REPUBLICANS HAVE SEVERAL OPPOSING CANDIDATES; DEMOCRATS HAVE BUT ONE

County Clerk Will Wilds, on the Republican Ticket, Has no Opposition in the Primaries

The race for several Republican county offices at the Primary election on September 13, bids fair to be a lively one according to the petitions filed for nominations for the different offices with the County Clerk. Will Wilds.

Lotus In Bloom on Grand River Near Spring Lake

Flowering lotus, perhaps the most interesting floral display in western Michigan each summer, burst into bloom Tuesday on the Grand river near Spring Lake.

Found in several places in the state, the lotus plants grow in profusion opposite the farm home of Howard Gardner on the Grand river, east of the Ottawa county village.

The huge blossoms, delayed by cool and rainy weather, were brought out by the comparatively high temperature, it was reported by Mrs. Gardner. The first bulbs planted are said to have come from Egypt and have simply grown over a large area. It is a sight worth seeing.

Zeeland Pastor Drops Dead At Summer Home

WAS TO GIVE HIS FAREWELL SERMON SUNDAY TO HIS CONGREGATION

A very untimely and pathetic death occurred at noon today when Rev. E. H. Oostendorp, pastor of the North Street Christian Reformed church of Zeeland, died shortly after lunch at the summer home in which he was staying just north of Lakewood Farm on Lake Michigan.

Mr. Oostendorp had just accepted a call to Delavan, Wisconsin, and a committee from that city was visiting with him on the porch at the summer home, making tentative arrangements for his coming. He had accepted the call and was to deliver the farewell sermon to his congregation Sunday in Zeeland where he has been a popular pastor for more than 17 years.

They had partaken of a light lunch and coffee, a Dutch custom; and a short time afterward Mr. Oostendorp complained of not feeling well. The visitors immediately called Mrs. Oostendorp, who was busy with household duties, and he told her he was feeling ill. She began bathing his head and asked if the regular family doctor should be called. He expressed the desire that he be called immediately, especially when he complained of sudden, severe pains across the chest. Dr. D. C. Bloemendal of Zeeland hurried to the cottage, but just as he arrived, the Zeeland Divine passed away. He pronounced it a case of Angina Pectoris—in other words, a heart attack. It is said he had a less severe attack two weeks before while at work in his garden in Zeeland. Coroner Gilbert Vande Water was called in immediately.

Rev. R. J. Danhof, pastor of Fourth Street Christian Reformed church, Holland, was called in to make funeral arrangements.

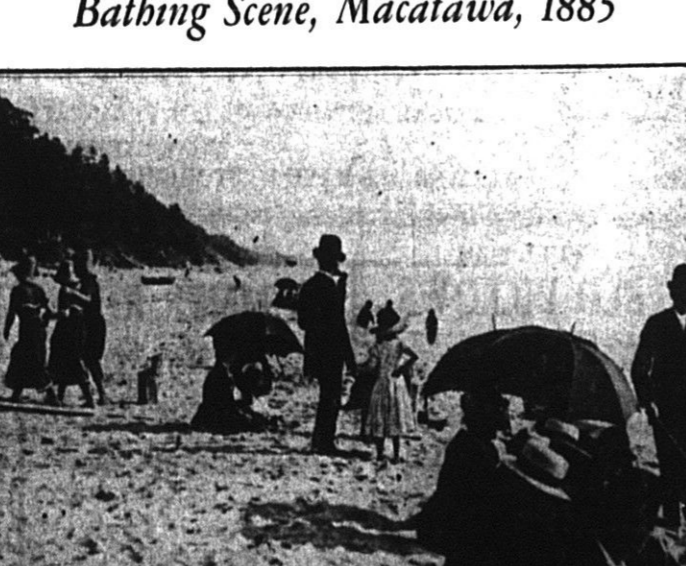

The survivors are the widow and Rev. Elco Oostendorp of Birnamwood, Wisconsin; Albertus Oostendorp of Goshen, N. Y., and Harold and William Oostendorp of Zeeland, all sons; and two daughters, Margaret and Catherine Oostendorp.

