Advantages of Life Insurance

"A Policy of Life Assurance is the Cheapest and safest mode of making a certain provision for one's family. It is time our people understood and practiced more generally life assurance. Many a widow and orphan have had great reason to be grateful that the advantage of life assurance was understood by the husband and father.

Life Insurance a Duty.

To those dependent upon a salary, a Policy is in dispensable. To those possessing more of this world's goods, it appeals, first, as a security against all possible contingencies. No one now wealthy is sure of dying so. Secondly, as a means of accumulation; for, taking the expectation of Life, a Policy of Insurance on your life will probably yield you a fair interest for your annual investment, besides the full return of the amount paid. In the event of previous death, the Policy is beyond question the best investment that can be made, often increasing, very many times the amount of premiums paid. The chief advantage of Life Insurance is, that it makes this provision when most needed, and when every other means may fail.

DO NOT DELAY! Having made up your mind to insure, do so now.—
Many instances are known where death has intervened between the determination and the set. If in health, to-morrow may not find you so, and you will be denied the privilege. To-morrow: it may not come. "Ic nnot afford it." Then how can your family afford to do without it? The very difficulty that may exist, is the strongest argument for making the effort.

This Company, since its organization, has paid in Insurance on the lives of thoughtful Fathers and Sons, to those who otherwise would have been left destitute, the noble amount of over

TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 30.

We do not read anonymous etters and communi cations. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guaranty of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used. Every regular attaché of the Press is furnished with a Card certificate countersigned by Stanley T. Pullen, Editor. All railway, steamboat and hotel managers will confer a favor upon us by demanding

There seems to be, in some quarters, a belief that the work of the Republican party is finished, its mission accomplished, and that the Democrats had 5,577 majority, while the nothing now remains for it but to disband. The party has achieved the ends of its existence, it is said; it has crushed rebellion, it has saved the Union, it has gained equal rights for all men, it has reestablished the normal relation between the states and the nation, it has won the battle and has nothing | year he looks for it to go "t'other way." more to fight for. In some measure this is-true. The rebellion has been crushed, the Union has been restored, and the equal rights of all men are recognized in our constitution and laws. But much remains to be done. The battle is not over, the success is not so decisive that the victors can afford to disband. The principles for the carrying out of which the to Democrats. There is such a thing as great progress but they are not so securely The work of conciliation is going on beautiestablished that aggressive advocacy of them can safely cease. Nominally this nation is ly those of the South, ought! to be "concili-Christian; but the fight against sin is not ated" and to forgive the great wrongs we fought out, and the church does not cease its have done them since 1861, for they have work. Nominally the doctrines of the Republican party are incorporated in the law and have become the policy of the country; but the fight against political ignorance and sin s not fought out.

There is as wide a difference to-day between the doctrines and traditions held by the two great political parties as there was ten years ago. The work of reconstruction has apparently been finished by the return to full self-government in the Southern States. If that return, however necessary, is fraught with danger to human rights, if it threatens the nullification of the beneficent legislation of the last decade, if it promises to reward treason with honors, how much greater the danger of surrendering the national government into the hands of the Southern leaders! While the people of Louisiana and South Carolina are hereafter to be treated precisely as are the people of Maine and Iowa it is neither just nor wise that the control of the nation should be given to the men who bu lately defied its authority and attempted its

It is represented by no one man. The mistakes of no one man nor set of men can kill it. It is based upon the best traditions of the country. It represents the best beliefs and sentiments of the land. It gives the largest promise for the furtherance and successful carrying out of those measures of or and welfare of the country. The record of its past achievements is earnest of its fu-

Congress has thus far accomplished but little and it seems probable now that the extra session will be continued till the regular session. The slightest reason for gratifying the tastes of the Democratic members of the House for amusement seems to be sufficient to procure an adjournment of that body, which, the other day, dropped work to enable them to attend a horse race. Barnum is now in Washington with his circus and we may expect to hear of another adjournment to attend his show. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," is doubtless an adage in which the average Democratic Congressman fully believes, and when he is paid as fully for his time while at play as at work the temptation is not decreased. Predictions with regard to the duration and action of a Congressional session are generally as reliable as those ventured upon the weather, but in the interest of frugal, honest and rapid legislation, it is to be hoped that circuses and horse races will be prohibited from coming within reach of the Capitol while the lower house of Congress is in session. The adournent of a court to witness an exciting game of cards is not without precedent, but it remained for the Democratic Representatives of the Forty-fifth Congress to place the interests of a horse-race above those of national legislation.

