Holland people endorse their claim: Michael Schwarz, retired dairyman, 689 Central Ave., Holland, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with the most satisfactory results. Last fall I caught a severe cold which settled in my kidneys. I thought little of it at first but it soon grew worse and I became annoyed with dull, heavy pains across my back and loins. I could not bend or lift anything without suffering misery and my condition gradually grew worse. I was telling a neighbor of my trouble and he advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at Doesburgs drug store and after using them only a short time felt greatly relieved. I continued taking them and when I had used the contents of half a box, my backache and the accompanying symptoms of kidney trouble had disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I give them my hearty endorsement."

Gov. Warner in Holland.

Greeted by a crowd of warm personal friends, enthusiastic admirers, farmers, professional and business men, factory men and not a few women, Gov. Fred M. Warner, gave a short heart-to-heart talk on state issues, and reasons why he was again making the run for chief executive of the Wolverine State, at the corner of Central avenue and Eighth street about 11 o'clock Monday morning.

As he had been delayed some 45 minutes in coming from Saugatuck, Gov. Warner did not stay more than a minute after finishing his talk here but quickly entered a waiting auto and with Cong. Dikema, Speaker N. J. Whelan and Jack Worthington of the Grand Rapids Herald, was hurried on his way to Zeeland where he was scheduled to make his second address of the morning.

The early morning trip to Saugatuck was an added date and while not down on the official program met with big success as a campaign boomer for the governor.

Accompanying Gov. Warner, when he stepped from the car were Cong. Dikema, Lieut-Gov. Patrick Kelley, Pres. Kollen, Editor Hawk of the Saugatuck Commercial-Record and "Jack" Worthington.

No time was lost in starting the ball a rolling and in a stirring tribute to our governor, in which he declared it an honor for Holland to greet great men, Henry Geerlings, introduced Gov. Warner.

"I appreciate this turn-out" said the governor, "and I consider it a privilege to mingle with the people. In this way the state's chief executive may learn of his state and the views of its people. I certainly think it no harm to learn the desires of the people for such should be acted on."

Gov. Warner then touched for a few minutes on the primary reform law; explaining the new law as compared against the old one. He referred to the benefits to be derived through this method over the old corrupt convention way. He said in this way only could the people express their desires. To the railroads he blamed the failure of the legislature to eliminate the 40 per cent clause in the new primary law. He said this was to defeat the workings Gov. Warner then introduced Lieut-Governor Kelley who proved to be a forceful, intelligent and entertaining speaker. He spoke of the governor's coming to Holland in a broader sense than as on a campaign. He spoke of him as the governor of both the republicans and the democrats and said that he doubted not that there were friendly democrats in the crowd.

He said that he never tried to convey the idea as some republicans do, that the republican party never made mistakes and that the democratic party made all of them.

"We all make mistakes" said Mr. Kelley, "the only man who never makes mistakes is a dead man. He manages to get along from day to day very nicely without causing any trouble."

Lieut-Gov. Kelley talked both in humorous and serious vein for some minutes and had the crowd with him to the end. He then joined the governor in Zeeland.

Forward Movement.

Saugatuck, July 13.—The summer outings under the auspices of the forward movement of the Forward Movement Settlement house in Chicago has begun under the most favorable conditions. Already 50 children have taken lodgings at the Swift villa and will spend a month in the clear, pure air so different from that surrounding their homes in the poor districts of the western metropolis.

The following three great educational movements that are a special feature of the plan made by Dr. George W. Gray for this season have been put into motion since the Fourth. The school for the scientific study of nature, conducted by Prof. E. G. Howe of the Chicago high schools; a model farm for the education of the boys and girls sent out from the settlement houses; and the Forward Movement school of interpretation and physical culture under Miss Cora Mel Patton, of Chicago are all prepared to entertain numberless and grown ups this summer.

About 60 children crossed the lake last week and enjoyed the outing. These children were all from the O'Fallon school for crippled children and were under the direct charge of Miss Florence E. Prouty. Dr. J. B. McFatrach has added materially to the conveniences of the Vesta Putnam school. The 60 children are eating sleeping and playing in their own cottages in a valley adjoining the Forward movement tents and there are cottages for the guests to be sent out by various charities who have accepted invitations to send their beneficiaries here.

Swift Villa has been enlarged so that 200 children can now be fed in the spacious dining hall. A system of sewerage is being laid and other improvements are under way.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRAXAN
Democratic Nominee for President of the United States

Last summer there were over 1,000 children entertained there during the summer, and this season bids fair to far exceed that of last year.

Two hundred enthusiastic Christian Endeavorers, representing the societies of Hope, Third and First Reformed churches of this city and the First and Second Reformed churches of Zeeland, gathered in Hope church last evening for an inspiration meeting, the outcome of which was the organization of a C. E. Union embracing the five societies.

The meeting opened with a song service and Rev. H. J. Veldman of this city read the scriptures and offered prayer. Interesting addresses were made by Rev. M. Kolyn of Grand Rapids and Harold Spicer, State secretary of the C. E. association.

A constitution prepared by a local committee was read and accepted and the following officers were elected: president, James Veneklassen, Zeeland; vice-president, Peter Notler, Holland; recording secretary, W. Wichers, Zeeland; corresponding secretary, Henry Vander Ploeg, Holland; treasurer, Mae Brusse, Holland.

The Union will meet every three months in the various churches represented, the next meeting to be held in the First Reformed church of this city. A special car brought the Zeeland delegates who carried banners and wore badges. A quartet composed of James Veneklassen, Bernard De Vries, C. Muste and James Dykema rendered a pleasing selection.

Holland Horses Go Some.

Neil Ball, the pacer, not he of baseball fame, but withal as great a favorite with lovers of the speed-way as the original Neil is to devotees of the diamond, driven by Johnny Boone in the 2:15 pace in the Short Ship meet at Port Huron the other day got under the wire second in the first heat and finished with third money.