Tentative funeral arrangements will be made for next week Tuesday at Zeeland in the church where he had been pastor for so many years. Complete arrangements await the arrival of children from abroad.

Rev. Oostendorp was 66 years of age.

Bathing Scene, Macatawa, 1885

This picture was taken at Macatawa on Lake Michigan in 1885, before there were bath houses, board walks, or anything else, aside from a few cottages and many camp tents. A few bathers are seen fully clothed in the water; and three of them at least, in the left of the picture, have had their "dip," fully covered, with heavy skirts and bloomers; stockings, and a big sun hat each to avoid freckles.

From the appearance of the picture even these daring young girl bathers are self-conscious, which is evident from the way they endeavor to hold one another. We can just imagine hearing them gibe

Mr. Peter Boot, who has been clerk in Dan Bertsch's dry goods store at Market and Main Streets, for nine years, has purchased the grocery stock of A. Flietsta and will start in business under De Grondwet printing office on River Street, which is being fitted for the purpose. Note—The building in question is still there. For many years it was the Pherneburg Meat market. Now it is the old curio and secondhand shop of Al Baker. When Mr. Boot conducted the store there it was necessary to get to the front door by three steps. Later, the firm name was changed to Boot and Kramer, and was moved to a frame building on Eighth St. The firm later built a stone structure where the Boston Restaurant was located, and now the Thomas stores. The Holland City News has occupied the second floor for 45 years. The two grocery men, Peter Boot and John Kramer, passed away some years ago.

Remember this is not a fake show, but a refined exhibition of two intelligent people. The smallest married couple known will be at the Vander Sluis store for 10 days. The Major is 28 years old; 36 inches tall, and weighs 42 pounds. His "better half" is 20 years old; 35 inches tall, and weighs 40 pounds. Note—The file copy of the News gives a picture of the couple; and the writer remembers when John showed these little folks at his store on June 16, 1898.

Allie D. Zuidema, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zuidema of West 12th St., was given the degree of Doctor of Music during the annual exercises of the Detroit Conservatory of Music. Note—As a young man, Mr. Zuidema was the pipe organist of Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed church. He entered Detroit Conservatory of Music in 1905. He was graduated with honors in 1907, and received the degree of Bachelor of Music in that institution in 1911. He has accomplished great things in oratorio work, and is today one of Michigan's leading pipe organists. Last week he was the guest player at the Third Reformed church services. Mrs. Zuidema was a Miss Gertrude De Jongh of Holland, formerly living on East 10th St.

Near-beer is now called "non-kid" and "kiss your sister" by Holland patrons of the "ex-barnti-Volstead association." It smells like beer, tastes like beer, but darn it, where is that kick? The bleached regulars of olden days, on six weeks on the "water wagon," through national prohibition, a war measure, say to thank you, not any more just now, two is a great plenty—good night!

Wynand Wichers, cashier of the First State Bank, was elected for member of the Board of Education by the largest majority ever received by a member, receiving an even 800. George Mool was second with 576; Dr. A. Leenhouts, 3rd, 571. The total vote cast was 902. Wichers receiving all but 102.

The Klondike brought eighty passengers and some imported beer to the Fourth of July doings at New Richmond. In the afternoon the boat took an excursion to Red Banks, and when the boat struck a "snag" the passengers were much frightened until Capt. Heath told them that no harm had been done. Note—That was the time the Kalamazoo river had a boat line and the stream was navigable as far as Allegan. Today with low water and a river filled with dams, steamboating is a thing of the past.

Oscar B. Wilms returned from Saginaw Tuesday evening, where he passed a very successful examination as second class machinist in the U. S. navy. His enlistment is for one year. He was ordered to report at Newport News, Va. Note: Mr. Wilms' enlistment took place during the Spanish-American war. He has done a great deal of traveling during these forty years, however, today, he is taking care of his aged mother, who lives in the old homestead on River Ave. north of Eleventh St. His father was a veteran of the Civil war and was an inventor and manufacturer of spring-tooth harrows and drive well pumps. The building at the rear of the house, recently torn down, was the home of one of Holland's early day manufacturing plants.

