

College Education Is To Teach Students To Think

The purpose of a college education is to teach students how to think, not what to think.

Education should not equip one with a set of ready-made conclusions, but should equip one with the skill to collect evidence, organize it and evaluate it for himself, to reach sound conclusions.

To interpret education as teaching the student what to think not only violates the student's right as a free human being to think for himself, it also assumes that the teacher already has the final truth.

Hence, within the classroom situation, students teachers, and the public outside the classroom must maintain a careful distinction between advocating support for a position and examining the facts about a position.

This means that the student must be confronted in books and by the teacher with the total range of data and ideas which must be coped with in reaching conclusions.

Some of these ideas are dangerous, for the world is full of dangerous ideas. But to expose the student to these ideas—among others—in the educational situation which demands that the student think for himself is a very different kind of situation from that which expects the student to accept the teacher's views.

The latter situation condemns the student to ignorance because of the fear that he cannot be trusted to think fully, deeply and honestly.

Perhaps nowhere in the college curriculum is this distinction between propagandizing and informing more crucial than in religion and philosophy, because the concepts dealt with in (these) courses reach to the fundamental articles of faith upon which individuals and nations build their lives.

There is no realm of human activity where it is more dangerous to be ignorant or prejudiced. We must not let fear of free minds condemn our students to the sin of ignorance.

The fundamental question is not what books are used . . . The question is: What concept of education prompts the inquiry of the materials used?

Cadet Corps Makes Fine Showing At Inspection

Again Clemson made a fine showing in the annual Spring Inspection.

The inspecting officers, headed by Colonel Franklin G. Truyn from the Air University in Montgomery, Alabama, and Colonel Elbot Watkins from the Third Army area, seemed to be very much impressed by the showing of the entire cadet corps.

The military department is to be congratulated for its hard work in making the preparations for the inspection. Most of the credit, however, should go to the students themselves, who have spent many hours on the drill field and many hours in cleaning the campus and their rooms.

In speaking for the inspection team, Colonel Watkins praised the cadet corps for their work and their fine display of cooperation. He also stated how thrilled and inspired the team was at what they had observed at Clemson during their stay on the campus.

To everyone who had a part in making this year's inspection successful, we would like to say, "Congratulations for a job well done."

Green Stickers, Black Stickers; How Do You Expect Me To Park Here

By Jack Nixon

(In the years past when I picked up the Tiger, I always turned to the jokes. But, as most of us already know, this column has been discontinued and in its place a humor column is being run. This disappointed me very much because I wanted to send some good jokes your way next year, and there are fe wways you can touch one's humor better than with a good joke.

While wondering what to write, I ran across an article by Bill Braznell in Showme, a University of Missouri publication, which I gratefully stole and revised.

I've got a car. I've got no kicks coming in about my car. It's a good car. I paid fifty bucks for it. It runs. It's got a motor, dual exhausts, a coon tail, and ten feet of safety tape. What more can a guy ask for?

When I come up here to Clemson some ol' caharacter asked me to fill out this form. So I says, "What far I gotta fill out this form."

He says, "You gotta car ain't you?"

I says, "Yeah, sorta."

He says, "Then fill out this form. The form says you gotta car."

I says, "What-a-ya-stupid?"

I told this guy, "Yeah, I gotta car." It says, "Why you want a car?"

I says, "I gotta car, why do I want a car?"

It says, "Why you want a car?" I says, "Cause I live off a piece and I don't walk so good because I've athletes foot, and beedies, what do you think I want a car for?" How else can you get in a drive-in?

Then this form says to hand it to some guy. So I hands it to him. And he gives me a sticker, only this sticker ain't like any sticker I have ever seen before. It ain't got no fancy slogan or picture of Marlyn Monroe, not even "Go you Tiger Go."

I says, "What you want I should do with this?" He says, "Now you can park on the campus."

