CB Postpones Action on Ice Rink

The possibility of an ice skating rink on campus was discussed but further action was delayed until some of the problems could be solved. One of the problems is finding a place for the rink. The rink will also have to carry insurance before it could be operated. Bill Hibbs, John Edwards, Jim Tangen and George Cole were appointed committeemen to investigate the rink.

Central Board regretfully accepted the resignation of Sophomore Delegate Nancy Taylor last night at the Sigma Kappa sorority house.

Miss Taylor said in a letter health problems are keeping her from fulfilling her position. ASMSU President Bob Liffing said it was his duty to appoint a delegate to the position and asked for suggestions from Central Board members. Three junior delegates will be elected in the spring ASMSU general election.

Liffing appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of having the 1967 session of the Far Western Model U.N. in Missoula. Keit Price will be chairman of the committee. Other committee members will be announced next week.

Katherine Wright was selected Venture editor after recommendation by Publications Board. (See Publications Board story below.)

Central Board tabled the proposal from Planning Board that the number of assistant editors for the Sentinel be increased from three to four and their salary increased from $10 to $20. Board members felt more investigation of Sentinel staff members and their duties was necessary.

In a report from Budget and Finance Committee, Bill Hibbs, business manager, said, "All the budgets were doing well except for the Kaimin which was a little in the red." He said Traditions Board had spent most of the money allotted it for the entire year.

Central Board also chose to enter a Turtle Race. The Turtle Race will be Feb. 26 at the American University in Washington, D.C. Each school participating in the event is given a turtle to represent the university. An entry fee of $6 will be donated to the fund for muscular dystrophy. Last year MSU placed fourth in the event.

In other business Central Board accepted the Faculty Athletic Committee recommendations for athletes winning letters. Central Board votes on the recommendation because athletic events receive a large amount of money from ASMSU. (See page three for list of athletes winning letters.)

reviewed an editorial in yesterday's Kaimin concerning attendance of delegates at Central Board meetings. Cole agreed with editor Dan Foley who said there had been far too many absences at CB meetings. He said the delegates must realize they have a responsibility. However, sickness or a death in the family are legitimate excuses and explained some of the absenteeism. Cole read the name of each delegate who had been absent, explained his reason for being absent and read a list of the delegates' student government activities.

Cole said, "More constructive editorials could be written on the issues that come before Central Board." He said if the activities of the delegates are investigated and their reasons for being absent are examined "no false conclusions would be drawn."

One-Act Plays to Be Presented

Drama Workshop Opens Today

"The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," a one-act play by George Bernard Shaw, will open the Masquer Workshop tonight at 8:15 in the Masquer Theater.

Don Thomson, director and graduate assistant in drama, said Shaw conceived Shakespeare, played by Teddy Ulmer, freshman from Townsend, as an enterprising, though forgetful, young journalist with an ear for good speech.

The play opens when a guard (Glen Gauer, sophomore, Great Falls) hails Shakespeare who going to meet with his mistress, the Dark Lady (Trina Ambrose, freshman, Missoula).

The guard's lines are some of Shakespeare's most famous lines, and create a farce on the source of Shakespeare's lines, Thomson explained.

"Dark Lady" will be followed by "Miss Julie." This one-act play by August Strindberg was written in 1888 when class discrimination and the rising middle class were evident.

The play depicts a conflict between the serving class and the aristocracy in Sweden. Noel Young, junior, Helena, and Patsy Maxson, sophomore, Missoula, play the leading roles.

Presidents Study Proposed Budget At Butte Meeting

HELENA (AP) — More work on the proposed $49.9 million all-funds budget for Montana's university system in the 1965-67 biennium will be done in Butte Thursday.

The presidents of the system's six units will meet with State Budget Director Richard F. Morris at 9 a.m. Thursday at the School of Mines.

He said the session is a continuation of the budget discussion started in Helena Nov. 21 at a meeting of the university committee of the Board of Regents, the presidents and Morris.

Summer Institutes Given $150,380 Science Grant

The National Science Foundation has granted $150,380 for continued support to MSU summer institutes in mathematics and biological sciences during 1965.

Separate grants have been made to both institutes.

A total of $67,580 will be used to continue a sequential program in mathematics which will provide four consecutive summers of study to participants leading toward a master's degree in teaching math.

The biological sciences have been granted $82,800 in support of a summer program that will begin a new four year sequence this year.

A similar four year program was completed last summer. Thirty master's degrees were awarded to secondary teachers at the end of the 1964 summer session enrolled in this program.