THE Shoe and Leather Reporter dissents from the action of the Tanner's convention respecting the bankrupt law. It says: In spite of the palpable defects of the present statute, we think its repeal would be unfortunate. A great many of the complaints that are made about the act have their origin in neglect of parties concerned to enforce the execution of its provisions. Most laws affecting the interests of creditors are complex and confusing. The gift of expressing themselves with intelligible simplicity seems to have been, for some unaccountable reason, relentlessly denied to the framers of statutes, and as a consequence, they are interpreted first one way and then another, till the unfortunate litigant is battledored and shuttlecocked out of his time, his patience and his money. But if we are going to have any laws at all for the collection of debts-and it is a debatable question whether there is more of good than of evil about the whole of them in their present drapery of mystery and ambiguity-a national bankrupt act is the best that can be got, and it is too much of a risk to run to advocate the repeal of the one we have until we are sure of the enactment of a less objectionable substitute. No one can blame Sitting Bull very much for not listening to the proposals of the commission sent into Canada to confer with him. Previous conferences and their lack of results have not tended to improve his estimates of the white man's treaties and promises. The system of coddling and then abusing its savage proteges has proved an expensive one to the United States, and it is time some other citizens of the district will be somewhat puzplan was adopted. Let the Indian be treated | zled what course to take in this battle. Mr. shall prove his willingness and ability to perform the functions of the position, is more in the line of what might have been expected from a great and humane nation than the Indian policy of the government in the past.

A TABLE in the Cincinnati Enquirer shows how majorities have rapidly changed from one party to another and back again in Ohio, for the past forty years. During this period the Whigs and Republicans carried the State at twenty-four elections and the Democrats at sixteen, the vote from one year to another frequently showing a change of twenty, thirty and fifty thousand votes. The most remarkable change was in 1862 and 1863. In 1862 succeeding year, 1863, the Republican (Brough's) majority for governor was 101,099. A "Native Ohioan" who sends the table to the Enquirer ,thinks that political cyclones strike Ohio so frequently as to make it the hardest State in the Union to bet on. Next

THE appointment of a Democratic U. S. Marshal for Delaware on the recommendation of the two Democratic Senators from that state is a curious illustration of the workings of Civil Service Reform. It seems that C. S. R. consists in ignoring Republican senators Republican party was organized have made standing so very erect as to bend backward. things pretty much their own way now.

WHEN the Sprague estate went into bankruptcy four years ago, its assets were valued at $19,495,000, and its debts amounted to $11,475,000. The debts have been reduced to $8,500,000, but as the paper of the firm is offered at 20 cents on the dollar, that would give the assets an available value of less than $2,000,000; or, in other words, it has taken $17,000,000 of assets to pay $3,000,000 of debts. Of course the case is not quite as bad as that, but even on the best showing it reveals a frightful shrinkage in the value of manufacturing property.

MR. Cox's proposed bill to stop the further coinage of the twenty-cent silver piece, and recall into the treasury all coins of that denomination now outstanding should be passed. The coin is a nuisance and should never have been authorized.

combination against Tammany is complete, and if the Germans vote as their leaders promise they will, there will be a pretty good chance of breaking the sceptre of the Kelley dynasty. That both sides appreciate the importance o the Teutonic support is made clear by their selection of candidates. The nomination for an insult, then there are abundant reasons Register which is an office worth $60,000 a year why the Republican organization should be is given by both parties to a German. Mr. Loew was beaten two years ago, when running for re-election to a seat on the banch by Judge George M. Van Hoesen, an anti-Tammany Democrat. He is a very respectable gentleman, but he has the misfortune of having brother-Charles E. Loew-who was unpleas antly associated with the "Ring" in the days of its successful infamy. Under their auspices public policy which are necessary to the honanother place of large emoluments-anywhere from $60,000 to $75,000 per annum. Charles was the man Tammany had picked out to be put on their ticket for Register, but the odor of Tweedism is so shockingly offensive now-adays that it was too great a risk to infuse any of it into a county ticket. The Germans are a pretty honest set, and it is doubtful whether they would have felt complimented by the designation of one of the few of their countrymen who held office for six years by the grace of Tweed and his confederates, and was never known to be antagonistic to any of their schemes of peculation. To surmount the embarrassing difficulty, Frederick W. was substitated at the last moment. The plan may work, but people who are of an inquisitive turn wil be apt to ask why it was thought advisable to keep the nomination in the family, and what assurances there are that one brother is of so much sterner virtue than the other as to make it perfectly safe for the opponents of municipal corruption to vote for him. The Republicans have accorded their nomi tion for this place to Jacob Hess, a young German, of whose popularity they had a test two years ago when he rau for alderman at large and got a much larger vote than any other man on the Republican ticket. Mr. Hess was a member of the Legislature one term, having been chosen is a close district. These are the only offices he has held. He has never suffered the pangs of defeat. He is a butcher by trade a square manly fellow, who says what he means and means what he says. He undoubtedly strengthens the ticket and will make a first rate run.