? Not a bad deal. I thought. So

TALK OF THE TOWN

By Carroll Moore

This Has Been One Of The Best Week-Ends, But I'm Glad Its Over

IT WAS GREAT, BUT I'M GLAD ITS OVER

To my estimation this past week-end was one of the best there has ever been at Clemson. I think the cadet corps should be complimented on their behavior at the dances, their exhibition on the parade field and the overall show of Clemson spirit that they presented the entire week-end. From Friday afternoon to late Sunday night many of the troops didn't slow down from their rapid pace, except for maybe a few very quick winks of sleep that they managed to grab during the wee hours of the mornings. Because of the tremendous rush that everyone found themselves in throughout the entire week-end, many of the students were more than willing to bring the colorful week-end to a close after the Sunday festivities.

"WAKE UP AND LOOK"

Recently I had the privilege to visit the Federal Prison in Atlanta and obtained one of their quarterly magazines, "The Atlantian". In looking through this magazine which was written and published by the inmates themselves, I ran across an article entitled "Wake Up and Look". The article was written by John Howder. In this writing, Howder is telling the importance of "A man to find a peg to hang his life on".

Howder makes this statement, "A man must find a peg to hang his life on" especially to inmates in the prison, however; we, as college students could take this little adage and apply it to ourselves, as well. He says that a man who drifts through life aimlessly without any definite ambition will never be successful and ultimate hap-

DON'T GET ME WRONG

Dance Week-End Great Success; Orchids To Commandant's Office

By Alan Cannon

PLEASED—THEY SHOULD BE

The dance this week-end was a great success. I believe that more people turned out for this dance than any other since I've been here. Friday night was, even though formal, a full house occasion. The CDA has been pretty upset about the dances in the past but I don't think that they have anything to worry about now. I'm hoping for bigger and better-ones next year.

ORCHIDS TO THE COMMANDANT'S OFFICE

Thanks for not making all the formations compulsory over the Mother's Day week-end.

From all reports this seems to have been the biggest Mother's Day affair that the school has ever had. I was plenty scared about the rain at the beginning of the week. I could just see everyone slippin' (observe the word) in and out of the dances in formal attire Friday night. The girls would have loved that. And just think how great it would have been marching through all that water and slush on Bowman Field Sunday afternoon. With the new hole that the school dug for us in the middle of the field—we'd have probably waded in mud up to our elbows.

THIS IS JUST A RUMOR

A couple of weeks back I wrote a little piness is not obtainable. For an inmate in a federal prison to state such beliefs to the other prisoners there in advising them to take up some peg to hang his life on seems a little unusual to us. We might say that his life is ruined, why try such a change now. Howder says that most all of the inmates possess some undiscovered or underdeveloped talents which have been held back because of lack of confidence. Had many of them realized this fact in early life, they might not be in the "Big House" today.

In closing his article, John Howder gives some important advice that all college students should take heed to. He says, "In short, give yourself an aim in life, a purpose, and acquire a feeling of being worthwhile."

"I know this plan will work for I am using it. I have seen it work for others. It can work for you. I only hope it doesn't take you 48 years (12 of those years inside) to come to the same conclusion that I have reached."

THE END IS NOT LONG OFF NOW

I wonder just how many of us have realized the fact that there are just 13 more days of classes remaining before the curtain will fall on another school year. With spring inspection, Junior-Senior and all the Mother's Day festivities in the past now, the troops are going to have to be hitting the books constantly and try to avoid leaving the campus on the beautiful sun shiny afternoons and heading for nearby Boscobel to soak up a few rays of warm sunshine or they will be burning much midnight oil in trying to get those last minute term papers and problems in on schedule.

Take It For What It's Worth

By Bruce Parrish

I suppose a statement of the program and policies of this column would have been more in order in the first installment than the second, but here goes anyway. As in the case of my colleague, Carroll Moore, this represents my first attempt at such writing. All orchids and/or booby traps should be sent special delivery to "Doc" Wilson's 102 English class, wherein lies the foundation for this journalistic endeavor.

Columns such as this have traditionally become an outlet for the complaints and gripes of the student body. They have also been used, somewhat less frequently perhaps, to pass on words of praise to deserving individuals and organizations which might otherwise go unnoticed. Inspiration, recommendation, reprimand, sermon, gems of wisdom of almost every conceivable type have run their course through these lines. Nearly all of these have purported to express, through the writer, what the majority of students should say or think but for some reason do not.

