THE WEATHER.

Heavy Rains Predicted For New England and The Atlantic Coast States.

Portland, February 7.—Heavy rains are predicted during the months of April and May to be followed by long and extended heat waves through June, July and August and the general public is warned to see to it that their roofs are made tight to withstand the oncoming floods that are sure to put in an appearance on schedule time. There are people who never think of shingling when it does not rain, but the moment the downpour comes then they get at it and then condemn themselves for their neglect. This is equally true of other things connected with life in this cold world. We have just been passing through a wintry blizzard and the thought that we shall soon, so soon, be gasping for a breath of cool, refreshing sea air only comes to a few of us that have made preparation for the future (next summer's heat). The best way to guard against trouble is to ward it off before it gets here, and to those who have not already done so we wish to suggest a plan that will make next summer a most pleasant and agreeable one. It is not the design only of the house one lives in but the place where it is built that makes it desirable. A house beautifully situated, upon a high hill, commanding an extended view of mountains, islands and sea, is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" any way you can fix it, and people who have been wise enough to secure lots and plans for building their houses down by the sea at Mountain View Park, are to be congratulated for their good sense and the high quality of their judgment. The very low price placed upon this property makes purchasers of lots secure, either for building purposes or for investment, as the improvements already made tend to enhance the value, and men of the very best judgment allow that this M. V. Park property will certainly double present prices within the next two years. The office of the Company is at 52 Exchange St., and if you want a house built to order, now is the time to talk about it so it will be shingled and completed before summer rains and heat set in.

Manila, February 6.—Theodoris Carranza, a prominent and wealthy Spanish merchant and hemp and coconut buyer, was arrested this afternoon, charged with furnishing supplies to aid the insurgents. Carranza is a partner of D. M. Carman, an American contractor and owner of boats, who had considerable transportation contracts with the government. The provost marshal and secret service officers have been watching a number of merchants and transportation men for some time past. The police officials have had a long interview with Carranza and the arrest of several merchants is expected to result. At the close of the interview between the police and Carranza, the latter was placed in confinement in the Anda street police station. Carman was arrested tonight and after considerable questioning, was sent to the same station. The man arrested with Carranza is expected to result. AN AWFUL DISASTER.

Millions of Pounds of Petroleum and Fire and Many Persons Killed.

Baku, February 6.—A fire broke out yesterday in the magazines of the Caspian and Black Sea company which contained 216,000,000 pounds of petroleum. The conflagration resulted in great loss of life and widespread damage. The flames spread to other depots having a capacity of 31,000,000 pounds of naphtha, which poured out like a stream of lava, inundating and setting fire to the dwellings of the workmen, which were totally destroyed. Many persons perished. Twenty charred bodies have been found, and upwards of 60 people are terribly burned. Four hundred families lost everything they possessed. The magazines are still burning and the neighboring reservoirs are in great danger. A general panic prevails.

FIRE IN ELLSWORTH.

Ellsworth, Me., February 6.—A dwelling house owned and occupied by Frank Garland, was burned tonight, together with its contents. Loss $1500, insured for $700.

A lumber yard, saw mill and 14 houses in the western part of Havana, near El Cerro, have been destroyed by fire with a total loss of $700,000.

The Wrestling Match at Madison Square Ended in Draw.

New York, February 6.—For an hour and seventeen minutes Ernest Koeber the American champion wrestler and the Frenchman, M. Paul Rons struggled for the supremacy in a roped ring in Madison Square Garden tonight. They might have gone on for another hour, but the arbitrary order of Police Inspector Thompson, who declared that he would not allow the bout to go on after midnight, stopped the match in a most unsatisfactory stage at midnight.

Rons held the upper hand at nearly every stage of the contest, but he lacked the cleverness of the smaller man who was never caught unawares at any moment and Koeber though by many years the older and in stature far inferior than the big foreigner, more than held his own. That the bout was on the level there can be no question, and the seven thousand people who left the big building had only warmest praises for the athletes and a few had words for the interference of the police inspector.

BOWDOIN ALUMNI IN BOSTON.

Boston, February 6.—The Bowdoin college alumni held their 33rd annual banquet this evening at the Copley Square hotel. The speakers included Prof. Edward Morse of Salem, formerly connected with Bowdoin's medical school; Prof. H. L. Chapman of Bowdoin; and Dr. F. H. Gorlish of Portland. Letters of regret were read from ex-Speaker Thomas H. Reed, Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court and Senator Frye.

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.

Washington, February 6.—Heretofore the talk of an extra session of Congress has been regarded as largely manufactured in order to break down the opposition to the ship subsidy bill. But it seems now as though the intimations of an extra session come from the White House, and with more authority. The Evening Star this evening prints the following significant article:

"If action with reference to Cuba and the Philippines, the construction of the Nicaragua canal and measures for the development of commerce are delayed until next winter, close upon the next congressional election it is likely to result in so much confusion as to give the opposition an advantage in the campaign which it would probably not have if the irritating questions were disposed of earlier and the public mind given time to settle down to an understanding and acceptance of accomplished designs. It is suggested, too that by inviting Congress to share the responsibility for the action that is to be taken instead of relying entirely upon executive authority, the President will disarm criticism of the sort that was common during the late presidential campaign. Some of the leading men in Congress are credited with a disposition to shrink from their share in the responsibility for the settlement of the pending questions, especially with reference to Cuba, preferring to shoulder it all upon the President, whom they would be ready enough to put the blame upon if a mistake were made.

"There will be new candidates in the field for the nomination for the Presidency in 1904. President McKinley will be out of the field, and events may bring about a contest between a candidate standing conspicuously for the policy of the retiring administration and candidates for a different policy. If Mr. Reed, for instance, or some other such man were a candidate before the convention his candidacy would probably be predicated upon disapproval of some feature of the policy under the McKinley administration. Some men in Congress who feel uncertain what the future may bring forth are suspected of desiring to force all responsibility for delicate and untried questions upon the President, remaining themselves in an attitude which will admit of their being foremost in associating themselves with the success if it comes or being solemnly critical if mistakes are made and public sentiment offended. This spirit appears to play a part in the disinclination in Congress to share responsibility with the President in dealing with Cuba.

"None who opposed the calling together of Congress venture the declaration that delay of action is desirable, and some who are most opposed to an extra session confess privately that the President shows himself a wise politician in desiring early action and a division of responsibility with Congress in dealing with Cuba."

Among the candidates for appointment in the regular army is Major Herbert M. Lord of Rockland, Maine, now in the pay department of the volunteer army, and with a record of exceptionally excellent service in the Philippines and Cuba. He is now stationed at St. Paul, Minn.