The contest on which the largest share of interest will be concentrated is that between John Morrissey and Augustus Schell, who are competing for a seat in the state senate. The district has about two Democratic voters to one Republican. It takes in a good deal of the brown stone front population, but on the water edges it is densely Irish. In 1871 James O'Brien carried it by a majority of over 4000. James W. Gerard is the present Senator. He was thrown overboard because he voted in favor of the constitutional amendment restricting suffrage in respect to the choice of one

He was one of the conlave that raised its stock indebtedness eighty per cent. in a single night, a transaction quite as their deserts."

> Per contra, Mr. Morrissey labors under the disadvantage of conspicuous identification

he has been a Senator two years already and acquitted himself creditably in respect of his official obligations, and that in spite of his associations and calling he is rather punctilious in the observance of every engagement he makes. He holds himself bound by the law of honor, the only code which he professes to believe in or live up to. However, it will not make much difference whether the Republicans divide their votes between these two unsatisfactory nominees, or withhold them from either. The Democrats will fight the matter out among themselves. There has been some talk of O'Brien's running with a view of defeating Morrissey on account of a personal dislike. He will probably think better of it. He is not as popular with the east side Democracy as he used to be and wouldn't be likely to make much of a show as against a man who has all the means of capturing the class of voters on which he would have to depend for whatever support he did get.

The state campaign is assuming a vigorous tone and the Republicans are growing ener-getic and hopeful. The sobering influences of the Ohio election have had a perceptibly salutary effect upon the administration, and they are not evincing as much determination as they were before that instructive event occurred to force their innovations upon an unwilling pecple. The forbearance which the Republicans of the state have shown toward the President is an earnest of the sincerity with which they have striven to avert discensions in the party. The aggressiveness has been all on one side. The self constituted champions of the Executive policy unwisely tried to interpolate it into the creed of the organization and failing in that, to denounce the majority for preventing it. That was a little more than human nature could be expected to submit to, and for a while there was serious danger of an intestine strife that would have imperilled the cause The lesson of Ohio came opportunely and served as an effectual admonition against any attempt to inject new issues into the canvass. Happily there is a virtual end of crimination and abuse of the old guard, who while manfully refusing to surrender their principles, manifested a most commendable spirit of patience and consideration. Under these circumstances the ranks are closing up and the out-

What could be more amusing in a way than the curious complications in which the question of filling the English mission has been involved by the diplomacy of the Secretary of State? There are so many different sides of it that are ludicrous that from which. ever point of view the case is looked at the sequent must be laughter. The selection of Simon Cameron by the Pennsylvania delegation has every appearance of a practical joke. But then what shall be said of an Administration which after starting out with the portentous declaration of the inflexible purpose to ignore the recommendations of members of either house of Congress-even of Senators, who by the Constitution are charged not merely with the duty of "consenting to" but "advising of' executive appointments-literally surrenders the function of filling one of the chief offices in its gift to the very men whom it had theretofore pronounced unworthy of its confidence. This sudden summersault, taken in connection with the Attorney General's remarkable modification of the order partially disfranchising office holders, looks as if the President in his haste to recede from un site direction. It is all very well to consult Senators about appointments. It is one of their constitutional prerogatives to deal with them. But I not think the public mind is prepared for a transfer of the right of deciding who shall receive distinguished diplomatic positions to a council composed of the representatives of any particular State in the popular branch of Congress. The first experiment under this novel system has worked so absurdly that it is not likely to be repeated. But it has set the country into such a broad grin that the chances are small of its creating any

THE LOUISIANA SENATORSHIP. Mr. Kellogg has asked the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections to investigate, among other things, the acts done to secure the consolidation of the Packard and Nicholls Legislatures at the time of the Louisiana settlement by the commission. The reasons for this ment by the commission. The reasons for this request and the evidence which they desire to present have been laid before a number of Senators. The charge is made by the Louisiana Republicans that the Nicholls men raised about $40,000 to use in establishing Nicholl's goyernment, and that about $16,000 of this sum was paid to eight returning members of the Packard Legislature to go over to the Nicholls House of Representatives and give it a quorum. These men make these statements with great confidence, and declare that they have evidence both of men who were actors in this settlement and of those who received money to sustain them.