Boone say Jesse James, Neil Ball and Casper Belt's Sadie Brooks are getting better as the season ripens and is confident of landing several firsts before the end of the Short Ship schedule. In that strong campaigner, Jesse James, Mr. Boone is laying great store on winning out over some of the fastest steppers in the meet. Jesse James is entered in the $2,000 stake at the Grand Circuit meet in Kalamazoo in August. He is a finely built animal, a perfect piece of racing machinery, invariably as strong in the third and fourth heats as in the first eighth.

The short Ship in racing is somewhat like the minor leagues in baseball; oftimes Grand Circuit stars are brought out through fast performances in this class the same as baseball cracks are found in lower class teams.

The name Boone is familiar with every race horse man in the country and both Johnny and Hub are warm favorites on every track. Johnny Boone is known as a square driver, which makes him popular with both drivers, owners, judges, starters and the "ring".

wherever he goes these days none fail to inquire after that king of harness horses, McKinley and his close second, George R. These two grand animals will long live in the annals of race track lore, and 'tis said that neither have seen the last of their fast performances and will yet give creditable performances. With Mr. Boone, the racing season is over for the year about October 1.

To those not versed in racing terms it might be said in explanation of the phrase "Short Ship" that it means track meets in cities situated near each other. In other words it is a short ship from one town to the next stand. These races are also confined to this state while the Grand Circuit takes in almost unlimited territory.

Elect Officers.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Holland Citizens Band Friday night officers were elected for the ensuing year and the invitation to the Lansing band tournament and Musical carnival to be held at Lansing from August 26 to 27 was accepted.

The past year has been most successful for the band both in improvement and financially.

The members of the band are very much interested in the gathering of musicians to be held at the "Capitol City". The gathering will tend to elevate the standard of all bands in Michigan, extend acquaintances and promote a friendly rivalry that must, in the end benefit all participants. Ellis Brooks of Chicago, the well known composer and director, has been secured to judge all contests, and it is assured that every contestant will get a square deal.

Ten prizes have been offered to the contestants, the first prize will be $200 and will graduate down to $30 for the tenth best.

Henry Wilson was elected president; vice-president, and secretary is G. E. Heneveld; treasurer, Henry J. Wickerink; manager, William Vander Hart; director John Van Vyven and Librarian, George W. Moomey.

Beulah Boys.

Hope church was crowded to the doors Tuesday night and many were unable to get in at all when Mr. Hermon L. Swift and his Beulah boys appeared in the interests of the Beulah Home for friendless boys at Boyne City.

The boys gave a two-hour program of songs and recitations which kept their audience interested and amused. The boys are carefully trained and go through their program with an enthusiasm which is refreshing. Master Ernest Gattson is a talented elocutionist possessing not only a fine voice and good articulation but his stage presence and gestures are easy and graceful. The other boys also acquitted themselves most creditably.

After a short talk by Mr. Swift explaining the work of the home a collection was taken of $176 in cash and yearly pledges.

The five boys who appeared last night are typical Beulah home boys, bright-eyed and interesting, redeemed from the slums and given something to live for.

Canning Season.

The canning season proper according to the housewife's calendar practically began about July 1, with the arrival of cucumbers. The canning of small fruit is being done a comparatively small scale this year. The only factory to can berries and cherries in Ottawa county to any extent is the plant located at Drenthe.

Along the latter part of August tomatoes will begin to come in and then the catsup days will be on in earnest. From that time on with the daily arrival of the tree fruits, the canning factory will be busy "putting up" great quantities of peaches, pears, plums and apples.

From all indications the cucumber yield will be good, providing of course there are no heavy rains or cold spells to interfere with proper maturing of the crop.

The Heinz Pickle Co., this spring planted thousands of tomato plants. These plants were later distributed to farmers.

Reports are that the vines have thrived and a first class yield is looked for unless something unlooked for happens. The Heinz Pickle Co., is not putting up any small fruits. The real busy season at the pickle factory will start about August 18.

Youny Lad Drowns.

After having dragged over and over the vicinity where Frank Woolyard the 16-year-old boy who lost his life by drowning on Sunday afternoon while attempting to swim from a launch to a drifting row boat, members of the life saving crew today at 12:45 felt a tell-tale tug in their seine and the signal was passed along that the toll which had commenced to show signs of being without avail, had at last been rewarded and the unfortunate lad's body recovered.

The remains were taken to the Life Saving Station and coroner Mabbs summoned. It was then discovered that as the fatality had occurred in Allegan county's jurisdiction, it might be necessary to call the coroner of that county, although it is plainly a case of accidental drowning and no mystery or crime attached to it.

When found the arms were outstretched above the head and the legs drawn up close to the body, the exact poise of a swimmer about to take a stroke. It is believed that he was seized with cramps and sank without a struggle other than to cry out for help.

Although the dead boy's mother was notified at once, she is to overcome by the shock to leave her home, so an aunt, Mrs. Nora Giles, of Labanon, Ind., and O. B. Stevenson a neighbor, of the sorrowing mother, have come for the body.

The unfortunate lad lost his life in trying to recover a small boat which had blown away from the yacht on which he was employed. He swam until he was exhausted and then drowned.

Woodyard was employed on the yacht of Robert Bowman, the millionaire dairyman of Chicago. The yacht was anchored off the Macatawa park shore, and Woodyard rowed ashore in a small boat and got a can of oil which he was taking back to the yacht. He lifted the can of oil from the light boat, which at once floated away from the side of the larger craft. Woodyard found he could not reach the painter and jumped into the water and swam after it.

The wind and waves carried the small boat from the other rapidly, and twice Woodyard got close enough to touch the boat with the tip of his fingers, but could not get a square hold. He continued after the boat, which was outdistancing him, until he was exhausted and then turned and swam for the yacht.

