At Hancock hall Sunday evening, at a union service, Rev. A. H. Coar delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the high school. There was a large congregation. Revs. J. M. Adams, David Kerr and J. P. Simonton assisted in the service. There was singing by a quartette composed of Mrs. Grace Royal, Mrs. J. A. Cuningham, O. W. Tapley and J. A. Cuningham.

Next Tuesday will be a field day for Bianquefort commandery, K. P. The Knights and their ladies will go to Shady Nook in the forenoon, by buckboards and private teams, to enjoy an outing and a shore dinner. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock. Several of the Shady Nook cottagers who are members of the commandery will extend the hospitality of their cottages to the Knights.

The Ellsworth ball team recently or ganized with Jack Brady as captain and Henry Higgins as manager, went to Bucksport Saturday for its initial game with the Bucksport town team. The Ellsworth team gave sufficient evidence of the fact that it has had practically no practice. It rolled up a splendid little bunch of errors—something like seventeen—but few runs. The score was 18-1, in favor of Bucksport.

The small store building on Water street, known as the Clark building, and occupied by H. W. Carr as a second-hand occupied by H. W. Carr as a second-hand furniture store, was gutted by fire at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The building was owned by C. C. Burrill, and was in-sured for $300. The dwelling attached was not damaged to any extent. Mr. Carr estimates his loss on furniture at $2,000. He had $1,000 insurance. The ori-gin of the fire is unknown.

W. H. Follette and Miss Ayer, of Loring, Short & Hermon's bookbindery Portland, have been in Ellsworth the past month at work at the court house rebinding old volumes of records in the registry of deeds. Nearly 100 volumes will be rebound. Mr. Follette has been employed at the state house in Augusta the past five years, binding the war records in the adjutant-general's office. His work there is now about haif completed.

The joke just now is on the Ellsworth nan who went to see "The American Giri" and forgot his wife. He walked up to the ticket-taker at the door and presented two tickets. "Who's the second ticket for?" asked the ticket-taker. "Why, that's for my wife, here," replied the man whose mind was on "the American Girl". As he turned to point out his wife, he suddenly realized that he had left her at home waiting for him to come and escort her to the hall. He got back with her in time for the play.

The four-set drama "The American Girl" was presented at Hancock hall Friday night by the A. Q. Scammon company, with George F. Hall as the star. pany, with George F. Hall as the star. The play was given here under the management of Fred E. Cooke, and it was argely due to bie work and his recommendation of the play that the attendance was so large. Mr. Hall is a comedian of the first class, and was at once popular with the audience. The specialties which he introduced were enthusiastically received, and the audience insisted on recaining him time after time. The little folks, Gracic Russell and Dalsy Stampe, were easily second in favor. Mr. Hall was fairly supported by the company.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

pie For the Week Beginning June Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Practical humility.-Matt. xxili, 1-11: Isa. lvii, 15.

Humility is one of the most beautiful and desirable of all the Christian graces. At the same time it is in some respects one of the most difficult of virtues to cultivate and develop. The self seeking spirit is large within us and written large in all the world about us. The world usually practices anything else than humility, and it eems more often to bestow its best favors upon the least humble rather than the most humble. The result is that, being human, it is no easy thing it of humility to the extent that they

Humility to be worthy the name must necessarily be practical. It must be manifested in action as well as declared in words. The Pharisees no doubt preached humility; but, alas, how far from practicing it they were! All their works they do to be seen of men. They make broad their phylac-teries and enlarge the borders of their rments and love the uppermost room at feasts and the chief seats in the synagogues and greetings in the markets and to be called of men "Rabbl, Rab-And there are many Pharisalcal representatives of humility today. They preach it, but do not practice it; they pretend it, but do not possess it; they try to use humility as a cloak to hide their pride and ambition. What they want most they pretend to want least. They proclaim from the housetops that nble should be exalted and then pretend to be humble that they may be exalted! They argue that the the position, the honor, should seek the man and then decry all de sire for such things, they that may be Such humility, of course, is false. If genuine, humility will manifest itself practically. It shows itself In its humble attitude toward God and in the humble service of men. greatest becomes the servant of all. Though difficult of cultivation, yet the spirit of humility should be prized ought after. It is most pleasing to God. God loveth the humble, but He knoweth the proud afar off, and He keeps them afar off. Only by humbling ourselves as a little child can we ever enter into the kingdom of God. humble only shall dwell with God, "for thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy, I will dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble and to revive the heart of the contrite ones."

Humility may be developed in several ways, (1) by remembering the dis nstrous consequences of false pride and ambition, (2) by contemplating the example of Christ-"He humbled his self" as no other, "wherefore God hath highly exalted Him;" (3) by seeing ourselves as God sees us. The publican judged nimself by God's standards and couldn't even raise his eyes to heaven. Who could under the same test?

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xl, 11; Ps. xxxiv, 2; el, 5; Prov Ni. 16-18; xv. 33; Matt. xviii, 1-4; Mark 1x, 33-37; x, 35-45; Luke ix, 46-48; Phil. fi. 1-11.

A Year For God.

Life regarded as a stewardship is at once simpler and more rewarding than any purely selfish life can be, and when for God the opportunities of time take on a dignity which lifts them high above all petty motives and disheartening fears. A year devoted to God's service may not bring us clear vision of results attained, but it will assure us the best use of time, freedom from weakening regret and the peace of heart which is not the least of the conditions of efficiency. In Christ's thought the order of devotion was of the highest importance. What comes first in life? His counsel is that the kingdom of God and His righteousness should have the right of way. He feared the love and service of winning goods for self with the love and service of God. No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to one and the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon.-Congregationalist.