Rev. Edward D. Johnson left today for Brunswick, Maine, to accept the position of rector of St. Paul's church.

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.

Augusta, February 6.—Hanno W. Gage, Esq., of Portland, before the committee on legal affairs this afternoon, presented the case of the Mallison Falls Power company. Mr. Gage explained that a new draft of the bill provided that the lines of the company should not extend into the cities of Portland and South Portland and that the lines should not be erected on private land within 100 feet of a building without the consent of the owner thereof.

Mr. Gage said that it became necessary sometime ago for the Haskell silk mill to obtain power, and the Dana warp mill having bought the old woolen mill, needed more power. The parties found a fine power at Mallison Falls and the legislature not being in session, a power company was formed under the general law, but under the law of 1896 the company could not go into towns already occupied by similar companies. The members of the company as co-partners could supply power to the mills, but it is found that they have abundant power to supply other plants and so they want the powers asked for in the bill. At present the corporation has only the power to hold the property. The electric power is distributed by a co-partnership. It is necessary in order to carry out the project in a business-like way, to have an organization which would permit the financing of the enterprise. The company wants to take stock in other corporations, a thing which has been granted times without number to other companies. Next is the transmission and sale of electricity. Here the company expected to meet opposition under the law of 1896. Now its members could furnish power as individuals and the company believed it should have the right to furnish the power as a corporation. In doing this, the company offers no new competition to existing companies because it can already compete with them through its members acting as individuals in Westbrook, the S. D. Warren company is now furnishing electric power as individuals. The only thing the company would gain by incorporation, it can accomplish now. There is no question but as individuals we can furnish electric light and power anywhere in the state. The policy of the state has been to permit corporations. Large enterprises cannot be successfully conducted by a co-partnership.

Mr. Gage then took up the provision of the bill which gives to the company the right of eminent domain in private land for the purpose of maintaining a pole line. There are many corporations in Maine which have much greater power in this direction. When you purchase a pole line over private land by purchase, you are apt to get squeezed as we did. After you have bought land of 45 poles of 50, the other five are likely to put a high price on their property.

Hon. Charles E. Libby then addressed the committee, saying that he appeared for the Portland Electric Light company and its allied concerns. These companies are now doing a lighting and power business in Portland and Deering with an investment of between $3,000 and $400,000 and a further investment in progress. Mr. Libby gave a history of their enterprise.

The companies are now living amicably with their former opponents and under the charter of the Cumberland Illuminating company, which will ultimately be the absorbent company, has the right to extend its business through Cumberland county. Mr. Libby said that he did not want to make any unreasonable objection to the enterprise of his Westbrook friends, but he did not think that their powers should be limited to what they might reasonably expect to do.

A part of his objection, which was removed by the amendment to the bill offered by Mr. Gage excluding the company from Portland and South Portland, in the case of Gorham, Mr. Libby said his company had intended to go there as soon as their plant was ready and he did not think that this company should be given a roving commission without reference to the older existing companies.

Speaking not only for his companies, Mr. Libby said that it seemed to him a serious provision to give to a company such as this a roving commission to take land by the right of eminent domain, taking the property of private parties without their consent. If such extraordinary powers were to be granted, Mr. Libby thought that they should be given to all such companies a like by an amendment to the general law. He expressed some doubt as to whether it would be found that these companies rendered a public service which would give them the right of eminent domain under the constitution. Mr. Libby said further that from his own experience as a cord sympathizer with the petitioners in their desire to cut across country, but still he was impressed with the gravity of the question.

The gentlemen interested in this bill say that they want first to supply power for manufacturing purposes. How much lighting do you think they can do, gentlemen, with their surplus power? Doesn't it look as if they wanted the cream from our pan of milk? We cannot afford to maintain long lines if others are to use their surplus power to light only thickly settled regions. It is a question of fairness.

Looking at these matters simply as a question of public policy I have always felt that the taking of private property for what is a private purpose is something which should be regarded most seriously, but if the advancement of the arts is such that this is a necessity, we ask that all may be treated alike. I understand that this broad power has been given but once before and in that case the company died. Still I am told that this is a live question before this legislature and one which you will consider.

Coming back to the question of the relations of his companies to the new company, Mr. Libby said that he thought it only fair that the Mallison company should be limited to the field which they could reasonably fill.

In reply to a question, Mr. Libby said that none of the charters of his companies granted the right of eminent domain.

Wm. M. Bradley, Esq., followed Mr. Libby. He said he represented S. D. Warren & Co., and the Consolidated Electric Light company, but spoke more particularly for the Warren company. Mr. Bradley told how S. D. Warren & Co. had gone into the business of lighting Westbrook and Deering, using their surplus power for the purpose. They had strung 60 miles of wire and the business is an expensive one, but they have done it in a satisfactory manner to the towns and their inhabitants. The petitioners can do business now just as S. D. Warren & Co. have done it for 15 years if they will take the risk, and it seems unfair for them to come in as a corporation covered with stocks and bonds, S. D. Warren & Co., object also to the conferring of the right of eminent domain. Mr. Warren authorized Mr. Bradley to say that while such a right along the Presumpscot might insure to his own benefit he was opposed to it on general principles, for the reason that his company would object to other parties going over their premises and they regarded such a right as an injury to the general public.

Mr. Bradley then read from the constitution to show that private property may be taken only when public exigencies require it. He said that he did not think that the petitioners had shown any public necessity in this case.

Mr. Gage addressed the committee in reply. He said that he understood that two points were raised. One was that the existing concerns did not want the new company in their territory. The other was an objection to the right of eminent domain. These were two independent matters. Mr. Libby spoke of fairness. That looked different to him now just after his company had got in that it did before. As to taking the cream, that seemed to Mr. Gage to be nonsense. It was evident that municipal officers would not permit a company to select the parts of a town which it preferred.

Now as to the right of eminent domain. We won't disagree on the question of public necessity but my brother evidently has not examined the statutes very carefully when he says that only one other company has been granted the right of eminent domain.

Mr. Gage then mentioned several electric power companies on which the right of eminent domain had been conferred, including the Knox Gas and Electric company, chartered in 1863; the Demar-cotta Mills Water and Electric Power company, chartered in 1867; the Sebasticook Electric Power company, chartered in 1883.

Mr. Gage mentioned Gorham, Westbrook and Windham as towns which were essential to the company with Standish and nearby towns as possible fields. The company did not care about the northern end of the county.

Mr. Libby said that his company having now completed its plant stood ready to do lighting in Gorham.

Mr. Gage—And we ask to go in there and compete with you. If they want your company, you will do the lighting. If not, we will do it.

The hearing was then closed. Then came the act to incorporate the Bonny Eagle Power company of Standish in behalf of which Judge Isaac L. Elder addressed the committee.

