AIDS Project Not Meeting Needs of Minorities

The percentages are rising and the problem of AIDS is getting worse for the Inland Empire's minorities, according to Aynn Terrell, education specialist, who works for the Health departments in both Riverside and San Bernardino county and her Riverside counterpart, Terry Villegas-Fowler.

Terrell says she needs more than a condom and a brochure to fight the problems that has found its way into the heterosexual population and now even into the Black church. "It is not a gay thing nor a intravenous drug user thing, it can affect anyone who is not in a monogamous relationship. But even that does not mean you are out of danger. As long ago as 10 years a mate could have committed an indiscretion. One could have a HIV positive test which is likely to in some years go into full blown aids.

Terrell is angry that very little of the $1 million grant sent, gets to the Black and Hispanic/Latino community.

We must work with a volunteer force, the NAACP, San Bernardino has assembled safe sex kits, Magic Wheels Motorcycle Club goes out at night to protect Terrell, while she passes out bleach to clean the needles of the intravenous drug users. "We give them a brochure, but when you are hungry you don't want to read a brochure, and many of the affected can't read." She said.

Dave Vandevent, head of the IPA's Education component agrees, "he said passing out a brochure will not change behavior, which is needed. "We need 50 people doing what Aynn and Terry are doing. "The Health Department is not on the streets on a Saturday night at 3 a.m. in the morning."

Carolyn Harris, Deputy Director of the Inland Aids Project said their budget is $814,796 for the present fiscal year. $297,000 is for Case Management. There is no special group earmarked for Black or Hispanics,"she said. Vandevent said the cases of AIDS in San Bernardino alone are double the numbers of the population. For example, Blacks make up 6% of the county's population however 16% of AIDS cases are Black. Latinos were 18% a year ago now their numbers have jumped to 22%. Cases are growing in the African American and Latino communities a percentage point every 3 or 4 months.

$90,000 has been earmarked for education, however 40 to 50% go toward salaries for the direct outreach, not much else is being done to reach the minorities.

The outreach that is being accomplished by the two is working, some clients are returning to Aynn once every three months for testing and a supply of condoms, said Vandevent.

Terrell and Villegas-Fowler agree with Vandevent, more staff is needed. Terrell has the ambitious goal of testing 50% of our population in the two counties. They however, go a step further, since the problem is in the minority community then why not use more of the budget in that area. Vandevent says, unfortunately it (AIDS) was labeled as a Gay White disease."

Terrell says, "why a gay boys thing? We haven't addressed the woman of color who are giving birth to babies with AIDS." Now I have a couple of clients who come out of the Black church, and they can't even go to their pastor. Aynn is holding a session for Black ministers, on April 11, to help them become aware of the devastation this is doing. "

Teenagers are more at risk than anyone because of their promiscuous behavior. "They need to learn behavior that leads to abstinence." No longer can you tell teenagers as my mother told me; just put a aspirin between your knees and don't let the aspirin hit the ground-you won't get pregnant."

Villegas-Fowler said, "Just because you are not a IV drug user you are not exempt, having a mistress or mate may prove to be risky behavior, even if you know the person, you can never be sure."

Vandevent says he is making a little progress, he recently began a new project in the Perris High School, Peer Counseling where he took 28 students, 60% of them, minority, gave them a 2 day intense training. They will educate other kids on campus, and other individuals and make group presentations. Vandevent is awaiting money for an additional 6 to 8 schools next year.

Meanwhile the problem gets worse, and the answer seems to be education.

Rosa Parks Statue On Display In Washington D.C.

A striking bronze statue of civil rights heroine Rosa Parks now on display in the National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D.C., is a lasting reminder that one person can make a difference. The bust, created by sculptor Artis Lane, was recently unveiled before hundreds of dignitaries in the nation's capital and was presented as a gift to the gallery from Anheuser-Busch Companies. Wayman F. Smith 111, vice president of corporate affairs at Anheuser-Busch, presented the piece to Smithsonian Institution official at an elegant luncheon held in the National Gallery's Great Hall. "Our donation of this outstanding work of art to the Smithsonian Institution is Anheuser-Busch's way of saluting a great American and also preserving contributions African-Americans have made to the progress of our country," Smith said. "Rosa Parks is a legend, and her act of courageous defiance against injustice is a message that should always be kept before the public."