Eels Planted In Black Lake Many Years Ago

This Story About Eels in Michigan Waters Shows Strange Wanderings of "Snakelike" Fish

At least 50 years ago the writer remembers that a large number of eels were planted in the waters of Black Lake (Lake Macatawa) by Holland sportsmen. The News files repeatedly show where fishermen have brought home an eel and naturally it was the talk of the town and called for a news item.

For the last dozen years no eels have been caught in local waters that the writer can remember. However, before that time catches every summer were frequent. Undoubtedly the planting in Michigan more than a half century ago, as the story states, included a consignment for Black Lake. It is said that eels do not multiply in foreign waters away from their habitat. Possibly that is the reason the planted eel population here has been depleted.

The fact that Holland's streams and lake were once the transplanted home of the eel makes this story even more interesting.

An eel is taken occasionally from Michigan waters. The startled fisherman usually makes haste to get it off his hook and back in the lake or stream. Eels do not command the respect in Michigan that is theirs in European countries where they are considered to be one of the most delicately-flavored of all food fishes.

The fisherman may be startled, according to R. W. Eschmeyer of the Institute for Fisheries Research at Ann Arbor, but he is lacking in respect for the aged. The eel that he catches certainly is nearly 50 years old. Perhaps it is older. Michigan eels have had a strange history. Sixty years ago the Michigan fish commission, precursor of the fish and fisheries division of the state department of conservation, obtained 265,000 young eels from the Hudson river, planting them in 13 southern Michigan counties.

Similar plantings continued through 1891, according to old records, ending with that year. And, according to one who knows his eels, that means the youngest eel still alive in Michigan waters is 46 years old.

Eel generations have peculiar fixations, according to Mr. Eschmeyer. They reverse the salmon's cycle. The salmon, as almost everyone knows, is born in fresh water, matures in the ocean and returns to the stream where he was born to spawn and die. The eel is born in the Atlantic, northeast and north of the West Indies and east of Florida, matures in fresh water which was the habitat of its parents and returns to its birthplace in the Atlantic to complete its life cycle.

European eels are born in an overlapping area off the Florida coast, take three years to make the journey to Europe's streams and lakes. American eels find their way to their parents' habitats in a year.

But the eels planted in Michigan waters have had difficulty in finding their way home. Those placed in land-locked lakes never had a chance. Others, planted in streams, clogged the water wheels of mills back in the 80's and 90's.

A few out of the approximately two million eels that were transferred to Michigan waters may have succeeded in making their way to the Atlantic, with stops at the Hudson river or whichever eastern station their parents had favored.

Most of them died disappointed or found their way into the ice-cold pots of persons who know the European tradition. A few still live.

INDIANS CREDIT Lake Dunes to Giant Turtles

Indian legends include a Paul Bunyanesque story of the origin of the sand dunes of Lake Michigan.

Shortly after gouging its way down over Michigan two large turtles, as tall as a ten-story building, emerged from the big lake near St. Joseph. They found the smooth sandy beach much to their liking and ranged as far south as New Buffalo in search of food.

The swale near New Buffalo was the place they turned around on the south end of their trip and the Grand Mere just below the House of David was the turntable for the other end.

They mated and buried their eggs in the warm sand to hatch. When they returned they discovered that the nest had been broken into and the eggs eaten by bears. The next nest of eggs they buried under a great mound of sand, the first dune, and then surveying their handiwork, decided that the pile of sand would certainly lead any marauders right to the eggs. So they built several decoy mounds.

As time went on their offspring built more and more mounds to hide their eggs, and so the dunes from the Indiana line up north to Saugatuck, Macatawa, Port Sheldon and upon to the Straits came into being.

But food became more and more scarce and the turtles became smaller and smaller, until now the land turtle is seldom any larger than a tortoise.

In support of the Indian legend was the discovery near St. Joseph, little more than a hundred years ago, of a turtle shell measuring 14 feet long and 12 feet across. Inside the shell was the skeleton of a human.