Mr. Gage—And we ask to go in there and compete with you. If they want your company, you will do the lighting. If not, we will do it.

Mr. Libby of the committee asked if the bill gave the right of eminent domain.

Judge Elder said it did. He said he had supposed that to be the policy of the state, but he now found there was a question about it.

The bill proved to be one granting such broad powers that it was the subject of considerable discussion. It not only confers the right of domain but it places no limit on the territory in which the company may operate.

Mr. Eugene F. Whitney of Manchester, N. H., one of the incorporators, spoke in the same line.

Hon. Charles F. Libby said he did not appear in opposition to the bill. He had often wondered why this power had not been developed.

Mr. Bennett of Hollis appeared before the judiciary committee this afternoon to advocate his bill to restore the death penalty, and what he had to say greatly interested a large gathering as well as the members of the committee.

Franklin C. Payson, Esq., also spoke against the bill. He said that should it become a law three men may sit in an office, organize a company and do business without any investigation into the necessities of the case.

Representative Weymouth of Biddeford said that his purpose in formulating the bill amending the statute in regard to the incorporation of churches, was to enable poor holders, not church members, to participate in meetings which were called for the expenditure of money or the calling of a pastor, and also to remove confusing provisions of the present statute.

Representative Walker of Stark and Littlehale of Union opposed the measure. Mayor Morland of Rockland, who spoke in opposition, said that he believed that the detailed stories of executions have done in the past more harm in many communities than murder itself.

Hon. George Pottle of Lewiston in speaking against the bill, said it was the function of the state to punish, not to retaliate. All revenge is crime. He hoped that he would not live to see the time when the death penalty would be revived.

F. D. Marshall, Esq., appeared in favor of the bill to incorporate the York Village corporation. The features of the charter were discussed at length by Mr. Marshall and members of the committee.

Mr. Marshall was the only speaker on the matter.

THE TELEPHONE LAW. Before the railroad committee this afternoon, Representative Hill of Belfast appeared in favor of his bill to repeal the provision of the law of 1893 by which the consent of an existing company is necessary before a company organized under the general law can enter territory occupied by the first company.

"I believe," said Mr. Hill, "that no telephone company should have a monopoly of the business in this state. These companies are organized for the purpose of making money and I think that competition would cause better service and a reduction in the rates. Take the town of Camden, for instance, where there are two companies. The rates are low and I understand that the service is excellent. I have had no quarrel with any company whether it be the New England or the Eastern. In fact, I have no grievance against any concern. I don't care what company it affects, but I protest against the present law. The state has no more right to say whether this company or that company shall do business or not than it has to say who shall raise hay or keep a country store. There are two remedies which might be adopted on the present system. First, the legislature might regulate the rates; second, the national government might assume control, which I hope will be done some day."

Hon. Clarence Hale of Portland, representing the New England company, spoke in opposition to the bill. He said in part: "The proposition that a telephone company, a public concern, should be classed as a grocery store or with the raising of hay is absurd. Such a proposition is contrary to the policy of the state pursued since the organization of the first of these companies. A telephone company should have the rights granted to a railroad company in this particular. The law of 1893 seems to be all right. If you take down the bars you are not protecting the existing companies nor those which will come in the future. If a telegraph or telephone company put in capital in good faith and goes through its initial years with the hope of obtaining reward and after ups and downs begins to make money, it seems an unfair assault upon it that anyone without a special charter from the legislature should be allowed to come into its field. The companies now in existence should be protected. This is a serious matter. It allows the organization of a company merely to get a clutch at the throat of an existing company, when public convenience does not demand it. If there is dissatisfaction with the rates an appeal may be taken to the Supreme court."

Mr. Bennett of Hollis appeared before the judiciary committee this afternoon to advocate his bill to restore the death penalty, and what he had to say greatly interested a large gathering as well as the members of the committee.

Mr. Bennett started off with the statement that murder was getting to be as common in Maine as shooting partridges.

Hon. J. S. Wright of South Paris requested that the bill increasing the jurisdiction of the Rumford Falls municipal court be not assigned at present until after the approaching term of court in Oxford county, so that the lawyers interested may appear.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

Woodfords Universalist Chapel.

The Exercises Witnessed By a Large Company.

Dedicatory Sermon By Former Pastor.

The History of the Society and Building of Church.

The dedicatory exercises of the new Universalist chapel on Clifton street, completed early last December were held last evening. The chapel was crowded to its utmost capacity at the appointed hour for the exercises to commence at 7.30. There were present to assist the pastor, Rev. Harry E. Townsend, the several Universalist pastors of Portland and vicinity. The chapel has been thoroughly described in these columns since its completion, and is a neat and well appointed house of worship. The services commenced with a piano voluntary played by Mrs. J. C. F. Strout, the church organist. The opening anthem "O Worship the Lord," was well rendered by the church choir under the direction of Mr. C. W. Briggs, the musical director.

The next in order was the scripture reading and invocation by Rev. E. B. Barter, pastor of the Westbrook Universalist church. The 12th Psalm was next rendered by the choir chanting alternately with the responsive reading by the congregation. The next in the order of the programme was important as well as interesting, the office of dedication led by the pastor, Rev. Harry E. Townsend, alternating with the congregation.

The following was the concluding portion of the ceremony:

Minister—To the memory of Jesus Christ, first among the mighty spirits of our race, to the noble army of martyrs and workers for every form of truth; to the revered names among the living and the dead in our own household of faith; yea, and to the tenderly beloved who have gone from our homes and friendships, we lovingly dedicate this house.

People—To a religion of joy and trust; to the spirit of a common brotherhood and all the kindly helpfulness which that and people, the decay of the temple worship; the civil war that followed the death of the king; Israel's downfall and the destruction of the temple by Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. "God was in his holy temple as long as the people continued to worship Him in spirit and in truth. When their worship grew hollow and formal He abandoned the beautiful dwelling. Therefore watch and pray that God may ever find this temple the abode of pure, spontaneous worship." This is the happy day for you, one of the happiest of your lives. As we bow our hearts in this beautiful house that God, in his infinite goodness has helped you to build, you feel within the glow of a new hope, a fresh promise. Why should you not rejoice, even as Solomon rejoiced before all the people at the dedication of the temple? You now possess a center of church activity from which a far larger work is possible than ever before. You have built this temple, primarily for the worship of God. Like Solomon, you have felt that you could do nothing that would be so eloquent a testimony to the world of your love for God than to erect a house that should be His.

To us, God is, and always has been, everything. This is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth "May He accept this gift that His people offer Him this night, and bless the givers with abundant prosperity as they labor in His vineyard."

