POCⁱⁿ LIS SUMMIT

Summer 2018 (Volume 8.10)

POCinLIS Conference Preview

On July 13, the William H. Hannon Library will host the inaugural People of Color in Library & Information Science (POCinLIS) Summit. The mission of the POCinLIS Summit is to create a productive and brave space for people of color, especially women and marginalized identities, working in the information sector. LMU librarians Nataly Blas, Aisha Conner-Gaten, Rachel Deras, and Jessea Young have been working together for the past year to build this event at LMU. READ MORE

Baroque-Style Miniature Theatre

There is a miniature theatre currently on display beneath our central stairwell at the library. Created by David Garden and José García-Moreno, this Baroque era theater model was constructed as a scale set piece for a stop motion animated film that premiered during the finale of the play, "The Emperor of the Moon."

Summer Exhibitions

We recently hosted an opening reception for our student-curated summer exhibition, "From Their Perspective VI: American Popular Music in the Age of Ragtime and Jazz." Student curators America Negrete and Cynthia Garcia shared their experiences selecting and evaluating materials from our Clara Jane Nixon Sheet Music Collection.
