Course Purpose and Objectives:

This course is designed to help students increase their knowledge and understanding of the Mexican political system and the issues salient in contemporary Mexican politics. Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able to: 1) demonstrate factual and theoretical knowledge of Mexican politics, 2) analyze issues critical in contemporary Mexico, and 3) prepare a research paper on Mexican politics.

No assumptions are made regarding students' familiarity with Mexico; However, a willingness to work hard to understand Mexican politics is required. This includes that students do all assigned readings carefully and analytically and come to class prepared for discussion.

Required Books:

Wayne A. Cornelius, Mexican Politics in Transition: The Breakdown of a One-Party-Dominant Regime. Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies, University of California, San Diego, 1996.

Miguel Angel Centeno, Democracy Within Reason: Technocratic Revolution in Mexico. Penn State Press, Second Edition, 1997.

Nora Lustig, Mexico: The Remaking of an Economy. The Brookings Institution, Second Edition, 1998.

Jorge G. Castañeda, The Mexican Shock: Its Meaning for the U.S. The New Press, 1995.

Assignments:

1. Read carefully and critically assigned readings and come to class prepared to discuss the issues raised in those readings.
2. A mid-term exam (Mon., March 8). Study questions will be handed out during the class before the day of the exam.
3. A final exam (8:00-10:00, Wed., May 12). Study questions will be handed out during the last class meeting.
4. A prospectus for a project which includes a research question and expected findings (due Monday, March 22). Since re-writing of the prospectus may be necessary, early submissions of the first drafts are strongly encouraged.

5. A research project dealing with issues in contemporary Mexican politics. The project must contain: (1) a research question, (2) the reason(s) why the issue is important to be addressed in understanding Mexican politics, (3) the answer(s) to the question, and (4) evidence to support the answer(s). This project must be typed, double-spaced, and approximately 10 pages in length, and turned in no later than Monday, May 3. No late papers will be accepted.

Grading:

	% of Final Grade
Participation	10%
Mid-term exam	20%
Final exam	30%
