Commencement

Dec. 14, 2013

The Stuart C. Siegel Center ♦ Richmond, Virginia

VCU

Dec. 14, 2013

Dear Class of 2013:

Virginia Commonwealth University is a national research university with a mission focused on people. Research that helps people. Care that heals people. Teaching that empowers people. Service that embraces people.

Our greatest successes, then, are the successes of our people, including the 2,000 of you who are earning your degree today. You are graduating from one of America's great public research universities. As such, your educational experience has been about more than completing your courses and receiving a grade. It has been about using your knowledge to solve real problems that will make a real difference in the real world. It has been about becoming leaders in your academic disciplines and in your communities. It has been about innovating, transforming and creating opportunities for yourself and others.

You are part of a rich legacy at VCU. Throughout the year, we have celebrated together the 175th anniversary of our founding. In 1838, we were the medical department of a small college. Today, in 2013, we are one of the nation's premier public comprehensive research institutions, focused on advancing the human experience. In celebrating our heritage, we are really looking toward a collective future that is unimaginable in its possibilities.

It is the same for you. As you graduate from VCU, always remember that your opportunities are boundless because your potential is limitless.

On behalf of the faculty, staff, students and alumni of VCU, I congratulate you on the remarkable achievement of your commencement. We are so proud of you and encourage you stay connected to your alma mater forever.

Best wishes,

Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

2013 Recipient
Tonya Mallory

The Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters is Virginia Commonwealth University's highest form of recognition. Presented by the president at Commencement, it recognizes those individuals who have made outstanding contributions to society through scholarship, public service, humanitarianism, science and art.

Tonya Mallory, a two-time Virginia Commonwealth University graduate, co-founded Health Diagnostic Laboratory Inc. in 2008, in Richmond, Va.'s Virginia BioTechnology Research Park. The disease-management company, of which she serves as president and CEO, provides diagnostic testing and services that help physicians improve their patients' treatment through a personalized health plan. The company's tests provide early detection of risk factors in the areas of cardiovascular disease, heart failure, stroke, diabetes mellitus, metabolic syndrome and fatty liver disease.

Mrs. Mallory studied biology and forensic science in VCU's College of Humanities and Sciences, earning both a bachelor's and a master's degree. Before bringing her more than 20 years' experience to HDL, she worked for Wako Diagnostics, an in vitro device manufacturer, and served as a health care regulatory consultant for domestic and international companies.

As a leader in her field, she has received numerous awards and accolades including the Governor's Award for Science Innovation, Style Weekly's Executive Women in Business Award 2012, and two Ernst & Young awards in 2012 for Greater Washington Entrepreneur of the Year and National Emerging Company.

Mrs. Mallory was appointed to the Virginia Small Business Finance Authority Board by Virginia Gov. Bob McDonnell and sits on the boards of the American Heart Association, the VCU School of Business, the Virginia Chamber of Commerce and the MCV Foundation.

Her service extends further to her alma mater. In March 2013, VCU's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics received the largest gift and largest corporate sponsorship in its history when HDL agreed to a $4 million partnership to support VCU Athletics and its future capital projects, including an athletic village and a program that will promote wellness initiatives among student-athletes and within the surrounding community.

Edward A. Wayne Medal

The Edward A. Wayne Medal was established in 1971 to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions or provided exemplary services to Virginia Commonwealth University. Presented by the president at Commencement, the medal is named in honor of Edward A. Wayne, who was chair of the commission that led to the establishment of VCU in 1968 by the Virginia General Assembly. Mr. Wayne served as the university's first vice rector.

Abroad, John B. Fenn, Ph.D., may best be remembered for having earned a Nobel Prize in chemistry in 2002. At Virginia Commonwealth University, however, Dr. Fenn's colleagues remember him for his dedication, enthusiasm and accessibility, and his students remember him for infusing joy into his teaching and challenging them to think, rather than take notes and memorize.

While Dr. Fenn was quick to praise "an awful lot of luck" in accepting the Nobel Prize, his invention of a pioneering technique that allows researchers to detect and characterize biological molecules with unprecedented accuracy was hailed as a "minor revolution" by the Nobel Committee for Chemistry. The technique, called electrospray mass spectrometry, is now used in chemistry labs around the world and has opened up the field of medicine development and disease diagnosis.

"It's probably safe to say that every new drug that comes to the market today has a fair amount of electrospray mass spectrometry in its background and development," Dr. Fenn told Investor's Business Daily in 2002, and the same still holds true more than a decade later.

Dr. Fenn joined VCU in 1994 as a professor of analytical chemistry in the Department of Chemistry after more than 20 years at Yale University and a variety of jobs held in the private sector. He also served as an affiliate professor of chemical engineering in the School of Engineering and as a guest lecturer at numerous institutions.

Prior to his death in December 2012, Dr. Fenn had authored one book and more than 100 papers and was the sole or co-inventor on 19 patents. Five months after accepting his shared Nobel Prize, he was elected into the National Academy of Sciences, which is considered one of the highest honors accorded to a U.S. scientist or engineer.

Academic Costume

The academic costume worn at American college exercises derives from the Middle Ages. The oldest universities of northern Europe, such as Paris and Oxford, grew out of church schools, and both faculty and students were regarded in the Middle Ages as a part of the clergy. They wore clerical habits, largely borrowed from the monastic dress of that day, not just on special occasions but as their regular attire.