Not only have you builded this house for the worship of God, but for a purpose equally important, for the service of man. True religion necessitates love of man no less than love of God. Never before did the church do so much for the poor and unfortunate. Every church of dedication which was a fervent exhortation for the divine blessing, invoked by Rev. W. W. Hooper of Deering Center, the Universalist state missionary. The prayer was followed with an appropriate response by the choir. The charge to the pastor was delivered by Rev. Henry Blanchard, D. D., pastor of the Congress Square Universalist church of Portland.

Dr. Blanchard was particularly happy in his remarks, offering much in the way of helpful advice to the pastor as well as the people. The charge to the people was delivered by Rev. John Carrell Perkins, pastor of the First Parish, Unitarian church of Portland. Mr. Perkins is a scholarly as well as eloquent speaker, and was listened to with marked attention as he urged his hearers to uphold the hands of their pastor in every good word and work.

After the charge to the people the hymn of dedication was read by Rev. S. G. Davis of Morrills, and sung heartily by the congregation. The hymn was written for the occasion by Mrs. A. N. D. Crocker of Boston. The first stanza was as follows:

God of our fathers, Thou whose way is over all on land and sea, Look down upon us here today, Within this temple, built to Thee."

The exercises concluded by prayer and benediction by the pastor, Rev. Harry E. Townsend.

The Woodfords Universalist society commenced holding preaching services for the first time on Sunday, January 31, 1897. In April, 1897, Rev. F. T. Nelson, pastor of All Souls' Universalist church of Morrills corner, accepted the pastorate of the Woodfords society in conjunction with his pastoral duties at All Souls' church. Mr. Nelson acted acceptably as pastor until late in 1898, when he resigned the pastorate, as the church had grown to such proportions to warrant the employment of a pastor for all his time, and as Mr. Nelson's year had not expired at All Souls' church he remained with that parish until later he was called to the pastorate of the church at East Eddington. The Woodfords society upon receiving the resignation of Mr. Nelson extended a call to Rev. Manley B. Townsend of Dover, Me., to become the pastor. Mr. Townsend accepted the call and filled the pastorate very acceptably for several months, when owing to his health he was obliged to resign. The church next extended a call to the brother of their second pastor, Rev. Harry E. Townsend of Brooklyn, N. Y., who resigned his pastorate in New York to accept the call.

Rev. Harry E. Townsend, the third pastor, commenced his pastoral labors in June, 1899, and since locating here the effort started some two years or so ago to build a church was revived and pushed vigorously until it became evident that something was to be accomplished.

From the time of the organization of the society until the completion of the new chapel, the society held its meetings in Lewis hall on Woodfords street.

relationship involves; to faith in human reason and affection for the discernment of truth, and its free and sincere pursuit, we dedicate this house.

All—We dedicate this church to the Worship of God and to the service of man.

The "Gloria Patria," by the choir was followed by the responsive reading of the 23d Psalm, led by Rev. Herbert F. Moulton of Biddeford. The choir next rendered the "Te Deum Laudamus," by Buck, after which Rev. John Murray Atwood, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, Universalist church of Portland read several select passages of scripture. The sermon of dedication was delivered by Rev. Manley B. Townsend of Humpford Falls and Dixfield, who was the second pastor of the Woodfords society. An extract follows:

The preacher took for his text Psalm 127; "Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it. The preacher began with an account of the building of King Solomon's temple. He described the dedication of the beautiful building and the joy that filled the hearts of Israel's people. Then he sketched briefly the moral lapse of king werthy the name must do something for suffering humanity. But it must not be forgotten that the relief of bodily wants is not the most important work that the church has mankind. The church exists primarily to lead men to God. What men and women need most of all in this world is salvation; salvation, not from any far off, vague future hell, but from the present hell of sin and selfishness and remorse that turns within and will not be quenched. To such the church must hold out the love of God, the means of salvation, the duty the soul owes the author of its being. If they can get heaven within, then outward circumstances will not matter so much. Therefore I say that the church must seek to build up the kingdom of heaven on earth by getting heaven into human hearts. In this great work of salvation the church of God may be considered in a three fold capacity. First, as a lighthouse. Way out upon Cape Elizabeth stands Portland light. Night after night it sends its clear, penetrating rays out o'er the dark waters. The mariner, sailing along our rock bound coast, sees the friendly beacon and steers clear of dangerous rocks and treacherous shoals. It tells others that the city is at hand and guides safely to the snug retreat of the inner harbor. The Gospel of Universalism has blazed up spontaneously in this community. Today it burns with a clear, steady light. The lighthouse has been builded, we stand within it this night. The lamp has been trimmed anew and set within. Long may it continue to shine with undimmed lus-lowing children to grow up to twelve or to fifteen years of age, and then get them converted by an artificial process by a professional revivalist, urge that from the cradles they be so trained that they shall blossom into Christian manhood and womanhood as naturally as the rose unfolds its petals at the warm kiss of the summer sun. As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined, says Pope. You can train a sapling to almost any shape, but the older it grows, the more difficult it becomes to change its form. Childhood is the golden opportunity for the church to mould character. Parents, are you aroused to the importance of this fact? Are your children in the Sunday school? Do you go with them to the house of God Sunday morning? Are you giving them the blessed opportunity that the church has provided. Consider well your responsibility. So, while the church must send out its rays to warn the unwary; while it must launch its life boats to save the shipwrecked; its great work must ever be the quiet, earnest, patient training of souls, young and old, in high and noble living.

"Think of what a blessed influence this church must necessarily be to its loyal supporters. Think of the blessing it will prove to be to generations yet unborn. The faith it professes is the grandest on earth. It teaches One Great, Good Father; one overruling Providence that shapes our ends divinely, rough hewn them how we may; one universal brotherhood; one happy land that is fairer than day, where shall eventually

KNIGHT'S DEFENCE.

Circumstances Compelled His Attorney To Reveal What It Is To Be.

Samuel Locke Suggested As The Possible Criminal.

Testimony of A Sensational Character Introduced.

Knight Not The Only Person With Motive And Opportunity For Crime.

Saco, February 6.—A volume of evidence of a most sensational character made today one of intense interest to the throng of people from all sections of the county and state gathered at the second day's session of the Supreme court for York county, where Edwin Knight stands charged with the murder of Fannie Sprague.

The principal witness for the state was Samuel S. Locke, the employer of Fannie Sprague, and the counsel for the defence went so far in outlining his plan in justification of a certain line of examination as to declare he would attempt to show that Locke was the only person who could have had a motive to rid himself of the Sprague woman; and by virtue of this declaration Attorney Yeaton was allowed to put questions which otherwise might have been excluded. The resourcefulness of respondent's counsel was one of the features of the day's proceedings.

