Community Chest Gifts at $34,004; Meeting Friday

Community Chest contributions today passed the 81 per cent mark, sending the painted section of the big Red Feather sign up to the $34,004.85 mark. The assigned quota is $41,843.22.

Campaign Manager Donald J. Crawford called attention to the annual meeting of the Community Chest Friday at 4 p.m. in room 205 of the Warm Friend Tavern. Three new directors will be elected for three-year terms. A fourth will be appointed later by the board.

Printed ballots will be circulated containing the names of six nominees. They are Donald J. Crawford, Clarence Jalving, Dr. O. van der Velde, George Heeringa, John Donnelly and Peter Van Iwaarden.

Crawford said any person who has made or pledged a contribution to Community Chest this year may attend the meeting and cast a vote.

Trustees whose terms expire this year are Mrs. J. D. Jencks, Burleigh Patterson, Wilbur Cobb and Herman Vander Maat. Those serving another two years are Robert J. Kouw, Henry Buursma, Rev. Herman Rosenberg and Mrs. John Tiesinga. Serving another year are George Good, O. W. Lowry, Beth Marcus and William P. De Long.

Crawford also announced that the north side suburban group is the second division to pass its quota, collecting almost $200 more than the assigned quota of $1,087.92. The canvass was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Eaton who said a few workers are yet to report. The south side was the first division to pass the quota.

Of the entire quota, more than $31,000 remains in Holland for local use through the various agencies, Crawford pointed out. He said administrative expense is particularly light in Holland. All work is done on a voluntary basis except for one part-time clerk who works at Community Chest headquarters during the campaign.

"If you haven't been contacted for your contribution to Community Chest, just call headquarters at 2856 and we'll arrange to have somebody call at your home," Crawford said.

Zeeland — Campaign Manager Paul Ter Avest today reported Community Chest contributions in Zeeland amounting to $7,219.60, according to figures compiled Tuesday night. This amount is about 12 1/2 per cent short of the goal of $8,250. He urged all solicitors to complete their calls and turn in their reports so that the campaign may be closed officially this week.

Supervisors Omit City News From Publishing List

Board Okays Publishing Proceedings in 4 Papers; Holland Weekly Omitted

Grand Haven (Special)—With one dissenting vote, Ottawa county supervisors Thursday voted that proceedings of the board be published in four newspapers in the county. The Holland Evening Sentinel, Grand Haven Daily Tribune, Coopersville Observer and Zeeland Record. The action omits publication in the Holland City News.

Gerrit Bottema, chairman of the printing and stationery committee, explained that the committee is confronted "with the same old problem of Holland printing the proceedings in its two newspapers, The Sentinel and the City News, and billing the county for both publications, whereas it was previously decided by the board that these proceedings be published in three newspapers at the rate of 75 cents per folio with the exception of the Grand Haven paper which would be paid 75 cents per folio extra for setting the type."

At the time previous action was taken, The Sentinel had a circulation of 9,650, Zeeland, 3,006, Coopersville, 1,815, and Grand Haven, 4,599.

Supervisor John Galien of Holland protested the unfairness of limiting the Holland newspapers to a single publication in view of the fact that the circulation of The Sentinel alone almost equals the total circulation of the other three papers.

When it came to light that the board had paid such a City News bill during the past year, one member suggested it should be taken as a credit on future accounts.

The board approved the report of the taxes and apportionment committee headed by William Koop of Holland. County totals include: real estate, $85,866,456; personal, $20,609,782; county tax, $479,143.07; city tax, $564,002; school tax, $821,454.57.

Holland's figures follow: real estate, $23,315,673; personal, $6,244,508; county tax, $133,020.81; city tax, $359,500; school tax, $240,967.98.

Zeeland city: real estate, $4,493,686; personal, $1,398,915; county tax, $26,516.71; city tax, $46,000; school tax, $44,194.71.

Grand Haven: real estate, $13,245,820; personal, $5,661,404; county tax, $85,082.51; city tax, $158,502; school tax, $136,000.

Holland township: real estate, $7,532,822; personal, $1,426,842; county tax, $40,318.49; school tax, $66,180.69.

Zeeland township: real estate, $2,468,683; personal, $752,770; county tax, $14,496.54; school tax, $22,685.

Olive township: real estate, $1,248,262; personal, $128,682; county tax, $6,196.25; school tax, $10,080.39.

Grand Haven (Special)—A Holland man has been appointed regular deputy sheriff to begin duties Jan. 1, 1952. It was announced today by Sheriff Gerald Vanderbeck.

Lucas has been a special deputy in the Holland area for some time, and has been working with Chief Deputy Clayton Forry.

Lucas' new position was authorized at the October session of the Board of Supervisors, which approved a total outlay of $5,200 per year. This amount includes use of the deputy's own car, and mileage at eight cents per mile.

In revealing the appointment, Undersheriff Harris Neuma said that Lucas will work out of Grand Haven with one of the sheriff's marked cars, equipped with a radio, and the mileage will be turned over to the sheriff.

Allegan Supervisors Hear Nurse Shortage Blamed for Complaints

Dr. A. Peter Brachman, who had been reported by the social welfare board as not fulfilling his duties at the county institution, said that since Oct. 8, he had been visiting the hospital three times a week, as required by the state.

Until that date, he told the supervisors, the social welfare board had approved his plan of visiting the hospital once a week and making extra trips to see new patients and for emergencies.

On Oct. 8, the new agreement was made on word from the state welfare department that the county would lose its state aid unless more physician's care

Speaker Explains Social Security To Exchange Club

Patrick L. Hassett told members of the Holland Exchange club at their regular meeting Monday noon at the Warm Friend Tavern that four out of every five working people are affected by the social security act.

Hassett is in charge of administering the act in seven West Michigan counties, including Holland and vicinity. His headquarters are at Grand Rapids.

The speaker said $7 million is being paid out from his office annually.

Hassett put particular emphasis on the fact that social security is primarily an insurance program, not a relief program. It is a platform on which to build for the future. He said too many people seemed to feel that in accepting social security payments they are accepting charity.