Artis Lane, who is nationally known for her portraits of famous people, said the Parks' bust "embodies the dignity and quiet courage" of the woman affectionately known as the "mother of the civil rights movement." Parks' refusal to give up her seat on a Montgomery, Ala., bus to a white passenger in 1955 led to a successful, year-long boycott of the city's bus system and sparked a national movement for racial justice. In accepting the sculpture, gallery director Alan Fern said. "The National Portrait Gallery records and celebrates individuals whose actions, words and thoughts have shaped us as a nation. Among them, unquestionably, is Rosa Parks. "Her portrait will remind generations to come that one courageous deed can change the lives of millions." Fern said. Washington, D.C., Mayor Sharon Pratt Dixon was among the many dignitaries attending the unveiling ceremony.

ny, and she presented Parks with a key to the District of Columbia. Other noted leaders in attendance included civil rights leader Coretta Scott King; Smithsonian Undersecretary Carmen Turner; Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women and Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Noted actress Cicely Tyson cited Maya Angelou's stirring poem, "Still I Rise," as several Congressional leaders, including John Conyers, Barbara Rose Collins, Gus Savage, and John Lewis looked on. During the ceremony, Mrs. Parks smiled broadly as the statue was unveiled by Smith and Lane and said she was hopeful that it would always remind children of the struggle Blacks have waged for freedom in this country.

Riverside To Celebrate Fair Housing Month With Reception

The New Horizons Fair Housing Program of the County of Riverside will celebrate National Fair Housing Month (April) with a major event, the Fourth Annual Fair Housing Month Celebration Reception to be held Wednesday, April 10 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at City Hall, 3900 Main Street in Riverside in the Mayor's Ceremonial Room - Seventh Floor.

This special event will highlight the Fair Housing Program and the fair housing month theme, "Fair Housing Opens Doors." A special guest speaker, Ms. Wanda J. Kirby, Regional Administrator, California Department of Fair Employment and Housing will address the group.

Another special event of the affair will be the presentation of a first time special award given to the person selected for the year as "Fair Housing Advocate Extraordinaire." This year's recipient is Ms. Eliza Daniely, former Fair Housing Program Manager, who indeed caused many "fair housing doors to open" in Riverside County as the Program has offered comprehensive fair housing education, technical assistance/training and enforcement under her leadership.

The Fair Housing Program has just cause to celebrate since literally thousands of persons in Riverside County have received fair housing opportunities and housing related services during the four years of program operations through educational presentations; dissemination of fair housing literature; housing mediation services; discrimination complaint processing and many others.

NAACP President Reaches Agreement With City

By Rashaan Johnson
The NAACP and the Police Department of the city have reached an agreement after several months of discussion. The City Council has approved the agreement, but the heart of the agreement, has been implemented. The Agreement calls for a shooting review by a committee that will consist of 9 members. The Police

Rosa Parks, affectionately referred to as the "Mother of the Civil Rights Movement," admires a sculpture of her that was recently presented to the Smithsonian Institution by Anheuser-Busch Companies.

For more information, contact Martha M. Mitchell or Alonzo Byrd Jr., Fleishman-Hillard, Inc., (314)982-1700.

Department insists that there be 7 police officers, who will be permanently assigned and two minority civilians who will be temporary and could vary from incident to incident.

Willie Clark, President of the NAACP, tells me, he wants five officers and four black civilians. The fear is that "minority" could mean any ethnic group or women when the incident involves the shooting of black victims.

Why is the council woman representing the 6th Ward not taking an active role in seeing that this agreement is implemented? Although, for some reason chose not to be involved in the negotiations that resulted in the agreement. It is important that all parts of it be implemented as soon as possible.

Hal Williams To Join Juanita Scott For Buffet Super

The Committee to Elect Juanita Scott to the San Bernardino City Council announces that Hal Williams of T.V.'s "227" will join Juanita's friends and

Discrimination And Prejudice Black Style

A very sincere letter to the Black Voice News in Riverside, California defended Jesse Jackson against the remarks made by Harry Belafonte in my column. The reader based her differences with Belafonte on the belief that Jackson "showed us Blacks that we can run for President of the United States," that he is a faithful husband and he is not, as Belafonte is, married to a White woman. While the first reason is plausible, the second debatable, the third is baseless and irrelevant. Not one factual response was made to Belafonte's charges that Jackson has no agenda, other than the next press conference. In Hartford, Connecticut, Inquirer columnist Art Johnson wrote that "the anti-Jackson attitudes that are springing up in the country bothers" him. He may have been referring to a March 27 article in The New York Times.

Commenting on Jackson's need to be in the limelight and criticizing his leadership, the Times said, "On a matter of crucial interest to the District of Columbia....he was invisible." Of course, Jackson lovers dismiss any criticism of their leader as blasphemy. In knee-jerk fashion, the Times, being White, will be accused of racism. Blacks who question him get the traitor-of-the-year award.

Johnson's column cited Ron Brown, the National Democratic Chairman, and Tony Brown as special violators of Jackson's special status.