William R. Ballard, associate professor of mathematics, and Sherman J. Preece Jr., associate professor of botany, will direct the two programs. William Myers, chairman of the mathematics department, who directed the math institute for the past four years, will be associate director of that institute.

Modern Man Topic Of Forum Discussion

Montana Forum members will discuss the question of technological man as raised by Prof. Eugene Weigel and Prof. Robert Ammons at the last two Forum meetings, Bob Worcester, Forum chairman, said.

Forum meets Friday noon in the Territorial Rooms of the Lodge.

Some Criticize, Most Approve

Students Applaud Sentinel

By BRENDA BROPHY
Kaimin Reporter

Did MSU students like the 1964 Sentinel?

Interviews with MSU students show that everyone has praise for the yearbook, but some have criticisms.

All agreed they liked the cover. "I'm impressed with it," "I loved the cover," "pretty sharp," and "unique and appealing" were comments received when students were asked about the cover.

The cartoons on the inside of the covers were a different matter. Sharon Lee, a senior majoring in social welfare, said, "I liked a few of the cartoons, but some that weren't so funny could have been done away with."

Cheryl Hutchinson, a junior in journalism, felt that the cartoons were completely unnecessary. John Jette, a business administration junior, said that he enjoyed the cartoons.

Blake Smith, a freshman, said, "The cartoons were very effective." Bonnie Butchart, a music major, was impressed also with the cartoons.

Doug McCombs, a senior, did not like the cartoons. He said, "It seems like a $6 comic book." He would like to see more intellectual humor in the annual.

Steve McKnight, a freshman, felt that the cartoons did not have a place in the Sentinel.

When students were asked about the pictures and candid shots in the Sentinel, the answers were varied.

Miss Lee liked the setup of student and organization pictures. McCombs thought the candid pictures were all right and he liked the colored photos, but he said, "the captions were corny."

Miss Butchart said the photographs were fine but the portraits were fuzzy. Knight also said that some of the queen pictures were blurry. He would like to see more colored pictures in the Sentinel.

John Jette thought the layout of pictures of the living groups and organizations were fine, but he would like more colored photos. He also criticized the repetition of pictures.

Miss Hutchinson disliked the use of pictures from previous years and those used more than once in the same issue. Knight did not like the repetition of pictures.

David Sandin thought that the Sentinel would be a better book if there were some system where all students would have their pictures taken.

Law Study Suggests Control Acts Review

Are Montana's price control acts harmful or beneficial? Edwin W. Briggs of the Law School suggests the state legislature review these acts, including the Unfair Practices Act, and those relating to barbers, beauty shops and milk control.

Mr. Briggs recently completed a study of retail competition under a research grant from the Small Business Administration.

In the 165-page report, he examines the character, extent and effect of regulation of retail competition under five Montana statutes. He also discusses other statutes regulating the decisions of the Montana Supreme Court involving restriction of various types of competition.

The principal legislation studied includes Montana's Unfair Practices Act, the Fair Trade Act, the Barbers Act, the Beauty Shop Act and the Milk Control Act.

The Fair Trade Act was declared unconstitutional by the Montana Supreme Court in 1961. The act continues to be of historical and academic interest because of recent attempts to establish a national fair trade law under the title of "Quality Stabilization," according to Mr. Briggs.

He suggests that the first four codes mentioned above have had little impact or influence on the institutional structure of the businesses regulated. The Milk Control Act has altered substantially and permanently the operation of the milk industry and the relationships of the producers, processors and distributors.

He also suggests that the regulatory codes dealing with unfair practices, barbers and beauty shops, and milk control should be reviewed by the Montana legislature to determine whether they still are needed and whether the remedies are more harmful than the wrongs they were intended to correct.

MSU Student Attends Meet At West Point

Gary T. Cummins, graduate student in history, has been selected to attend the 16th annual Student Conference on United States Affairs at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. The conference ends Saturday.

The Academy sponsors the conference to further understanding among future civilian and military leaders.

The conference will focus on problems of policy determination towards developing nations. Through this general discussion the group hopes to produce an informative examination of the national security policy of the United States.

The conference provides outstanding college students with an appreciation of the complexities of government policy formulation, and broadens students' contact with their contemporaries in an academic endeavor.

Cummins will submit a written report to the Kaimin and will be available as a speaker when he returns.

Freshman Chosen As Venture Editor

Kitty Wright, a freshman journalism student, was recommended by Publications Board to Central Board for Venture editor. Before Miss Wright can accept the position, a by-law will have to be waived.