The social security organization is anxious that all who may rightfully claim benefits should receive them.

A representative of the Grand Rapids office is stationed in the Holland post office building each Tuesday from 1 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. to answer any questions regarding individual cases.

Under new provisions, the self-employed now come under this act. There are other important changes. Now one must have worked one-half of the time between Jan. 1, 1951 and his or her 65th birthday. Veterans of World War II are accredited with a wage of $160 per month for each month in service.

Hassett answered many questions directed by Exchange club members during the talk. He was introduced by William Aldrich, club vice president.

Dutch Dominate Play; Smear Scot Homecoming Plans

Alma (Special)—The Hope college football team claimed its second MIAA victory in as many weeks at Alma Saturday afternoon by handing the Alma college Scots a hard-to-take 21-13 defeat.

Long touchdown runs by John Hamilton and Jim Willyard, and a short end zone aerial from Ron Schipper to Fuzz Bauman produced the necessary Dutch points to insure victory.

The loss for Alma was its first in three conference starts, and throws a monkey-wrench into the Scots' hopes for a circuit title.

On top of this, the loss stood out like a sore thumb before about 3,000 Alma friends and alumni, who had returned to the campus for a colorful Homecoming day.

But for Coach Al Vanderbush and the Hope squad, the game came as an important victory on the bumpy road to an MIAA title.

Alma was expected to be about the toughest foe the Dutch would face this year, but the victory Saturday proved the locals need take a back seat to no one in the conference during the remainder of the season.

A slam-bang first quarter produced three touchdowns, two for Hope, with one for Alma sandwiched between.

The first Hope score came early in the first period after the Dutch had backed the Scots into a hole by recovering the fumbled kickoff.

Hope muffed this scoring opportunity by fumbling on the one-yard line shortly after, but Alma had to kick and the punt set up the Hope tally.

Heading into a stiff wind, the ball got only to the Alma 22 before being downed. Schipper completed a fine pass to Willyard on the next play, downed on the Alma four, giving Hope a first down.

Three plays from scrimmage gained nothing against the tight Alma defense but on fourth down Schipper fired a short pass to Bauman in the end zone, who pulled it from two Scot defenders for the score. "Automatic" Bob Prins converted, and the Dutch led, 7-0.

But shortly after, the Scots began to move. Bob Mohre, Scot quarterback, short-stopped a Schipper pass and strooped to his own 41 before being dropped. Two plays later, quarterback Hees Wever rammed to the Hope 44.

Moments after he sliced to the Hope 10, where he finally was stopped by Gene Nyenhuis.

From there, Dub Martin took it over to score for Alma, racing around end behind fine blocking. The kick missed however, and Hope still led, 7-6.

But the Dutch were fired for victory, and three plays after taking the kick, stunned Alma by posting their second tally of the day.

The drive, short and to the point, started with Hamilton taking the kick to the Hope 33 before being downed. Two successive Paw Paw plays, with Zeke Piersma figuring in both, moved Hope to the Alma 41. On those plays, Piersma rammed up center for the initial first down, and took a pass from Schipper for the second.

Schipper then called on Hamilton to crash the line, and once in the Scot secondary, the Dutch fullback couldn't be stopped, going all 41 yards to score. Prins converted, and Hope led, 14-6.

The Dutch threatened again a moment later after Lynn Post fell on a fumble at the Alma 15. Hope got to the Alma eight-yard mark before the first period ended, and looked like a sure bet to tally again.

But the startled Scots rallied, held off the Dutch ground attack, and then intercepted one of Schipper's end zone aeriels to squelch the drive.

Midway in the second quarter Hope thundered downfield toward the Alma end zone again, and only a second goal-line interception saved the Scots from being scored on again.

In the third period, Hope got an insurance tally by use of an aged chestnut. The old "Statue of Liberty" play was called, and Willyard took the ball from Hope's 29, all the way to paydirt.

The play had caught the Alma defenders pouring in on Schipper, the passer, and it left the end wide-open for the Dutch halfback to sweep. His 71-yard run was the cap and climax to the Dutch victory, and put Hope ahead, 21-6.

But while Hope was able to score handily in the period, the Dutch were unable to stop the Scots once they got a drive going. The Scots started late in the third period, came a long way, and used both passes and runs to make short, consistent gains to Hope's goal.

The drive was sparked by 5-foot, 5-inch, 130-pound Larry Park, who shot in and out of the Hope defensive with considerable skill. Twice in the march he accounted for first downs, and alternated between running and serving as a pass target. The score came nearly at the end of the quarter, with Martin sweeping Hope's left end for 10 yards and the TD.

That ended all scoring in the game, with Hope holding doggedly to its eight-point lead through the fourth period. Alma threatened once to the Hope 19, but lost on downs when the Dutch stiffened, and that was the extent of their driving power in the final period.

The end of the game came in fact, with Hope dominating play and threatening to score again, the Dutch holding the ball on Alma's 17 when the whistle ended the game.

Outstanding for Hope were Jim Willyard, Zeke Piersma, and John Hamilton, who shattered the Alma defenses consistently. Ron Schipper ran the game heads-up, and the Dutch never were in serious trouble because of it.

The Dutch offensive line also proved itself nicely, with Schipper getting beautiful protection on passes. Line plays saw the Dutch turn ends, set up holes, and chop down linebackers for the Hope runners.

Jack van der Velde, Bill Bocks, and Gene Nyenhuis all stood out on defense, but the entire Dutch line on defense looked good, for that matter, and contained the Scot attack well.

For Alma, Bob Naru on both defense and offense was topnotch, and though shaken several times during the game, kept going back for more. A husky halfback, the Alma star was all over the field both defensively and offensively. Rich Garrett, Mendell Vaughn and Parks stood out in the Scot backfield. Ends Doyle McIntosh and Jack Nowka worked well.

Next game for Hope is Homecoming at Riverview Park Saturday, Oct. 27, when the Dutch meet De Pauw college of Greencastle, Ind.