Bowman who was on the yacht watched the lad as he drew near, then suddenly the watcher was horrified to see Woodyard throw up his hand and call for help and sink. Bowman immediately started the yacht toward the place where the boy sank and dived repeatedly after him, but did not succeed in reaching the boy. The effort was abandoned and the life saving crew notified. They began to drag for the body.

Woodyard hired out in Chicago as a helper on the yacht and this was his first trip. His parents reside in Labanon, Ind.

A sad feature of the drowning is that the boy's mother was to have come here Wednesday to spend the summer.

"No Funds"

One of Holland's aldermen has discovered the highly important fact that there are "no funds." And ever since the discovery he has insisted on making his fellow members cognizant of the fact, until he looms up even in their dreams like the fluter of the well known ditty "with re-iterated tootings of exasperating toots." The "No Funds" bugbear siteth by the wayside, and the alderman in question has built a sign board over it in gilded frame bearing the legend "Beware the Beast!" But commendable as economy is, there is a false economy that defeats its own ends. At the council meeting last Monday night it was proposed by some council members and urgently recommended by the Board of Education to safeguard the health of the children by giving the Maple Grove and Nineteenth street schools adequate sewer connections, since these schools by the way are in a shamefully unsanitary condition. And for this purpose, according to Ald. Prakken, there were no funds. There was not a man in the council room who doubted the necessity of the improvement. And every one of the members knows, or ought to know, that the health of the child should take the precedence of all other considerations in which the people's money is to be spent. And the cry of "No funds" in considering a question of this kind is absurd, and should receive no attention whatever.

Improvements of this nature are imperative and so vital to the city's welfare that they should be made, funds or no funds. If any council member thinks that the people will not back up legislation of this kind, he has mistaken the responsibilities of his office. Bond the city, if necessary, if no other means of securing money are available, and these very children, whose brain and muscle are now being built strong and healthy, will some day shoulder the burden and thank us for the opportunities given them, that they are now too young to appreciate. Anyway, who would think of measuring the health and strength of childhood by money values? No expenditure of this kind is too lavish.

A Man of Fallacy.

Twelve years ago when Mr. Bryan was first nominated the country was surprised by the sudden entrance into active and urgent national politics of a man comparatively unknown and barely of presidential age. The first thing to do was to look up his record. It was brief, and officially confined to four years service in Congress, during which time the one notable incident was a long and elaborate speech in favor of free trade. In his own state Mr. Bryan was closely identified with the Populist movement in fusion with the feeble Democratic party of the Northwestern States, and it was to promote this fusion that he gave his vote in 1892 to Gen. Weaver, the Populist candidate for president. Gen. Weaver is the old greenback leader. In 1896 it was thought expedient by the radical elements with which the Democratic party, in its weakness and unpopularity, had become entangled, to try the free coinage of silver as a half-way house to inflation and complete money debasement. The Populists, though still openly for greenbacks, added their more than a million votes to the Democrats in the fight for free silver and the issue resulted in an exciting campaign and immense total vote.

Mr. Bryan made an untiring canvass, offering financial theories and arguments that time has proved to be entirely wrong. Up and down the country he preached his fallacy. He has been the apostle of fallacy in every important issue that he has adopted. His judgment is fundamentally untrustworthy. In his second race for the presidency, free silver having been defeated and practically shown to be a delusion, was put in the background, and anti-imperialism was declared by the platform to be the paramount issue. The failure was still more emphatic. It was not the opinion of the people that the new possessions acquired in the war with Spain would change the national character by arousing a passion for exploiting and oppressing the inhabitants of the islands added to our territory. Events have shown our policy in this respect to be disinterested and generous. Money raised in the outlying islands is spent there for their own benefit and the national treasury has appropriated much more for the same purpose. The fallacy of 1900 was easier to dispose of than that of 1896. In his second campaign Mr. Bryan carried but four small Northern states, whose combined electoral vote was 13. He was overwhelmed in both the electoral and popular vote.

The heavy defeat of Mr. Parker four years ago, which the veiled hostility of Mr. Bryan greatly emphasized, brought the latter to the front again, and his tour around the world kept him under the limelight. No sooner was Mr. Bryan home from his long journey, than he put before the country a new paramount issue that he had mentally evolved during his absence. It was the public ownership of railroads. This fallacy was repudiated by his own party, especially the Democrats of the South, without its trial at the polls. The party would not stand the proposed government purchase of property valued at $15,000,000,000 and the conversion of 1,500,000 railroad workers into government employes. Mr. Bryan still sticks to free trade, which an increasing number of Englishmen admit is a fallacy. Should a man with such a record of gross errors in public questions be placed at the head of this nation of 85,000,000 people? Mr. Bryan is a citizen of good moral character and a ready orator, but totally unfit, by reason of unsound judgment, to occupy the place he seeks.

A Specimen Industry.

The Denver platform, like all its Democratic predecessors, is against any and all forms of protection. This is emphatically a live matter for the industrial interests of the United States. Some of these, like tin and glass manufactures, have been developed since the last Democratic administration retired. Another example is found in the making of pearl buttons. A few years ago the buttons need in this country came from Austria and Germany, where the wages paid for their production was from 30 to 70 cents a day. The framers of the Dingley law believed that the industry could be beneficially transferred to this country by placing a reasonable protective duty on the buttons, the material for which is abundant in many states. If the American scale of wages could be assured against foreign competition the industry, it was held, would rest on firm ground in our own country.

Results have fully confirmed the idea. During the year 1906, 25,200,000 gross of pearl buttons was made in the United States, representing $5,000,000. American fishermen received $15.35 a ton for 48,000 tons of shells, and uses are found for the by-products. Thousands of persons make a living in this new American business, and improvements have been introduced by which it is likely that our cheapened pearl buttons will become an article of export. But should the protective duty be removed it is clear that operations could not be continued against the scale of foreign wages. Pearl buttons are not bulky freight. Big ships could pour in enough in a single week to swamp the American market. It is strange if workers in this country can not see that the question of protection is a vital one for their rate of wages and opportunities for employment.