"Although Tony Brown

doesn't proclaim it, isn't he a Republican who gives a very liberal appearance?" Johnson accused in an incredible demonstration of displacement. It seems that suggesting that I belong to the Republican Party is enough to disgrace me, my intentions, ideas and contributions to the Black community. Just mentioning Belafonte's White wife was intended to smear a lifetime commitment to the civil rights and African liberation movements, in the Riverside example.

As for my political preference, I will register and become a Republican on July 8, 1991. I will proudly join the party of Frederick Douglass that was founded to fight slavery and the party of slavery, the Democrats. Of course, I will be joining a modern party that has adopted a strategy of racial divisiveness that pits Blacks and Whites against one another. In this sense, it is as racist as the Democratic Party that exploits the Black voters who keep it in power. Just as Ron Brown, Jesse Jackson and Douglas Wilder fight racism in the Democratic Party, Tony Brown will fight racism in the Republican Party — or anywhere else I find it. But having said that, what does any of it have to do with what was said in my column — either by me, Belafonte or Ron Brown — about Jesse Jackson's questionable leadership?

Instead of suggesting that I have joined the enemies of Black people or that I censor my brain process to favor Jackson's vanity, why not factually argue for his right to be the uncriticized and unchallenged leader of Black America?

Gov. Douglas Wilder just formed an exploratory committee to collect funds for a campaign to win the Democratic nomination for President in 1992. I predicted this move a year ago. I also predicted that Jesse Jackson, the two-time candidate, will become the three-time candidate and go head-on with Wilder for the Black vote. It would be helpful if the Jackson supporters can limit themselves to Wilder's conservative philosophy vs. Jackson's liberalism. Neither Wilder's bachelor status nor his alleged relationship with a famous, rich White woman should be the basis of contention. Here's hoping reason can replace prejudice in the Black community.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Hardy & Cheryl Brown:

Words cannot express how much I appreciated your recognition of me during Women History Month as The Black Voice News 1991 Woman of Achievement. I am forever grateful to God, to my parents, the role models that I met earlier in my life, my church, and the NAACP for helping me to understand my purpose in life.

You do so much in the Inland Empire communities and we thank you.

Through your recognition of me I found long lost family, friends and college classmates.

May GOD continue to BLESS YOU and your family and staff to continue to bring us the NEWS.

Warmest Regards,
Eunice T. Williamson

Dear Editor,

Being a resident of the 6th Ward for many years, I am appalled at the representation of our council person, Valarie Pope-Ludlum, has given our area. An effective council person responds to phone calls, letters, public meetings, attends council meetings regularly and shows an honest effort of accomplishing the ward's needs. She has not done this to my satisfaction. Crime is rampant and getting worse. Drug dealing is done openly - we all see transactions daily. She has to know its happening - she lives here. Yet, her actions are not seen or heard concerning the drug issue. We who have lived here any length of time knows who is responsible for what projects. Since she has failed to bring about visible changes in her four year tenure, let someone who is more responsible take on the task. We've done without long enough. Sincerely,

Anne Roberts

Dear Editor,

Police beating Can be stopped by a concerted, organized and cooperative effort waged by the citizenry. Here are two approaches:

1. A thorough investigation of the Los Angeles Police Department from the top down consisting of a full disclosure through the Freedom of Information Act of all radio conversations recorded on a large selection of cases from Eula Love (1979) to the present to be conducted by a panel consisting of representatives of the F.B.I., U.S. Department of Justice and citizens groups such as the N.A.A.C.P., Urban League, A.C.L.U. and others.

2. A private non-profit citizens group with a name like Citizens On Patrol (C.O.P.) should be formed to conduct a program called Operation Cop Watch whose members patrol the streets with video cameras and tape police whenever they are seen pulling someone over, making an arrest, etc. and remain out of sight while taping so the officer(s) will not be aware they are on "candid camera." Much evidence can be gathered to prosecute "bad cops" in this way. With a sufficient can be gathered to prosecute "bad cops" in this way. With a sufficient number of convictions of police committing assault with a deadly weapon, attempted murder, etc. with this evidence supplied by the citizenry, police departments will be forced to clean up their act. Just the knowledge of the possibility that someone may be taping them should make officers think several times before using deadly or unreasonable force.