Sunday School Lesson

October 28, 1951 The Hebrews in Slavery Exodus 1:7-14

By Henry Geerlings

Two men make a great difference in the affairs of two peoples. A new king means the change of Egypt's policy toward the Hebrews. Joseph among the dead leaves his fellow countrymen unprotected. History seems to have meant nothing to the new ruler. If he read it he read it with no gratitude in his heart of what Joseph had done for his country. Or it may be that he felt that the past had paid its debts and the present had nothing to do with what then was. Or it may be literally true that this new monarch knew nothing about Joseph and cared less. But he did know Joseph's people. They had grown mightily in numbers and in power and possibly in substance. They were strange Jews if they did not. They have genius to get on materially and it is a rare genius.

So the new ruler of Egypt had a problem to face in the people of Joseph. He thought they were becoming a menace. He feared them, not simply by reason of what they were, but also by reason of what they might become. Given numbers, material substance, racial consciousness and they might become an ally of an enemy. They were maintaining their separateness and racial distinctiveness. They showed no disposition to become merged racially with the Egyptians. They were a foreign people in a foreign land. They persisted in keeping intact that racial individuality which has defied through the ages the destroying power of nations.

In these modern days we know something of what it means to deal with those peoples who refuse to drop their racial individuality. Melting pots do not always melt. Some people refuse to be assimilated. The Jews of long ago did down in Egypt. So the new Pharaoh was statesman enough to know the difficulties and possible dangers of such nonassimilability. He was haunted day and night with the fear of what might happen.

Something had to be done. There must be a solution for his great problem. The state must be protected against these dangerous and, as it looked to him, unsympathetic foreigners. He hit upon a plan, but it was a very unwise plan. He thought it embodied the very essence of wisdom. He conceived it to be the last word in statesmanship. But he was thinking as a tyrant and not as one who had a heart for people. He thought just as any man in any age who has great power and does not know how to apply it. He was sure that might makes right. He thought to capture the mind by fettering the body. He was persuaded that if he made slaves he would thus make patriots.

He asked the laah to do for him what patience and kindness and humaneness might have done for him and his nation. His plan did not work. Might never has and it never will in the realm of men's souls. Tyranny may rule with a high hand for a while and get what it wants, but after a while the hand loses its grip. Compulsions must ultimately go down under the regnancy of men's free souls. Never has might secured persistently what it seeks to compel. This is a world in which justice and righteousness may walk with low and heavy feet, but they arrive at last.

Tyrants overlook the fact of the God of justice in the world of men. Pharaohs do not plan with reference to Moses plus God. Tyrants are always nearsighted in the area of human interests and human reactions. They think people over whom they rule are machines or dumb driven cattle that have no rights. You can drive and beat cattle into pens, but you must love and lead people into paths of service and loyalty.

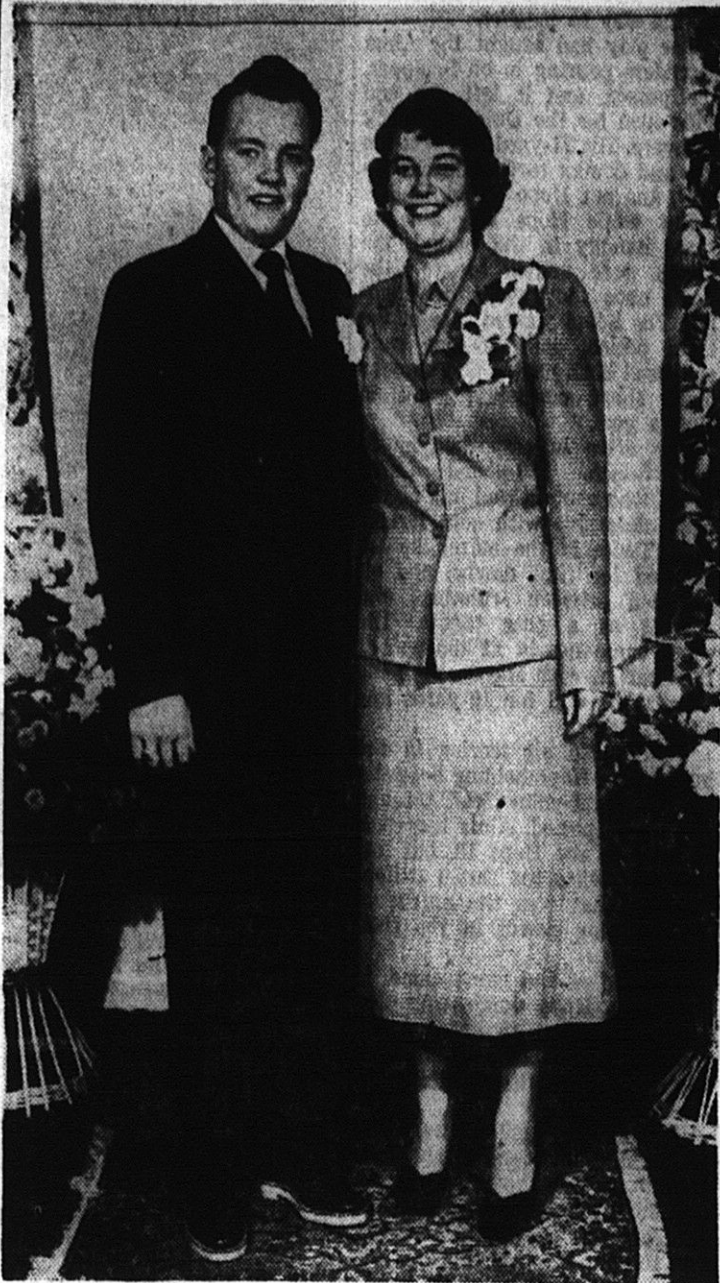

So he more Pharaoh oppressed the less he succeeded. The more he tried to reduce the hated Jew the more he grew. The more he tried to destroy his soul the more the Hebrew found it. Oppression works toward freedom. Tyranny gives birth to revolution. Slavery awakens the soul of men to a sense of his own rights and stings the spirit to cry to the God of justice and mercy. Man will be free and he cannot be enslaved permanently. And this is true no matter what the form of slavery is. He was made for freedom and he cannot be a full grown man until he is a man in freedom. He may grovel and crawl through long and weary ages, but by and by he will find the power of self appreciation coming to birth in his soul. We are a long way in this world from the state of being wherein society is not in the business of oppressing and breaking backs and hearts.