Venture editor is required to have attended MSU for two quarters previous to the appointment and had experience working on the literary magazine.

Mignon Redfield, Sentinel editor, said few students have had their pictures taken for the 1965 Sentinel.

Alan Shirley Studio has been taking Sentinel pictures for two weeks. Monday morning only 200 students had had their pictures taken. Next week is the last time students can have pictures taken.

Sentinel adviser, Cyrile Van Duser, said caution should be exercised in using satire in a University publication. Miss Van Duser said she was not allowed to see the organization section of the 1964 Sentinel. If she had seen that section some of the satire, especially on the Orchesis page, would have not appeared, Miss Van Duser said.

Game Tonight: MSU vs. Southern Peabody Institute of Technology (Western Branch)

The Grizzly basketball team begins its "who's zat" schedule tomorrow night in the Field House against Southern Colorado State. The Indians are only the first in a list of "never-heard-of-them" teams on the MSU schedule this year.

Among the other not-so-well-known squads are Augsburg (that's in Minnesota), Nevada Southern, the University of San Diego, the Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota, the Milwaukee branch of the University of Wisconsin, Bemidji State, Orange State and the University of British Columbia.

Some of the teams aren't completely unfamiliar to Grizzly fans. MSU played Duluth and Bemidji State last year and Orange State the year before. The football team has played the University of British Columbia the past two years.

Most of the above-named schools have considerably fewer students than MSU's 5,370. Southern Colorado has 2,750, Augsburg 1,600, Nevada Southern 1,800, University of San Diego 300, Duluth 3,700, Bemidji State 2,600 and Orange State 2,800.

Of the colleges mentioned, only the Milwaukee school with 11,000 and UBC with 16,000 have greater enrollments than MSU. (Basketball, however, is a minor sport in Canada.)

We are not contending that those teams will not furnish the Grizzlies with sufficient competition—Duluth beat the Tips last year. And we wouldn't object to winning a game once in awhile.

But let's face it—reputation means a great deal in basketball, and the teams the Grizzlies are playing have no great reputation. If the Grizzlies beat them, it will mean relatively nothing; and if the Grizzlies are beaten, it will solidify MSU's growing reputation as a "small-college" basketball team.

Our main objection, however, is that, whether the Grizzlies win or lose, MSU students will not be seeing the calibre of basketball a state university should provide. In the past three years MSU fans have seen such stars as Mel Counts of Oregon State, Billy McGill of Utah, Eddie Miles of Seattle, Wayne Estes and Troy Collier of Utah State and Gus Johnson of Idaho.

A glance at this year's schedule brings to mind only one basketball player of note—Flynn Robinson of Wyoming. But the Grizzlies play the Cowboys in Laramie.

We're not suggesting that the Grizzlies play a schedule similar to that of two years ago when they were outclassed in almost every game, but some sort of a happy medium could be reached.

Let's not de-emphasize basketball through scheduling of unknowns. —djf

Senior Calls for End to U.S. Atrocities Rather Than End to War in Viet Nam

To the Kaimin:

A letter in Wednesday's Kaimin protesting "atrocities" by U.S. GIs in South Viet Nam called for an end to the war. It would be more realistic to call for an end to the alleged atrocities rather than for an end to the whole war.

If "acts of inhumanity" have been committed by Americans in Viet Nam, they are probably individual instances, not actions sanctioned by our government.

It would be playing into Communist hands to retreat from Viet Nam for South Viet Nam is like the Gordian knot.

Gordius, legendary king of Phrygia, tied the pole of his wagon to the yoke with an intricate knot. An oracle said he who untied it would rule all Asia. Alexander the Great cut the knot with his sword.

Political scientists have said that if South Viet Nam falls to the Communists, Thailand, Burma, Cambodia, and Malaysia also will topple. That would put great pressure on India, Indonesia, the Philippines and Australia. And it is one reason why the U.S. is fighting to keep South Viet Nam free.

We have capitulated to the Communists frequently in the past 20 years. Eastern Europe was given away at the Yalta conference. We fought a halfway war in Korea. We allowed the Berlin Wall to be built. We let Castro bring Communism to Cuba. If we pull out of South Viet Nam, the Communists will boast of another victory.

We do not want to see an Iron Curtain draped across the paddies of Southeast Asia. We do not want the Communists to loosen or chop the Gordian knot.

