed for sending Chief Williams and all his minions to some fishing ground far removed from the city, which will be given over officially and otherwise, to the "red tops." And Ed says his camel will "strut" his stuff on the street, but nobody is expected to emulate this benighted beast's habits.

Woman's inherit love of color is responsible for the small velvet hat so much in vogue today, Monsieur, the stylist asserts, with masculine conviction. Deep reds and browns, and varying shades of purple are popular with discriminating dressers.

Heat or no heat, youth must have its fling, the Seminole Syncaptors rightly surmised, and the dance given by them at the city hall Thursday evening was well attended. The failing popularity of the Charleston was evidenced by its almost total absence from the scene.

Baptists of the Nellie Turner Circle were delightfully entertained at Kissimmee Thursday afternoon by Mrs. T. H. Lamb, a former resident of Sanford whose church activity has not been lessened by her removal from the city.

Striking a new note in card entertainments, Miss Maude Lake's English whist drive at the Woman's Club Tuesday evening proved unusually popular with the many local and out-of-town young people who attended the affair, which was given in compliment to Miss Rosa Gray, Miss Margaret Neal and Miss Katherine Pitman, attractive Sanford visitors who have been the recipients of numerous social courtesies.

The very latest match to be sought in costume accessories is between the parasol and the bag, expert harmonizers tell us. Color, material and style must agree and no fashionable woman can afford to carry a bag that "fights" her parasol in any way.

Entertainment of a metropolitan nature was enjoyed by a number of Sanford couples at the Orange and Black Cabaret in Longwood last Saturday night. Excellent cuisine, good music and accomplished entertainers explain why the cabaret is fast becoming a sectional institution.

Mrs. J. C. Hobbs was the guest of honor at a delightful miscellaneous shower given last week by Miss Rubye Middleton and Mrs. Jack Mason, at the attractive home of the honoree on East Third Street.

Fanciers of fine footwear remind us that the cost of a pair of shoes today is not the only expense involved in the purchase of smart boots. Buckles are all the rage and after choosing an expressive shoe in kid or doeskin, the well dressed woman selects buckles to match. Shoe dealers estimate that over half the smartest models are decorated with buckles.

MILANE AND PRINCESS H

THIS WEEK AT THE MILANE

Rarely have those who guide the movie destinies of Sanford and Seminole county been as generous as this week; it might almost be called the "Moving Picture Week of the early season. There is not a day when an unusually attractive program is not offered to patrons of the city. If you will read the reviews of this page you will get the truth about all that is coming.

Marshall Neilan gathered one of the greatest casts of the country for the filming of "Diplomacy" which opens the week, Monday, tonight. Blanche Sweet and Neil Hamilton lead the coterie. The story itself is vibrant with intrigue and love. The atmosphere is electric; you watch the inmost workings of an international conference at Deauville. The picturization of the famous Deauville, Europe's fashionable pleasure resort is one of the hits of the film. It is a tale of suspense and mystery.

Tuesday comes that tremendous, awe-inspiring story by Blasco Ibanez, a story that has thrilled millions the world over in book form, "Mare Nostrum," (Our Sea). Some of the most amazing scenes ever put on the screen are displayed when fascinating technique; the struggle of men inside a sinking submarine, the appearance of a fair girl for execution by a firing squad;—sensation after sensation from beginning to end. We consider Ibanez one of the three most powerful novelists of the generation. By all means, don't miss this picture, starred by Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno.

And Milton Sills brings another powerful story on Wednesday, in "Men of Steel," with Doris Kenyon. Full cooperation of the United States Steel Corporation was given in the filming of this wonderful story; 2,000 mill workers appeared in one scene alone. Fourteen players worked on the film for a year. It is a story of steel hearts, of surpassing emotions, of conquering love,—a Sills triumph with all that implies.

Thursday brings "The Runaway Express," a Universal product with a melodramatic touch that will keep you on the edge of your seat most of the time. This picture has a mystery about it. We do know that it is packed full of action and that if you enjoy the sort of a film that has you gasping for breath most of the time, you'll be on hand Thursday at the Milane.