To be glad of life because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; to be satisfied with your possessions but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often your friends and every day of Christ, and to spend as much time as you can, with body and with spirit, in God's out of doors-these are little guideposts on the footpath to peace,-Henry Van Dyke.

Faithfulness.

Faithfulness at times is no easy thing. Sacrifice and love are close neighbors. The gospel is an invitation not to a banquet, but to a harvest. They who ring the changes on the one magic word belief ought ever to remember the associations that first surrounded it. Belief is a word born of water and of blood. Its divine sense was coined upon the altar, and the old meaning is still a part of it.-Presbyterian Journal.

If you cannot be great, be willing to zerve God in things that are small-Episcopal Recorder.

Alutual Benefit Column

EDITED BY "AUST MADGE".

Its Motto: "Helpful and Hopeful."

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and hopeful. Being for the common good, it is for the common use—a public servant, a purveyor of information and suggestion, a medium for the interchange of ideas. In this capacity it solicits communications, and its success depends largely on the support given it in this respect. Communications must be signed, but the name of writer will not be printed except by permission. Communications will be subject to approval or rejection by the editor of the column, but none will be rejected without good reason. Address all communications to

It is a pleasure to hear from you again, "Grandma G." I think one of the many good things about our column is the fact that we can discuss all kinds of subjects and feel free to ask questions about any subject that interests us.

I have had such a good personal letter from "Sister B" that I am sure she will not object to my sharing a part of it with the M. B. circle. She writes:

I am glad you allowed yourself a spring vaca tion, and if the house-cleaning isn't all done what does it signify? Is not the life more than ment or the cleaning of dirt? As misery likes company it may comfort you to know "there re others". I am glad that a woman's life onsisteth not in the "abundance of things" or consistent not in the "acquatance or traings" or in having the things done at just the acceptable time to us, but in adapting ourselves to our cir-cumstances and other people's convenience, and keeping sweet and good tempered through Itali. Heart sunshine helps us wonderfully to bear the effects of delayed work and other like.

> ness of the glad June days even when they are so mixed with clouds and rain. As the good id-tashioned hymn was sung yesterday, "Oh Land of Rest, For Thee I Sigh" I could not truthfully join in those first few lines, for I was glad to be alive and was willing and anxious to work, and I wondered why any one should add a chorus to the dear old hymn, for the hymn is a gem of the first quality. It tells us so plainly where and how to find rest to our weary souls and that we can find the longed for rest before we reach that far-off land.

Aust Madge, do you think I am a crank? or are there others that cannot bear to hear a chorus sang between the verses of those dear old bymas that are so sacred to us by being interwoven with memories of childhood days, when the dear father or mother or the village or country choir sang them through from beginning to end, and by the very consecutiveness brought out all the beauty of thought and comfort and worship which they contained. If like the jolly, rollicking tunes, but I can't bear to have them "hashed up" with the more solemn ones. I prefer to take them in separate dishes.

I agree with you that nothing can take we reach that far-off land.

I agree with you that nothing can take the place of the solid old hymns which were familiar to us in our childhood days. I never hear or see the tune "Ortonville" without recalling the familiar face and form of a good old deacon long since game to his reward. Many other hymns recall other persons and the circumstances connected with the use of them. Your allusion to adding a chorus to old hymnshrings to my mind one illustration which seems to me particularly a sad and unfortunate selection. That is the hymn beginning: I agree with you that nothing can take

"Alas and did my Saviour bleed And did my Sovereign die?" It seems too sacred to be set to a light rade of music.

A friend in Roxbury writes: "I was very much pleased with 'Aunt Madge's Cook Book' and am going to make some of the chocolate cookies this week, and shall at once send some to my brother out of town, as he said when I to d him about the little book, 'I like Down East cooking'."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM :- I have never in my life given a testimonial before, but you have done so much for me that I feel called upon to give you olicited acknowledgement of onderful curative value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable pound. For eight years I had female trouble, falling of the womb and other complications. During that time I was more or less of an invalid and not much more or less of an invalidant not nucl good for anything, until one day I found a book in my hall telling of the cures you could perform. I became interested; I bought a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was helped; I continued its use and in seven months was cured, and since that time I have had perfect health. Thanks, dear Mrs. Pinkham again, for the health I now enjoy."— Mrs. JENNIE O'DONNELL, 278 East 31st St., Chicago, Ill. — $5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine. Women suffering from any

ft Nearly Caused the Blowing Up of His Locomotive.

"The closest I ever came to blowing her up," said the engineer, "was when I was firing on the C. and J. for Bill Johnson. It was my first trip on the engine. I had been braking before that, and I knew Johnson by reputation. They said he was the hardest on his firemen of any engi-neer on the road. He just kept them throwing in coal all the time, they said, and needed a fresh man every other trip. I didn't know whether they were telling the truth about him, but when I was told to go out with him I made up my mind that he wouldn't do me up. If he wanted her kept hot, I would keep her sizzling if I had to melt the grate bars.

"Johnson, I soon found, was a man who had little to say to his fireman. He to be done to his liking without having to do much talking about it. He told me when we met on the engine that it was the duty of the fireman to keep up steam, and he showed me the steam gauge. I was to keep my eyes on that. I knew that much myself, but I suppose he thought it was necessary to tell me. He said nothing more to me, and I said nothing to him. But how he did make me

"He sat on his box, with his hand on the throttle, looking out of the window, and every time I looked up his first finger was pointing at the steam gauge dial. I bent my back and poked and shoveled and shoveled and poked. The indicator was creeping around the face of the dial, and about the time I thought I had steam enough on to satisfy him and would straighten up for a breatning spell I would see him still with his hand on the throttle and his finger pointing at the dial. I was getting mad, and I can work like blazes when I'm mad. I wanted him to say something to me. If he had, I would have whipped him right there and quit the road.