Israel's suffering was intense. Added demands were made and more work was required under less favorable conditions. But the people worked on through suffering. There seemed to be no thought of an uprising among them, but all the days of their slavery were days of increasing strength. The description of their severe tasks proves their arduous labors must have brought them intense suffering. No matter what was the work laid on Israel it was made as difficult as the cruel ingenuity of the Egyptian officers could plan.

Allegan Forest Is Busy Place

Allegan (Special)—Between the waterfowl and small game hunters, archers out for deer, and the color tourists, Allegan state forest was a lively spot last weekend.

Activity began early around Swan Creek Experimental station where goose hunters arrived as early as 7 p.m. Saturday for high banks permits for Sunday morning.

Biologist Clayton Douville said nine or 10 men slept the night on the ground near the permit station, and another hunter brought in a small buck he had converted into a pousscar.

The 140 daily quota was filled and hunters turned away Saturday through Monday, with a total of 105 geese downed from the high banks. Hunting was also reported heavy in the Fennville feeding grounds area.

Fans Await Lone Week-End Contest

Two Southwestern conference football games are scheduled Friday night, with Holland playing at Kalamazoo, and Muskegon Heights playing at Benton Harbor.

Both games can be considered close, although Kalamazoo is rated a slight edge over Holland, and Benton Harbor may shave Muskegon Heights. But with the present disrupted state of the conference, where upsets have been the order of the day, any team is liable to win.

Muskegon plays at non-conference Battle Creek Friday night, and Grand Haven has an open date.

In the MIAA, Hillsdale will be at Kalamazoo Saturday night for the Kalamazoo Homecoming, Alma plays at Ferris Institute Saturday night, Albion travels to Adrian, and Hope meets DePauw, both Saturday afternoon games.

North Dakota Man Hurlled Through Windshield of Car

Fatal Car-Semi Wreck Occurs Early Saturday At 32nd St., US-31

One U. S. Army man from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., was killed and another was injured in a car-truck accident here Saturday on US-31 at the south entrance to Holland.

Louis A. Simonson, 33, of Fessenden, N. D., was killed instantly when he was hurled through the windshield of a car driven by his Army buddy, Kenneth L. Anderson, 23, route 2, Tustin. Anderson received a broken right wrist and head injuries and was taken to Holland hospital. His condition later Saturday was reported as "fairly good."

City police said the northbound Anderson car missed the curve onto Michigan Ave. at the 32nd St. entrance to the city and crashed head-on into a southbound semi driven by Robert Hahn, 30, of 1803 Wabash Ave., Chicago. The truck was in the process of rounding the curve and Hahn swerved to the left in an effort to avoid the crash. He was not injured but was severely shaken. Brake marks of the truck measured 37 1/2 feet.

The car was totally demolished. The truck was badly damaged on the right front. The truck, loaded with apples, was owned by the B and W Produce of Kansas City, Kans., operated by the driver and brother.

Coroner Gilbert Vande Water said Simonson received two broken legs and a skull fracture.

Police listed as witness Henry Kingma, of 1507 Calvin Ave., Grand Rapids, who was a block behind the car.

Police Chief Van Hoff said the fatality is the second for Holland city this year. The first, a pedestrian fatality, occurred last January 12.

According to papers on the person of the victim, he had been discharged from the Army following World War II and had re-enlisted last May 1 for three years. His rank was believed to be that of a sergeant.

Women Urged to Action At AAUW Area Meeting

A broad program of social studies with emphasis on community needs was outlined Thursday night for members of Holland branch, American Association of University Women, and their guests at an area meeting in the Juliana room of Durfee hall on Hope college campus. The speaker was Mrs. John Hornbeck, registrar and director of admissions at Kalamazoo college and former state AAUW president.

Mrs. Hornbeck called upon AAUW women to assume responsibility in the field of social studies. She pointed out the importance of home and family living, citizenship, health and welfare, women in the armed forces, production, education and leisure, education and economics, as needing to be studied by women who are to assume leadership.

Last year 77 projects relating to the community and its welfare were undertaken by AAUW branches in Michigan. Mrs. Hornbeck pointed out. She urged each branch to think of its own community needs. Decide first on the needs, then get actual facts, and interpret those facts in relation to the particular community, she advised.

The social studies program is an important feature of the national AAUW outline of activity, and is being discussed this week in four AAUW area meetings in Michigan. Branches represented at the Holland meeting were Grand Rapids, Muskegon, South Haven, Twin Cities, Three Rivers, Kalamazoo, and Holland.

Covers were laid for 82 at the dinner which preceded the program. Mrs. Henry Steffens, local branch president, presided and Prof. Laura A. Boyd gave the invocation. Mrs. Clyde Caldwell of Kalamazoo, past state president, introduced the speaker.

3 Local Soldiers Return to States

Grand Haven (Special) — Fay R. Freeman, 24, Spring Lake, was sentenced to serve two to three years in Southern Michigan prison Monday afternoon when he appeared before Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith for a hearing on revocation of his probation.

He had been placed on probation for two years Nov. 2, 1950, on a non-support charge of his wife and minor child. He was brought to Grand Haven from Kitchener, Ontario, on a bench warrant charging him with violating his probation.

Freeman has several counts against him. About Aug. 1 this year he allegedly represented to the Holland Loan association in Grand Haven that he was the unencumbered owner of a flat rack trailer and received $300 credit. Slightly earlier he falsely pretended to own a truck to obtain $500 from the Spring Lake State bank, and also issued various checks in Michigan without sufficient funds in this account.

He also was said to have left Michigan without permission or consent of the court. He failed to report to his probation officer and did not pay $3 oversight fees monthly.

The petition signed by Probation Officer Jack Spangler further stated Freeman had not kept steadily employed and had not abstained from the use of intoxicants.