WAR ON SECRETARY SCHURZ. There is a strong movement organizing to induce the President to put Secretary Schurz out of the Cabinet. The most active elements at work against him are such Western interests as centre in Indian affairs and land matters. Pacific coast politicians are also engaged in the move. Aside from these there are a number of those who met at Secretary Sherman's ten days since, who name as one of the steps which the President should take to bring him into accord with Congress is the immediate reorganization of his Cabinet, beginning with Schurz.

Tilden, Hewitt, Cooper, David Dudley and Cyrus W. Field live in this district. There will be a good deal of curiosity to know in what direction the sympathies of these gentlemen tend in this particular conflict. He opposed his nomination at St. Louis to the very last, protesting all the time that he was the weakest candidate that could be thought of He is one of the main pillars of the "Express" newspaper, which has been insisting apon a new state ticket all the while. They would be in an awkward predicament if after venturing to bolt a "regular" nomination they should encounter defeat. Democracy visits condign punishment upon deserters.

The record of fires in this country and Canada during the nine months ending Sept. 30th, shows a loss to this nation amounting to $52,000,000. In Canada the loss was about half as much, making a total in that province and this country of $79,725,300, an excess of nearly $25,000,000 over the same period of 1876. The loss to insurance companies was $37,148,000 this year against $28,810,100 last. The fires have averaged one for every fifty minutes throughout the year.

Mr. Schurz's Recollection of the San Domingo Complication.

Washington, Oot. 29.—Secretary Schurz Bays, referring to Gen. Grant's recent statement:

"The day after the interview between President Grant and Charles Sumner, in which the former pressed the latter to support the treaty with San Domingo Mr. Sumner told me all about it. He repeated the exact words of his answer to the President, which, according to my recollection, was something like these: 'Mr. President, every measure of your administration will receive on my part the most respectful and candid consideration.' It is not true that Mr. Sumner promised to support the treaty; he was never favorable to it, but when it was first brought forward he never said or did anything to discourage or obstruct an entirely impartial consideration of it."

Mr. Schurz thinks Ashley's name was never mentioned in connection with any phase of the San Domingo treaty. Nobody could ever accuse Sumner of any act of untruthfulness or duplicity in this or any other matter.

Senator Morton's Condition Considered

Boston, Oct. 29.—A Washington despatch to the Boston Traveller says that Dr. Bliss, who returned yesterday from Senator Morten's bedside, holds out no encouragement whatever for his recovery. He says that the Senator's digestive organs are not performing any functions, and that it has been found necessary to adopt heroic treatment and sustain his life by hypodermic injection of cod liver oil. While Dr. Bliss does not say so openly, there is no doubt that he considers the Senator's case hopeless, pronouncing, as he does, the disease a progressive malady.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29—(11.30 p. m.)—
In regard to Senator Morton's condition tonight
the trath is perhaps told by the following, which will appear in an editorial column of the Journal to-morrow merning: Senator Morton is gradually sinking, and it now seems scarcely possible he can last more than a day or two. Hope strengthens the hearts of his friends for an hour or two each than a day or two. Hope strengthens the hearts of his friends for an hour or two each day, but when on the return of night they compare his condition with that of the day before, there is some new evidence of growing weakness and new complications in his disease, which leaves all in despair. Nothing has been read to him nor any communication of news for the past twenty-four hours. His stomach retained a small portion of nourishment in the forenoon, but ejected everything given in the evening. He no longer takes an interest in what is going on around him and only craves the presence of his own family. He asked Col. Halloway yesterday if the physicians had given him up. He may last several days, but the chances are sgainst his surviving through Wednesday night. There were rumors of his death on the streets all through the day and a general feeling of gloom overshadowed the city as the reports of his condition were made known. His physician, Dr. Thompson, stands by him night and day and yet expresses the hope that some change may take place that will enable the stomach of his patient to retain nourishment, and with such a change he thinks he might survive. There is a bare possibilly that such may be the result by it is scarcely probable. The end of the great statesman in all human appearance is near at hand.