"But when he wouldn't give me a chance to pick a fight there was nothing for me to do but work. I saw that a lot of steam was going to waste, and I just hung one of my hooks on the valve to keep it down. Then I did send her up. I didn't know how much the boiler would stand and didn't care. That was John-son's affair. I kept my eye on his finger, and when I saw it pointing at the dial I poked and shoveled. I could never get him to look at me. He was staring ahead every time I stopped long enough to look at him, and he had his hand on the throttle and that finger still pointing at the dial. I settled myself down at last to either give him enough steam or blow her up. I was melting the steel about the fire-box when I heard a yell.

"You blankety blank," Johnson cried.

what do you mean? Another minute and what do you mean? Another minute and you would have blown us up?"

"I intended to.' I retorted, 'or make you take down that finger."

"You confounded ass," shouted Johnson, 'don't you know that that's a stiff finger?"—Pittsburg Post.

The Sun is Seldom on Time.

The sun does not keep good time. He is almost always too fast or too slow Once, about the middle of April he is just on time, then not egain before the middle of June. At the beginning of September he joins the clock a third time, and ember he joins the clock a third time, and lastly once more in December.

Now it would seem as if we were startled at the way he had neglected us. In February he fell back until he was fifteen minutes late. By the beginning of March he had made up five minutes of his loss, and before the month is over he will have caught up to within five minutes of the schedule.

Meanwhile the days have been growing longer very rapidly. We begin March with our nights longer than our days. We end it with our days longer, than our nights. In the one month we have added to the length of our day an hour and twenty minutes, a bigger gain than any other month can show—Prof. S. C. Schmucker in Ladies' Home Journal.

HER GUILTY SECRET COUNTY NEWS.

Joshua Hura married late in life a widow of thirty-five. For a space of a week after their marriage everything went on lovely. Mrs. Hurd was very affectionate and charming, and Joseus was as proud and happy as it was possible for him

At the end of that time Joshua's suspicious disposition received a morsel to feed on. One day Mrs. Hurd was miss ing from the house, and nobody knew where she was.

High and low Joshua sought her, questioning every one he met, but re-ceiving no satisfaction. He went in frantic haste around to all the neighbors, asking for his wife. He felt sure that she had eloped, just as the wives do in story books. When he reached home, Mrs. Hurd was working in the parlor as easy and contented

Jushua overwhelmed her with a torrent of questions, but she gave him only laughing replies.

A week went by, and the mysterious absence occurred sgain. This time it extended over nearly all the afternoon, and Joshua's indignation reached a white heat.

He searched the premises very thoroughly, he cross questioned the servants and made himself obnexious to everybody he encountered by a relation of his difficulties, but he got no light on the subject of Mrs. Hurd's mys-At dinner time she appeared, quiet and serene as ever, and to all Joshua's indignant entreaties that she would tell him where she had been she only laughed and declared he was the silliest old nordle she ever saw. Then Joshua took refuge in dignified silence, and his wife kissed him and called him a bear and went off to ride with Katle Evans, a young girl favor-

At the end of another week the mys terious absence was repeated, and as time passed on strange things occurred with wonderful regularity.

Joshua grew nearly insane with the wild and dreadful suspicions which had crept luto his mind. He felt himself fully justified in watching his wife

And after two weeks of the most persevering surveillance he was able to trace her to an unoccupied chamber over the coachhouse. The door was always locked, and the wooden shutters of the windows always closed.

He said nothing to his wife of his discovery, but he resolved to be quiet and relentless as the grave the next time she indulged in one of her secret sessions in the chamber of the coach house. That time soon arrived. Joshua had made confidents of two gentleman friends, old bachelors, who had warned him of the evil to come when he had married the Widow Bedford. There was no method of getting into that chamber of secrets except through the chimney. Mr. Hurd did not want to effect a forcible entrance, because he feared in that event he should not find out his wife's secret.

Mrs. Hurd had been closeted in h secret chamber not more than half an hour when Mr. Hurd's friends planted themselves in the passage outside the locked door, while Mr. Hurd climbed on a long ladder to the roof of the conchhouse and made preparations to descend the chimney.

The chimney was rather small, and Mr. Hurd was not the leanest man in the world, and the consequence was that after descending about eight or ten feet the aperture narrowed, and Mr. Hurd stuck fast.

Frightened half out of his senses lest he should be obliged to remain there and perish, Mr. Hurd made violent efforts to extricate himself, but he was very soon convinced that it was useless to wriggle in the expectation ney, so he directed all his efforts to the aim of going up.

On the top of the house he disrobed himself of all apparel except his underclothes and again essayed the descent. This time he was more successful than he had hoped for or even desired, for the chimney grew suddenly wider just below the narrow place, and Joshua shot down the opening like the last kernel of corn through the hopper of a gristmill.

There was a small fire on the hearth, and the frantic leap given by our hero to avoid scorching his feet scattered the coals in every direction

At sight of the sparsely clad, sooty apparition thus suddenly launched upher notice Mrs. Hurd uttered a piercing scream and fled to the door, which she unlocked in mad haste and precipitated herself into the very arms of Mr. Hurd's sentinel friends, "Don't kill me!" cried Mrs. Hurd, too much beside herself with terror to recognize her husband. "I did all to please Joshua. I wanted to keep his love. It was getting gray-and, oh, dear, dear dear, dear!" And she burst into a fit of passionate sobbing.

"Getting gray!" cried Joshua. love getting gray? The woman is in "My hair!" screamed she. "It was my hair that was gray, and I'm a young woman yet. And I dyed it! 1 knew my husband was dreadfully down on make believes, and I wanted to keep it from bim. Oh, dear, dear,

"The great mogul!" cried Joshua. leaping from the floor like a very boy in his exceeding great relief. "Why biess you, Susannah, you needn't have been so private. I dye too. Forgive me, Susannah, and benceforth we will dye for each other."