Seventeen per cent of all the trucks in the United States are owned by trucking companies.

YOU CAN'T BURN Leaves on Street

Allegan (Special)—In his zest for fall yard-cleaning, James Tansky said he completely forgot the 1947 ordinance prohibiting burning anything on Allegan's paved streets.

Pleading guilty to burning leaves on the new blacktop pavement in front of his Marshall street home, Tansky was ordered by Municipal Judge Ervin Andrews to wait for the news on the cost and fine. City Manager Philip Beauvais estimates it will cost at least $100 to replace the 30 to 40 square yards of pavement ruined by the fire. Tansky must make restitution to the city for the repair job, Andrews said.

Officials said the case should be a warning to others who may have ignored the state law forbidding burning on state trunklines, and local ordinances prohibiting dumping and burning anything on paved streets.

YOU CAN'T BURN Leaves on Street

Allegan (Special)—In his zest for fall yard-cleaning, James Tansky said he completely forgot the 1947 ordinance prohibiting burning anything on Allegan's paved streets.

Pleading guilty to burning leaves on the new blacktop pavement in front of his Marshall street home, Tansky was ordered by Municipal Judge Ervin Andrews to wait for the news on the cost and fine. City Manager Philip Beauvais estimates it will cost at least $100 to replace the 30 to 40 square yards of pavement ruined by the fire. Tansky must make restitution to the city for the repair job, Andrews said.

Officials said the case should be a warning to others who may have ignored the state law forbidding burning on state trunklines, and local ordinances prohibiting dumping and burning anything on paved streets.

Final Second TD Gives Local Squad First Win of Year

St. Joseph (Special)—A story-book finish to a zany ball game at Dickinson stadium Friday night saw the Holland high football unit come from behind in the final second of play to take its first victory of the season, a 13-12 thriller.

The winning play started with only a second remaining. Holland had the ball on the St. Joe one-yard line, but trailed 12-7, and it looked like a certain victory for the Bears.

But quarterback Terry Burns called a sneak, and as soon as the official's whistle blew time in, the ball was snapped. The Dutch wall surged forward, and might have put it across, but suddenly the ball squirted out of the tangle of players and bounced along the goal line. Tom Maentz dove for it just over the line and recovered to give Holland the touchdown and the victory.

St. Joe defenders, cheated of what had looked a sure victory, seemed stunned after the play, and hardly made an effort to halt Frank Van Dyke's try for the extra point. It wasn't good anyway, but the Dutch were too elated to care.

Add to this the fact that St. Joe had the ball with a first down when only one minute 16 seconds remained in the game. The Bears ran the ball into the line for three slow plays, and then with 11 seconds remaining, elected to punt on fourth down. The punter fumbled, and then his kick was partially blocked and recovered on the St. Joe one-yard line by two Bears, making it Holland's ball.

But the clock ticked away, and actually reached zero before the officials signaled time out, called by Holland. So the clock was backed up to one second, and the Dutch began their game-winning play.

Holland could have won—and according to Coach Bob Stupka, should have won—with ease, but three bandits named fumbles, interceptions, and penalties nearly robbed the Dutch of the victory.

Holland was charged with 130 yards in penalties, 10-yards more than St. Joe made all night rushing; passed for as many St. Joe interceptions as the Bears completed in passes themselves; and handed over the ball via the fumble route three times when deep in Bear territory.

The Bears set up their second TD by intercepting a Holland pass and returning it to the Dutch 27, early in the third period.

Then St. Joe smacked down to the 16 for a first down on the first line play, with Jack Kemper finally stopping the ball-carrier. But here the Dutch held the Bears to a scant six yards during the next four downs and would have taken the ball on the Holland 10, but for a fourth down rousing penalty that gave the Bears a first down on the Dutch one-yard mark.

Then it was Holland's turn to gain ground. The next play moved the ball to the Holland six, with a backfield penalty against the Bears. The next play moved the ball to the Holland 11, the Bear backfield again in motion.

On the next play, Gersonde completed a pass to halfback Wayne Shell, who was hit by Terry Burns and fumbled. Burns picked up the fumble and began to run, but himself fumbled, and Shell recovered the second fumble for the Bears on the Holland 10.

The next play found the Bears again facing a penalty, but Holland declined, and the ball remained on the Dutch 10. That finally made it fourth down, 10, and both sides, as well as several thousand fans, were near nervous wrecks.

Then, and almost as an anticlimax, Gersonde lobbed an aerial to Shell in the Dutch end zone and that was the score.

Holland scored first in the game, and rambled over the Bear defenders with such ease that, briefly, it looked like the Dutch would repeat the 53-0 shellacking handed St. Joe last year.

It took Holland only five plays to return the St. Joe kick for a score in 24 minutes of the first period. The drive was sparked by two key passes. The first saw Burns standing on his own 20, flip Maentz on the St. Joe 33, and he then ran to the 22 before being downed. On the second pass, Burns chucked a fine pass to Van Dyke on the three-yard mark and he zipped across with the score. Arenas ran the line for what proved to be the winning point, going off-tackle into the end zone.

But St. Joe roared back and in a period marked by fumbles and interceptions, kept the play in Holland territory most of the time.

With about 3 minutes remaining in the period, St. Joe recovered a Holland fumble, and after two ground plays, the Bears passed. Shell completing to Tom Kuschel, right end, on the Dutch three. From here, Shell drove over for the TD, and when the kick missed, Holland still led, 7-6.

That ended all scoring until the third-quarter fantasy series that gave the Bears their second TD, and the fourth-quarter fumble and flop series that gave the Dutch the game.

The second quarter was nearly relaxing compared to the tempo of the remainder of the game. There were no touchdowns, no fumbles, and only three interceptions.

One of the interceptions was made by Dan Hazebrook, Holland guard, who again played a terrific game all evening. Hazebrook took a partially blocked pass that bobbed in his direction and then

WILL MAKE JOB RIGHT

George Jackson points to an illustration of an atom bomb explosion similar to one he witnessed at the Bikini tests back in 1946. At present an employe of the local radio station, Jackson was one of 168 correspondents who covered the tests more than five years ago. "The destruction was terrible," he recalls. (Sentinel photo)

Holland Man Witnessed Bikini Atom Bomb Test

With a lot of attention again focused on the atomic bomb, there is one Holland man who vividly recalls his experiences in covering the Atom bomb tests at Bikini back in 1946.