President Roosevelt has been offered $1 a word for all he can write, but Bryan will have to content himself with merely the profits of the lecture platform.

Plain enough that the Bryanites at Denver mean to make sure of the cheers that may not be permissible after election.

The explosion of an automobile tire the other day resulted in knocking the owner down and making a deputy sheriff of this county run behind a tree. It is a treacherous machine that smites the hand that feeds it gasoline.

Now is a good time to show your humanity to dumb animals. Be thoughtful of their comfort. Do not overwork or overdrive the horses and mules. Give them frequent opportunity to drink. Move a little slower about the work than you ordinarily do. Attention to these matters will show your good judgment and your concern for their comfort as well as for your own.

To Mr. Bryan's personal record as a sound producer is now added an unrivaled record as a sound evoker. Eighty-eight minutes of cheers may, however, be annulled in eight seconds in the voting booth.

There is no other land in this planet so rich and so productive. We are just beginning to realize our national stature. The country is Taft-like in proportions and is just now finding it out.

Piano Picnic at Jenison

Jenison Park will be the scene of lively doings Saturday. All the employees of the Story and Clark Piano Co. of Grand Haven, together with their wives and children will hold their great annual picnic there. There are nearly 300 employees in all, including the men who run the retail end for the Co., in Chicago who will arrive in Grand Haven on Friday evening. It is estimated that these with their wives and children will make a gathering of about 1000.

For several days preparations have been in progress for the great event. The large freighter Pere Marquette No. 5 of the Crosby line will be used to carry this big piano family from Grand Haven to the picnic grounds. There will be a special band on board to furnish the music and refreshments will be served by the company to the whole crowd on board. The company is determined that every employe shall take in the picnic. They have made a rule that every man who is there and shows he is there by punching the clock in the regular way in the morning, shall receive his wages as though he were working, those who do not shall miss their wages as well as the picnic. There will be ball games, races and other sports at the park and all in all it will be one of the biggest events of its kind of the season.

COMMON COUNCIL
On motion, duly seconded and carried, the amounts of saloon licenses were reconsidered, and for reasons set forth by the respective parties, all licenses fixed heretofore at $75 were reduced to $50, payment to be made one-half down and the other half three months from the first of July, 1873.

Lost—On the 4th inst., John Nies of Saugatuck visited this city, and while here lost his pocket containing one thousand dollars. John was in trouble, he was sure it had been stolen by some of the light fingered gentry. On the evening of the same day two boys saw something in the street and picked it up; it proved to be the stolen pocketbook, with the money in it. John at once relieved our city of the imputation of thieving, and did a "good thing" for the boys. We have received a note from Mr. Nies, who desires to thank the young men for their honesty, and gives us their names as Albert Manting and Jacob Verin. Young men of that stamp are bound to succeed and will become an honor to a community.

We glean from the minutes of the last session of the common council the following transactions: The committee on streets, to whom was referred the petition of Messrs. Pfanstiehl & Griswold and H. Wykhuyzen, reported favorable, and the council concurred therein to let the Messrs. Pfanstiehl & Griswold have the use of 4th street, between River and Lake street for the time of four months, also allowing Mr. Wykhuyzen to put up a sign on the corner of Cedar and Ninth streets. The city attorney requested to be excused from duty for four weeks, which was granted. John Roost being the lowest bidder to furnish the city with the lumber, the contract was awarded to him at the rate of $8 for pine and $6 for hemlock. An ordinance prohibiting too fast driving was introduced, read three times and passed. A resolution was passed instructing the committee on fire department to receive bids for putting down four iron drive well for fire purposes—the different plans and bids to be reported to the council, also to report if the bidders will take the city's bond in payment.

A terrible accident happened to Mr. Gerrit Hesselink, a farmer residing about two miles east of the city, on Thursday afternoon. While working his reaper, he accidentally fell off and got under the machine, terribly bruising and cutting his right leg, and cutting his right hand and forearm so that it had to be amputated, he also lost the thumb of his left hand, received a cut of about six inches in length in his leg below the knee, is fairly chawed up and internally injured but no ribs broken. Mr. Hesselink is a very strong built young man, and his strong constitution may carry him through, but his chances are not many. Drs. F. S. Ledebor and Morris had quite a job to patch up the poor sufferer, and found him on yesterday morning doing as well as could be expected. Caught Both Father and Son

Last Saturday the Hon. Pete McCarthy, mayor of Bird Center, made a special trip to Holland to enquire among his friends here for a good, reliable phrenologist. And why, pray, did the Hon. Pete, e'er time alderman of the Windy City need the services of a phrenologist? Well, his honor, the mayor wanted to make sure that the wheels of his one time well regulated brain are still doing their business in proper shape. The fact is Pete has been stung and this is not by a good deal the first time either. And McCarthy expressed his determination very forcibly to make life a burden for the next man who asked him to cash a check. Peter is often in the habit of turning his popular pavilion into a temporary bank and cashing the checks of men who do business with him.

Last week a young man named James A. Duffy of Chicago walked into the Pavilion and asked McCarthy to cash a check of $25 for him. His family was well known to McCarthy and he was not at all suspicious of crookedness and gave him the cash.

Later in the day Duffy and Walter, McCarthy's son, were in town together. Duffy ran out of cash and jerking out a check book, wrote a check for $25. Together the young men entered a bank and Duffy presented his check. When the cashier asked him to identify himself he pointed to Walter. McCarthy's son was thereupon required to endorse Duffy's check. He has a little "wad" of his own in the bank and signed his name without the least suspicion.

