Course Purpose

This course presents techniques and materials for diagnosing and accommodating classroom students' reading and writing needs. The content is required for pre-service and in-service teachers earning their State of Montana endorsements in Reading and/or Special Education.

Considering the Montana Teacher Education Program Standards, 10.58.521, Reading Specialists K-12, this course provides understanding, knowledge, and application of: (a) a planned sequence of study to include a philosophy of reading instruction, sensitivity to individual needs, instruction based on strengths and needs, integration of a wide variety of genre, and research on reading; (b) the learner and the learning process with application to the importance of embedding literacy instruction with meaningful context and recognizes the developmental process of reading acquisition; (c) techniques in reading instruction and skills to diagnose reading problems that include knowledge of research-based literacy approaches, sensitivity to individual differences, value of student self-monitoring, reading-related factors, knowledge of literacy strategies in various domains, and providing services in effective settings; (d) instructional materials that reflect curriculum, research, and the learner's strengths and needs; (f) activities that relate to environmental factors that affect reading achievement, recognition of language and dialect in the reading process, and benefits of parent involvement; (h) development, management, and evaluation of literacy approaches that recognize the learner's strengths and needs, involve parents, provide alternative instruction, and include a variety of assessments; (i) the integration of the reading/writing process with the content areas by involving parents with literacy development and communicating information to the public; (j) ongoing assessment practices that reflect the complex nature of reading, include high quality text, involve multiple intelligences, and include research-based approaches; and (k) professional literacy organizations.

Course Objectives

1. To comprehend knowledge and beliefs about reading: the theoretical base, the knowledge base, individual differences, diversity, and aspects of reading difficulties;
2. To understand the domains of oral and written language, including language diversity, reading comprehension, word recognition, and study skills and strategic reading and apply them to devising appropriate instructional strategies;
3. To understand factors affecting the reading process;
4. To administer and use information from formal and informal measures to inform instruction and learning;
5. To conduct assessments that involves multiple indicators of learner progress;
6. To understand analytic teaching which recognizes the reading and writing process, appreciation of diversity and inclusion, and the belief of students as capable human beings;
7. To understand the importance of communicating information about reading to the student, professionals, parents, and others;
8. To introduce the student to research in literacy and professional literacy organizations;
9. To introduce the student to literacy technology and on-line supplements;
10. To write a case study.

Instructional Methods

The objectives are met through classroom instruction, on-line supplements, and a diagnostic experience in which each class member chooses a case study subject, diagnoses the person's reading strengths and needs using direct and indirect measures, writes a case study, and creates literacy lesson plans.

Student Outcomes and Evaluation Criteria (based on 100 points)

15 points: Five chapter reaction papers (CRPs), maximum 1-typed page per chapter, choose from the Gipe text or the Ashmore text, all due by October 20 for final peer editing with last CRP submitted via on-line supplement;

30 points: Case study, typed, following the model found in the course pack; use a binder clip to secure the pages of this document;

15 points: Two remediation/reinforcement strategies (four for graduate credit) attached to your case study;

15 points: Class presentation;

25 points: Final exam.

A = 92-100, B = 82-91, C = 72-81, D = 62-71, F = below 62