But however much the author may try to reflect truly the sentiments and ideas of his readers, invariably the final result is going to be colored by the columnist's own opinions, experiences, and prejudices. This is only natural, and I do not believe there can be a good writer who does not inject something of his own personality and individuality into his work. I expect to do just that.

But I would also like to try something a little different. I would like to make this column a kind of sounding board for public opinion—the opinions of you students, cadets, veterans, faculty members, and administrative officers, who make up our public. The Tiger is not only intended to give information to students; it should also provide an avenue for the expression of their ideas.

There are many activities and issues in our college situation which are of vital interest to students and on which many students have done serious, constructive thinking. What I would like to do is to get some of these ideas crystallized into concrete, printable form and use them as a basis for accurately reflecting the thinking of the student body.

What I want is not just a series of gripes. That is only the beginning. When you run up against some situation that irks you, sit down and analyze it. See exactly what it is that's rubbing against the grain. Then check to see if it's really the "abrasive" that's at fault, or if your "grain" is running the wrong way. Don't be too quick to jump the system until you are sure you have made a real effort to fit into the system. This kind of analysis would cut out at least fifty percent of the complaining we hear every day.

If your analysis does reveal an actual defect, don't just complain and pass it on to the next fellow. Do some serious thinking about it. Formulate some sound, definite ideas. Then if you would like to see them expressed, send them to me.

Clear thinking and expression may be able to awaken others to the need that you see, and bring about some concerted action toward the end you have in mind. At least I am sure that the faculty and administrative officials who read The Tiger will be most happy to receive some well developed opinions and ideas concerning the way Clemson is being run.

For instance, I said a few words last week about honor and the possibility of an honor system at Clemson. Now Clemson can continue to go on as it has for years, with no honor except that of the professors and no system except that of the students (as the old saying has it). There has been considerable agitation in the past five years to get an honor system established here. What do you think? Do you believe that honor is a basic principle of fine manhood and that it has its place in the halls of Clemson? Would you respect an honor system if it were established? If you have objections to some of the provisions of current models of the honor system, what do you suggest which might improve them and make them more acceptable in our situation? Just what do you think are the chances of such a system?

I would like to get your ideas on this subject. If you have something constructive to offer, I would appreciate your dropping me a line at Box 1052, Clemson. I prefer that the letters be signed, but I do not intend to make known the sources of information. Feel free to speak frankly and say whatever you like.

From time to time I will mention items which should be of interest to all Clemson men and about which I hope to receive some helpful comment from you, the readers. You will doubtless think of other things, too, which merit attention and may be overlooked by me. If you would like to see some discussion and comment on such subjects, drop me a line suggesting it as a possible future topic.

This column, then, is your opportunity to get your thoughts out where they may take root and do some good. If you are interested enough to express yourself, you may get some really interesting ideas in this space. Otherwise (assuming that you get as deep as the editorial page) you'll have to listen to me and take your chances.

S. A. L. Railway Promotes Epting

J. Claude Epting a graduate of Clemson, has recently been appointed assistant general agricultural agent for the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company, Orlando, Fla.

Mr. Epting, previous to his connection with the railroad, has worked with the South Carolina Experiment Station and the Barrett Company.

Mr. Epting is from Hamlet, North Carolina where he has represented the Seaboard railroad as agricultural agent since 1938.

This new job for Mr. Epting went into effect May 1, 1953.

Little Theater Will Elect Officers Mon.

The Clemson Little Theater will hold a meeting for the purpose of electing officers next Monday night, May 18, at 8:00 p. m., in the Alpha Psi Omega club room.

The club room is located in the basement of the old education building directly behind Long Hall, and is accessible from the street.

All persons who have season membership are entitled to vote by requesting an active membership card.

Any person interested in becoming a member for the 1953-54 season is invited to attend.

Leysath of North received a medal for high score in the prone position.

Marksmanship Awards were presented to four members of the Army ROTC Rifle Team. James F. Callahan of Atlanta, Ga. received the medal for high score in high aggregate and standing position.