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd are an extremely happy couple now. They still continue to dye, but Mr. Hurd dyes Mrs. Hurd vice versa.-London Evening

Show What You Can Do.

Beginning September 22, a genuine, oldime Mechanic fair will be held in Boston This will be the first time in four years that the fair has been held.

The great popularity of this exhibition well known. No charge is made to exhibitors for space. The utmost effort will be made this year to make the fair attractive. All; interested in the arts, sciences, agriculture, etc., are urged to avail them-selves of this opportunity to exhibit their work or products.

Application for space and further per ticulars should be addressed to J. C. Hosmer, manager Mechanics building, Boston, Mass

Ioasmuch as the Mechanics fair is an old New England institution, would it not be a good plan to give it liberal support by exhibiting at that time any products com ing from this section of the State?

Such an effort will surely be of advantage to this locality as well as to the exhibitors themselves.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES

STATE ELECTION SEPT. 8, 1902. STATE TICKET. For Governor: JOHN F. HILL. For Representative to Congress;

(Third District) EDWIN C. BURLEIGH. COUNTY TICKET.

For Senators: ALBERT R. BUCK, of Orland. EDWARD S. CLARK, of Eden. For County Clerk:

JOHN F. KNOWLTON, of Ellsworth. For Judge of Probate: OSCAR P. CUNNINGHAM, of Bucksport For Register of Deeds: WILLIAM B. CAMPBELL, of Ellsworth

For Sheriff: HOWARD F. WHITCOMB, of Ellsworth For County Attorney: BEDFORD E. TRACY, of Winter Harbor

For County Commissioner: JOHN P. ELDRIDGE, of Ellsworth. For County Treasurer: OMAR W. TAPLEY, of Ellsworth.

The President and Cuba. On Friday the President sent to Congress a message devoted exclusively to the subject of Cuban reciprocity. There is nothing domineering or dictatorial about Mr. Roose velt's utterance. It is a straightforward, forceful appeal to Congress to carry to a successful issue the great work begun when the United States declared war against Spain because of the oppression she had visited upon Cuba, and which ended with the establishment of the republic of Cuba.

Mr. Roosevelt urges Congress not to curtail the magnanimous policy of this great and powerful nation by halting before the complete fulfilment of the pledges she has made to Cuba, to the world, but, more than all, to herself; not to permit sordid and selfish reasons to deter her from insuring to the new-born republic that measure of prosperity which can result only from generous reciprocal

He expresses the firm conviction that such concessions will not injure any industry in this country. dwells upon the fact that, by the limitations which we have placed on Cuba's foreign policy through the Platt amendment, we have obligated ourselves to grant her special concessions in return.

Before Mr. Roosevelt sent his message to Congress, it was urged upon him that such a course would be inexpedient, that it would have a tendency to injure his chances of renomination, that it might even injure the chances of republican victory at the polls, but these objections had no weight with the President.

He regards the enactment of a law providing for Cuban reciprocity as a duty, and with him the conviction that a certain action is a duty, outweighs all other considerations. His manly exposition of his convictions cannot but command the respect of all true Americans, whether they take Franklin, W. L. Guptill, of Gouldsboro. issue with his reasoning or not.

On July 12 the last installment of the State's temporary loans will be paid by Treasurer Smith, and Maine will then owe pothing above its bonded debt. When Governor Hill assumed the duties of the chief executive, on the first Wednesday of January, 1901, the State owed $300,000 of temporary loans. Of this sum $150,000 was raised on account of the Spanish war and the balance was borrowed on account of the construction of the new insane hospital at Bangor and for other incidental State expenditures. The legislature of 1901, although liberal in its appropriations, was kept within reasonable bounds by the influence of Governor Hill, who desired to wipe out the temporary loans before consenting to any marked increase in the running expenses of the State government. The result of this business-like foresight was that within one month of the inauguration of Governor Hill, $200,000 in temporary loans were paid and the interest stopped; and in one more month the remaining loan of $100,000 will be settled, as Treasurer Smith has the money in sight for the purpose. And when the first day of January, 1903, comes around, the State will show the best financial condition it has for several years.

The thoroughgoing democracy of President Roosevelt—one of the prominent characteristics of his independent make-up—was well shown at his bestowing of the diplomas to the cadets at the West Point graduation. He made no speech to the ascembly, but he had a vigorous hand-shake and a word of congratulation for every cadet who stepped up to the platform to get his parchment. To Cadet Cassatt, the captain of the football eleven, the President said, with a laugh: "Capt. Cassatt, I've heard of

when the adjutant called the name Philip Sheridan, there was an uproar of applause as a cadet, short, but sturdy, and with get there written all over him, stepped up to get his diploma. "How do you do, Phil?" said the President. "Don't forget your name." To Cadet Rigby Valiant, of Kansas, who was to be married the day following his graduation, a fact with lowing his graduation, a fact with which the President was well acquainted, he said: "I wish you much happiness, Mr. Vallant." — Bangor Commercial.

A large cow and calf moose wandered nto Elisworth Falls village early last Thursday morning, and were seen by several. They have since been reported in the vicinity of Bluehill. There seems little reason to doubt that moose are gradually working back into Hancock county. For many years moose signs were not seen in this vicinity, but for the past few years moose bave been seen quite frequently.

POLITICAL NOTES.

At a republican cauous held at Brook ville Monday afternoon, George H. Tapley was nominated to represent the class towns of Castine, Brooksville, Orland, Brooklin and Aurora.

The republicans of the fourth congressional district of Maine in convention at Bangor last Thursday, re nominated Liewellyn Powers for gressman by acciamation.