The number of witnesses was small and with the above few exceptions, the testimony was not particularly fruitful. The trial is likely to be long drawn out for the state is said to have a large number yet to testify and two days only cleared up a practically small portion of the evidence.

The first witness to take the stand this morning was Samuel Locke, a Dover, New Hampshire, shoemaker who on May 1, last, occupied the Florence J. Knight place. It was in the barn upon this farm that the body of Fannie Sprague was found. Witness said Mrs. Sprague had been employed by him, to clean house, about ten days previous to May 1. Since that time she had been steadily employed. Although he was not working at his trade at the time, he frequently had occasion to visit South Berwick and other nearby towns and was away from home early every day. On April 23, he said, he went to South Berwick village and on returning during the forenoon found Edwin H. Knight in the house, talking with Mrs. Sprague. Knight held Mrs. Sprague's four year old son on his knee. When witness entered the house Knight addressed him regarding his occupancy of the farm. Knight had charge of the property for a relative, a Mrs. Knight, who took the place in foreclosure proceedings from the former owner. Edwin said he wished Locke to remain on the place another year, under the arrangements prevailing at that time—merely to live upon the place without paying rent to keep the insurance in force.

Witness said he was not averse to accepting the offer, but told Knight that Mrs. Knight, the owner of the property, had warned him to vacate and also had said that the Sprague woman must leave. The settlement of the question was left until a later time, and other matters were discussed. Witness contracted to do some work for Knight and the latter paid him some money for labor done in the past.

On the morning of May 1, witness said he was at work some distance from the house, cutting wood. As he was returning home about noon he was met by Edward Goodwin. Goodwin told him of the finding of Mrs. Sprague's body in the burning barn and together they hurried to the house. When they arrived there there was quite a number of persons about the place, among them the coroner and Florence J. Knight. Witness went directly to the barn and there found tracks made by a man's shoes. He followed the tracks over the hill toward the railroad track in the direction of South Berwick. Witness then returned to the house and during the afternoon Edwin H. Knight called. Witness and Knight were alone for a time and were speaking of the tragedy. Knight expressed horror and surprise at the brutal killing and was discussing the case freely when another person entered the room. Upon the appearance of the third person Knight abruptly changed the topic of conversation and a few moments later left the house.

The cross examination of this witness was conducted in a very spirited manner and dwelt particularly upon his relations with the murdered woman during an acquaintance of three years directly previous to her death. Locke was forced to acknowledge that several letters of a compromising character addressed to the woman, were written by him. Locke admitted that he had known the woman for three years. He had called upon her at her apartments and had dined at her house, but he denied that he ever had furnished either food or money for such entertainment. At this point Lawyer Yeaton brought forth the letters and after they had been read the witness acknowledged that he was the author. Certain expressions in the letters which would tend to compromise the character of Fannie Sprague were presented to the jury in private. During the time witness was being questioned regarding various expressions used in the letter, numerous objections were made by the prosecution. Lawyer Yeaton then took occasion to define the position of the defence, saying that the theory of the state was, in point, that Edwin H. Knight was responsible for the condition of Mrs. Sprague at the time of her death.

The defence maintains it will show that it was not Knight but another who was responsible for this condition. Judge Powers decided the point, saying that "inasmuch as the defence considered this man (the witness) the person who committed the crime," the evidence would be allowed to go in, the ground being a question of motive. Witness then defined what he meant by the expressions referred to in the letter and when further questioned, denied that he ever had improper relations with the Sprague woman.

Then the attorney questioned the witness closely regarding his direct testimony on the footprints near the barn. He was asked how much he told of the case before the coroner's jury, and replied that he told all he knew. It was true, he said, that some details had slipped his mind, but he did not consider them of any great importance. In answer to a question witness threw the blame on his "recollection" for failure to tell of the footprints near the barn when he testified before the coroner's jury.

An attempt on the part of Lawyer Yeaton to learn the whereabouts of the witness daughter and the cause of her being sent away, met with a very prompt objection from counsel for the prosecution, and the objection was sustained by Judge Powers on the ground that the question was biased. At this point recess was taken. When the court returned at two o'clock for the afternoon session, Mr. Locke, again took his place on the stand and the cross examination interrupted by the noon adjournment was resumed. There was a much larger attendance than during the forenoon, every seat in the court room being taken, and it was noticeable that a much greater percentage of women were present.

The cross-examination of Locke was continued along the same line as pursued during the forenoon. Nearly every statement made in his direct examination was taken up by Mr. Yeaton; but particular attention was directed to learning the exact nature of the witness' relation with the Sprague woman during the ten days preceding her death. The testimony given by the witness before the coroner's jury then was taken up. Mr. Yeaton maintained that a portion of this testimony was given during the absence of the stenographer from the room, notes being taken by a deputy sheriff, and that as there might be some question as to the accuracy of these notes, counsel for the defence should be given the right to cross examine at any time, if necessary. This right was granted. This completed the cross examination and the redirect examination by Attorney General Selders was begun.

He continued his examination of witness with reference to the pair of overalls which the latter wore on the day of the murder and of their disposal. As to what the duties of the Sprague woman were, witness replied that she was engaged to do general housework and that he had paid her in part for services rendered. The first search of the Sprague woman's room after the murder failed to reveal the pocketbook which afterwards was found on the occasion of the second search, enclosed in a hand satchel.

Edwin E. Nowell of East Deerfield was next called to the stand. He was at work at the old culvert on the morning of the murder. Witness left this point about 9:35 in the morning to get a load of sawdust and was absent about half an hour. When he returned to the culvert he was joined by George Warren and both proceeded in the direction of the Knight barn. When he entered the building he saw the body of the Sprague woman with the head and neck cut and bruised. In short, his testimony was practically a repetition of that already submitted with reference to the finding of the body and as to its condition. Witness said he then drove to South Berwick to notify the coroner. On the road he passed the residence of Edwin Knight whom he told of the crime. Later was in the yard. His horse was hitched to a wagon in the barn.

Cross-examined, witness said that he believed Edwin Knight was alone at the time. On the morning of the murder Fannie Sprague passed by George Warren's house on her way from the spring with water which she was carrying to the Florence Knight place.

On re-direct examination witness was asked what he told respondent and he replied that he "told him of the murder and asked him to go down." Witness said he thought Knight arrived at the scene of the crime shortly after his return from South Berwick whither he went to notify the coroner.

J. J. McIntire of South Berwick, the undertaker who took charge of the body was the next witness. His testimony covered his actions in regard to the care of the body and the preparations he made for its burial.