There is great news too for Friday. Colleen Moore brings a sweet story of everyday life entitled, "It Must Be Love," just the sort of story that Colleen makes so wonderful. Here is her series of symptoms:—it may be of help to some young folks hereabouts. "I can't eat or sleep. I don't wanna walk. I don't wanna talk. I know I'm not lazy—I hope I'm not crazy. Everything seems rosey red, this thing has gone to my head. It has me whizzy, it has me dizzy; put salt in my coffee and pepper in tea. Oh gosh, I wonder what'll become of me." It must be love. Lots of laughter and some tears. A good dash.

Saturday comes the greatest of all love stories, a tale that for fifty years has filled theatres from New York to the smallest road show hall—"East Lynne." Have you ever seen this picture? If not, don't think of missing it. A cast of an actual dozen stars, such as Edmund Lowe, Alma Rubens, Lou Tellegen, Marjorie Daw, Frank Keenan and others as great. You don't need to be told the tragedy of this stirring tale again.

But the magnetism of "East Lynne" has always been an interesting study to us. Why for a half century have people thronged the box offices of any theatre presenting this masterpiece? We believe it is because "East Lynne" comes to the ideal in balance of emotional interests, pathos, heart thrills, with excellent subtle and light comedy relief. Anyway you'll be swayed as much or more by this film version as by the great stage productions.

KLAN BRINGS PICTURE

For two days, Monday and Tuesday of this week, the Ku Klux Klan's remarkable picture, "Eyes of The Ku Klux Klan," to be shown at the Princess Theatre. This is a striking tale of modern day life, filled with action and pointing to a high moral, a picture worth the seeing regardless of political or religious affiliations. You will learn a great deal.

AT THE PRINCESS

On Thursday Harold Lloyd's screaming farce, "For Heaven's Sake," returns to town. If by any chance you missed this picture at the Milane, don't pass it by this time. You'll find the world a pleasant place to live in after a couple of hours laughter at Harold's antics.

Saturday finds Bob Custer in a wild story, "The Dead Line," one of those plots that keeps the hair on end and everybody guessing from moment to moment. Comedies and the "Fighting Hearts" serial fill out a good bill.

SEMINOLE COUNTY ACTIVITIES

Oviedo defeated Longwood last Thursday 13 to 2 in a game featured by the pitching of Babe McCall and the hitting of the Mills boys for the winners.

Mrs. Fred A. Clark was hostess to the meeting of the Bridge and Sewing Club last Friday. Several kinds of cards were played, and delicious and unique refreshments delighted the guests.

Bananas are being planted in Oviedo by C. K. Phillips, the town clerk. Three acres are in and a fourth will be planted before winter. Ten acres are planned to be planted by the end of next year.

During the heavy rain storm in Longwood Tuesday lightning struck several times, one bolt striking a telephone pole near Greenwood lodge and cutting off electric service.

An attempt was made to get away with the automobile of Jesse McGowan outside of the Oviedo hotel Sunday night.

The attempt was frustrated when the owner heard the noise of the car starting and rushed out in time to see the would-be thieves disappear into the darkness.

Senator Frank Armstrong, manager of the Orange and Black Hotel, is recovering from a recent illness.

Mrs. T. W. Lawton and family left Oviedo Thursday to stay at Daytona Beach until the opening of school.

Sunday a week ago a dozen boys and girls were presented with reference Bibles at the Baptist Church in Longwood by Wade S. Entzinger. The books were given for attendance and merit in the Sunday school.

The Baptist church in Oviedo started in April is expected to be finished in two months.

The building is of brick, with tile roof, and will cost about $40,000.

The church will contain besides the auditorium, class rooms, and ample room and facilities for the holding of church suppers and other functions.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Rev. Ben Steele, formerly of this city, filled the pulpit at this church Sunday morning and evening. Our church is justly proud of this young minister of Jesus Christ. One year has been spent in our Baptist Bible Institute, New Orleans, and four years have been spent in Mars Hill College in North Carolina. It seems to many of the members of the church that this fine young man, sent forth into the ministry by the authority of the First Baptist church should deliver his first message from our church. May divine power be given him at all times.

The organization of a young people's department in the Sunday school will be considered at the annual business meeting Wednesday evening. The organization of an adult department will also be considered. These two departments have been functioning as one department under the name of Young People's-Adult Department.

The growth of our organization should contribute much to the growth of our school. The organization of separate Young People's and Adult departments will make necessary the election of a new set of officers and very soon an additional number of teachers. This increase in the Sunday school faculty should very much increase the attendance of the school.