George Jackson, at present employed by radio station WHTC, was one of 168 correspondents who covered operations at Bikini in the Able day test at 8 a.m. June 30, 1946. At that time he represented the Indiana Association of Broadcasters and the Terre Haute Tribune.

"It looked like a California sunset magnified more than 100 times," Jackson said of the explosion. All correspondents wore special glasses but cameramen could not have that protection. None suffered ill effects.

Jackson came to Holland a few months ago from Grand Rapids. Previously he worked many years in Terre Haute, Ind. Both he and his wife, Mary Josephine, are natives of Terre Haute. They now make their home in the Temple building. George has spent about 20 years in radio work and before that four years with newspapers.

"We didn't know just what to expect from the explosion," he recalls. "Our ship, the Appalachian, was 18 miles away, but we were warned about tidal waves and lots of other things. None of these materialized, but the destruction in the bombing area was terrific," he said.

He explained that the bomb was dropped from an altitude of five miles from a B-29 named "Dave's Dream." It fell short of the target ship, Nevada, but the damage to the ship and to the other 80 ships in the target area was un- Some were killed, many survived and some died later. Records were carefully kept on all developments. Many of the ships had pigs, goats and other livestock. All inhabitants of Bikini atoll, a remote spot in the Marshall islands, had been removed.

When the 168 correspondents embarked from the west coast, they had a wonderful time and were treated like celebrities in Honolulu, but after that the briefing sessions set in and correspondents had grueling classes mornings, afternoons and far into the night. After the Able day test in which a bomb was exploded in the air, Jackson returned to this country aboard a C-47. During his 28 days away, he covered 8,500 miles.

A second test, known as the Baker day test in which a bomb was exploded under water, took place a month after the Able day test.

Jackson said the entire operation, known as Atomic Bomb Test, Joint Task Force I, was in charge of Vice Admiral William Blandy whose ship was only 12 miles away from the target area.

Twelve foreign correspondents including one from Russia were among the 168 correspondents, Jackson said. He particularly remembers Bob Considine, author of Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo; Bill Downs, CBS correspondent; George Thomas Folster of NBC, and Howard Blakesley, science writer of the New York Times. All writers filed at least one story a day.

"What we saw aboard those bombed ships afterwards was terrible. Let's hope we never have to use atomic bombs again," Jackson said.

Christian Group Is Reorganized Under New Name

The Christian Businessmen's committee, organized about a year ago, has been reorganized and renamed the Men's Christian Fellowship, Gilbert Van Wyne, chairman, announced today.

Aims of the organization are the same as before, but the name was changed so that it would be open to all men, not only those in the business world.

A constitution has been adopted stating the aim and purpose of the Fellowship as "to foster, promote and encourage all phases of evangelism, seek to stimulate a more active and effective effort on the part of members to win others to Christ, and to develop among Christian men, regardless of denomination, a greater Christian friendship and fellowship."

Present officers will continue in office. The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 13 at which 18 names will be submitted as nominations for the nine directors who will be elected Nov. 27. The annual business meeting will be Dec. 11.

The organization is a layman's group. Clergymen are invited to membership but cannot hold office. A membership campaign is planned, and the organization expects to continue its dinner meetings every other week at 6:45 p.m. in the Warm Friend Tavern. All men interested in the work may attend.

Present officers are Van Wyne, chairman; Tony Last, vice chairman; Jack Van Hoff, secretary; Tom Venhuizen, treasurer. New Directors will have staggered terms so that eventually the board will rotate on a three-year basis.

The organization conducts the evening worship every third Sunday at the City Mission. Plans are under way to enlarge its project to serve as "big brothers" to problem boys and girls. Earlier this year, the group sponsored a meeting with Bob Pierce as speaker.

Angry Bickering At Swan Creek Ends in Arrest

Goose Hunters Engage In Many Arguments And Some Fistfights

Allegan (Special)—Angry quarrels over who shot which goose at the Swan Creek high banks flared into serious trouble Tuesday when one man was arrested and at least three fistfights were reported.

Boyd Veenkant, 34, Allegan, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon when he was brought into court late Tuesday. He was arrested by conservation officers after Obie Harden, Kalamazoo, claimed Veenkant threatened him with his shotgun when the Kalamazoo man tried to pick up a goose he believed he had just shot.

Veenkant was released on $200 bond and will be tried in Municipal Court Nov. 6.

The case brought to a climax the bickering over geese that has prevailed lately at the popular hunting rendezvous, Sheriff Louis Johnson said.

"It has gotten so that it's more important to be a sprinter than a marksman," remarked Johnson, who enjoys a little goose hunting himself occasionally.

Since a flight of geese causes a barrage from the high banks zone of 140 hunters, there's room for plenty of dispute sometimes as to just whose bullet found a particular goose.

But the sheriff deplored the un-sportsmanlike "game hogs" who scavenge the back lines of the high banks to pick up fallen birds.

"Some don't even carry a gun," he exclaimed.

"When a hunter comes along to pick up his game, he's often challenged by another hunter or a hog," Johnson said.

He was told another argument Tuesday had resulted on one man's losing some front teeth when he was struck by a gun barrel but no names were reported.

Other fights were said to have occurred during the last few days.

Once last year a goose was literally torn apart by two hunters with the mutual idea each had had a lucky shot.

If the wings of a goose are broken by the shot, the bird is apt to come straight down and there's seldom trouble. But when the fowl is wounded it may sail for some distance and some have been known to fall dead miles away after being hit in the Swan Creek firing line.

Crumbling Bridge At Eastmanville Gets Face Lifting

Eastmanville — Work is progressing on repairing the crumbling piers of the 34-year-old bridge across Grand river here, but the repair job is much more complicated than inspectors first believed.