Sincerely,
Chris Ellis

Dear Editor,

Iraq took over Kuwait just like her elder sister Israel took over Palestine. Now, the United Nations (World Police), Bush posing as the Chief, arrested Iraq (the blacker of the two), but suffered Israel to keep her kill. I don't really truly understand the justice and equity here. I'm supposed to pray for our troops who were on a discrimination mission? How can I praise injustice in a struggling for justice system? If I forget your freedom fighters, let my right hand forget her cunning. Let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth. If I don't prefer freedom above my chief joy. George Bush, if you are afraid to exercise justice because of a man's religious beliefs, I command, in the name of justice, that you free Jim Bakker. If you respect religion above the law, suffer the black Muslims to freely practice their faith.

I demand justice. King died once to resist discrimination, I won't die again. Oh, wicked man, there remainth no cloak for your sin. Oh wicked man, who preaches one thing and lives another, how can you crucify the son a fresh. Now there are two things you can do to save yourself, America. One, you can change your constitutional laws, so that they become one with Israel. Or two you disrespect Israel's religious faith, despite what Luke 21:20 gays, and cause the world to spend around justice again, since we are forgetting those things that are behind.

To Be Equal: Curbing Police Violence

by John E. Jacob

The videotaped police beating of a Los Angeles man aired on the nation's television screens a few weeks ago should shock Americans into the realization that violent racism is a major presence on the American scene, and must be removed from our national life. That's an especially urgent task as it relates to law enforcement and the criminal justice system, and it's an issue that goes far beyond the outrages perpetrated by the Los Angeles police. The vicious beating of Rodney King should be the catalyst for changes in Los Angeles and for careful re-examination of police practices elsewhere. Because while attention is rightly focused on Los Angeles, unnecessary police violence is a nationwide phenomenon. In the widely publicized Los Angeles incident, the facts are incontrovertible. Mr. King was flagged down for speeding, surrounded by police officers, shot with a stun gun, and repeatedly hammered with clubs despite his pleas for mercy. The police say he was driving at 115 miles an hour; the car's manufacturer says it can't go that fast. The police say their victim was fighting them; witnesses and a videotape show him lying on the ground being beaten by three officers while another dozen watched. The police chief's response was almost as revolting as the beating. Instead of immediately bringing attempted murder charges against the criminals in uniform, he just gave a grudging, halfway apology. And that was only because the storm of national publicity forced him to say something, however inadequate. This wasn't an isolated incident. Former basketball star Jamaal Wilkes was recently pushed around and handcuffed because his auto registration was about to expire.

That's not a misprint. It hadn't expired. It was about to expire. And local minorities have a fund of stories about police abuses, some of which have been translated into lawsuits that have cost the city millions of dollars. The obvious conclusion is that racists in uniform routinely harass minority citizens, sieze on stereotypes to justify their actions, and use force more readily against blacks and Hispanics. In the King case, a citizen captured it all on videotape. But what would have happened if he hadn't been there with his camera? Most likely, the same thing that happens all the time: the violators would get off scot free, their false reports would be accepted without question, and the victim would become just another statistic. But let's not make the mistake of thinking this is just a local incident. Nationwide, incidents of questionable force by police officers have risen sharply in recent years. Those incidents often cut across racial lines, but the typical pattern is white officers beating blacks. The usual explanation is that the victim was resisting arrest or otherwise provoking force, but the reality is that Very often officers allow racial feelings to overcome their professional responsibilities. Black communities around the country are being denied adequate police protection and citizens are afraid of the people who are paid to protect them. Decent, hardworking law enforcement officers are smeared by the acts of fellow officers who think their badges give them the right to harass citizens and translate racist feelings into violence. Some police departments have strict rules on the use of force, train officers to recognize and overcome racial prejudices and stereotyping, and stress respect for citizens. All should.

WalkAmerica Helps Fight Low Birthrate And Infant Mortality

By Stephan L. Petty, MSW

The 21st anniversary of the original March of Dimes WalkAmerica walk-a-thon will take place this Spring. In Grand Terrace the 20 kilometer (12.6 mile) fundraiser for the prevention of birth defects will take place on Sunday, April 28, 1991 beginning and ending at Terrace Hills Community Park.

Sponsored by Farmers Insurance in Southern California, the Walk benefits the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies. This nationwide campaign is designed to prevent the problems of low birthweight and infant mortality through education, communication, and fundraising efforts at the local level.

Every year, low birthweight claims the lives of 40,000 babies born in the United States. Babies born weighing less than 5.5 pounds are considered to have low birthweight. These babies are 40 times more likely to die in the first month of life.

The United States ranks 19th in the survival rate of its babies compared with 20 other industrialized countries according to the latest U.N. statistics. In fact, some third world countries have better survival rates than some American cities.

This year's theme, "Look Who's Walking", celebrates the ones who make the Walks so successful—the walkers themselves. The theme will be carried out with decorated checkpoints along the route. Civic and service organizations will provide light refreshments from the checkpoints as well as encourage the walkers toward the finish line. Walk routes are planned for safety, and first aid and communications teams will patrol throughout the event.

