HORN CLUB meets in Rm. 105 W 1PM
APPLIED LESSONS meet as scheduled with the professor.

The purpose of this document is to outline the expectations and responsibilities of Applied Study/Horn Club at UM. Read this document carefully, and clarify any questions appropriately.

Grades are based on the following:

1. Thoroughness of lesson preparation and subsequent improvement
2. Performance at appropriate level (100, 200, etc.)
3. Horn Club attendance and quality of participation

APPLIED STUDY

In order to realize one's potential, a well-conceived and consistent method of practice needs to be cultivated. It is the shared responsibility of the teacher and student to develop this structured practice method. Every serious student of the horn must commit to three balanced, purposeful, and concentrated hours of individual practice on days without ensemble obligations.

Appropriate amounts of rest need to be considered when formulating a practice routine. Another period each day should be dedicated to concentrated listening and score study. In order to receive a lesson grade of "A", a student must present a thorough knowledge of each composition's score and foreign terminology.

Students are expected to report fully warmed-up to each lesson.

An electronic tuner capable of producing the horn's range of pitches, a metronome capable of subdividing, a recording device, and foreign language dictionaries are REQUIRED tools. Breath building tools, a BERP, and a sound-level meter are also highly recommended.

Required books:

The Art of French Horn Playing by Philip Farkas
Orchestral Audition Tome compiled by David Thompson OR
The Orchestra Musician's CD-ROM Library

Other recommended books will be discussed separately from this document. Membership in the International Horn Society is strongly recommended.

All foreign language terms contained in any assigned work of music must be translated before each lesson. Failure to translate terms will result in an automatic reduction of one-half to a full grade for that particular lesson, and the student may be dismissed from that lesson.

Failure to demonstrate knowledge of a composition's score, or neglecting a listening assignment, will result in an automatic reduction of one-half to a full grade for that particular lesson, and the student may be dismissed from that lesson.

Absence from any lesson will be excused only for illness, family emergency, religious obligation, audition/job interview, or UM event. Every reasonable effort will be made to change or make-up lessons missed for these reasons. Lessons missed without 24 hours prior notification, for any reason other than an emergency, will be graded as failing.

Students are required to obtain all assigned lesson materials quickly through the most expedient source. Materials should be ordered on the day that they are assigned. All compositions must be prepared from music in the original key. As an example, no Mozart Concerti parts are to be transposed to F.

Accompanists and chamber music ensembles: Students who are preparing a performance involving an accompanist and/or chamber music ensemble are required to arrange the attendance and participation of their collaborators during lessons, or at a time agreed upon by the teacher. Regardless of the performance involved, any accompanist or chamber music ensemble that is not adequately prepared will be immediately dismissed from that lesson. Likewise, any horn student who has not adequately rehearsed with their accompanist or ensemble will be dismissed from that lesson. All rehearsals, and the level of preparation by collaborators, are the sole responsibility of the individual horn student. It is also the responsibility of each horn student to be aware of, and comply with, all recital, UDRP, pre-UDRP, and jury policies.

Grades are given for each lesson:

- A Exceptional progress; consistent improvement and preparation
- B Satisfactory progress; consistent improvement and preparation
- C Some progress; inconsistent preparation
- D Below average progress; inconsistent progress
- F Little or no progress; consistently unprepared

Plus and minus grades are given for work between these levels.

ANY STUDENT WHO IS FOUND TO BE CLEARLY UNPREPARED FOR HIS/HER LESSON WILL BE IMMEDIATELY EXCUSED, AND THAT LESSON WILL BE GRADED AS FAILING.

Physical contact: Instruction occasionally involves a certain amount of limited and neutral physical contact between the teacher and student when dealing with such subjects as breathing, posture, hand position, tension, overall performance style, etc... It is the responsibility of the student who is in any way and at any time uncomfortable with this physical contact to immediately inform the teacher of that discomfort.

HORN CLUB

All horn students, majors and concentrations, are required to register for and attend Horn Club. Exceptions to this enrollment are made only in the case of a scheduling conflict involving another require academic course. Studio class offers performance opportunities, mock auditions, guest artist presentations, and class discussions covering a broad spectrum of study that cannot be covered as well, if at all, in a private lesson setting. All class members are expected to take notes of class topics and mark parts for the music being studied.

During this time, students may be called upon numerous times to give helpful input to one another. It is essential that an attitude of support, cooperation, and positive criticism be always present for the mutual benefit of each and every horn student. We can all learn from each other! Any student who wishes to give a studio class presentation should speak to Dr. Cooper regarding topic or performance choice, and scheduling. Attendance will be taken at the scheduled beginning of each studio class. Punctuality is important in our profession and our classes. Unexcused absences, tardiness, or inadequate participation will result in lowering of the student's final grade by as little as one-half grade to as much as failing, depending on the severity of the issue.

We strongly believe in a studio that is friendly and supportive of others. In addition, hearing all types of recitals and concerts enhances everyone's musical education. Therefore, horn students must attend ALL brass and woodwind faculty recitals, ALL guest artist brass recitals, and ALL recitals presented by fellow horn students. Plan ahead, to ensure that this requirement is met. Failure to attend the required recitals/concerts will result in the lowering of the student's final applied grade by one-half to a full grade. A superabundance of recital attendance may boost the final grade by one-half grade.

PROFESSIONAL ETIQUETTE

Every UM horn student is expected to dress in a professional manner and demonstrate appropriate professional etiquette when presenting ensemble, recital, jury, masterclass, and exam appearances.

DO NOT borrow a colleague's horn, music, tools or anything else without his/her permission. You may want to consider obtaining individual insurance for your instrument and other possessions of value.

Each UM horn student is part of a select group, and deserves to be treated with respect. Respect each other as colleagues on the same journey. It is the attitude of this faculty to treat you as professionals who are working towards the day when you will sign a contract that is already waiting for you. You will be treated as professional musicians, and will be expected to behave as responsible professionals at all times. In the unlikely event of grossly unprofessional or irresponsible behavior, or behavior that is deemed harmful to our horn studio-at-large, contact Dr. Cooper immediately for a confidential discussion of the issues. Suggestions for improving our horn program are always welcome.

The ultimate goal of all the above statements is to create an environment in which each student can reach his/her potential in a friendly and cooperative environment. If any questions arise concerning this policy statement, or any other educational matter, please contact Dr. Cooper as soon as possible through e-mail. I check my e-mail frequently and it is the best and surest way of contacting me.

Academic Misconduct and the Student Conduct Code

All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. The Code is available for review online at http://life.umt.edu/vpsa/student_conduct.php.

ACCESSIBILITY

Students with disabilities may request reasonable modifications by contacting me. The University of Montana assures equal access to instruction through collaboration between students with disabilities, instructors, and Disability Services for Students (DSS). “Reasonable” means the University permits no fundamental alterations of academic standards or retroactive modifications. For more information, please consult <http://www.umt.edu/disability>.