A crew of Intrusion-Prepakt, Inc., Chicago branch, has been reinforcing the piers which have been deteriorating at and below the water line. This is done mainly by putting wooden forms around the damaged parts and injecting a mixture of cement and rock. But further inspection revealed the inside of the piers are honeycombed and crumbling, and the crew now is drilling holes and forcing cement into the big piers in an effort to solidify the interior. In some cases, the deterioration was so bad that water and mud spurted 10 feet out of the opposite side when pressure was applied to shoot down cement.

"It's a wonder the bridge has held together the years," a group of Ottawa county supervisors said when they stopped at the bridge in a driving rain Tuesday.

The men were members of the good roads committee of the Ottawa board and they were making a tour of roads throughout the country when they included a stop at the bridge.

For the first time they were aware of the true danger that confronts users of the bridge. They followed workmen along the narrow catwalk on water level, saw the crumbling piers and talked with the diver who does the underwater work. The river is 16 feet deep in some places.

For the last few weeks, the crew has been working on the three piers at the south end of the bridge. Pier No. 4 has been repaired and piers 3 and 5 are expected to be completed next week. Only last week, it was discovered Pier 1, the pier closest to the north approach was in equally bad condition, but the crew is prepared to repair it, although the procedure may be different because of cold weather coming on.

Pier No. 2 is a large round pier containing the mechanism for the swing bridge. The swing apparatus has not been used for years. Pier 2 also is damaged by deterioration, but it was believed repairs will not be extensive.

Elmo Dotson of the Chicago branch of Intrusion-Prepakt is job superintendent for the repair job and Carl Hoglund of the Ottawa County Road commission was appointed by County Engineer Carl T. Bowen as county inspector on the bridge job.

The bridge was built by the state of Michigan in 1917. It was not built with steel reinforcement, workers noted.

Local Man Appeals Probate Order

Grand Haven (Special)—Judge Raymond L. Smith Tuesday afternoon heard the appeal case of Arthur C. Yost of Holland from an order issued by the Ottawa county Probate Court Oct. 6, 1950, allowing the final account of the administrator in the estate of Wendell A. R. Buss. M. Everett Dick is the surviving administrator. The co-administrator, Charles H. McBride, is deceased.

Yost alleges that the order fails to recognize his right as assignee of Hadley N. Buss to have assets of the estate assigned to him, and that the order attempts to close an estate before accounts have been examined by an estate tax officer, and that the order, in effect, approves purchase by the administrator of a substantial part of the estate assets.

Objections filed by Yost cited that a pledge agreement concerning 4641 shares of common stock of the Buss Machine Works had never been appraised, sold or disposed of by a court order and should be listed as an asset of the estate and accounted for, and that real estate listed in the final account had never been properly appraised or disposed of as required by law.

He also charged that the final account fails to disclose profits the administrator made by his services of transfers which resulted in his ownership of all the stock of the Buss Machine Works, together with Eldon Dick and Emerson T. Cameron.

Attorneys are to file briefs in the case, which will take about three weeks, after which the court will render its decision.

GRANDSTANDING...

By Dick Millman A 15-game basketball schedule for 1951-52 for Holland high school has been announced by J. W. Moran, director of athletics.

The season will open Nov. 30 against Grand Rapids-Ottawa Hills, and close March 4 against the same team. Seven games are away, and eight at home.

Fred Weiss will be back at the helm of the Dutch cage squad, with Bob Connell handling the reserves and Carroll Norlin and Jack Rombouts in charge of junior high ball.

Besides all five Southwestern conference foes, Holland will meet the same three outside teams as last year. Two games will be played with Ottawa Hills and Grand Rapids Central, and one with Lansing Sexton.

The complete schedule: Nov. 30, Ottawa, there; Dec. 7, Benton Harbor, there; Dec. 13, Grand Haven, there; Dec. 21, Central, here; Jan. 4, Kalamazoo, there; Jan. 11, Muskegon Heights, here; Jan. 18, Muskegon, here; Jan. 22, Sexton, here; Jan. 25, Benton Harbor, there; Feb. 1, Grand Haven, here; Feb. 8, Kalamazoo, here; Feb. 15, Muskegon Heights, there; Feb. 22, Muskegon, there; Feb. 26, Central, there; March 4, Ottawa, here.

Principal J. J. Riemersma and Athletic Director Joe Moran represented Holland at a meeting of what used to be the Big Seven high school league the other night at Dowagiac.

The meeting was called to decide what the loop will do, now that it has been whittled down to four schools—Dowagiac, Buchanan, Niles and St. Joe. Three other teams—South Haven, Kalamazoo State High and Three Rivers—formally resigned at the session to join other leagues.

Holland was invited to the meeting, along with Grand Haven and Benton Harbor. Grand Haven was represented by coach Steve Sluka and faculty manager Ernest Swanson. Benton Harbor did not send a delegate, but a Harroite newspaperman was present.

What went on? Mostly talk. Talk about what the Big Seven will do. Talk about forming a new league. Talk about abandoning the Big Seven. Talk about abandoning the Southwestern conference. Talk about this team joining that league and that team joining this league.

Holland and Grand Haven went to the meeting mostly to hear this talk.

As has been reported, there has been a simmering of comment on Grand Haven leaving the Southwestern conference to find a league more its size. While there has been little agitation along this line concerning Holland, the thought has popped up now and again.

What's going to happen? That's a good question. If Grand Haven decides to leave its present league, Holland probably will follow suit. If these two teams quit, Kalamazoo probably will take up its standing invitation to join the Five-A conference (Battle Creek, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Lansing, Eastern, Lansing Sexton).

If all this happens, Benton Harbor probably will quit what's left of the league, too. And then, Hol-

Allegan Shakes Up Social Welfare Department Setup

Board of Supervisors Decides on Changes At Stormy Session

Allegan (Special) — With one resolution and an election, Allegan county supervisors Friday shook up the county's social welfare department operation and expressed hopes of ending an existing friction between welfare board members.

The resolution ordered the social welfare commission to act as a policy-making board only, with none of its members permitted to do any administrative work.