The democrats of Maine in convention at Bangor yesterday nominated S. W. Gould, of Skowbegan, for governor. W. Greely, of Ellsworth, was made the Hancock county vice-president of the convention. B. E. Whitney, of Bar Herbor, was a member of committee on resolutions. E. E. Brady, of Ellsworth, was re-elected state committeeman

The third district democrats at Bangor yesterdey nominated Elliot N. Benson, of Bar Harbor, for Congress. Benson is a good fellow—a first-rate fellow—but unfortunately be's a democrat, and bis chances of landing in Gov. Burleigh's seat at Washington are about as small as those of the traditional cat most unfortunately situated and without claws.

To put the brake on the wagon going down the hill is a help to the horse, when the wagon is heavily loaded. But what driver would think of applying the brake to a loaded wagon going up hill? If he did, his sensible horse would probably balk. Many a man is in the condition of pulling a load up hill with the brake set against him. When his stomach is out of order, and the ailled organs of digestion and nutrition impaired in their functions, a friction is set up which has to be overcome in addition to the performance of daily duties. A foul stomach makes a foggy brain, and the man with a disordered stomach has often to grope his way through the day's business like a man in a fog. He forcets appointments. Problems seem presented to his mind "wrong end to". This condition is entirely remedied by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the stomach and digostive and nutritive system into a condition of perfect health, and gives a clear brain, a steady hand and a light step for the day's duties. When constipation clogs the channels of the body, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pollets will work an effectual cure of that disastrous disease.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

News and Notes of Special Interest to Hancock County Renders.

(Special to THE AMERICAN.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17 .- The treasury department is moving speedily towards the purchase of a site for the new public building at Bar Harbor. Burleigh took the matter up immediately on the signing of the Mercer omnibus public building bill, with the result that the department has already asked for bids for sale of a plot of land 125 by 150

The bids will be opened on July 17, and soon thereafter the department will iecide which of the offers is most desirable. The bill carries an authorization for $6,000 for the site, and it is expected here that all this money will be used in buying the necessary ground.

The public building law carried only authorization for the purchase, but as soon as the desirable ground can be selected, there will be money in the treas ury to pay for it. Gov. Burleigh has seen to it that an item was placed on the sun dry civil appropriation bill, appropriating $6,000 for the purchase of this site, so that the money will be available as soon as the ground desired is offered. Otherwise it would have been necessary to wait till some time next winter before the money

Frank P. Keyes, of Orland, has written Gov. Burleigh regarding the proposed change of the rural free delivery route, No. 1327, through that town. Gov. Burleigh has filed the letter, and a rough plan of the route as proposed when changed, with Superintendent Machen, of the rural free delivery service, adding his earnest recommendation that the matter be placed in the fands of Special Inspector E. P. Boutelle, of Bangor Maine, for early investigation and report.

The postoffice department has jus entered upon the establishment of routes for the new fiscal year, which begins July 1, and is now deciding upon routes to begin on August 1. One route out of Oakland has just been authorized in third congressional district, and Gov. Burleigh has been urging that some of the petitions for Hancock county be considered. Something on that line will probably be heard before long.

The probable retirement from the navy of Capt. Samuel C. Lemly, now judge ad vocate general of the navy, has considerable interest for the lower counties of Maine. Capt. Lemiy has many friends in Waldo and Hancock counties, for be married a Waldo county girl, Miss Milliken, a daughter of Frank Milliken, of Beifast, and a niece of the late Seth L. Milliken. Although a North Carolinian by birth, he has been much indentified here with Maine people. For the last ten years he has been indentified with the administration of justice in the navy, and is probably the best navy lawyer in this

It has been the intention of Secretary Moody to have as few naval officers in bureau places as possible, and for that reason he has been planning to fill many of the offices in the navy department with civilians, where this could well be done, because of the great demand naval officers on the warships. For that reason Capt. Lemly applied for the command of a ship, but his health being poor, he has been examined by a retiring board, and will probably be retired on pay. His family has resided in this city

Probably there are more prominent peo ple here just now looking foudly forward to the time when they can roll into the cool regions of Hancock county, than in any other portion of the country. Washington efficialdom likes Bar Harbor and the surrounding resorts on the Maire coast, and the hot wave which envelope this city intermittently makes everybody chairman and E. A. Baker, of Winter sigh for the cool nights that prevail near Harbor, secretary. W. W. Bragdon, of the northern Atlantic. A few of those have already taken the journey, but the the river at a point a short distance above adjournment of Congress will release many more from the necessity of staying in Washington, where the temperature on two or three days has already gone dangerously near 100 degrees during the height of the day.

Senator Hale, from long residence here, knows well the philosophy of keeping cool. The other day be swept along the central corridor of the capitol on the way to the House to consult with some of the members. He bore a big palm leaf fan in his hand. It is a mighty engine for keeping down the perspiration, when the weather is too torrid. The senator has had a winter of very bard work, and his share of the legislative burden is by no means complete. There are two big apyet—the naval bill and the sundry civil bill. The senator is one of the leading conferees on both these measures

The outcome of the political conventions, held thus far in Maine, are very satisfactory to the delegation here Congress, particularly to those of the delegation from the third district. Senstor Hale' and Gov. Burleigh have both watched closely the political developments in the State, and they were re sponsible for getting Secretary of the Treasury Shaw to Portland to make his magnificent speech on the issues of the Secretary Shaw will probably return to Maine again this fall, and an effort will be made to get him down into the third district.

Hancock citizens seem to Gov. Burleigh to have a lively interest in the stocking of the ponds down that way with fish. recently had a request from Walter R. Butler, of Bluebill, for application blanks, which were gladly forwarded. The governor is quite as earnest as Senator Hale in doing everything possible for stocking the lakes and streams of that section of Maine. Both have done a great deal in that direction, through Congress and through the fish commmission. have sent to Maine annually large consignments of brook trout and other species, batched by the fish commission. The distributions are made by the fish commission on the endorsement of senaers and members.