Dr. Edwin D. Jacques testified to finding the body and described its condition in a general way as to the cuts and bruises apparent and the blackened condition of the body. On request he detailed minutely the wounds and the seriousness of each. The woman was pregnant and the autopsy revealed that her condition had arisen during a period some six months past.

Dr. Christopher P. Gerrish of South Berwick on the stand stated that he had been called to the Knight place on May last. He found a large pool of blood near the body and the head rested in blood which had firmly matted the hair. The bruise on the top of the head was probably inflicted with a blunt instrument and the blow was evidently delivered from the side. He thought death was due to hemorrhage caused by the wounds on the neck. He could not say whether death would have resulted from any one of the wounds on the head. There was a strong odor of burning flesh. The clothing had been almost completely burned away. The rest of his testimony sustained that of the previous witness as to the condition of the woman, as did also that of Dr. W. E. Light of North Berwick, who was the next witness.

Miss Georgie Knight testified that on the morning of May first she made her usual trip to South Berwick, where she attended school. As she passed along the road she saw Fannie Sprague in the yard of the Knight house. Saw no one as she went by Edwin Knight's place. Fannie Sprague's child visited at her home during the Christmas time and remained nearly a week. On cross examination she said her mother, sister and brother were at home when she left and Sam Wright was near by in the wood yard.

Miss Shirley Thompson passed the Knight house on the morning of the murder in company with George Knight. She saw Fannie Sprague in the yard of the Florence Knight house. Down in the field she saw her father and George Perkins driving in the direction of the railroad.

Looking up the railroad in the direction of the Florence Knight place he saw a man walking on the track towards North Berwick. He continued up the road in an effort to locate respondent, and after proceeding as far as he thought necessary he waited about three minutes, called aloud once, and then returned over the same road, and continued thence to South Berwick. On the way he saw Mrs. Edwin Knight and continuing to the Florence Knight place he met respondent and after a reference to the crime in a general way, they proceeded to converse on business matters. Nothing much of the murder entered into their later conversation.

The following morning witness met respondent according to an engagement arranged some days in advance and each man with two teams of horses and wagons started out for Shapleigh some twenty or more miles away. On the road witness had no definite recollection of respondent's referring to the murder except in a very general way. They were together during a greater part of the next week at Shapleigh where a wood lot engaged their attention.

Cross examined he told his statement of a previous engagement to visit Shapleigh to look over a wood lot. Neither Mr. Perkins or witness left the wagon while searching for Knight in the pasture. Witness could not distinguish who the man seen on the track was, nor could he recall the color of his clothing because of the distance. He restated much of his previous testimony. He was subjected to close questioning as to the subject of hauling Edwin H. Knight's old cart to Shapleigh when it was to all intents put to no use.

The examination continued until six o'clock when adjournment was taken, the court to meet tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

FIRE AT STROUDWATER.

A $75 Blaze in House Owned By Chapman Heirs.

At a quarter past eight o'clock last evening fire was discovered in the two story and a half wooden house at 1442 Congress street, in the Stroudwater district, owned by the Chapman heirs. Two boys going to the dance "at Quinby hall, first saw the fire and reported to Mr. George B. Jacobs, a clerk at Hawes' grocery store. Mr. Jacobs at once pulled in alarm from box 734. Hose 6 made the run from Burnham street in 14 minutes, remarkably good time.

Arriving on the scene the fireman found a brisk blaze in a small ell connected with the house. The house is occupied by Samuel A. Chapman and Lorenzo Chapman, the latter using this ell as his room. The fire was confined to one side of this room and burned out the woodwork, causing a damage of about $75. There was nobody in the house at the time and it is supposed that the fire was caused by a spark from the stove which was in the ell. The loss is fully covered by insurance in the agency of Anderson, Adams & Co.

FRANK M. LOW & CO., Men's Outfitters, MONUMENT SQUARE, SNUFF TRADE REVIVING.

New England Said To Be Reverting to an Old Time Habit.

(From the New York Tribune.) Last year, contrary to the usual run of the tobacco trade, a large decrease in the manufacture of snuff was reported. In 1899 nearly 18,000,000 pounds were manufactured, and less than 14,000,000 pounds in 1900. On the face of it, one would say that the taking of snuff was passing away with the 19th century and the lingering "last leaves" who cling to the blistic and unesthetic practice. As a matter of fact, however, these figures really show an increase. The average for some years previous to 1899 was between 10,000,000 and 11,000,000 pounds. The competition of enterprising firms and the growth of the industry caused no little overproduction, which has now been stopped by a consolidation of the snuff manufacturing interests. The last year managed, therefore, to raise the average of snuff production some 3,000,000 pounds, besides using the surplus of 1899.

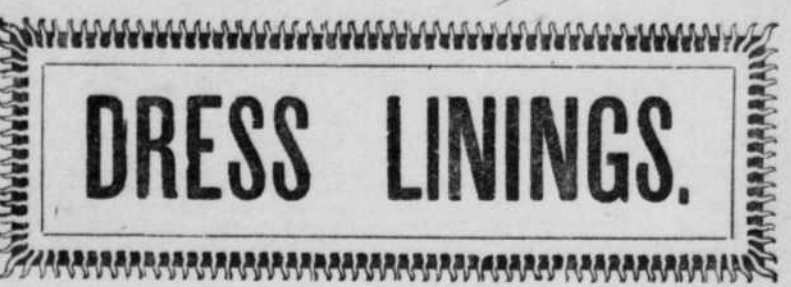

So there is plenty of snuff in the United States. Who takes it? An ordinary mortal probably numbers no snuff-tokers among his acquaintances; but, according to dealers, this may be because he has no access to the sanctum sanctorum. It is in the East that the sale of snuff is most decidedly increasing, and of all cities, Boston seems most enthusiastic over the general art. There is a legend that women are beginning to exchange silver snuff boxes as Christmas presents, but this story seems to bear the light touch of playful fancy. But statistics, in spite of their evil reputation, must tell a certain amount of truth, and figures declare that New England is now the happy hunting ground of the snuff seller. The speculative brain of a mathematical turn may not pleasure in calculating how long it will take before snuff-taking assumes the grip of a Boston led, and what will be the effect, if any, on the anti-imperial league. In the South it is less surprising to find snuff-taking. Among the old negroes

A NEW DEPARTURE.

A New, Effective and Convenient Cure for Catarrh.

Of catarrh remedies there is no end, but of catarrh cures there has always been a great scarcity...

The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease...

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach an internal antiseptic treatment is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system...

Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh salve but they were no good in my case...

They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel that I can not do enough in favor of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets...

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. and the tablets are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada.

Some Comments of Canadian Papers on the Grand Trunk's Move.

A Tendency to Blame the Government for the Change.