WalkAmerica provides funding for programs in scientific research, professional training, public education, and community service aimed at raising the quality of maternal and newborn health.

"Our chapter provides local grant programs and participates in national research projects to determine the causes of birth defects, to study the methods of treatments and to find ways to prevent them," Charles E.

Clark, VA Hospital Director and Grand Terrace WalkAmerica Chairperson adds.

WalkAmerica encourages participation by individuals as well as employee teams. "Walking together is one way in which everyone can take a stand to help prevent birth defects," said Loma Linda Mayor, T. Milford Harrison and Grand Terrace Mayor, Bryon Matteson, WalkAmerica Honorary Co-Chairpersons.

Reports Say Many Are Unaware Of Social Security Benefits For Those Under 62

There is more to Social Security than benefits for persons over 62 years-of-age. Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group has been researching the Social Security system and the benefits it provides since 1972. One finding is that, of the 60 million persons now collecting benefits, more than 15 million are under 62 and, surprisingly, the average age is only about 30.

Robert L. Berko, consumer writer and executive director of the Center, says the organization has been publishing and updating a complete list of available benefits (and how to qualify for them) for the past 16 years. The Guide offers consumers of all ages and awareness of the benefits they are entitled to under the latest laws the 12th update (a complete revision) is now available.

The book contains a form to get a copy of your Social Security account showing all credits to your account and an estimate of the amount you will get upon retirement or disability. Workers must check their Social Security accounts frequently since any errors more than three years old will not be corrected. Often, the study found, workers have had too much deducted from their wages and were due a refund. In other cases, employers had not sent the correct amount to be credited to accounts. If you have records of the amount earning and deductions, you will be credited with that money and the employer's share whether or not he ever sent the money to the government.

The 240-large-page Consumers Guide to Social Security Benefits Including Medicare is available for $9 (plus $2 P&H) from CERC, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, NJ 07050 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 (with credit card).

The Yeast Connection
Clinical Ecologists will tell you that headaches, muscle pain, pre-menstrual syndrome, constipation, fatigue and depression can all be traced to one specific cause. They believe Candida albicans, a yeast that often inhabits the intestinal tract, throat and skin is responsible for a wide variety of ills. According to the theory, a diet high in sugar or the regular use of medications such as antibiotics or birth control pills can trigger the growth of large amounts of yeast in the body. They reason that the yeast produces damaging toxins and can alter the body's immune defense system and thereby bring on headaches and other common ailments as well as hypoglycemia, memory loss and hyperactivity. The only proof offered is anecdotal. There is no substantial body of clinical evidence that yeast - in any amount - can cause the wide array of physical problems sometimes attributed to it. Infants can develop Candida infection in the mouth called thrush which results in the sputum turning thick. Quite a few women are plagued by Candida vaginitis which is amplified when they are on broad spectrum antibiotics. People whose immune systems are suppressed such as AIDS patients may develop yeast related complications.

The yeast connection, as promogated by clinical ecologists, to date is not supported by scientific data.

HEARING Missing Sounds Around You? Get Hearing Checked, Audiologists Say

News USA

(NU) - More than 21 million Americans of all ages have a hearing loss.

An estimated 40 percent of those age 65 and over have a hearing impairment. An increasing number of young people also have hearing loss because of exposure to loud music and other sources of noise. A recent study in Orange County, Calif., of 1,400 students found that hearing loss had increased from 3 percent of students 10 years ago to between 7 and 13 percent today.

If you use stereo headsets, operate power tools or commute daily in heavy traffic, you may be exposed to potentially damaging noise.

How do you know if you have a hearing loss? These are the signs:

- You hear voices when people are talking but frequently strain to understand their words.
- You often ask people to repeat what they said.
- You don't laugh at jokes because you miss too much of what is said.
- You frequently complain that people mumble.
- You play the TV or radio too loudly.
- You cannot hear the doorbell or the telephone.
- You find that looking at people makes it easier to understand them.

If you experience any of the signs of hearing loss more than occasionally, you should have your hearing tested by an audiologist, according to the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA).

Audiologists, who are hearing health care professionals certified by ASHA, identify and assess hearing impairment and determine the best course for helping each person according to individual needs and lifestyle.

Millions of people with an uncorrected hearing loss can benefit from a properly fit hearing aid and instructions on how best to use it, according to ASHA.

Only about 5-10 percent of adults have a condition that is medically or surgically treatable, according to ASHA. Audiologists refer these people to physicians who specialize in diseases of the ear or to primary care physicians.

