

ALICE/PUB 2000-07
20 April 2000

ALICE - Status Report

G. Paic

For the ALICE Collaboration

Abstract

Presently the ALICE collaboration has presented all but one TDR to the LHCC. The main features of the experiment will be reviewed and the performances of the detectors outlined. The planned performance of the new electron devoted to dielectron studies will be highlighted with an overview of the expected physics in the central region and also the possibility to study muon electron coincidences using the muon arm.