Discussing the Grand Trunk's announcement of its intention to hereafter to its summer as well as its winter business through Portland, the Toronto World remarks:

"The Grand Trunk has announced that it will hereafter use Portland as its seaboard terminal in summer as well as in winter. Montreal has been severely hit on several occasions of late, but this abandonment of the port by the Grand Trunk railway is the hardest blow that has yet been directed against the city."

A few months ago the Canada Atlantic railway, having completed its line to Quebec and constructed an elevator there, transferred its business from Montreal to Quebec, which will in future be its seaboard terminal.

Monthly Meeting of School Board.

Supt. Kaler Submits the Annual Report.

Other Important Matters Considered.

Social and Personal Items of General Interest.

The last regular monthly meeting of the present school board was held last evening and was presided over by Mayor Reynolds. Messrs. Weeks and Lombard absent. A large number of current bills were read and approved and the special committee appointed to draw up the annual report submitted the same through the superintendent, J. Otis Kaler. The report dealt in a very exhaustive and comprehensive way with the details of school management and referred to the grading of the schools and its importance, to the interest in the monthly meeting of the teachers and to the will of truancy and the necessity of parents using their utmost endeavors to check the same. The total number of pupils enrolled is 1265 and the number of days lost was 15,592, an average of 10.8-10 for each pupil, a decrease of about one half from the figures of last year. The report says: To allow the child to remain away from a single session save in the most urgent cases is doing him a positive injury. An elaborate statement of school expenses is incorporated into the report from which it appears that the cost per capita of High school is $28.70, and common school $12.25 as against $13.19 the preceding year. The aggregate cost of maintaining the schools is increased, but this arises from the increased number of pupils enrolled. Adequate heating apparatus is recommended for the High school building and needed repairs in certain schools in the Pleasantville district. The report was accepted as the report of the full board.

COMMITTEE ON ESTIMATES REPORT.

Mr. Tilton of the committee on estimates and expenditures, reported as follows on the amounts needed to meet the probable needs of the coming year: Common schools, 7,099; Common schools repairs, 1,560; Insurance and apparatus, 1,430; Text books, 1,100; High school, 1,890; High school supplies, 800; Superintendent's accounts, 800. The report was made a part of the official report of the school board.

OTHER MATTERS.

Superintendent Kaler stated that a bill amounting to $607.40 for tuition of Cape Elizabeth pupils in South Portland schools, had been presented and been paid by the town authorities. A petition was received from the pupils in the grammar grades at Knightville asking that their school be known as the Rogers school. A like request was made that the school on East High street be called the Kaler school. Dr. Brown suggested that it would be better to name the schools of the city so as to commemorate some event of local history, and Superintendent Kaler was quite eloquent in his reference to the history of the town, and said no better names could be found than "Poor Poddeck" and "Lovett" for the East High and Willard school, citing interesting historical events to support his contention. The matter was left to the superintendent who will advise with the scholars and assist them in adopting names associated with local history. The board then adjourned.

MOVEMENTS OF STEAMERS.

Two Arrived and One Departed Yesterday—One to Sail Today. Yesterday the steamers Corinthian and Norwegian of the Alaska line arrived at this port and the Numidian of the same line sailed. The Corinthian came from Liverpool and up to the last three days of her trip encountered fairly good weather. On the last three days a heavy snowstorm and severe gales were met. A fair cargo and about 108 passengers were brought. These passengers were all Finns who were coming to this country to make their homes. They passed the inspection of the health authorities and were huddled together in the big waiting shed built last fall for just such purposes. They were the object of considerable curiosity while in the shed yesterday afternoon. Their ages ranged from infants up to men and women of middle life. All are strong and rugged and look as though they would become industrious people. They remained in the big shed until the evening train of the Grand Trunk when they started for their destination. The Norwegian came from Glasgow and experienced a rough passage. Besides a cargo of about 300 tons twenty returning cattlemen and one stowaway were brought. The Numidian left Liverpool at two o'clock in the afternoon, taking a full cargo and about fifty passengers. There are now due to arrive at this port any time within the next few days the Willowden and Fremona of the Thomson line and the Strathnevis of the Elder-Dempster line. The Westphalia of the Hamburg-American line is expected to sail this morning.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be given at the Jefferson Tuesday afternoon and evening upon a very elaborate scale, under management of Leon Washburn. The part of "Uncle Tom" is played by Mr. Fred Bennett, probably the best known impersonator of the character in America, as he was the original in Stetson's company, which has been before the public for many years. Misses Kitty Morgan and Bertha Crobin, are the Tupples, and Messrs. Nick Glenn and George Harris play the character of Marks, the lawyer. There will be fifty capable people in the cast and players of more than ordinary ability. A grand street parade will be given on Tuesday in which will be seen Col. Sawyer's challenge pack of genuine Siberian bloodhounds, prize Shetland ponies, a number of beautiful chariot and trolley wagons and two bands of music, drum corps, etc. Watch for the parade.

PHELAN STOCK COMPANY.

The Phelan Stock Company is recognized everywhere as one of the very best repertoire organizations on the road, the high favor it enjoys here being in common with its popularity in other cities so fortunate as to be included in the Phelan circuit. It will of course be very gratifying to Jefferson Theatre patrons to know that the company is to play a return engagement there next week, opening Monday in "The Ensign." A special feature will be Raymon Moore, the great tenor. All of Mr. Seton-Thompson's writings and drawings descriptive of the personality of wild animals are enhanced many fold by his inimitable description of them from his own lips. It is seldom that an author-artist is gifted with the ability to entertain upon the lecture platform, but Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson is as clever with his voice as with his pen and pencil. Mr. Thompson gives two illustrated lectures at City hall, Saturday afternoon and evening, February 10. Seats on sale at Stockbridge's Piano Room, Saturday, February 9.

HURTON HOLMES TONIGHT.

"The Paris Exposition" will be the subject of Hurton Holmes' lecture in City hall tonight and patrons are assured of a most interesting lecture, profusely illustrated with still and moving pictures. This lecture will contain over 150 magnificently colored still views besides a most interesting collection of moving pictures. Many people have asked how the Paris exposition compared with the World's Fair at Chicago. No amount of words can adequately answer this question, but a good idea will be gained of the Paris exposition by attending this lecture. Course and evening tickets on sale at Cressey, Jones & Allen's.

NELL GYXN.

The success of "Neil Gwyn" and the Portland Theatre Stock company, is the principal topic of conversation among theatre-goers. The audiences increase there is a reason for it. It's because LIEBIG'S EXTRACT is very carefully made from the finest cattle the world produces by experienced chemists that

HANDS IS BREAKING DOWN.