A new information packet about hearing loss is now available from ASHA. The packet provides information about:

- Signs of hearing loss.
- The pitfalls of purchasing a hearing aid directly from a catalog.
- Hearing aids using digital technology.
- Types of hearing aids.
- Hearing testing by audiologists.

To receive this information packet, call the toll-free ASHA HELPLINE at 1-800-638-8255; in Maryland, Alaska, and Hawaii, call 1-301-897-8682. The information is also available by writing ASHA, 10801 Rockville Pike, Rockville, MD 20852.

Business Profile: Mina's Fashions In Riverside

Jean Denny
Mina's Fasion Store not only offers name brand dresses at discount prices but she also has her own line of African attire for the woman who wants to dress anyway she likes.

Mina's Fashions, located in the Hardman Center in Riverside, California has been in that area since August of 1990. But Mina has been sewing her own fashions for a long time. Mina said she learned the art of sewing from her sister in Ghana, West Africa where she grew up. Referring to the place that was once called the "Gold Coast" because of it's richness in gold and diamonds, Mina said she left there to come to America to fulfill her dream. "I have a dream and I'm getting there," she said in a recent telephone interview.

Mina was educated in Los Angeles and studied nursing at South West College. She is presently a registered nurse, married to a surgeon in Moreno Valley. It was in Los Angeles that she featured her own fashions in various fashions shows. She hopes to eventually feature her all of her own creations in her shop here in Riverside.

With her assitant and co-worker, Charlotte Espinoza, Mina's Fashions is really growing. They sell designer clothes with name brands like Brioche, Tracey's, Nina Piccalino, and many New York designers. She also sells a few men's attire like shirts and bow ties, hats and cumberbunes in African Kente cloth. She will also be featuring her own designs in African attire and Kente Cloth for women as well as men. Her designer label will be titled "Elysee."

Mina sells African fabrics as well as the clothes. "That way, people can tell me what they want or make it themselves." Mina also sells accessories like earrings, bows, pins, and purses for men. There are also bows, ties hats and stoles for men. She said men are really buying this. "Some say It symbolizes peace."

Mina believes in patronizing African American businesses. "We have to Patronize each other." She is also interested in knowing more about the African American Chamer of Commerce in Riverside and plans to join.

She credits the success of her business through word of mouth and advertisements in the the Black Voice Newspaper. "I've recommended others to the paper."

Mina's Fashions now has a sales going on and offers 20% to 50% off name brand clothes. They also have a lay-away plan for 30 days. They take major creditcards.

Mina's Fashions is located at 5134 Arlington Avenue. Store hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

BUSINESS EXCHANGE: Yo Mama Wears Nikes

by William Reed

Last summer "Just Do It!" was the theme used by Operation PUSH in their quest for a national African-American boycott of Nike sportswear products. As Black America enters Spring 1991, we now find that, "Bo knew best" and black boycotters don't know didley, because Operation PUSH is now on the verge of bankruptcy, the Nike Company's profits are soaring higher than Michael Jordan, and African-Americans have been buying Nike shoes and sportswear by the carload.

Before PUSH went bust, they cited that Beaverton, Oregon-based Nike Corporation had a woefully poor record of black employment and overall business dealings with blacks and their companies and banks. In August 1990 PUSH executive director, Tyrone Crider, and its founder, Jesse Jackson, called on African-Americans not to purchase Nike products and asked those who already owned such items to cover the Nike logo with masking tape. Following Crider and Jackson's lead, black newspapers, talk shows and activists devoted much lineage, air time and discussion on the block, urging blacks to, "just do it," and teach Nike a consumer lesson about dissin' us.

But while our opinion-molders were dissin' Nike about and reservations may be made directly with the SCORE office at (619) 320-6682.

them dissin' us, the sneaker maker snuck up and made $2.23 billion in 1990 revenues. While black preachers, and their press, were stressing Nike's need for a program of social responsibility, African-American teenagers, college students and beeperboys were stressing their need for style and materialism. At the expense of Black Enterprise and solidarity black consumers, and their moms, were increasing Nike's profits by fully 25 percent by buying $120 per pair Air Jordans three at a time. While black activists were trying to "git paid" through increased reciprocity for black groups and institutions from Nike, black celebrities such as Bo Jackson, David Robinson, John Thompson and Spike Lee each were gettin' paid more than $200,000 annually for being consultants to Nike and helping to keep the black market in line in our faces that they have no intentions of hiring black executives in policy-making positions in the company, nor takin' care of any kind of business with black banks or ad agencies? Don't our homeboys, and girls, have any sense of self-pride, esteem or confidence in the black cause to forcefully speak with unity and defiance against Nike and any of the other consumer companies who outrageously diss us?