However when Peter McC. turned his check into the bank he was told that they were worthless. James A. had left Bird Center by this time and could not be located. McCarthy immediately got into communication Chief of Police Kamferbeek, who in turn got the Chicago officers on the wire. It developed later that Duffy had played the same game on a business man in South Haven, having secured $40 there. The young man has not yet been located but McCarthy expects that his family in Chicago will make good the checks.

And this is the reason that the Hon. Pete is looking for a phrenologist.

Notes of Sport

(By Bill Halley, Sporting Editor.)

The Bush & Lane team crossed bats with the Manhattans of Grand Rapids last Saturday at Jenison park and defeated them by the score of 3 to 1. The local team with their new uniforms presented a handsome appearance and certainly put up a fine game against their opponents, who are recognized as one of the fastest semi-professional teams in the Furniture City. Frank Mooney, who played first for the piano makers, done the starring, when with two men out and two strikes to the bad, he connected with the spaulding for a three sacker. He also stole home from third when a score was badly needed. Batteries for Bush & Lane were Rippe and Elton. Next Saturday they will play Chase-Hackly team of Muskegon, who are first place in the factory league of that city.

A game Saturday between the C. L. King & Co. team and the Holland Shoe Co. team resulted in a victory for the former, the score being 9 to 6. The basket makers secured all their runs in the first two innings, but after that they could do nothing against Bob Westvelt's twisters. Batteries were: Shoe Co., Westvelt and Jessup; C. L. King, Silkie and Dry.

The Holland Interurbans went to Douglas Saturday where their old rivals trimmed them to the tune of 11 to 5. There was much hitting throughout the game. Frank Van Ry made a three-bagger, bring in three men for the locals. Ossignac and VanRy formed the battery for the Interurbans.

The Hollands were defeated at Zeeland Saturday in a fast game, the score resulting 6 to 5.

The Red Sox, a newly organized team of this city went to Fennville Saturday, where they suffered their first defeat. The score was 4 and 1. The Red Sox battery was Patten and TeRoller.

Doings of the Council

By a vote of 5 to 4 the proposed transfer of $10,000 from the electric light fund to the general fund was lost temporarily. When Ald. Van Tongeren made a motion to transfer this money Ald. Prakken asked if the Board of Public Works had been consulted regarding this transfer. Alderman VanTongeren's reply was that as the Board of Public Works was a subordinate body he did not think it necessary to consult them in the matter. Four of the aldermen however, Stephan, VandenBerg, Cook and Prakken, contended that common courtesy demanded that the board be made cognizant of the transfer. After a discussion of the matter it was put to a vote and Van Tongeren's motion failed to carry. Alderman Prakken immediately moved that the mayor and city clerk take up this matter with the board and report at the next meeting of the council, which was carried. In discussing the question Mayor Brusse spoke up and told the city fathers that the dock proposition depended upon the transfer of this money, but in as much as the alderman wished to see this dock built and while most of them are enthusiastically in favor of the project, they did not feel warranted to recognize an illegal act officially, the mayor's recommendation notwithstanding.

The next thing that brought on a warm discussion was the report of the committee on sewers, the laying of a sewer on VanRaalte avenue from 16th to 20th streets and on Central avenue from 19th to 24th street. This was in compliance with an urgent request of the school board to make it possible to connect the sewer system with both the Maple Grove and the Nineteenth street schools. These schools now have the inadequate service of cesspools and are in an unsanitary condition. The school board therefore sees the crying need of connecting with these sewers, if they are built.

Alderman Prakken strenuously opposed this report on the grounds that it would be an injustice to some of the property owners for the reason that the sewer would run the full length of the lot instead of the width and that being the case said property owners would be compelled to pay for 132 feet of sewer instead of 50 feet. He also stated that these lots were all vacant and that property owners had no use for a sewer in that locality at the present.

Another argument brought up by Ald. Prakken was his favorite cry of "No funds" and that it was impossible for the city to do this work this year. Upon this Ald. Stephan spoke and said that while he was willing to concede that it would work hardships on some of the property owners he would not for one moment admit that said sewer could not be built this year. This question, Stephan said, was of such vital importance to the health and welfare of our children that the work should be done now and that the city of Holland can, will and must raise the money to meet this emergency. After further discussion it was finally resolved that the sewer committee should take the matter up with the Board of Education, to see if some plan could not be devised whereby the property owners along the line would not be so hard hit.

Ald. Cook brought up another question in the line of sewers which caused some more discussion. He suggested that the River street sewer which had its outlet in the slip on Fifth street, where the much discussed launch dock is to be built, be extended so as to run into deep water. The sewer at the present time is exposed to view. Again Ald. Prakken "chipped in" and—"No funds." But the council members paid no attention to this and ordered the improvements made.

The bonds furnished by Jacob Japinga to run a wholesale liquor store at 209 East Eighth street were not approved by the aldermen. The vote stood four to five against it.

Considerable discussion was stirred up in regard to raising the street grade on North College Ave., between 6th and 7th streets and the council will meet at the corner of College Ave. and 6th street on the night of the next regular meeting to decide whether the grading should be done.

The aldermen will allow the French Cloak Co. to build a band stand over the front of their big opening.

Enriched in Love and Gold

George Phillips of this city had a genuine surprise sprung on him a few days ago. Mr. Phillips makes his living by singing and is the possessor of a rich bass voice. He has for a while been singing at the Olympia Pavilion at Jenison park, being in the employ of Peter McCarthy, of Bird Center fame. As fortune would have it the manager of a metropolitan opera troupe was passing the evening at the pavilion when Mr. Phillips was giving some samples of his art on the little stage in the dining room.

Mr. Rork, the opera manager, became interested immediately in the young man's voice, and after careful inquiry asked McCarthy's permission to talk business with him.

"What are you making here?" Mr. Rork launched out.

"Eighteen a week," said Phillips, all unconscious of what was coming.