TIGER BANQUET HELD AT THE CALHOUN HOTEL

The Tiger staff held its annual banquet at the Calhoun Hotel in Anderson last Saturday night, May 9.

K. R. Helton of the business managers office, gave the invocation after which a turkey dinner was served.

Charles Meiburg, retiring co-editor, presented the guests for the banquet. They included Col. and Mrs. F. E. Cookson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cox, Mr. and Mrs. John Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Helton, Gil Campbell and his date, Miss Ada Margaret Meeks of Anderson.

Louis Henry, retiring co-editor, introduced the old staff. Mr. John Lane, faculty advisor for the Tiger, presented keys to members of the old senior staff.

Tommy Green introduced the new senior staff, and they in turn introduced members of their staffs.

Prof. R. G. Carson Completes Work Towards Ph. D.

Professor R. G. Carson, associate professor of textiles completed the work for his P. H. D. degree at the University of Michigan on May 6, 1953.

Professor Carson has been a member of the Clemson textile management department since 1947.

He received his B. S. degree in weaving and designing from Clemson in 1939 and his M. S. degree in industrial engineering from Georgia Tech in 1950.

Professor Carson was the first person to receive a P. H. D. in the field of industrial engineering at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Carson has had industrial experience as an engineer and plant superintendent. He has also served as a member of the teaching staff at Georgia Tech and Michigan while doing graduate work.

Professor Carson's home town is Orangeburg.

Sons of Confederate Veterans Chapter To Be Organized Here

A chapter of the Sons of the Confederate Veterans is being organized at Clemson.

Commanders-in-chief is judge W. M. Geard of West Field, N. J. General headquarters of the National Organization is in Richmond, Virginia.

All male descendants of those who served in the Confederate Army or Navy are eligible to join the organization.

The United Daughters of Confederate and the Sons of the Confederate Veterans have the same ideals and objectives. This is to give the world a true understanding of the Southern people and their brave history.

Their programs encourage and strengthen needy southern schools with scholarships and gifts to school libraries.

The 57th annual convention of the Sons of the Confederate Veterans will be held in Mobile, Alabama in June.

The Clemson chapter of the Winthrop Daughters sponsored the first May Morning Breakfast ever held at Clemson on May 1 at the Clemson House. The breakfast was held from 7 until 10 o'clock. Approximately 300 people attended.

The purpose of the breakfast was to raise money to send a Clemson girl to Winthrop. Tickets were priced at $1 and the entire proceeds will be given to the Winthrop Daughters' scholarship fund.

A special feature of the breakfast was the playing of bridge. Mrs. J. F. Miles was general chairman for the event and Mrs. Bruce Cloinger was in charge of table decorations. Mrs. A. E. Schilliter was responsible for flower arrangements; Miss Billie Vandiver had charge of the ticket sales and was assisted by Miss Beth Anderson.

Mrs. W. C. Bowen was in charge of the music and was assisted by Mrs. Conyers Anderson. Mrs. W. A. King was publicity chairman.

B. C. Sims Taking Naval Flight Training

Billy C. Sims, son of Mrs. Kathryn Sims of Route 3, Greenville, has recently taken his first solo flight at the U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Whiting Field, Florida, where he is a Naval Aviation Cadet.

Billy attended Clemson College, and then entered the naval aviation cadet program through the Naval Air Station, Atlanta, Georgia.

He will now receive instruction in precision air work and acrobatics, along with his regular solo flights.

DUKE DETOURS INTO TOURNAMENT VIA TECHNICALITY

A vague technicality ousted the Clemson Tigers and gave the Duke Blue Devils a ticket into the Southern Conference baseball playoffs in Raleigh.

After toppling the Furman Hornets 3-1 for a Southern Conference victory last Monday night, the Tigs had clinched the remaining bid into the conference playoffs.

Before this win over the Hornets, the Bengals were in third place behind the Duke Blue Devils by a slight percentage margin. This win pulled the Tigs above the Dukes, giving them the bid.

It was not until after the win that someone, evidently from Duke, searched back into the rule book to find the otherwise unknown loophole to place the Devils in the tournament.