Gov. Burleigh has already sent large onsignments to the vicinity of Bluehill and Hancock. The other day he received an application for landlocked salmon from J. J. Walker, of Liberty.

In recent years Senstor Hale has accomplished a great deal in the way of appropriations for the fish batcheries at Green Lake and Craig Brook. Hardly a session of Congress goes by that he does not secure some extra appropriation for one of these hatcheries, which owe their present flourishing status largely to him. Appropriations therefor go on the sundry civil bill generally, of which he is one of the framers in the Senate.

One of Senator Hate's colleagues in the Senate, who works elbow to elbow with him in committees, is another Maine man Senator Perkins, of California, who was born at Kennebunkport, and followed life on the sea for some years before he settled in San Francisco. Senator Perrips has the next chair to Senator Hale in the committee on naval sfairs, and is also a member with Senator Hale on the appropriations committee Burleigh from Epps H. Sargent, of West Gouldsboro, for a blank petition for the establishment of a rural free delivery route in that and adjoining towns. The blank was forwarded to Mr. Sargent with information as to the requirements for . rural free delivery route.

Work of "Tech" Students.

The students of the Massachusetts In stitute of Technology who, with professors and instructors, are here for field work, have put in one week of bard work and study. The practical experience in engineering which they galu in this work is of great value to them.

The work here consists of making a more or less complete map of a section which probably will be some two or three miles in area. So far they have been working along the river, and have completed maps of the river from about a mile below the city to the Dovie bridge. It is probable that they will continue this to the upper dam.

The base line for the survey is a section of the railroad, and from this, by triangulation, other distances and ranges are tound. A geologist is with the party, and some study will be made of the geological formations of this vicinity. Some hydranite work is also being done, and measurements are now being taken of the flow of the lower dam. Tidal observations are also being taken.

The data and figures which are being obtained here will form a pert of the class work at the institute during the next school year.

PEARL-WHITTEMORE.

Miss Alice Field Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Pearl, of Bangor, and William Herbert Whittemore, of North Cambridge, Mass., formerly of Ellsworth, were married at 6 o'clock last evening in the Hammond street Congregational church at Bangor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John S. Penman, of the Central Congregational church, ansisted by Rev. John S. Sewall, D. D., of Bangor theological seminary.

The church was elaborately decorated by Sekenger. From the centre, suspended from the massive chandelier, long ropes of laurel drooped gracefully to the corners of the church; spanned high across the middle alsie were arches of evergreen, studded with heavy masses of white daisies; while at the front, a gorgeous effect, the chancel rail was buried beneath more daisies and banked with an oasis of palms and ferns. The pulpit was covered with paims and ferns as well, while throughout the auditorium the same vivid color scheme of white and green prevailed.

George P. Woodward, of Boston, formerly of Ellsworth, was one of the eight usbers. There were four bridesmalds, a matron of onor and a flower girl.

The bride's gown was of white meteor crepe, trimmed with duchess lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, sprinkled thickly with sprays of ever-

Following the church ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride. The wedding gifts were rich and numerous and among the most beautiful ever seen in Bangor.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore left on the So'clock train for the west, and on Saturday will sail on the steamer "Vaderland" for a six weeks' tour of Germany and Switzerland. On their return they will reside in Portland.

SCHOOLS CLOSE.

GRADUATING EXERCISES IN THE GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.

PRIMARY AND INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS ALSO HAVE INTERESTING CLOSING EXERCISES.

Ellsworth's school year ended last Friday. In the primary and intermediate es there were closing exercises on Friday afternoon. Space forbids a report including the exercises in all the lower grades, but the graduation exercises at the three grammar schools, which mark the completion of the grammar course in the Elisworth schools, and to some of the pupils the end of school days, are reported in detail.

The graduating exercises of the East side grammar school took place on Monday, June 16, at 3 p. m. The decorations were exquisite. The class colors were green and white, and the class motto-"By Virtue and Toil"-was made of white letters on a green ground, and being placed above the platform harmonized well with the pretty white rugs and cautiful ferns and potted plants below. Music was furnished by Monaghan's orchestra of three pieces. The programme is given below. Every part was especially well taken and the programme was carried out in a manner which did credit to teachers as well as pupils. The address to the class, by Rev. J. M. Adams, contained words of wisdom and useful advice. He referred to the motto of the class in the following words: "Toil leads to virtue, and virtue to a beautiful and noble life."

The diplomas were presented by Supt. G. B. Stuart with a few appropriate remarks. The class presented Miss Mulian with a gold coin, a testimony of her steriing worth. A pretty clock was given to the assistant, Miss Hurley. The programme follows:

The address to class by Mr Whiteomb and the remarks by Supt. of Schools Stuart were a pleasing part of the evening's programme. Lynch's band furnished the music.

WATER STREET SCHOOL.

The closing exercises of the Water street school, Miss Leonora Higgins teacher, consisted of singing, recitations and sale of articles which the pupils had

At the close of the exercises there came a surprise for both teacher and pupils Mrs. J. H. Leland treated the school to ice-cream. The visitors present were also ice-cream. The visitors present were also served.

There is an interesting little story of how this treat came about. In this school it has been the practice of the teacher at the end of the spring term to give some little gift to each pupil. This year there were two children in the school who were unable to have new dresses for the graduation exercises. The teacher laid the matter before the other pupils, and they generously volunteered to forelaid the matter before the other pupils, and they generously volunteered to forego their own gifts for the sake of making the two children happy. Material for dresses was bought and teacher and pupils worked together to make the dresses, which the proud owners wore on graduation day. It is needless to say that the pupils whose generosity made this possible took as much delight in the happiness of the wearers as they did themselves.