A 20-year old black institution, Operation PUSH, is almost out of business. A new business, born in the 80s, that strongly represents the national system of institutional racism is soaring in profits, much of it provided by us. The people in Mr. Robinson's old neighborhood, are still offering up 25 percent of Nike's annual profits, still in the same sad shape that it has always been. Where and what are our (black) system of values, pride and validation? Will we help PUSH through these times? Will black mothers decide to withdraw their consumer from companies such as Nike who take and give nothin' back? Will all of our institutions have to suffer the public display of impotence that we've allowed for PUSH?

While we have, to date, showed our inability to control our collective economic destinies, Nike continues to "Just do it" to us. While it is right in our faces, isn't it time again for black-oriented talk shows, newspapers, preachers, and professional and civic groups to raise the question of Nike's zero performance toward us. It is moral and just for us to fight for, and demand, our consumer rights and respect. If equity and parity is ever to be, surely the solution to this problem is up to the actions of people of color, like you and me.

ROLE OF THE BROKER

Although real estate brokers provide helpful advice on many aspects of home buying, and may in some areas supervise the settlement, they normally serve the interests of the seller, not the buyer.

The broker's basic objective is to obtain a signed contract of sale which properly expresses the agreement of the parties, and to complete the sale. However, as state licensing laws require that the broker be fair in his dealing with all parties to the transaction, you should feel free to point this out to the broker if you feel you are treated unfairly.

A Broker may recommend that you deal with a particular lender, Title Company, Attorney, or other provider of settlement services. Ask brokers why the recommend a particular company or firm in preference to others. Advise them that while you welcome their suggestions (and indeed, they probably have good contacts), you reserve the right to pick your own providers of services.

Pastor Reginald Woods

IS THE KING JAMES VERSION THE REAL?

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods, There are many new Bibles, like the Living Bible and the New International Version. These are okay, I guess, but isn't the King James Version (KJV) the real Bible?

ANSWER: All of the Bibles you referred to are "real" Bibles. Let's back up and realize that the Bible in its original form was not written in English. 2nd Peter 1:19-21 states that God moved upon holy men and inspired them to write His Word (The Bible). These men did not speak in the English language. The Old Testament was written primarily in the Hebrew language. The New Testament was written primarily in Greek. Both Old and New Testaments together were not translated into another language until 150 A.D. Later revised in 405 A.D. This version was the Latin Vulgate. The first English Bible, Old and New Testament was produced in 1382 by John Wycliff. The King James Version was produced in 1611 and has remained the most popular translation for 380 years.

Though the KJV is traditionally the most favored Bible, the other recent translations tend to speak in a language that is easier to understand. Often the thee's and thou's of old English of the KJV can be cumbersome. I do recommend to those who favor KJV to purchase a more modern Bible to supplement their study.

We are fortunate to have in our possession several English Bible translations that Bible scholars have produced in our language. Remember: Though the various translations may say a scriptural passage in a different way, in essence, they are saying the same thing.

By Glenis Harris
Praise to God who gave the world the most precious gift, love. Praise to Jesus Christ who shed his blood, that we may have everlasting life. gloriously spirit-filled, was the assembly of God's people, on such a beautiful Resurrection Day. The children of Mt. Rose presented to the body of Christ a splendid, delightful program expressing the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ, through acting and singing. The children warmed the hearts of all who were present.

Pastor Rev. Clarence E. Harris

Minister Linda Arthur gave the message. She spoke saying, Jesus died on the cross for our sins, then on the third day God raised him from the dead. As Christians, we must believe this and have faith knowing that God has delivered us and save us. We must do the will of God by obeying all his commandments, by standing on the word of God.

Through the blood of Jesus we all healed from our transgressions and all diseases. As we yield ourselves to the holy spirit we will begin to not only read our bibles but live by our bibles. For Jesus has commanded us to go out and spread the gospel, to love one another and pray for one another.

MORENO VALLEY NEWS

Black History Month: It is difficult for me to realize what harm recognizing our Black Inventors, Educators, and Statesman of color can do to children and caring Americans. Does it harm America to let the people know that the Slaves that were brought to America gave something back. Letting the school child and others know of Dr. Charles Drew's contributions to medicine did no harm. He probably caused a black child to set a goal, be a doctor, and save a white child's life, blood transfusion. The fact that he was black is not so earth shaking, except in a racist society which refuses to respect black people, regardless of what they do. The work of Booker T.

