
China 21

Vol. 6 May 1999

Contents

◀Studies in Chinese Folklore▶

- A Possibility of the Fieldwork in China C. Daniels, Yoshiko Kanamaru, Kiyoshi Hasegawa and Masako Matsuoka 3
- In Search of New Chinese Folklore.....Xu Jingze and Ye Tao 25

◀Articles▶

- A Study on the Form of Occupation of the Upper Miao Tribe in the Eastern Part of the Unkwei Plateau of China.....Hisao Tabata 37
- The Symbolical Ritual in the rivival of Clan Resurgence
—On the “Ancestral Tablet Enshrinement”
in Southern Fujian’s Rural AreaPan Hongli 77
- Folkways of Food and Clothing Encountered in the Fieldwork of AnthropologyHan Min 109
- The Performing Taoists
—Fujian Quanzhou “Dacheng xi” in ChinaNaoko Hosoi 125
- Historical Study of the Marriage System, “Buluo Fujia” or Delayed Transfer Marriage among Zhuang in Guangxi before 1949
.....Shigeyuki Tsukada 143

◀Notes▶

- Fuxi Mountain Rural Community from a View Point of Social and Economic Relations Kazuo Wada 175
- A Change of Nai-Qiong Village of Tibet Autonomous Region at the End of 20th CenturyLi Tao 189
- An Ethnographic Perspective on the Cultural Revolution..... Zhou Xing 207 Explanatory Notes: Nomenclature and Political Discourse of the Cultural Revolution Masako Tamiya
- TORII Ryuzo toward the Folk Customs of China and its Peripheral Areas Michio Suenari 229

◀Chinese and Japanese Language▶

- Some Problems Concerning Modern Technical Terms in Japanese and Chinese LanguageKiyohide Arakawa 237
- A Cognitive Approach to Animal Categorization in Chinese Language
..... Yuzo Nakagawa 255
- Talking about the Passive Voice in Chinese and Japanese Language
..... Wang Yannong 273

◀Book Reviews▶

- Margery Wolf, translated by Katsumi Nakao, *The House of Lim:
A Study of a Chinese Farm Family*..... Makoto Ueda 281