Opening Of New Channel To Be A Real Event

OLDEST LOCAL NAVIGATOR TO PART RIBBON WITH CRAFT AFTER CHANNEL IS DUG

The accompanying picture shows the new channel as it is being dug across the delta of land nearly west of the big bridge at Windmill Park. The small dredge is in operation, making the first cut, and after that is made undoubtedly the big sand-suckers of the Lyons Construction Co. will finish up. This, it will be remembered, is a part of the harbor construction allowed by the government, which meant the purchase of an island by the city of Holland and the fill-ing-in of land pumped in by the large dredges. When the dykes have been built and the silt from the deepening of the channel and the turning basin has been pumped over the dykes, there will be at least 80 acres more land, of which the city will receive approximately 28 acres, and other property own ers will also receive proportionately up to their reparian rights. When this entire job is completed it will permit the extending of Pine Ave. across the mainland to the wide four-lane highway near the bridge, which will mean an outlet for travel from both north and south. All of this has been fully explained repeatedly, and needs no

Relative to the progress which is being made on our harbor projects by the Lyons Construction Co., the work at the harbor is practically completed and the large dredge is moving towards Waukazoo. There is quite a skip from off Jenison Park, nearly to Waukazoo, where there has always been plenty of water and no dredging

The deepest part of the lake is right off what we formerly called Harrington's Landing. The property there at one time belonged to the late E. J. Harrington, local merchant, and one time mayor of Holland. Even at that the depth is still somewhere around 40 feet, ample for navigation purposes, and no dredging is necessary

Jack Lyons has been keeping his dredge going 24 hours a day with 3 shifts, and rapid progress is being made. It is expected that within a few days the dredge will be at excursions on Lake Michigan. Eventually the big dredge will come nearer Holland and complete the channel as well as the 600-foot turning basin north of the old Goodrich Docks. When this occurs, then the dredging, as far as this is possible, will be dumped over the dykes, and and the pen were purchased at the Manitou and the pen were purchased at the Store. Recently, E. L. Springer brought an eight-room Marten house from his farm to his house in Fennville and erected it on a lumber wagon ongue, but as it was too heavy for im to get up a tree he left it lying on the ground until he could get a neighbor to help him lift it. The next day after it had been put up he looked out and saw a large garter snake hanging from the house by the tail. It had apparently chosen the bird house for a domicile for its own family and entered while the house was lying on the ground. The birds had in the one day appropriated the house, as a Marten was seen following the girl

Freak Storm Brings Sudden Death to 3-Narrow Escapes to Others

A pall of sorrow hung over the city and the resort area at Holland today as the result of the drowning of three persons at local beaches last Wednesday night. The victims were overcome in Lake Michigan when a freak storm, designated by Capt. E. J. STRANGE PHENOMENA BE-FORE THE STORM

Reports came in yesterday morning that between 4 and 5 o'clock early Wednesday morning a tidal wave swept in on Holland harbor and the beaches, while the lake was dead calm, and that it did some BODIES OF TWO LOCAL GIRLS damage to the Lyons Construction Co. dredges, which were working on the bar on the outer part of the harbor. The reports coming into Holland state that the wave was 10 feet high. In talking to Surfman Robert Bush, who was in the lookout at the time, he said, "I saw the raising of the water, but did not see it in a large wave. It looked as if the lake took a deep breath and all at once the calm was broken, the surf rolled on the beaches, and within ten minutes the breakwaters were awash. After the calm there was not much wind, but it seemed that there must have been a terribly heavy squall further out Lake Michigan." Surely some disturbance must have caused the water to become so wild in so short a time. At the time there was a land breeze, which denotes a calm on this side of the lake.

It was a similar storm, however, the Fall that came up within a few moments, which caught five men on the newly-built breakwater 35 years ago, only this turned into a northwester that lasted for days. All five men perished, and darkness shut in over turbulent waters while the men were still below the cribbing. Their bodies were removed the next morning. On July 4, 1929 a sudden storm struck the beaches at Grand Haven and ten lives were lost, eight of them from Grand Rapids. This was also caused by an undertow, which dragged the people in the leep water. There were many oric rescues at the time.

LD SWING BRIDGE SOUTH OF SAUGATUCK DISMANTLED

Progress has obliterated a quaint old bridge that connected Sauga-tuck with Douglas. There are few motorists who will forget the long rows of willows, the approach to a swing bridge that was seldom swung, connecting the two villages. The writer remembers that old bridge when the warning sign was, "Drive your team over this bridge at no faster than a walk."