FORMER MAYOR STEPHAN HAS QUITE A KEEPSAKE

Mr. E. P. Stephan, former mayor, has a keepsake that he prizes highly. It is the menu of a dining car used on April 15, 1922. "Abe" was then still in the furniture game, and did considerable traveling about the country; and as all travelers must eat on extended journeys, he availed himself of the dining service on the train.

When he entered the car, he was very much surprised to see the late William Jennings Bryan, the "great commoner," nominee for president on the Democratic ticket, and lecturer, on the train. He was sitting alone and Mr. Stephan introduced himself and spoke of the many times he had met him in Holland during his political campaigns and on the lecture platform. Mr. Bryan immediately asked about Mr. George P. Hummer of the West Michigan Furniture Co., who was an intimate friend of Mr. Bryan, and who fostered his campaign for president in Michigan. Mr. Bryan insisted that Mr. Stephan take dinner with him, and he also insisted on paying for it.

The keepsake that Mr. Stephan prizes very much is the menu card. After the meal was over, which the Holland man says was a pleasant one, Mr. Bryan turned over the menu card and wrote in a bold hand the following: "In pleasant remembrance. Yours truly, W. J. Bryan. April 15, 1922."

Pretentious Bath House At Holland Oval

IT IS EXPECTED THOUSANDS WILL BE SPENT FOR MORE RECREATIONAL FEATURES

Prospective Plans Relative to These Improvements Are Stated by State Senator Brooks

According to word received late yesterday from State Sen. Earnest C. Brooks of Holland, who has been in conference with Gov. Murphy and Budget Director Harold Smith at Lansing for some time, approval has been granted by state officials and the state department of conservation to a PWA project to install a new sanitary system and erect a combination toilet and bath house at Holland State Park, at a total cost of $60,500.

The proposed building will be 160 feet by 82 feet, likely of brick construction, and will be of modernistic design. Not only will the building contain men's and women's rest rooms at opposite ends, but it will contain a pavilion 160 feet by 30 feet. A storage room, rooms for park attendants, showers, and men's and women's dressing rooms are also to be included.

A concession stand, 36 feet by 13 feet, will take the place of the present stand. William G. Leenhouts post, No. 6, Holland, American Legion, has sole concession rights at the park.

Estimates on the cost to the state department total $33,275, while the federal government's PWA allocation will be $27,225. Plans for the new park set-up have already been approved, according to Sen. Brooks, and he stated that he believed work on the park project will commence in the immediate future.

Approval of the Holland Park project is the result of a great deal of concentrated effort on the part of local citizens, led by Senator Brooks, State Rep. Nelson A. Miles, and Job Lievekens, head of the Holland Fish and Game club, for the improvement program. More recently, W. H. Loutif of Grand Haven, chairman of the state conservation department commission, had solicited by letter the approval of Gov. Murphy and the legislators on the project. For a time it appeared as though a curtailed budget would not allow funds for the Park improvements, but now the whole matter has been straightened out, and Holland State Park is to have its much-needed improvements.

Simultaneous with the PWA grant here, Sen. Brooks stated that approval has also been given a $53,000 similar project at Grand Haven state park. The state will furnish $39,150 of this amount, while federal agencies will contribute $23,850.

William M. Connelly, manager of the Holland Chamber of Commerce, who has agitated on behalf of the improvement program for a long time, commented yesterday.

"The Chamber of Commerce is very much gratified by a report of the allocation. The customary action is to get all appropriations from the state legislature, but to obtain one through its sessions is somewhat of an unusual occurrence. Coupled with the construction of a new coast guard station, indications are that there will be much building activity at Ottawa beach this fall."

A member of the Park concession control board stated:

"At every meeting of the committee, the question of park improvements has been discussed at length and we have always been on this matter in mind. The board appreciates the splendid cooperation of Senator Brooks, past Legion post commander for his efforts in obtaining projects. The cooperation of the Holland Chamber of Commerce and William M. Connelly also is greatly appreciated by the committee members."