Our beginners department report considerable increase in attendance last Sunday. This department is very much in need of more room. More than fifty were crowded into the small room last Sunday morning. Mrs. Jane Smith has this department in charge.

GOOD FLORIDA CROP FORECAST BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

While considerable damage was done to the Florida citrus crop by the storm that swept Sanford and the southern, eastern and central parts of the state the latter part of July, the general condition of crops now forecast a still larger crop than was produced last season, according to a report issued the U. S. Department of Agriculture, division of crop and livestock estimates.

General farm crops are showing fair prospects but were also affected by the rains of the latter part of the past month and had somewhat of setback, the report adds.

H. A. Marks, agricultural statistician in making the report says that citrus fruits showed an improved condition during most of the month of July but suffered in some sections during the storm at the end of the month. Damage, according to the statistician varied from none in some sections to 30 per cent in other sections of South Florida where trees were blown down and losses were heavy in many cases.

"For the state as a whole," Mr. Marks continues, "there is a material reduction in the prospects of the crop from this cause but with indications still pointing to a production larger than that of a year ago. The preliminary estimate of production for 1926-1927 will be published early this month, together with revised figures for last season's production.

"Avacadoes and mangoes both showing a light crop and much of this was damaged in the recent storm. Movement of pineapples continues with yields below the average.

"In Central Florida and North Florida grapes continue to show good yields. Conditions of pecans has taken a further drop during July and a rather light crop is in prospect."

"The condition of field crops was reported as being below that of August 1, 1925, but not far from the average for this time of the year. It was pointed out that during the month of June improvement was general, but that July showed a falling off in condition of cotton, corn, tobacco, and peanuts, but an improvement in hay and pasture.

According to the report, the condition of cotton, corn, tobacco compared with 80 per cent of July 1, last, 80 per cent on August 1, 1925 and 75 per cent on August 1, 1924.

The report also shows that corn now has a condition of 85 per cent and promises to yield approximately 8,000,000 bushels as compared with 8,700,000 bushels of last year. Sweet potatoes are considered as doing well and promise a yield of 2,672,000 bushels as compared with 2,465,000 for 1925.

Although tobacco has a decreased acreage it has indicated a production of 4,484,000 pounds compared with 5,460,000 pounds of last year.

Peanuts, the report adds, have been damaged by rain and the production is estimated at 24,000,000 pounds, while that of last year was 24,600,000 pounds harvested from a slightly larger acreage.

AMERICAN LEGION

A column devoted to News of Interest to the Legionaires of Seminole County and to the General Public

The State Regent of the Florida Daughters of the Revolution has issued a bulletin dated August 20th stating that "A serious menace is facing Florida in that the National Council for Prevention of War is sending Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead on an extended lecture tour thru the Southern States during the month of November. The plan is to have her speak before Universities Normal Schools, High Schools, Church Assemblies, Rotary Clubs and all women's organizations where she can get a hearing.

Some authentic data as to who Mrs. Mead is, has been gathered by the D. A. R. through the Military Order of the World War and other patriotic organizations who are helping to stem the tide of Radicalism which threatens the best institutions of our country. Mrs. Mead is the wife of Dr. Edwin Doak Mead, of Boston, well known with his wife as a Pacifist worker. She is Vice Chairman of the National Council for the Prevention of War, an organization sympathetic with and promoting socialist and radical ideas."

Mrs. Ida Floyd White, State Regent, D. A. R. goes on further to state that they are welcoming any help that any organization can give to see that this woman does not speak any more than can possibly be helped.

LEVIATHAN TO BE LEGION FLAGSHIP ON FRANCE TRIP

Announcement that the ship Leviathan, the largest in the world, operated by the United States Line, will be the official flag ship of the fleet of transatlantic vessels that will carry 30,000 veterans of the World War to Paris in September, 1927 for the ninth annual convention of The American Legion, has been made by Bowman Elder, national chairman of the France Convention Committee of the Legion in Indianapolis.

National officials of the Legion, the Auxiliary, the Society Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the Guard of Honor, Press representatives from forty-eight states who will cover the convention, and distinguished guests will be among those crossing on the Leviathan.

The Leviathan is an oil burner and before its seizure by the United States during the World war from Germany was the Vartland.