One good deed deserves another, and One good deed deserves another, and the happy thought occurred to Mrs. Leland to give the children a treat, and so it was that the lee-cream was served. Another pleasing little incident which shows the unselfish spirit that is being fostered in this school, was a gift to the teacher from one of the puolis, purchased with money given her for flowers for herself.

This little report of the exercises is sent to The American by one of the visitors who shared in the trest, and who thinks such a spirit of generosity as manifested in this school should receive public com-

STATE CONVENTION.

Graduation Exercises of Elisworth Republicans Renominate John F. Hill, of Augusta, for Governor.

The repulican State convention was held in Portland last Wednesday, Hon. N. P. Noble, of Phillips presided. Chairman Noble's opening address was eloquent, and aroused the enthusiasm of the con-

Frank C. Merrill, of Bluebill, was lected the vice-president of the conventions for Hancock county. L. B. Deasy, of Bar Harbor, was the Hancock county member of the committee on resolutions. H. E. Hamilo, of Elisworth, was elected State committeeman from Hancock Hon. Leslie C. Cornish, of Augusta, in a stirring speech, renominated John F. Hill, of Augusta. Richard Webb, of Portland, Forest Goodwin, of Somerset county, and George E. Smith, of Aroostook county, seconded the nomination in shorter speeches. The nomination was made by acciamation and with an enthusiastic demonstration.

Gov. Hill was notified, and escorted to the hall, where he spoke briefly, thankthe convention for the honor bestowed upon him for the second time.

The committee on resolutions reported the following, which were unanimously adopted:

The republicans of Maine, in convention as sembled, stand ready to put themselves on record regarding any vital issue that concerns

he American people.

Before we pass to the consideration of questions of public policy, memory carries us back to the cruel tragedy of last September, when the assassin's bullet took away the precious life of our beloved Chief Magistrate, William Mc-Kinley, and plunged our nation into tears. We deeply lament our loss in this untimely death of one who represented the best type of Amer-ican manhood and American citizenship. His wise counsel, his prophetic vision, his steady hand, guided our "Ship of State" into the haven of peace, prosperity and power that is our ex-alted position to day. Our nation is now a recognized and respected world power, with constantly multiplying commercial interests and rapidly expanding influence. We are mov-ing forward in the van of a progressive civilization, and we cheerfully credit our martyred life that has recently come to us as a people.

We reaffirm the doctrines and principles of the republican party, which, carried out as they have been, have given to the State and the coun try a prosperity unrivalled in history Every industry is at its best, labor finds more constant employment at higher wages than ever before, and is paid in the best money in the world. The public treasury is full, and a constant surplus finds its best use in reducing the public debt. The overplus from the fruits of public labor is shown as never before in the constantly increasing deposits in savings banks and in building and loan associations. We are justified in calling upon the voters of Maine to see to it that all these things are not put at risk by the success of the democratic party and the inauguaration of its policies and principles. We continue our abiding faith in the protective tariff, and are opposed to all efforts to de-stroy it or emasculate it, or weaken its bene-ficient operation. We favor no scheme that would interfere with the industries of the fruits of American labor.

We believe in showing the gratitude of the nation to all its defenders by liberal pensions for the survivors of the great war and those who are dependent upon them, and in extend-ing the provision of the pension laws to soldiers of the war with Spain and in she Philippines. We uphold and mean to maintain the gold standard and the continuance of the best currency known to mankind.

We favor government aid to the end that our merchant marine may be builded up, so that a great part of the freight in our business with the world shall be carried in American ships and under the American flag.

We favor strong legislation, both in State and nation, for the protection of labor and for the limiting and carefully scrutinizing and regulating of monopolies, and we fully sustain the President in his efforts to enforce the law and to restrain encroachment upon it by nopolies and trusts. We favor legislation to suppress anarchy and to protect the person of the President of the United States.

We rejuice in the liberation of Cuba, and welpublics, and we approve the policy in the new territory which we have acquired, which will, at no distant day, result in complete pacification and the ultimate establishment of a free, sentative government.

tion and the ultimate establishment of a free, representative government.

Every provision upon our statute books for the promotion of temperance was put there by the republican party, which has always stood for so riety and thrift among the people of our State. We demand the continuance of all such statutes and their faithful and imparcial enforcement by the officers of the law.

We have entire faith in the honesty, courage and patriotism of Freeden Roosevelt, and are grad to pledge to him and his administration our hearty support.

We endorse the course of our senators and representatives in Congress, and loos with satisfaction upon their high position and great influence in the national councils.

We fully endorse the strong and able administration of Governor Hill, under which the republican pledges of two years ago have been faithfully carried out. As a result of wise legislation, the preat corporate interests are bearing a larger portion of the public burdens than ever before in the history of our State. Within a few weeks the last dollar of the temporary ions, incurred largely on account of the war with Spain, will be paid. Along with this good work has gone also a substantial reduction in our permanent debt. All this has been accompilished without any increase in our State tax rate, and shows how faithfully the republican party, under the clear-headed direction of our present chief executive, has administered the public trusts confided to its keeping.

We believe in a fair and honest ballot, not only of electors, but in the selecting of party candidates, and as experience has shown that our present system of nominations is liable to grave abuse, we recommend the enactment by our next legislature of a direct primary law, which shall more effectually preserve the purity of the ballot and prevent the voters of one party from taking party.

Judge Hale in College.