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

A Proclamation by the President. WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The following was issued this afternoon by the President of the United States:

A PROCLAMATION. The completed circle of summer and winter The completed circle of summer and winterseed time and harvest has brought us to the accustomed season at which a religious people celebrates with praise and thanksgiving the enduring mercy of Almighty God. This devout and public confession of the constant dependence of man upon the Divine Father for all the good gitts of life and health, and peace and happiness, so early in our history made the habit of our people, finds in the survey of the past year new grounds for its joyful and grateful manifestations. It all besides in the survey of the past year new grounds for its joyful and grateful manifestations. the past year new grounds for its joyial and grateful manifestations. In all blessings which depend upon the benignant seasons this has indeed been a memorable year. Over the wide territory of our country, with all its diversity of soil and climate, and products, the North has yielded a bountiful return to the labor of the hashandman. The health of the people has soil and climate, and products, the North has yielded a bountiful return to the labor of the husbandman. The health of the people has been blighted by no pestilence or wide-spread diseases, no great disasters of shipwreck upon our coast or to our commerce on the sea have brought loss and hardships to merchants or mariners, and clouded the happiness of the community with sympathetic sorrow. In all that concerns our strength and peace and greatness as a nation, in all that touches the permanence and security of our government and the beneficent institutions on which it rests, in all that affects the character and dispositions of our people tests or our capacity to enjoy and uphold the equal and free condition of society now permanent and universal throughout the land, the experience of the past year is conspicuously marked by the protecting providence of God, and is full of promise and hope for the coming generations. generations.

Under a sense of these infinite obligations to Let us with one spirit and one voice lift up praise and thansgiving to God for His manifold good-ness to our land, His manifest care for the na-Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and

I carnestly recommend that in withdrawing themselves from secular cares and labor the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective praces of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for his mercies and to devoutly beseech their continuance.

FOR WRAPPERS?

In a trackless garden a tree is growing
Ot strangest flower, of sweetest fruit.
Ah! how declare to the dull world's knowing
What dreams are dreamed by that rare tree's root?
Or what the burden of that wild lute,
By hidden fingers flufily played,
Whose music maketh the night-bird mute,
Under the dream-tree's tender shade? The tranced breeze o'er that garden blowing Lingers by it on airy foot;
So rich the scent of those clusters glowing,
So rare the sound of that hidden lute. So rate the sound of the third late.
Pains or perils shall none compute
Which bar the paths to that secret glade,
In view of joys that the heart sainte
Under the dream-tree's tender shade.

Silver floods are flowing, flowing.
Ripple on ripple in gay pursuit
Of soft-shed rose leaves slowly snowing
From bending branches of slender shoot.
Though visions throng by that rare tree's root,
Joy, unfettered and unafraid,
Wakes at call of that hidden lute.
Under the dream-tree's tender shade.

Love, why lingerest? Still that lute
Woos thy feet to the rose-walled glade.
Come! ere the mystic music's mute,
Under the dream-tree's tender shade.
—Harper's Bazar.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

-Farm buildings need careful attention now that cold weather is rapidly approaching. No farmer can afford to neglect the warmth and comfert of his domestic ani-

-The annual value of the agricultural produce of Great Britain is double that of the produce of her looms, three times that of her forges, and four or five times that of a year's produce of her mines. Her agricultural produce has an annual value of about $1,500,000,000.

-The farm which has been awarded the first prize of the English Royal Agricultural Society the present year, is occupied and managed by a woman, the widow of the former occupant. The family have now been tenants for 39 years. The condition of the farm was very highly spoken of by the judges, who declared that it was "like a great market garden." Its extent was 242 acres. The rotation was grass, potatoes on sod, wheat, barely or oats seeded to grass, which brought the course to the beginning again. Fifteen men and boys were constantly hired, and what is strange in these days of machines, not one of these-not even a threshing machine-is kept on the farm.

-The celebrated farm belonging to John Johnston of Ithaca, N. Y., was, at the time of his first purchase, no more valuable than many of the unproductive farms of New England, which yield but one-quarter to onethird of what they should produce. His land was wet, cold and sour, but the fifty ty miles of drains he has laid during twenty years, combined with other progressive action has made it one of the most productive farms in New York state, and has given its owner the rewards and reputation of a successful farmer and a man of property. Moral-drain your meadows and springy side-hill and make a commencement this month.

-The increased price of grain in the European markets is bearing legitimate fruit in an enlarged use of American Indian corn. Singularly indifferent for mamy years to the value of corn as food for man and beast, France is just waking up to its use, at least as a substitute for wheat and barley, in the feeding of horses. Several Havre tramway companies now feed their horses on coarsely ground Indian corn, used with chopped straw and hay with a small proportion of roots, the example has been followed by others, a proprietor of a large livery stable there, who controls 150 horses, admits a saving of over $7000 last year, through the substitution of Indian corn for more expensive grains. The people of Europe cling to old customs with great tenacity, yet it would seem that after giving the feeding of corn a fair trial, its use would become quite general, and new markets would consequently be opened up for the sale of America's great staple.