Washington and Martin Luther King would not cause so much fuss in Feb. if they were included in all history books along with other educators, leaders inventors etc. No, America would not have to insist that our black children have much to be proud of as we teach that freedom in America is for everybody. I would not have to order special material to teach "Black History", so that our children of all backgrounds will know that Black citizens are capable, high spirited individuals who have worked hard for America and are not always looking for a party, or drugs to get high on. I ordered a History Book from the "Reader's Digest" organization and this book was to give us some information about World War Two. I received the book about a month ago. I wanted to use it in one of my history classes. As I was reading this book I noticed the only mention of Black Soldiers was the Truck Drivers. I wasn't about to teach my kids from a book that skipped over the 99th Pursuit Squadron and the 332nd. I was with the 447th Bomber Squadron which was about to be sent over seas when the war was ended. They skipped the all Black Bomber outfit, B.O. Davis and Chappy James, both were black flying Generals. Yes, we must have "Black History", if they are not going to have a completed history book, with the history of others as well.

When all American, including Black Americans are assured that they have a history to be proud of, that they helped build and protect America, getting high on caring, sharing and country. When do this, there will be no need for "Black History Month", February can be noted and recognized as a month for building self-esteem with love for everyone. I have started my proclamation of Love, how about you. TOGETHER WE CAN.

Blessed Birthday: My Birthday was April 5, 1991, when I spoke with my son last week over the telephone and heard him say; "I Love You Dad", it made my 69 years worth living. Of all of the wonderful experiences I have had with my friends, this call was right on top.

My birthday is Friday, and usually I spend the day in the Gym where ever I am in the country or over seas and running. This year I will spend two hours in the gym, stop by the chapel and give thanks to God.

Of all the beautiful truths pertaining to the soul which have been restored and brought to light in this age, none is more gladdening or fruitful of divine promise and confidence than this—that man is the master of thought, the molder of character, and the maker and shaper of condition, environment, and destiny. (As a Man Thinketh) James Allen.

NAACP Eunice Williamson Honored By Black Voice News

By Jean Denny

Black Voice newspaper honored Eunice Williamson as the 1991 Outstanding Woman Of Achievement on March 15, at a luncheon at the Sheraton Hotel in Riverside.

Williamson, is the president of the Moreno Valley/Riverside NAACP and a Nutritionist for the University of California Riverside, Extension Program. She was recognized for her unselfish contributions and celebrating 10 years as president of the branch.

Cheryl Brown, Co-Publisher of the Black Voice, said, "we wanted to honor her tireless contributions. In recognizing her, we gave others the opportunity to also pay special tribute to a wonderful woman."

The guest speaker for the luncheon was Frances Hooks, National Coordinator of Women in NAACP (WIN) and wife of Ben Hooks, Executive Director of the National NAACP.

In recognizing Eunice, Hooks said it was her and others that helped make the NAACP such an invaluable organization. She described Eunice at one point with every letter in the alphabet, A thru Z. "She is a jewel in your mist."

Hooks addressed an overflowing crowd about drugs, education and loving yourself.

She admonished everyone, to be careful of the stones you throw. "With the drug problem as it is today, all our family's are vulnerable, we must not talk about anyone's family or their children. Instead we must help each other and work to end the drug problem."

Hooks said, "3 out of 10 students are dropping out; more Black males are in jail than in college. The community must address this. Churches must not only focus on choir rehearsals and prayer meetings, they need to help the students, help the single mother." Parents need to turn off the television, go into the community and let our children know somebody cares. "Teachers must teach," she said, we are not taking the time to teach our most precious resource. "I'm sick of teachers who don't teach but are drawing salaries." The complex problems can be solved she said, "prayer changes things."

Hooks said it took the civil rights movement to teach her to love herself. "We don't know who we are," "Whites continue to try to get dark using tanning booths. Blacks try to get light by using creams. Whites want kinky/curly hair. Blacks use relaxers to get their hair straight. Something is wrong with the way we are!" "If your nose is flat so what LOVE IT. People must start feeling good about themselves."

"We are troubled on every front, but not perplexed. Our country must not throw away its citizens. We have the SMART bomb, now we must have smart children to stay ahead of the world economy" she said.

"Our soldiers should not have to go fight on foreign soil for this county and not have a civil rights bill to protect them when they return." She called on president Bush to sign the Civil Rights Act now pending, when it gets to his desk.

Knowledgeable, fiery, and outstanding characterized her presentation.

Williamson still reeling from the luncheon, while getting her thank yous out, said, "words cannot express my feelings." So many things were special that day, and besides the speech by Mrs. Hooks, she said the NAACP Pre School presentation and the youth Tahirahana and Raheem Williams presentations were program highlights.

The children recited two original works that were especially for Williamson, the second piece was entitled VIP. The Williams, a brother and sister high school pair were outstanding in their presentation.