TWO PERSONS IN NORTHERN OTTAWA COMMIT SUICIDE

Sheriff Frank Van Etta charged two suicide cases in northern Ottawa county yesterday. One was Thomas Parmenter of Coopersville, who apparently made great preparations to "end it all." He backed his automobile to the window of his bedroom, attached the garden hose to the exhaust, and thus allowed the carbon monoxide gas to fill the bedroom. His wife thought it was unusual to hear the car running, apparently close to the house, and went outside to investigate, stopped the car, then found the body of her husband in the bedroom. She immediately called Coroner Bloemendal of Grand Haven and Sheriff Van Etta.

A still more gruesome death occurred when Catherine C. Hartman, wife of Peter Hartman, Robinson township, poured kerosene oil all over herself, went to the woods nearby, set fire to her clothing, and she soon was a human torch. She was demented; however, only thought mildly so. Her daughters, having missed her for a couple of hours, went in search of her and found the remains of their mother, who had been burned to a crisp. Coroner Bloemendal pronounced both cases suicide, and Sheriff Van Etta investigated both cases; however, it was found that there was no foul play, but rather, self-destruction.

Recent visitors at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Strabbing were Prof. and Mrs. Clough and daughter, Doris, of Flushing, N. Y.

Mrs. Ben Ross, accompanied by her niece, Marie Klomparsen, is visiting relatives at Linwood Beach in Bay City.

Mr. George Wiersma, employee of the Douglas Aircraft Co. in California, where he has spent the last six months, has returned to the city with his wife.

Corrigan Discovers Ireland

It was necessary, of course, for the Federal government to make some sort of disciplinary gesture in the case of Douglas G. Corrigan, the young Irishman who defied all prohibitions and grabbed his $900 plane between his knees and flew it without "license" to the Green Isle.

Nothing succeeds or disarms criticism like success, particularly when it is achieved with a grin, and with a solemn avowal from the culprit that it was all a mistake, and that he thought he was going one way when he really was going another and was mightily surprised to arrive where he landed.

It's a grand thing to learn that the lad was received by Premier de Valera and given the freedom of Ireland; and that the American minister invited him to dinner and loaned him a necktie.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served in the club to the immediate families and close friends. Summer flowers were used on the tables.

Allendale is in the center of the farming section of Ottawa county, and this will be largely a farmers' meeting, however, not a few citizens from Holland and Zeeland will be there.

This meeting is being sponsored by the Northeast Ottawa Republican Club, which took the lead here some years ago, but was dormant during the campaign of 1936.

Mr. Kroger, born Jan. 24, 1860, the fourth of a family of eight children, had to share some of the load after failure of his father's dry goods business in the panic of 1873. He became a drug store clerk, but his mother was indignant that her son worked Sunday and commanded that he leave that post. So he turned to farming, stuck it out for a year and a half and then went back to town. He became a coffee and tea salesman, going from door to door, earning $9 a week in commissions in four or five weeks. An offer of management from the owners of a failing store gave opportunity to test his sales theories. Eleven months later the store showed a profit, but the owners would not meet his terms for continued employment. Promptly he and a friend opened a little store of their own. All they had was a smart-appearing horse and delivery wagon.

Two weeks later the horse was killed and the wagon smashed in a crossing accident. Then, one of Kroger's brothers died, and there were heavy funeral expenses to be met. Less than a month later the Ohio river overflowed and flooded the store. Yet by the year's end, the store was prospering, established, with not a debt outstanding. Then Kroger bought out his partner for $1,500, and expansion thereafter was merely the result of the demand for price and quality that the big buyer could enforce.

Mr. Kroger was married twice, first in 1886, to Mary E. Jansen of Newport, Ky. She died in 1899, survived by four daughters and three sons. In 1928 he married Alice F. Maher of Washington.

Founder of Big Food Store System Is Heart Victim

Bernard Henry Kroger, 78, of Cincinnati, Ohio, founder of one of the country's largest grocery chain store systems, died Thursday night from a heart attack in his Cape Cod summer home at Wianno, Mass. He had been in frail health several years. Mr. Kroger started his chain in 1884 with a little store in downtown Cincinnati and errand boy. Scientifically Designed Non-Skid Tread made of tough slow-wearing rubber, assures safer stops and longer non-skid mileage.