Therefore, if a letter should be written to Pres. Johnson and Sec. McNamara (as Messrs. Beaty, Rhodes, Mead, Pfeiffer, Kuhn and Mrs. Rhodes suggested in Wednesday's Kaimin), the letter should call for an end to misconduct by U.S. soldiers in South Viet Nam.

The letter, I believe, should also call for an end to the war. Not by pulling out of that country, but by beefing up our forces there and extending the war to the north (on a limited scale, i.e., bomb supply lines, not cities).

Group Plans Nonpartisan Liberal Club To Broaden Political Discussion Areas

To the Kaimin:

The need for a significant expression of liberalism on campus has gone unfulfilled for too long. We propose to establish a non-partisan organization by which we may effectively broaden the plane of political discussion at the University.

We are united in affirming the liberal way; we regard liberalism as a political philosophy and attitude based on a willingness to change ideas and policies in order to meet present-day problems. Liberalism maintains that government should be used by men as the effective instrument for engendering progress and opportunity, and for elevating the dignity and rights of each human being. The liberal does not limit his concern to the immediate neighborhood, state, or even the nation in which he lives, but rather, sees the voice and will of the people as the object of his concern.

Government is regarded, then, as the extension of that voice and will; it will then be an effective fulcrum of change and progress directed to overcome the existent inequities and problems of those people.

The organizational meeting of the liberal club will be in Yellowstone Rooms 2 and 3, tonight at 7 p.m. The meeting will include a discussion, following Mr. Barclay Kuhn's presentation of the topic, "The Recognition of the People's Republic of China."

Southern Colorado Lacks Height But Boasts High-Scoring Attack

Don't let the size fool you. Southern Colorado State, which last year compiled an 18-6 record, has the power to score, if not the height.

"They've been a good, solid basketball school for years, and they're tough to handle," coach Ron Nord said.

"We're going to have to force them out of their own game. They like to fast break if given the chance, but they usually operate out of a set offensive formation." The Indians return all of their starters from last season and list seven seniors on the 12-man roster. Leading the SCS offense will be the high-scoring trio of Sam Batey (21.1), Bob Graham (20.9) and Sam Moore (20.2).

The Indians scored more than 100 points on seven occasions last year.

Ed Samelton, who is expected to start against the Indians tomorrow night, played against Moore and Batey in junior college.

"Moore is an excellent outside shooter. He can hit that long jump shoot from 25 to 30 feet out with accuracy. He's also fast and can really move.

"Batey is another good shooter. He likes to drive and is a great rebounder for his size."

Batey is 6-3 and Moore is 5-10. SCS has gotten some height help with the acquisition of Pat Reed (6-6), Sam Williams (6-5) and Clarence Blackmon (6-4).

"We've really worked and improved during these last few weeks, and we're looking forward to proving it in the game tomorrow night," Nord said.

Game time is 8 p.m., with the frosh to play a preliminary against an independent team at 6 p.m.

Pistol Teams To Compete In Great Falls

The Western Montana Match is the target this week for the MSU pistol club.

Eight men and four women comprise the three teams making the trip to Great Falls for the Sunday match, according to coach S/Sgt. Wallace D. French.

The women's team is the only one in the nation shooting on an intercollegiate level, he said.

The teams will fire with about 15 others from Western and Central Montana and Idaho. They will fire both rim-fire, which is .22 caliber, and center-fire, which includes .32, .48 and .45 caliber.

Frosh to Play Tomorrow Prior to Varsity Game

MSU's freshman squad will get its final big scrimmage tomorrow night when it plays an independent team of past Grizzly stars and volunteers in a preliminary to the varsity battle with Southern Colorado State. The scrimmage will start at 6 p.m.

Joe McDonald's Cubs officially open the season against Malmstrom Air Force Base here Dec. 11, but McDonald feels this "will be a scrimmage we need for experience and competition."

Comprising the opposition will be ex-Grizzlies Tim Aldrich from Missoula, Russ Sheriff from Helena and Ron Quilling from Sidney.

Rocky Greenfield and Jerry Jacobson, both from Missoula, Tom Croci from New York City, Lafay Hope from Tamaqua, Penn., and Tom Sullivan from Great Falls complete the squad.

Counter checks will not be accepted on campus beginning Jan. 1, 1965. This is the result of a trend among banks to discontinue use of the checks.

The move originated in Montana among the larger banks and is slowly being accepted by smaller banks in the state. According to an employe of the First National Bank of Missoula, many bad checks and forgeries are the result of counter checks. The move is aimed at discouraging these practices.

and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khiem said today.

The new South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, from North Viet Nam through Laos, is a main road of infiltration.