Arthur W. Hartly, Allegan banker, was elected a member, replacing Ted Hicks, who has served as department director.

The action was not considered an ouster of Hicks, who was indicated as the board's choice for department director, a job now on a "hire and fire" basis at the commission's discretion, with final approval by the supervisors.

Still to be worked out was the position of Leon Godfrey, also a commission member and manager of the county farm. Since he can no longer do both jobs, supervisors expected to ask for his resignation from the board, with the assumption he would be hired as farm manager upon election of a new member.

By its action, the supervisors followed the lead of most other counties in the state, who prohibit welfare board members from taking salaried jobs in the department.

The election followed a stormy session in which both supervisors and the welfare commission deplored the inadequate care given patients at the county hospital by the local physician.

The welfare board was directed to replace the present doctor, who for $150 monthly, is supposed to make three visits per week to the county hospital, examine all new patients, and make emergency visits as needed.

Director Ted Hicks told supervisors that unless a better system of physician's care was established immediately, the county was in danger of losing state aid for social welfare.

License Plates For 1952 Arrive At Local Bureau

Now is the time to start thinking about buying 1952 license plates.

Holland's allotment of 21,400 plates of all classifications have arrived at the license bureau. The 1952 plates are reversed in color for next year. They have black numerals on silver background.

License bureau Manager Al Dyk pointed out that owners of trailers weighing more than 2,500 pounds need both titles and serial numbers for plates this year. If they have no serial number, they must apply for it through the bureau.

A new system of issuing plates will be in effect for 1952, resulting in raised commercial vehicle rates in almost all classifications, although passenger car fees will remain the same.

The new system sets up 16 codes where there used to be five classifications. The old codes were passenger, commercial, trailer, farm trailer and hearse and ambulance.

But the 16 new groups include passenger, house car, trucks, truck and road tractors, passenger carrying vehicles (cabs and buses), hearses and ambulances, moving vans, municipally franchised vehicles (city-owned buses), trailers, low boys or carryalls, farm trailer, farm wagon, trailer coaches, motorcycles, motorbikes and scooters and farm trucks.

Each classification has an upward-sliding fee rate. Plates will go on sale Dec. 1, and must be in use by March 1. One last word from manager Dyk: Start looking for your title. You need it to buy license plates.

Hunting Activity Growing Lighter

Reduced activity on the hunting scene was reported during the week-end in the southern half of Ottawa county.

Conservation Officer Elmer Boerman checked about 30 hunters Sunday in the lower half of the county. Saturday's hunting force was larger, with many in the field.

Boerman pointed out that while only relatively little land is posted against Sunday hunting, the general feeling of the farmer is known and outside hunters "don't bother" to come to Ottawa on Sunday as a rule.

Those hunters who were checked Sunday generally were successful, with either birds or rabbits in the bag, Boerman said.

The officer expects evening hunting and a big day Saturday to take care of most of the field work until the season closes Nov. 5.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

Before the modern novel began its career a couple of centuries ago narratives in what is known as a "frame" were much more popular than they are today. The "frame" of those volumes of narratives has been supplanted by the "plot" of the modern novel.

One of the most familiar "frames" is that of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales." Chaucer imagined a group of 30 pilgrims on their way to a shrine at Canterbury passing the time by telling stories. On that "frame" the poet could string any stories he might wish to tell.

Another "frame" is that of Giovanni Boccaccio's "Decameron." The great Italian story teller imagined a group of people gathered in a country house to escape the plague in the city. To pass the time and escape boredom they tell stories. Again, it was possible for the narrator to string any stories he pleased on his "frame."

There were many other "frames" in older times that story tellers used to give the kind of unity to a volume of tales that "plot" today gives to a novel. The "frame" was in fact one of the elements in the development of the novel form.

Perhaps the most famous "frame" of all time was the one used by the unknown author or authors of "Arabian Nights' Entertainment." The book was written in Arabic about 800 years after Christ. It was not until the early eighteenth century that a Frenchman brought the tales to the Western world by translating them into French. Soon they were translated from French into English, and for more than two centuries they have been the delight of children in many lands—to say nothing of grownups, for the book is about as much for them as it is for children.

"Arabian Nights' Entertainment" had perhaps the most dramatic "frame" ever devised by a story teller. The author imagined that a Sultan Schahriar discovered infidelity in his favorite wife.

Many of the tales had life enough so that they have become a part of the folklore of all lands. Nearly every literate person knows by tradition, if not through actual reading, about Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, and about Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp, and about Sindbad the Sailor.

Many generations of children in the western world have been brought up more or less on those Arabian stories and many others. Some of them are almost as well known to the children of the western world as the familiar Bible stories—which are of course also oriental in their inception.

But "Arabian Nights' Entertainment" is not, properly speaking, a children's book, or at least not exclusively so. Any grownup can find in it the wisdom of a mature mind.

Allegan Board Sets Tax Rate

Allegan (Special)—A tax rate of 7.75 mills to raise $503,750 in taxes was formally accepted by Allegan county supervisors Thursday, along with the apportionment among the cities and townships.

Next step is the paring of a tentative $657,000 budget set up last spring to meet the tax revenue figure.

In a move towards keeping an eye on their requests to various county departments to keep strictly within their budgets, the supervisors voted to request a quarterly report of expenditures from each county office from now on.

The resolution followed discussion of the request from the county school board for a transfer of $1,625. Some members pointed out the fund already was overdrawn the original $4,326 appropriation. Action on the transfer was delayed until the board had a report from the school office on its financial situation. The report was requested for this session.

Members of the Ladies Bible class of First Methodist church met in the church parlors Friday evening for their annual fall banquet.

Entertainment included readings by Mrs. Nina Daugherty, chairman of the entertainment committee and a past teacher of the class, Phyllis Ann Dunn and Mrs. H. Ter Haar, and solos by Mrs. J. O. Hagans accompanied by Mrs. R. Mattson.

Included among the out-of-town guests was Mrs. W. F. Kendrick of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Kendrick is a former member of the group. Mrs. H. Damson and Mrs. L. Kennedy served on the reception committee.