The rule states that all games must have been played three days before the tournament, therefore giving the teams a two day rest. In case of a tie for second place, the first day is used to play off the tie. In case of rain on this day the second day is used.

If last Monday night's game with the Hornets had come off as scheduled the Bengals would be sitting tight in the second place slot behind the North Carolina Tar Heels. This contest was scheduled for Monday before last, but inclement weather caused the game to be delayed a day. On Tuesday the field was still a little muddy and the contest was put off one more day. Wednesday came, a perfect day for baseball, but Coach Lyles Alley of Furman decided he would let his boys go home for a rest instead. Thursday Furman had another game and Friday and Saturday the Tigs were visiting the South Carolina Gamecocks in Columbia.

It is possible that if we had asked for a forfeit on Wednesday we would still be going to the tournament, but Clemson has the reputation of being a college which does not try to find every little loophole to win a contest. Evidently this is not true of certain other schools in the conference.

It is mighty disheartening to a team when they work all season, play top flight ball, actually win a slot in the conference tournament and then don't get it.

Those of you who read your daily sports page remember that sports scribes all over the Southern Conference advertised this Furman game to be the deciding factor on whether Clemson went to the playoffs. Why did the conference baseball committee allow these falsehoods to be printed? If you are going to go by a strict interpretation of the rules, why not let the public know before the deadly blow is dealt.

In this age of deemphasizing of college sports, a black sheep often creeps into the picture. If this isn't a black sheep in the form of cut-throat baseball I'd like to know what it is!

CONFERENCE IS SPLIT. IS CLEMSON IN HIGH COTTON? NO.

In a meeting of the Southern Conference colleges in Greensboro on May 9, an eight hour meeting ended in split of the 17 member league.

Leaving the largest major college league in the country were Clemson, North Carolina, Duke, South Carolina, Wake Forest, Maryland, and North Carolina State.

The ten remaining teams retained the name of the conference and all of the conference funds.

A meeting is scheduled for June 14 and after this affair we will probably know a little more about how the conference will be run and the name to be given to the new formed league.

Nothing better could happen to Clemson. We have finally been set apart with a group of colleges which usually compile pretty good record in sports.

Are we in high cotton? I don't think so. By comparing the records of the past twenty years it is found that the Tigers are right up at the top with the largest teams in this new league. North Carolina and Duke have had very overall impressive records for the past twenty years, but with the exception of this last year Clemson has been on top for the past few years.

As far as the size of the student body is concerned, Clemson is about average. True, all of these schools are richer than this land grant college in the red hills of South Carolina, but it takes a will to win before successful teams may be produced and this Clemson has. As for facilities, Clemson is second from the bottom in comparing the size of the gymnasium and runs also second in stadium capacity.

It will probably be 1956 before we can schedule any of these teams due to previous contracts with other schools, but when we do get around to it, we will be able to have a schedule envious of any school in the south.

Another plan being discussed among the conference bolters is the possibilities of tying in with some post season bowl. This would mean that the conference champion would automatically play in that certain bowl on New Year's Day. It looks as though this newly formed league has enough potential strength to eventually tie in with the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans or the Orange Bowl in Miami. Either one would be fine.

We hope this won't break up our friendly relationship with other teams we have been playing in the past but this is a step forward for Clemson.

Tigers Split Series With Gamecocks

O'Dell Pitches No Hitter For 2-0 Win

The Clemson Tigers split a two game series with the Carolina Gamecocks last week-end at Columbia. The second loss seriously injured the Bengals chances of gaining a berth in the conference playoffs.

In the first game, flashy Billy O'Dell pitched a no-hit game to lead the Tigers to a 2 to 0 victory. The sophomore left-hander from Newberry, S. C., faced only 28 men in pitching his first collegiate no-hit game.

Billy struck out five men and allowed only five men to reach base. Three of these got a free pass to first, and two were put on by errors. He was in trouble only once. That was in the sixth inning when an error and walk put two Birds on the basepaths. Catcher Bobby Morris picked a man off second base, however, to relieve the threat. The win was O'Dell's fifth of the season against three losses.