"I'll give you seventy five." Naturally the offer was not turned down. Phillips was radiant and "Pete" McCarthy fully shared the young man's joy, although he loses his services by the deal. The good fortune was all the more opportune because Phillips got married only a short time ago. The marriage ceremony took place last week Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage of the M. E. church, Rev. N. F. Jenkins officiating. The bride was Miss Anna Belle Hands of Belding, Mich. Mr. Phillips is a son of Mrs. A. A. Finch of this city.

Monday's Storm

High wind, accompanied by torrents of rain, hail and a sharp and heavy electric-storm swept through Holland about 5:45 Monday morning. The wind attained a velocity of 50 miles an hour. The result of the storm is that the smokestack on building No. 2 of the West Michigan factory was blown down and a hole torn in the roof which allowed the water to pour down into the building causing additional damage. The total loss is estimated at $800 and is partially insured. At the Ottawa Furniture Co. one of the tall chimneys was turned partially around and badly twisted. The loss there amounted to about $50.

The Holland Veneering Co. lost about $25 because two walls used to protect piles of lumber were blown over.

In the country the oats and corn crop was considerably damaged. The windows in the residence of Jno B. Mulder, four miles east of the city, were shattered by the wind. A valuable horse of B. Mulder in the same neighborhood was struck by lightning and instantly killed. A colt standing near was uninjured.

DEATHS

Mrs. Maggie Sterken, aged 32 years, died at her home on West Seventeenth street Tuesday morning about 5 o'clock. Her death was very sudden and unexpected. She is survived by a husband. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 1:15 from the home and at 2 o'clock from the Ninth street Chr. Ref. church, Rev. A. Keizer officiating.

About two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shoniker of this city moved to Syracuse, N. Y., to make their future home. Hardly had they settled in their new home when their friends here received a telegram apprising them of the death of Mr. and Mrs. Shoniker's daughter Verda, who had succumbed to diphtheria. And immediately in the wake of this sad news came the still sadder news that the mother had died of the same dread disease. The husband and father is now left alone in a strange land to mourn his double loss. Mrs. Shoniker was formerly Miss Cornelia Reidsema of this city.

Venetian Evening.

Famous Venetian night on Macatawa bay is set this year for July 30, and already preparations are under way to make this gorgeous water spectacle, the fame of which has spread through all the adjoining states, surpass all previous attractions. The reporters, the yacht club, the Macatawa association and the Holland Interurban are all determined to eclipse similar events of previous years.

The advantages of Macatawa bay as a land-locked harbor with a rising background, and the fact that the time chosen for the celebration concurs with the gathering of water craft from all over the great lakes, combine to make this attempt at picturing "A Night in Venice" successful above all others in the country. The promoters of the affair realize this; hence local pride and patriotism has been enlisted this year, as never before, to make the most of the opportunity.

Regatta week, always the most important at the Black lake resorts, when the harbor is filled with visiting yachts and power boats is at its height this year on Thursday, the first of the actual racing days, and the evening of which marks the celebration of Venetian night. The decorations will be hung in the morning, and will form a beautiful sight all through the day. Line after of line lanterns and decorations will be strung clear around the bay from every vantage point.

The procession of the decorated craft, with boats of all sizes and descriptions from the light canoes to the big cruising yachts, launches and motor boats, will pass in review as usual in former celebrations. At the close of the review, a signal will be given from old Baldhead, the big sand hill at Macatawa, and the splendid display of fireworks will begin.

No expense will be spared to make this year's event memorable, and with the proper weather conditions it is expected that more than 50,000 people will witness the illumination. This involves a great problem in transportation for the Holland Interurban, which brings the great majority of the crowd to the scene. Already Traffic manager Charles A. Floyd of that line is perfecting arrangements to give the visitors the best possible service for he figures that the attendance this year will break all previous records.

The Perfect Silo

Because it has all the Points to be perfect. It is built of Cement and Steel, therefore cannot rot, cannot burn down, cannot dry out, needs no paint, needs no guy wires.

All these six points are a draw-back on the wooden silo, while the cement silo has nothing against it. It is the same as if you would put your winter's supply of pickles, beans or sauerkraut in a stone crock, which the cement silo represents, while the wooden silo is like a tub or barrel.

When the wooden silo man starts to build a silo he does not start with wood, but with cement, which he admits is better. Why not keep at it that way and have a silo that will last for all time, while the life time of a wooden silo is but ten years on an average.

I will build cement silos cheaper than you can get a wooden silo put up for as the wooden-silo-man does not furnish the base, nor the roof, nor the labor to put it up.

I will give you full instructions how to build a cement silo yourself. mounds to make the blocks, the steel door frame and bands, the wooden doors and the roof.

Educators Hold Meeting

The National Educational association has just closed its forty-sixth annual session in the city of Cleveland. There is no other American educational gathering so representative or so authoritative as this. Prominent among the questions discussed at this meeting was that of the proposed "Cosmopolitan High school to enlarge the scope of secondary instruction at public expense; and this question is, therefore, to be seriously considered for a period of years. Supt. of Schools Bishop of this city attended the sessions of this great convention.

"The High school is a department of the system of public education which touches in a peculiarly vital spot, two classes of citizens, the parent and the taxpayer," said Mr. Bishop today. "The former is interested for the education of his child, the latter for the protection of his purse. Therefore, any proposed plan to greatly enlarge the scope and hence the expense of high school education will be of interest to men and women of our own community whose lives are invested either in their children or in their business interest, or in both of these for which most people live.

"At the present time students of our high schools have a choice of subjects under the elective system, but all subjects are more or less of the traditional character. The choice, therefore, lies between such subjects as Latin or zoology and botany in the ninth grade; Latin, physiography or Mediaeval and modern history in the tenth; a more liberal election is allowed in the eleventh and twelfth," said Supt. Bishop.