Some college men of the late sixties and sarly seventies were grouped in a quiet corner, trying to "cool off" up at the University club last Tuesday night - that record-breaking bot night-and the talk happened to turn on Clarence Hale, of Portland, recently appointed by President Rossevelt United States judge for the district of Maine. "I know him well," said "He's a brother of the senator." And it finally developed that a Bowdoin man in the party had seen quite a bit of Jadge Hale along about twenty-five or thirty years ago-a period that doesn't count much in the Bowdoin man's calendar. Clarence, he said, came out of Bowdoin in 1869. He has been practicing law in Portland since 1871

He is a short man, rather stout, with s full, round, frank, face, a shapely grayish mustache and a head perfectly bald well back to the crown. His home had been in Ellsworth and there he studied law in the same town, by the way, that turned the same town, by the way, that turned out former Chief Justice Peters and Chief Justice Wiswell, of Maine Hale was a popular man in college—there were two of them in the class of '69. and both of them Psi U-. ON A MAN-OF-WAR.

Little Incident that Served to Vary Monctony on Ship-board.

Written for THE AMERICAN by J. E. Gott, of

During the winter of 1864 and '65, the at year of the Civil war, I served as one of the ship's company on board the U. S. "Monongabela" of the West Guif dron. We were at sea a large part of the time looking for blockade-runners or any rebel privateers that might came in our way. The "Monongahela" at that time was a steamship, barkentine rigged, carried a heavy battery, and was one of the fastest ships in the fleet.

At the time the little incident happened which I wish to relate, we were cruising off the coast of Texas and had not seen the land or a sail for several days, when quite late one fine afternoon we discovered from the forecastle some object on the horizon just discernible against the sky nest crosstrees not reporting anything in! ar routine of ship work. the deck, when he should have seen it some time before it was visible to us.

Our maneuvers were noticed by the officers on the quarter deck, and they line. All we could see at first was what appeared to be rather raking spars but no sails. We supposed it was a steamer we were all glad of a little excitement, for

of some sort, and, of course, a prize if we it is exceedingly dull to pass days and ould capture it. nights with nothing in sight but water
The man on lookout on the topgallant- and sky, and nothing to do but the regu-

sight, we were afraid he would get into

There was, among the berthdeck cooks, difficulty for not doing his duty, so we made signals to him by shaking one of all his life a slave and lived somewhere on the stays that was fastened near where he stood, to get his attention, then pointing in the direction of the object in the disin the direction of the object in the dis-tance, but he only shook his head. We Maclure. Dennis had cruised about fishthought it very strange he could not see ing for oysters and selling them at anything aloft which we could see from different markets until he had become pretty well posted in some things at least. Hearing the unusual noise on deck, this darky with others came to see what it was all about, and after looking at the object ahead a few moments, turned around were soon looking in the same direction with their glasses. Soon the boatswain's whistle sounded, and the order was given, "All the watch brace yards." We had been running with part of our fires banked. These were opened and the banked. These were opened and the hin was soon at her best speed and head

"I tell you dat's snag, dat's no prize. Throws 'bout dis coss Texas. I tell you dat's snag," was Dennis, vehement reply. Well, the object of our chase seemed to undergo a rapid change. It didn't seem it, and in a few minutes what we had sup posed to be a craft of some sort severa miles away proved to be a large tree washing in the sea, with a few long branches and roots sticking up in the air. A "snag" as Dennis had truly said, and that individual was not long in reminding us of that fact by exclaiming: "Didn't I tell you dat's snag! Yah! Yah! Yah! Can't fool me on dis coss Texas, Yah! Yah! Yah! I tol' you dat's snag! Yah! Yah!" And the big black fellow went away in a gale of uproarious mirth.

Woll, we didn't have any reply to make, for Dennis surely had the joke on us, and we let him enjoy it. The ship was put on her course again, her yards squared and extra fires banked. It was beginning to grow dark, when a little bat, just like se we see in Maine, flew on board and flitted about us awhile and then disappeared. We supposed he came from the tree, as there was no other object in sight.

All men are good—good for something or good for nothing.

A man must possess the happy feculty of winning the confidence of his fellow beings and making steadiast friends, if he would be successful in his business or profession. Good friends praise our books at every opportunity, "talk up" our wares, expatiate at length on our list case in court, or of our efficiency in treating some patient; they protect our hame when similarers. Without tact, the saining of friends who will render such a riviers is impossible. The world is full of people who wonder why they are unpopular, ignored, and slighted. People avoid them because they make themselves disagreeable by appearing at the wrong time, or by doing or saving the wrong things.—Success.

A Story of Nature.

A little incident related in the "Life of Audubon" foreibly illustrates the patient, persistent, painstaking manner in which men of science, as well as men of letters, prosecute their investigations.

It was while he was bunting in the forests of Louisians that he discovered a to celebrate the fifty-first birthday annitiny little wood-hird bitherto unknown to the ornithologist. It was not so big as Surry. a wren, and was clad in a coat of such plain, solver gray that none but practised yes could detect it flitting in and out among the similarly colored branches of the peculiar species of trees it inhabited. But, however humble the bird might be, to Audubon it was one of a charming and above all other living things, and to ascertain its history and its habits was a matter of as much importance as though it were chief of the tribe. He, therefore, bent every energyof his intense and es

This course he repeated day after day or three weeks, without respire or intermission, and then he was able to tell, with minute and accurate detail, just what these builders in the heart of the wild-wood chose for their dwelling, just how they put it together, and the number of days required to complete the process f incubation.

How to Win a Person's Confidence. While the art of winning people's favor and confidence is, in many instances, a natural gift, like most of the good things in life, it may be acquired by those who carnestly seek it.

The first step to be taken is to cultivate—if you do not already possess it—a uniformly cheerful disposition. A bright, man's heart toward you and to gain his ear, than all the virtues in the calendar bandicapped by a gloomy visage.

Be generous with your sympathy, and try to be at least as much interested in the joys and sorrows of others as y u would wish them to be in yours.—Success.