Third Baseman Wyman Morris drove in both Clemson runs with two hits. He doubled in the sixth to drive in Doug Kingsmore, and singled in the eighth to score Don King. Both had singled earlier in the inning.

Heyward Tunstall, Carolina righthander, pitched a good game. He was touched for 11 hits, five of which were of the infield variety. He struck out four and walked only one man.

The second game was a tough game to lose, for it ruined the Tigers chances of making the conference playoffs.

Carolina scored six runs in the first inning to knock starter Neil Bates out of the box. Humphries and Crosland followed him, and gave up seven more runs.

The Birds scored six runs in the first inning, one in the second, two in the sixth, and four in the seventh. Otis Rawl went all the way for the Gamecocks, and had a shutout for the first eight innings. He pitched a fine game in giving up only seven hits. Spotts was the leading batsman for the Gamecocks with three hits and five runs batted in. Hofferth drove in four runs.

Clemson scored their four runs in the ninth inning. Wyman Morris singled, and Joe Pagliei singled to score him. Then George Brodie walked, and Roy Coker hit a three-run homer over the left field fence. The leading hitters for the Tigs were Coker with 2 for 5 and Pagliei with 2 for 4.

Carolina closed the season with this game, while Clemson has one game remaining with Furman. The loss gave the Tigers a 10-6 record in the conference standings.

Gamecocks Win Meet; Tigers 3rd

On a sunny Saturday in Clinton, one of the most successful and exciting runnings of the annual South Carolina intercollegiate track meet was held.

The South Carolina Gamecocks nosed out the Presbyterian Blue Hose, defending champions, by a few yards in the mile relay to win the championship, 56 2/5 to 54 2/5.

Clemson was third with 22 points followed by Furman with 18, and The Citadel with 14 1/5.

E. M. Watt of P. C. was high scorer with a total of 14 points. He broke the record several times in the broad jump, but was disqualified every time. Tommy Jordan, also of P. C. was second with 10 3/4 points.

Allston Mitchell jumped an even 6 feet to take a first for the Tigs in the high jump, while L. A. Odom tossed the javelin 183 feet 1 1/2 inches for a first in that event. Orom, a constant winner for the Bengals all year, has not lost in a meet yet. He should be a sure first in the Conference meet this week-end.

Dreher Gaskins took second in the discus and a fourth in the shot put. C. E. Kirby and H. M. Hodges place third and fourth respectively in the discus.

In the running events, A. H. Cory took a fourth in the 220 yard dash, F. C. Griffin captured third in the 100 yard dash, and R. W. Shane placed fourth in the one mile run for Clemson.

Carolina's Freddie Roberts set a new record in the 880 yard run. His time was 1:57.5 to beat the old record set by Clemson's Harry Franklin in 1942 of 1:58.2. Bobby Vass of PC broke the broad jump record, but the leap was nullified because the pit was lower than the take-off point.

O'Dell, Tiger Workhorse, Sparkles For Diamond Men

By Jimmy Qaurles

The mainstay of the Clemson pitching staff this year has been southpaw Billy O'Dell from Newberry, S. C. Coach Bob Smith has put him in the workhorse slot this season, as he did last year.

Not only is he valuable on the mound, but he is also handy with the bat. He is one of the leading Bengal batters, and has raised his batting average from a .218 last year to a .296 this season.

When Billy came to Clemson as a freshman in 1952, he had to overlook many attractive offers from the pro boys. In his initial year, he started off with a bang. In the Carolina game last year, Billy struck out 21 men and put his name on the books for a new state record.

In ten games, O'Dell pitched 56 innings giving up only 48 hits, and his opponents gathered only 36 markers. Billy outpitched some of the veteran hurlers in allowing only 16 bases on balls. In return, he sat down 81 opposing batters. He was accredited with five wins to only two losses for a .714 pitching average for his first Tiger season.

Billy kept his form in top shape during the summer by playing with the Liberty Lions in the Greenville Textile League, and he retained his top-flight performance throughout the summer vacation. At the beginning of the '53 season, Bill was determined to improve his admirable record for the previous year. This he has accomplished by his superior exhibitions against S. C. and Southern Conference competition.