Good Walking Horses.

A good horse should go well in all his paces. He should walk, trot and gallop in handsome style, and as a saddle horse, the first pace—that of walking—is the most important, for in warm weather, equestrians riding for pleasure, or on business, do not care to go faster, excepting now and then for a change, and to prevent being too long a time on the way. A perfectly good walker can go five miles an hour with ease to him-self and his rider, and, generally speaking, when a horse walks off at this rate gracefully and safely, without making any trips, he will be found to move well in his trot, and gallop well, too. There is a wonderful difference in horses. Some move so springy, and change their paces so easily, that it is like sitting in a rocking-chair, while others are so rough in their trot that it shakes a man so as to injure the wester interesting and in galloning. the watch that ne carries, and in galloping, some will do that pace so harshly that it is really unpleasant riding. For a man who travels a good deal on horseback, and who likes to take everything as easily as possible, the walk and the canter are the most suitable paces, for of all riding, the slow gallop called the canter is the easiest, and also the safest, next to the walk.

In England, where riding on horseback is so universal, the horses are trained to the walk, trot, canter and gallop. Old farmers, it is true, will be seen to amble along to market, and again on their way home, but it is unfashionable. In the Southern States the amble for movement, factor, and some market, and again on their way home, but it is unfashionable. In the Southern States the amble (or movement faster and somewhat different) is called racking and pacing, and it is surprising how quickly and very easily to the rider the milestones are passed when seated on a good pacer and racker. Doubtless every colt should have great attention paid to his first pace—the walk—for it is the foundation of all others, and denotes usefulness. In fact, when a good horseman mounts an animal he wishes to try and find the walk free and good he is at once impressed favorably, and a little remissness in the other paces will be pardoned if it is a young horse, hoping and expecting improvement will occur because of the good walking. It is extraordinary that walking well is not appreciated in the United States, but rather it is much overlooked, and in some measure repudiated. As an instance: At the Orange County Agricultural Show, a gentleman offered a premium of $100 to be given to the best walkers, and although it was duly advertised there were no horses brought to walk best walkers, and although it was duly advertised, there were no horses brought to walk for the money. Setting aside saddle horses how very important it is that farm horses should walk well—in short, it is the most essential pace on every farm.—Country Gen-

Mismanagement of Horses. 'Yes" says the Deacon in a professional tone, "indigestion is a much more prevalent tone, "indigestion is a much more prevalent complaint among horses than is generally supposed. It is the near or remote cause of many serious and fatal diseases. It arises usually from overwork, injudicious and irregular feeding poor grounds and illustrations. ular feeding, poor grooming, and ill-venti-lated stables. Sometimes it arises from over-feeding and letting the horse stand idle in the stable for several days at a time, and then over-working. A Winter's or a Spring's run in a barn-yard or pasture would be the best remedy. But if he cannot be spared, feed lightly on nutritious food and work moderately. Give him cut-food, that he can eat rapidly, and then let him rest as long as possible after eating. Give him nothing but cut-feed, and when he has enough of it, if any is left, remove it from the manger. When he becomes accustomed to this treatment he will eat what he wants, and then lie down and rest, or at any rate will not be uneasily look-ing for more food till the next regular feeding time. Try him with a bushel of cut hay, two quarts of oat meal, and two quarts of bran, well moistened with boiling water, and allowed to stand from one feeding time till the next. Feed him three times a day. If the next. Feed him three times a day. If he eats it up clean, all right; if he is a very large horse he will be able to eat more. Let him have all that he can eat up clean, but no more. Give him a tablespoonful of salt every day. Water the first thing in the morning—all he will drink; give him water before or after every meal. Groom thoroughly. Let him have an entire day's rest at least once a week, and occasionally let him have two week, and occasionally let him have two days in succession of entire rest from all work. Never put him to hard work immediately after eating; point, Always take off the harness when he is put in the stable, and rub him down and make him comfortable before giving him

"To which I would add," said the Deacon. "be careful to blanket him when he has to stand out of doors after work. You may say this horse died of dyspepsia, or colic, or rup tured stomach, or inflamation of the kidneys or bots, or what not, but in my opinion died from being allowed to stand on the fair ground during a cold storm or rain and wind, without a blanket."—Harris' talk with the