"The proposed 'Cosmopolitan' High school would extend this election to what may be called industrial or vocational subjects, such as Manual training and Domestic science (already introduced in many schools), more extended courses in music and art, business courses not only for office work but for commerce, horticulture, agriculture, etc., branching out as the need is felt to include the courses now given in trade and occupational schools.

"The demand for such an extension of high school courses arises out of certain strange conditions which face public school authorities. Those conditions may be classified under three heads closely related to each other:

1. The traditional school courses are not meeting the popular demand and in consequence industrial schools known by various names such as Manual Training, Technical, Commercial Schools and Trade Schools are springing up.
2. Modern educational thought recognizes the popular demand for industrial training as reasonable. It is thought to be in accord with the highest purposes to be sought in our state and national life both from the industrial and social point of view; also in harmony with the sanest development of the individual into a full-fledged member of society.
3. The spirit of the democratic system under which we live, and upon which the ultimate uplift of the American masses depends, is threatened by an early distinction between two classes of children. These are, on the one hand, the children intended by nature for hand labor, fast becoming segregated in trade schools; and on the other hand, the more favored class of keener intellect and greater ambition, generally of a higher social or financial standing, who are set apart in High schools leading to professional life, there to be instructed in an exclusive atmosphere.

"The contention is that a counter movement must be set up which will bring the various classes of high school students together in a single public institution designed to meet the various needs of all," continued the superintendent.

"In this High school, 'Cosmopolitan' so called, the courses shall include those already given in High schools and in addition courses such as the special schools seek to supply. As under the present system of electives, the student will continue to be advised by parent and teacher, and under this advice he will make his choice. Some of the advantages claimed for such an extension of high school courses are:

1. A large number of young people would continue their education through the high school, and thus come under its directing influence.
2. A great waste of time and energy would be spared many students, who, for want of better opportunity, now follow the traditional course of study reaping but a meager benefit.
3. The industrial or vocational subjects have great educational value for a large number of young people who should be in attendance upon the high school. They often lead the student to see what lies beyond the circle of his present interest. Vocational subjects tend to adapt the student to the kind of a life he is most likely to live and thus to make him a harmonious contented and efficient factor in the social life of his community.
4. Such a High school would preserve the democratic character of our institutions by keeping out early class distinctions. All classes, while pursuing different courses for different educational and industrial ends, would mingle under one common roof. Such an arrangement preserves the social contact of all grades of society. It does away with the artificial distinction which must arise through segregation in different schools of those headed for the professions and those who must labor with the hands.

"We are undoubtedly entering upon an industrial period in education. This does not mean, however, that industrial classes are to be more fully recognized. For the past year this thought has been the keynote of every great educational gathering. The tide of education will never turn back toward the instruction of the few. The public high school would seem to be destined to gather in more children of the laboring classes and to meet more fully their need of a course of study which will fit them, not for a professional, but for an industrial career. Most men must earn a living with the hands and the American laborer should be a social unit of the best possible type. Educators seem to be awakening to the fact that language and science, history and mathematics have only a limited function in the development even of the educational man; and in the case of men and women whose lives are given over to manual toil this function is still more narrowly circumscribed.

"It is pointed out by prominent national educators that the High school should be in fact as well as in high sounding phrase 'The Poor Man's College.' As a preparatory school for the collegiate or university course of study, the High school is held to be a great success, but as a finishing school it has taken too little account of the equipment of its graduates. It should belong to those who are strong in sinew although mediocre in mentality. It should seek the student on his present plane and strive to quicken his mind and socialize his nature in the pursuit of well adapted branches of school society.

"Should the people of this country be led to recognize in any general way the need such an extension of high school education into the various fields indicated by the plan of the 'Cosmopolitan' high school, the public school expense would be greatly increased. On the other hand, its benefits would reach out to a large class of young people who have no ambition for a professional career and no taste for learning as it is found alone in books. The training and development which they now seek in the school of experience at a great cost, would be given under the direction and inspiration of others fitted to act as their educational leaders. The great American people will be called upon to decide whether such an education pays." says Supt. W. T. Bishop.

Albert Hammond and Hiram Sield of Jenison were seriously injured Sunday afternoon in an accident caused by an automobile. They were out with a team of young horses. Something on the harness broke, and while they were repairing it, an automobile came along at tremendous speed. The horses became frightened, kicked Sield in the stomach and threw Hammond into a ditch. Both will recover.

Launch owners are still in a pickle over the equipment which is required on launches. To equip a boat this year it will cost the owner a penny or two. Lights, whistles and bells such as the regulations require are no cheap articles and the equipment often costs a third as much as the boat. Under the present ruling, boats must carry both a bell and a whistle although there may not be occasion to use both once a year. However it is U. S. regulations and those who operate launches will take the wiser course by complying.

Will Boynton of Grand Haven recently received a letter from Madrid, Spain, signed by Luis Rodriguez in which the Spanish writer attempts to work the old Spanish bunco scheme. Rodriguez who takes the name Boynton on the end of his name claims to be a relative of Mr. Boynton and he states that he is in prison now for political reasons and his vast fortune is in peril. He further reveals the fact that he has a beautiful daughter whose future depends upon the endangered fortune. She needs the protection of a relative and the Spaniard asks Mr. Boynton to take her. For this he offers to share with his alleged American relative the fortune. Rodriguez claims to have been associated with the French company in the great Panama canal scheme which failed.

It has been returned to the owner.

A New York chicken farmer fattens his chicks by electricity. The hen houses are brilliantly illuminated by arc lights and at intervals during the night the lights are turned on and the misguided fowls, thinking it is daylight, fly off the roosts and eat. This plan is also said to coax an extra egg or two away from the deluded hens.