The head covering of the academic costume developed from the skull cap worn by the clergy in cold weather to protect the tonsured head. In the universities, the skull cap acquired a point on top, which evolved into a tassel. The bonnet with tassel is still worn by degree holders of European universities. In America, it has been replaced by the familiar mortar board, which still retains the medieval tassel.

The hood (the medieval caputium) was originally a covering worn over the head in bad weather, otherwise dropped on the shoulders as the monk's cowl. At first it was worn by faculty and students alike, but in the early 16th century it was restricted to graduates, thus becoming the mark of a degree holder. Today, each college has its distinctive hood lining by which its graduates may be recognized in academic processions. Graduates from Virginia Commonwealth University may wear a hood showing a black chevron on gold background.

The gown comes from the medieval robe and seems to have been borrowed from the habit of the Benedictine monks. In the Middle Ages, undergraduates, bachelors and masters could be distinguished by the simplicity or intricacy of their gowns. The doctor's gown was often furred, which survives today in the ornamentation found on the doctoral gown. Usually the gown is black, but some colleges have gowns of different colors.

The wide velvet borders extending down the front of the doctoral gown, the velvet bars on the sleeves, and the borders of most hoods are colored according to the scholarly field of the wearer.

Recipients of Degrees

Because of rigid time requirements, this program must be printed before the final list of degree candidates and final graduation honor status for undergraduate students can be determined. The exclusion of the name of a student is not to be taken as indication of official status as a nongraduate, nor is the inclusion of a name of a student to be taken as certification of official status as a graduate.

Only undergraduate students are eligible for honors designations. These designations do not apply to the degrees received by graduate students.

Be proud of your university, because we are proud of you! Our wish for each of you is that you realize your full potential and, in doing so, find a method of contributing back to society and the university in a way that is meaningful for you.

Yours for VCU,

W. Baxter Perkinson Jr., D.D.S. (D.D.S. '70)
President, VCU Alumni

Virginia Commonwealth University

As one of only 28 public universities with academic medical centers to be designated by the Carnegie Foundation as “Community Engaged” with “Very High Research Activity,” Virginia Commonwealth University has cemented its reputation as one of the nation’s top 50 public research universities.

Under the leadership of President Michael Rao, Ph.D., VCU boasts $248 million in funded research, as well as 33 graduate programs ranked nationally by U.S. News & World Report. And, through the guidance of its strategic plan, Quest for Distinction, VCU remains poised to further its status as a premier, urban public institution able to meet the demands of diverse populations through impactful research, rigorous study and extensive community engagement.

This mission traces its roots to two institutions: the Medical College of Virginia, established in 1838 as the medical department of Hampden-Sydney College, and the Richmond School of Social Economy, founded independently in 1917 and operated as the Richmond division of The College of William & Mary beginning in 1925.

MCV, after gaining independence in 1854, became state-affiliated in 1860, while in 1939, The College of William & Mary changed the name of its Richmond division to Richmond Professional Institute, which then went on to become an independent state institution in 1962.

Spurred by recommendations set forth in a 1967 legislative report commissioned by Edward A. Wayne Sr., president of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank, city and state leaders began to envision a comprehensive and diverse urban university born from the infrastructure and resources of MCV and RPI. In 1968, Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. signed that bold vision into existence as VCU.

Today, VCU serves an integral role in the economic and cultural vitality of the city and the state, educating the current and future workforce, reaching out to the community, advancing research and enhancing patient care.

The university enrolls more than 31,000 students in 222 degree and certificate programs in the arts, sciences and humanities. Sixty-seven of the programs are unique in Virginia, many of them crossing the disciplines of VCU’s 13 schools and one college. VCU has a full-time instructional faculty of more than 2,100 who are nationally and internationally recognized for excellence in the arts, business, education, engineering, the humanities, the life sciences, social work and all the health care professions.

VCU students and faculty live and work in locations around the state and around the world, including at the VCU School of the Arts in Qatar, which has been awarding fine arts degrees since 2002. The School of Medicine and the School of Pharmacy collaborated with the Inova Health System in Northern Virginia to establish the VCU-Inova Campus for third- and fourth-year medical and pharmacy students, and the School of Pharmacy opened a second satellite location for Doctor of Pharmacy students at the University of Virginia Medical Center in Charlottesville.

As one of the pre-eminent, comprehensive academic medical centers in the nation — and a No. 1 hospital in Virginia as ranked in 2013 by U.S. News & World Report — the VCU Medical Center offers state-of-the-art care in more than 200 specialty areas, many of national and international note, including organ transplantation, head and spinal cord trauma, burn healing and cancer treatment.

VCU and the VCU Health System have been honored with prestigious national and international recognition for top-quality graduate, professional and medical-care programs, reflecting a commitment to be among America’s top research universities focused on student learning.

VCU

Congratulations to all!

Virginia Commonwealth University traces its roots to two institutions: the Medical College of Virginia, established in 1838 as the medical department of Hampden-Sydney College, and the Richmond Professional Institute, founded in 1917 as the Richmond School of Social Economy. In 1968, RPI and MCV merged to become VCU. A lot has changed since those early days, but through it all VCU and its predecessors have proved that making a difference — in the community, Virginia and the world — is in our genes.

We hope you'll join us as we celebrate VCU's 175th anniversary and look forward to the future.