It transported some 40,00 troops to France in the combat days. The Leviathan is of 59,956.65 gross tons, 950.7 feet in length, and 184 feet from smokestack to keel and is noted for its swiftness. She holds the world's record of 687 nautical miles in 25 hours at an average speed of 27.48 knots per hour and the world's record from Cherbourg to New York in 5 days, 6 hours and 30 minutes.

GATES OF JAZZ

(By Arthur Rowland)

I looked at Ruth. She leaned over the railing, her face flushed to a deep pink, her fingers continuously tapping on the rail to the tune of the dance. Then I saw her eyes turn to Abel. He sat at the moment as one transfixed. The liquor was working in him, and he breathed heavily. Helen suddenly arose, walked around the table and sat beside him. Again the door opened and a man brought two dice about six inches wide on all sides and plainly numbered. He handed them to the dancer.

She whirled about and bowed.

"Place your bets," she called.

Immediately the answers came.

"Five on six," "Seven on nine," "Eight on one," "Meet it," "Double it," "Twenty, is that high?" the girl called. "Booth three, your money," she stepped to each booth and collected.

Helen was talking quietly to Abel.

"She is teaching him the game," Ruth said in a low tone.

I rodded.

"Twenty-five on one," Abel called suddenly.

All of the squares were soon taken, and then the dancer stepped back and tossed the dice. They came down six and three faces up.

"Nine wins," she called. And to the booth opposite Abel she carried a roll of bills. A quarter of the total she kept for herself and the house.

"Call your bets," she cried, and again and again the scene was repeated. Abel won once. He was drinking more heavily. I could see Helen took but little.

For a full hour the intoxication of the game held full sway. Then one after another of the booths failed to respond. The dancer pleaded for more but they came with difficulty. Some of the men and older women had left the house, but Abel kept on at each play.

I had been interested for some time in a booth at the far end of the room from which a bet always came, and in a voice that seemed familiar to me, yet one I could not place in my acquaintance.

I looked at my watch. It was 3:15. I knew that Abel had been losing heavily, and wondered that he had sufficient money to continue.

The dancer went up to him. "Put your bet, please, you'll win sure this time," she said.

Abel stood up suddenly, a bit unsteady but yet master of himself.

"One thousand on nine," he called.

I am not sure who was the more startled, the dancer or myself; I was not only startled but troubled.

It meant that he was playing the check. The bait had proved too tempting; he had nibbled; now he bit.

But surely no one would meet his offer. Before I had fully realized the situation, the voice from the last booth answered, "Two thousand on ten, lizard." Make it three thousand," answered Abel instantly, apparently not noticing the insulting tone of the other.

Intense silence prevailed. This was a thrill. Men with bleary eyes tried to understand betting in thousands. Girls leaned out to see who could play with figures like that.

The picture of anguish on Ruth's face I shall never forget. She leaned over to me with the simple words, "It's my fault, Dick, it's my fault, not his." The pain of sympathy was cutting at her heart as it only can in the heart of woman.

Then Helen arose and took her original position, facing Abel. I noticed that she stumbled weakly as she did so, and then her head and shoulders dropped slowly to the table. She seemed strangely agitated.

I motioned to Ruth, "Let's go down," and silently we walked down the old carpeted stairs.

There is a destiny that shapes our ends so the prophets tell us. But is that destiny the work of Heaven or hell? By what fate must the scene that followed have been made necessary. It was not in the plan; it was conceived somewhere where God is not.

For Abel had stepped out.

"If the man who called me a lizard will step out here I'll show him how to bet," he said in a loud voice. He was bracing himself against a table with one hand behind him.

There was an audible stir as some of the watchers moved into the seclusion of the booths. The dancer seeing a probable chance for big money took the cue at once.

"Come out here then, come on," she called and taunted.

And he came.

My heart leaped to my mouth. I recognized him. It was the Wolf of the Dakotas, the man whose victim sat with Abel. It was time indeed for action.

"Stay where you are," I whispered to Ruth and stepped into the light.

He did not see me for the moment, his eyes were fiery red as they searched the face of Abel. The boy did not flinch. But there was no sign of the bets.

"Come on," called the dancer, "Is that your best?"

The man brushed her aside. He walked straight toward Abel. I noticed his white teeth. His face was livid with anger and rage.

Suddenly he levelled his finger at Abel and spoke.

"You're not the man I thought you were or you'd have been dead hours ago. I've followed her for weeks, now give me my girl."