It must be followed by work to make Sales.

"It is up to the salesman and business man. With sincere, confident, and continuing effort, it will be a success. Each and everyone must do something about it. In this romance of selling, you personally are the most important person in the world. Everything you buy puts thousands of people to work. Two sales for everyone before, will put everyone unemployed to work."

"From One Salesman to Another" was the title of Mr. Hamlin's discourse. He told of the results of the Crusade held at the Civic auditorium at Grand Rapids two weeks ago. Referring to the Holland breakfast, he stated, "If I were an average Holland citizen with $10 in my pocket, and I knew 1,000 men and women were coming after me to sell me something, I'd head for a cyclone cellar."

"The most important person in this drive is YOU. You individually are important. The burden is fundamentally yours."

In conclusion, Mr. Hamlin explained a plan by which a salesman could get prospects for his product from the person just sold.

In his message Mr. Taliaferro pleaded for a closer relationship between sales and payrolls. He bemoaned the lack of understanding between the average workman and the sales organization. Too often, he stated, the workman conceives of the salesman as a "whisker" man who stays in a good hotel, smokes good cigars—and we have to support 'em. The truth of the matter, he pointed out, is that if it wasn't for the salesmen there would be no product to work on, since the salesman brings the orders for the factory. Three factors must be considered, he stated: the consumer, the employee, and the stockholder, in any corporation-owned project. "A balance in the interests of all three must be maintained."

"At the peak of the depression only ten per cent of the people were out of work," he disclosed, and added, "The close relationship between sales and the job is the important thing."

In his address, Mr. Pauly stressed the retail store's attitude on sales-

Mr. Sligh expressed his thanks to the donors and added, "If I had known this, I wouldn't have been here myself." Mr. Sligh was visibly affected.

In keeping with the true spirit of the occasion, cards were filled out by those attending signifying their intentions of buying certain needed items while the drive is in progress. The crusade locally will conclude Sept. 30.

Why Do Fireflies Flash? See Them Along Black River

Those who are fortunate to be about some warm summer evening may now see the intermittent flashes, like miniature fireflies, of the firely near the swampy places along Black river, Holland, or any low watery place where "cat-tails" grow in abundance.

The firely is really a small beetle of the family Lampyridae. The body of the insect is much softer than is usual with beetles, except in some nearly related families.

Not all species are luminous; those that are have light organs attached to the abdomen. The light-giving substance is called luciferin. The light is produced without heat, as compared to an efficiency of about 35 per cent for the sun, while man's puny efforts rate much lower.

As to the purpose of the light, who can answer? It cannot aid in escaping from enemies, species without lights flourish equally well. It cannot aid in finding a mate; both sexes as well as the eggs and larvae are luminous. Perhaps it may be for self-advertisement like the songs of birds, but the final answer lies within the wisdom of the Great Creator.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

July 24, 1938. Samson—Judges 14:5, 6; 15:11-14; 16:15-21.

Henry Geerlings

It is really quite difficult to rouse much admiration for Samson. He appears like a mere Jewish Hercules, a gigantic development of muscle without any corresponding powers of mind and character.

Any other principle would have made a revelation impossible, for it could never be seen again. If in the childhood of the world He had revealed the finished truths which we learn from the Bible as a whole, He could not have gained His point.

If then we apply this principle to the story of Samson, we are to remember the condition of Israel when he lived. They were a half-civilized nation of mountaineers, a collection of tribes without any central government, scattered along the hills of Palestine.

But to make them realize that in God was their strength, Samson appears to have been raised up. He was consecrated to Jehovah from his birth, and his abstinence from wine and his uncut hair were the signs of his consecration.

But the end was near. He had physical strength, plenty of it, and he had courage, all he needed. But he was not protected by these against the inroads of immoral acts, and it was these that brought him to shame.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Gerding, 422 Maple Ave., announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gerding, to Gerald Klaasen of Detroit, at a dinner party given Tuesday evening at the White House Inn on Lake Macatawa in Miss Gerding's honor.