That sign remained for years af-ter the automobile came. But just recently the super-highway and viaduct was built across the big swamp over the river conament, and he was hanging on for dear life. There he was suspended between sea and sky, and it seemed "sink or swim" for "Bill." What the past two weeks the piling of seemed the inevitable, however, did not occur. Why the Robin, Woodpecker and Other Birds

The impatience that farmers and others sometimes show when fruit and vegetable eating birds invade orchard or garden is easy to understand

Agriculture has to say on the subject.

The department reports that the Baltimore oriole, accused of damaging grapes and garden peas is nevertheless a blessing because he earns more than he takes by gobbling up caterpillars, lice, ants, wasps, grasshoppers, spiders and weevils.

Barn swallows, detested by many farmers, consume large quantities of troublesome flying insects.

Woodpeckers, cursed heartily for drilling into trees, actually preserve trees by destroying insects that kill them.

Robins love cherries, but they Mr. Monroe advised. eat more insects than fruit, and will leave the cherries alone if a mulberry tree is nearby.

In short, the destruction of these birds which cause irritation would (like destruction of non-poisonous snakes) cause so much harm and loss that their disappearance would daughter. Funeral services were be greatly lamented when it was held Saturday morning at St.

OTTAWA GETS $67,500 FROM WPA FOR ROAD WORK

The Works Progress Administration has allocated $67,500 to Ottawa county for the continuation of the WPA county project for road improvement.

The amount is a part of the $276,342 allocated from federal for various projects.

The new funds will be used over the county on a program that has been mapped out by the Ottawa County Road commission and which continues the work that was done last year on WPA to grade and gravel rural roads in all parts of the county.

ing a driving test in preparation for an automobile driver's license. Warner, the examining officer, declared the car was traveling at a speed of about ten miles an hour up the incline toward the court house building. He also stated that he and Mrs. Jackson had seen the little girl and her mother cross the street and approach the court house. As they came near the drive, he declared, Mrs. Jackson signaled with the horn and that the little girl suddenly darted into the path of the car. Warner was a passenger in the car giving the driver's test. Mrs. Jackson had never before been issued a driver's license and was just completing her test.

A Story of the Tulip and the "Spud" Potato

Why Do the Irish Like the Dutch, "Even If They Don't Amount to Much"

Some obscure rhyme writer a ong time ago wrote and used this most ambiguous verse: "The Irish and the Dutch, they don't amount to much." Neither does the rhyme. Anyway there is a better reason why the Irish and the Dutch "hit if off" well and with undue friction. Not because "misery loves com-pany," due to shortcomings of both as the verse would have it, and which does not exist. There are Many have wondered from time o time why the Irish and the Dutch get along together so amiccited at Holland, Michigan, where William M. Connelly, an Irishman, has directed the affairs of the Tulip festival for five years. In commenting on this, Mr. Connelly facetiously referred to a story which e had unearthed from the historcal records of the Vandercook famly of Haarlem, in the Netherlands, antedating the year 1570. These records now are said to be in the archives of the Sons of the Amercan Revolution at Los Angeles, Calif. Collaborating with Mr. Connelly in the research that brought this story to light were Lavada J. Youngstown, Ohio.

The story which relates to the early and intimate association of potato follows:

Many people think that the potato originated in Ireland be-cause it is called the "Irish potato." As a matter of fact, the potato which is now a staple food through out the world, is called the "Irish potato" because it saved the lives of many people in Ireland during a severe famine there. The potato was first grown as a food in the Netherlands by one Adam Vanderexpensive and it was necessary to find a substitute. Tuber vegetables were not yet grown for food. He began cultivating them, especially the potato which he developed to an eatable quality. The people at that time who ate potatoes, turnips and carrots were held in disdain and were termed "root eaters."

Among the tubers were tulip bulbs which Adam was unable to develop to a palatable stage. His experiments with the tulip bulb, however, resulted in improvement of the bloom. He produced many new varieties and found a market important factor in Amsterdam is covered by insurance. Tulip," written by Alexander forced open the furnace door.

"Deborah: Emergency Leader" Judges 4:1-9, 12-14

By Henry Geerlings

The Bible is not a woman's record, in the sense that only a few women are written about as having arisen to national prominence. When a woman does achieve fame in the Old Testament it is deserved. Her accomplishments merit a place in the history of Israel, or it would not be there. When we find a woman like Deborah who had the patriotism, the faith in God and the qualities of leadership to put her in the forefront as a military strategist, we are willing to list her among the heroes. She lived in the days of the judges, that special line of divinely chosen persons who life, did their brief part and passed off, but left behind them a freedom for their people. Deborah takes her place among the great judges. Her farsightedness, her skill, her prophetic insight and above all her readiness to work hard for the cause she launched and fostered unite in proving that she was a leader whom God raised up. Deborah was a strong-minded woman. She very evidently had brains and used them to the great and lasting advantage of her people. She was quite capable of Miss Varie Van Vuren, who will sizing up a serious situation and eave soon to take up her work as then she knew what to do about it. advisor at the Dulce Mission school, This is real and effective states-Dulce, New Mexico, was honor manship. A lot of our moderns can guest Friday night at a farewell supper party at Kollen Park. The honor guest was the recipient of a number of beautiful gifts. Attending the affair, besides the honor medicines for the political diseases guest, were the Misses Alberta which they seem to diagnose. We have a host of political doctors in this country just now, but they are without medicine