Oscar Bluthart of Chicago, employed by the Bush & Lane piano company, while engaging in a wrestling match with one of his pals at a picnic of some of the employees of the factory at Waukazoo Sunday was thrown to the ground and his collar bone broken. Dr. H. Kremers, D. B. K. Van Raalte and C. Ver Schure, who attended the State Banker's convention at Marquette last week, report a delightful trip. Besides the pleasure of the water trip on the steamer City of St. Ignac from Detroit, the Holland bankers also visited the copper mines of northern Michigan, Mackinac Island and other points of interest and took in all the banquets and other "doings."

About 50 square yard of dead grass about a foot and a half high burned shortly before noon yesterday just east of Jenison Park. The grass being dry caused a big blaze and created a small sized panic among the cottage owners whose buildings were endangered. A call was sent in to the life saving crew who rowed to the scene. After they had played on the fire with the stream from their hand pump for a few minutes the fire was gotten under control.

A Grand Rapids man went home the other night after an evening spent down town. He reeled up the front steps and into the door of his home. The floor rolled under his feet, and the stairs came up and hit him in the face as he mounted them. When nearly to the top, he pitched backward and rolled down the stairs. Picking himself up he muttered: "O Lord, pit the poor sailors out at sea in a storm like this."—Coopersville Observer.

The sail boat owned and manned by the Sweet brothers of Chicago, capsized about a half mile from the Graham and Morton dock Friday afternoon. The other young men were picked up by the Mary. The capsized boat was righted by the crew on the Mary.

A horse owned by R. W. Calkin, the ice cream man, had got into a habit of running away. Last Monday when the horse had been left standing in front of Mr. Calkin's store the horse once again broke the hitching strap and made for freedom. He was soon caught, and the wagon being slightly damaged, the owner started to drive to the blacksmith shop to get it repaired. The horse reared, broke away again and dashed down River street. There he slipped on the pavement, was caught and led back limping to the stable. He had hardly arrived there when he fell down dead.

This train is chartered outright by W. W. R. Roach & Co. and runs between Rothbury, Shelby and Hart as often as six times a day so that each day's output of these distant viner stations are all in cans before the day's work is finished at the big plant.

A man from Macatawa Park who was recently brought before the justice of a neighboring village for exceeding the speed limit with his automobile, tells a good story on the deputy sheriff who hauled him before the justice of the peace. The deputy saw the number of the machine, and following it to Macatawa, located the owner. The automobile man offered to take the deputy along to the justice in his machine which the officer accepted. The man made his machine go at such a stiff clip that it developed a hot box and a small blaze started. The deputy fearing that he would be blown into eternity any minute jumped out and hid behind a tree. The owner calmly stopped down and knocked out the fire with his gloves. He then took the frightened officer by the hand and assuring him that no harm would befall him, persuaded him to continue his journey in the machine.

N. E. Brown, the photographer, of Grand Haven recently secured a kite view of Highland Park at that place that is decidedly unique. The view shows the shore line of the lake from the loop north as far as the Muskegon point. The picture of the harbor which is included in the scene is one of the best ever shown of the government piers. The people on the beach are shown plainly and the view is one which will surely make a hit. Mr. Brown secured several views upon the same ascension and in one of them the camera raised nearly 1000 feet and pointed inland catching a view of Little Black Lake and Mona Lake.

He Was Paddled.

A little bare-footed boy under ten years old but walking with swagger as though he owned the town dropped into a local restaurant and inquired how much he could get to eat for ten cents. The man of the hash enumerated some good things that the vast sum of a dime would buy, when the youngster's eye was caught by the sight of a nice juicy chunk of chicken on the back bar.

"I'll take a piece of that chicken with my sandwich and coffee." He gave the order as though he had a roll in his inside pocket from which he could peel as many twenties as he pleased.

"That will cost you more than a dime," volunteered the restaurant man. The boy with a gaze of hurt pride on his face looked the man in the eyes and nearly knocked him off his feet by blurting out in a regularly rowdy style:

"Gee but you're a d-d cheap scate." An then the comedy began. The restaurant man in question is known for his quick temper. He ran around the counter, and gave the important little youngster a fatherly spanking as he perhaps ever received in his born days. It furnished excitement for the people in the restaurant, and doubtlessly was very wholesome for his majesty the boy.

The Great Lakes Drédge & Dock company was the lowest bidder for the big government job of dredging in Duinuth harbor. The job calls for an expenditure of over $200,000.

The work of raising the sunken steamer State of Michigan, which lies north of White Lake piers will be commenced next week. Dr. Fernando Staud, head of the Staud Salvage company, is now in Muskegon making preparations for the work.

Dr. Staud is the inventor of the canal buoy or metal vacuum, which were made by the Rodgers Boiler and Burner works of Muskegon and have been for some time a wonderment to the people while they have reposed near the G. R. & I. dock. They will be placed in the water early next week and towed to the scene by contractor Robert Love.

While the inventor is sure of succeeding in his attempt to raise the Michigan yet it is more of an experiment than anything else. The method is a comparatively cheap one and should success follow the first test the business will be unlimited for some time to come as there are an untold number of boats which lie beneath the waves none the worse for wear.

The canals are cylinders 32 feet in length and 14 feet in diameter. By sinking them under sunken hulls and filling them with a light gas, the theory is that the boat will raise. Mr. Staud is a Spaniard and former member of the Spanish navy. He resides in Chicago and has been Spanish consul there for several years.

Edwin E. Bedford, keeper of the White River life saving station, was in Grand Haven Saturday where he took the oath as keeper of the Point Betsey station. Henry Kern, No. 1 of the South Haven station has been raised to a captaincy in the service and becomes keeper of the White River station. The vacancy at the Point Betsey station was caused by the retirement of Harrison Miller who has long been in charge of Point Betsey station. Captain Miller is 69 years of age and has been in the service 31 years. At the present time he is hale and hearty as in his best days, and his retirement for disability is because his eyes have failed him during the last year.
