Abstract

Editorial back matter for vol. 57, no.3 of ACE Quarterly

Meet ACE Authors

KARIN KRISTIANSSON is Television Specialist with the Office of Information, College of Agriculture, at the University of Vermont. A pioneer and innovator in Extension television production, she has been in charge of daily programming at Vermont for several years. She was the recipient of the first media field award in radio and television awarded by AAACE in 1974. She is currently on sabbatical leave and is studying in Germany, the source of information for the article in this issue.

JAMES L. BRAMBLETT is a special project coordinator (news) for the University of Georgia Extension Information Department. He earned his B.S. degree in plant genetics at the University of Georgia and was a county Extension agent in Atlanta prior to becoming project coordinator. He will soon complete work for the M.A. in Extension Education with a concentration in communications.

MICHAEL RUFFNER, editorial assistant in the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, University of Florida, prepares newspaper information releases for Extension, Research, and Education. He is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College (Washington, Pa.), and has an M.A. degree from the University of Florida in journalism and communications. He is currently working on a Ph.D. at the University of Florida in mass media and journalism curriculum.

FRANK HILL attended the University of Wisconsin—Stevens Point and graduated from Madison with a B.S. in Agricultural Journalism in 1958. He worked on the Seymour Press and the Clintonville Tribune Gazette for a total of about two years. He was general reporter and sports editor at the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune for about two years and then joined the Wisconsin Agriculturist as a field editor in 1963. He has been managing editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist since 1964.