Deborah is described as a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth. But really it is the other way around. Lapidoth was the husband of Deborah. He just succeeded barely in getting his name in the story by reason of the fact that he was the husband of Deborah. So far as we know he never did anything to merit recognition save that he was smart enough to have married Deborah. He was just a matri monial appendage, a kind of graft ed limb on this feminine tree the garden of the Lord. The people evidently had great faith in her, splendid respect for her ability. They came to her in the hour of national emergency

They felt that she knew what to do, that she would bring deliver ance to their harassed and trou bled country. She proved her ability. She sent for a man who evidently had the qualifications of an army leader, a general. His name was Barak. He at once answered the urgent summons of Deborah. She knew the mind of God. She told Barak that it was his command that he should lead an army of Israel against the enemy under the leadership of the famous Heyboer and Mrs. Bill Steenland of Zeeland, Miss Hazel Holstege of Spring Lake and Mrs. Casper Steketee of Grand Rapids.

ICHIGAN LAWS FAVOR THE TOUR TRAVELERS

Apparently the law makers when drafting the present Michigan Motor Vehicle Law were cognizant of the fact that the tourist trade in the state was Michigan's second largest industry, as they granted exemption to out-of-state car owners to travel in Michigan with the plates of their own state. People coming to Michigan for vacations are not required to buy Michigan license plates to drive in the state; they may use their own plates for hey may use their own plates for s long a period as ninety days efore being required to purchase Michigan plates. Both these men stated that matter, and, inasmuch as a permit had been granted to Eaton and Eaton for a station directly across from the Junior High School, they did not feel justified in refusing this permit from the standpoint of being a fire hazard.

Ald. Kalkman took the same position as Aldermen Huyser and Menken, relative to a service station being a fire hazard.

Ald. Kleis called attention to the fact that protests have been received from representatives of the churches in the vicinity and wanted to oppose the granting of this permit from that standpoint.

The Mayor called upon Mr. Parsons to state his position in the matter. However, Mr. Parsons stated that all of the aldermen knew his position in the matter since he had informed them at an informal gathering just what he cil wants to have this decided in court, that he would defend the city with whatever facts were available.

After discussing the matter for quite some time, the original motion of Mr. Prins, supported by Mr. Kleis, that the permit be denied was voted upon with the following results: AYES:-Prins, Kleis, Drinkwa-

Miss Janet Groenhof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Groenhof, rural route No. 2, West Olive, became the bride of John Klystra, rural route No. 2, Holland, last Thursday night in a ceremony conducted by the Rev. N. Beute of Rusk. A sister and brother-in-law of the bride attended the couple. The home of the parents of the bride was the scene of a wedding reception for relatives following the ceremony. The newlyweds will reside in Vriesland.

Thirty-five relatives attended the first annual reunion of the Tidd family, held at Port Sheldon, Monday, July 4. Games, fishing, boating, and swimming occupied the day's affair. Dinner and supper were served. Present were Mrs. Mike Sermas and children, Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Tidd, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Brunson and children, all of Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Tidd, Sr., Dr. and Mrs. Vance Tidd and family, Mrs. Thelma Finchum and daughter, Gloria, and Mrs. S. Williams and sons of Indianapolis, Ind.; and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Van Dort and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Paul McGuire and children, all of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Mart Bursma entertained with a party at her Lakewood Blvd. home late last week in honor of the fifth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Kathleen. Joyce, Harold, and Ellen Brandenhorst, Joyce Bachelor, Doris Strowenjans, Mary Ann Knooihuizen, and John, William, and Florence Bursma attended the affair at which games were played and refreshments

SUNDAY DINNER –Suggestions.

By CORA ANTHONY Director, A&P Kitchen

THE seesaw of meat and poultry prices put meats, particularly beef and lamb, up and poultry down. Frying chickens and ducklings are cheaper than even last year's low prices. Broilers and fowl are also very reasonable. Fruits, both tropical and native, are plentiful and inexpensive. Georgia Elberta peaches are at their height for eating and canning. Plums, apricots, berries and melons are plentiful. The long list of summer vegetables includes no high priced items.

Here are three seasonable dinner menus.

Low Cost Dinner Veal Pricassee with Dumplings Veal Fricassee with Dumplings
Baked Potatoes Green Beans