Since his hearing in the Municipal court Edward Graffau who was bound over to the grand jury on the charge of murdering Clifford Mosher on December 13th, has maintained the same calm and indifferent demeanor. He talks to no one and refuses to see all visitors. The negro Hands is said to be breaking down. He sent word to Sheriff Pearson that he wanted him to come into his cell and pray with him but the Sheriff was unable to comply with the request.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.

LINCOLN CLUB BANQUET.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Lincoln club was held last evening to further arrange plans for the banquet which takes place next Tuesday evening. Preceding the banquet a reception will be held in the officers' quarters from 7.30 to 8 o'clock.

THE MAGAZINES.

The Popular Science Monthly for February is a number that should be in the hands of every one who is interested in science. The opening article on "The Life and Work of Huxley," by Lord Avebury—perhaps better known to Americans as Sir John Lubbock—is an extremely interesting account of the great naturalist by one of his most intimate friends. Mr. George M. Hensberg, Surgeon-General of the United States army, describes malaria and the recent work demonstrating the connection of this disease with mosquitoes, perhaps the most important scientific advance since the discovery of the X-rays. Among other articles in the number are "The Philippines One Hundred Years Ago," by Professor E. E. Slosson, of the University of Wyoming; "The Dolmens of Rocknia," by Professor A. S. Packard, of Brown University; on the way the weather is treated by the newspapers, by Mr. H. M. Watts, of the Philadelphia Press; on the New York Aquarium (illustrated), by Professor C. L. Bristol, of New York University; on a Century of Meteorites, by Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, of the Field Columbian Museum.

ORGAN RECITAL.

The organ recital last evening at the Congress Square Universalist church was attended by a fair sized audience. Mr. Everett Truette proved himself to be an artist on the instrument. The "Prayer," by Callert, the Benediction Nuptiale, and the Elevation by Rousseau were given with great expression and proved Mr. Truette's ideas of realization to be varied and original, while in the Bach "Fugue" and Sonata in a minor, his fine pedal work and manual execution showed great advantage. Taken as a whole it was one of the best recitals ever given here and was thoroughly appreciated by all those that attended.

McAULIFFE STOCK COMPANY.

All next week at Portland theatre will appear Jere McAuliffe and his big stock company. Matinees will start Tuesday. The opening play will be "Tom Edison, the Electrician." Seats will go on sale at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

VANITY FAIR COMING.

One of the coming attractions at the Jefferson will be Miss Gertrude Coghlan as Becky Sharpe in Vanity Fair which is booked for February 19.

NOTES.

Henry Guy Carleton, the playwright, suffered a stroke of apoplexy last Thursday, and is seriously sick, but is reported to be slowly recovering. As the result of a suit brought against them by Elizabeth Marbury, as representative of Henry Hengel and Paul Emil Chevalier, Justice Blanchard issued an injunction restraining Samuel E. Hook, Thomas Q. Seabrooke and S. Stryker Williamson from continuing the production of "The Rounders," unless they give security for the payment of royalties claimed. In his decision Justice Blanchard says that the suit appears to be one to determine contract rights. The music hall managers, Weber & Fields, were on Sunday night initiated into the society of the White Hats, and they signified their admission by making the White Hats a present of a lot at One-hundred-and-forty-ninth St., and Park ave., for a club house. The White Hats are a social and benevolent organization of variety actors.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES.

The Republicans of Portland, hereinafter designated, are notified to meet in caucus in their respective ward rooms, on Tuesday, February 19th, A. D. 1901 at 5.30 o'clock p. m., to select five delegates from each ward to attend the Portland Republican Mayoralty Convention to be held at Reception hall, Portland, Maine, on Thursday, February 21st, 1901, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for mayor and a female candidate for member of school committee; also to nominate candidates for each ward as follows, to wit: One alderman, three councilmen, warden, clerk, and two constables; and in wards 2, 4, 6, 7 and 9 a candidate for member of the school committee; also to select for each ward five members of the Republican city committee for the ensuing year. The polls will be open at 5.30 o'clock and will remain open until 9 o'clock p. m., and for such further time as any caucus may vote. A check list prepared by the Republican city committee will be used in each ward, and any person whose name has not been marked thereon as a Republican, is not included in this call and will not be allowed to vote or take any part in said caucus. Said check list will be verified by the respective ward committees and all errors or omissions in the marking thereof, will be corrected upon application to said ward committees, who will be in session for that purpose at Republican Headquarters, Room 3, Brown block, 547 Congress street, Portland, from 7.30 to 9 o'clock in the evening, of the 16th and 17th of February, and at any time prior to 3 o'clock on the day of the caucus, but no corrections of any kind will be made after the hour above mentioned. Republicans who register on Monday, and on the day of the caucus, and whose names have not been marked on said list, may vote upon presentation of satisfactory evidence that they have registered and after satisfying the ward committees that they are Republicans. All Republicans are requested to see that their names are correctly marked upon this list, and to be present and take part in their respective ward caucuses. A plurality of votes cast in any ward caucus will be required to nominate candidates for office. The official ballot to be used at the several caucuses will be prepared and printed by the Republican City Committee and will contain the names of candidates for delegates to the several conventions and all other ward officers. The names of candidates for said delegates and ward officers will be placed upon these ballots on request, such request to be made to the Chairman of the City Committee on or before 12 o'clock noon on Monday, February 18, 1901, but any other written or printed ballots, not in limitation of the official ballot, will be received. The chairman and secretary of each caucus will make a record of the names of all persons for whom ballots are cast and the number of votes cast for each candidate, and certify and deliver the same, together with the check list at Republican Headquarters immediately after the adjournment of the caucus. The delegates selected to attend the Mayoralty Convention are requested to meet at Reception hall, on Thursday, February 21, at 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate for mayor, and one female candidate for member of school committee. FRANK I. MOORE, Chairman. HARRY M. BUELOW, Secretary. Portland, February 1, 1901.

Storchman and Henry Mayer. The February Everybody's Magazine is a first rate number full of articles with life and vim in them. In every contribution there is spirit and individuality. The stories are brisk and stirring, the descriptive articles notably interesting and vivid. Nothing better in its way, has been written than Maximilian Foster's The Conqueror, which tells in picturesque style the life of a tall carlin in the Northern woods. The Carolites of Courage is a subject that appeals naturally to Richard Harding Davis, who narrates a variety of entertaining stories illustrating various phases of the war, all of which make capital reading. The Making of a Country Home by J. P. Mowbray, is a charming opening to a series of articles which will have a wide circle of readers. There is a X-ray by W. J. Lampton, a virile impression of the fight at Bloody Angle, by Carl Hovey, together with stories by Adachi, and the continuation of the stirring novel, Jocelyn Chastell by Sara Beaumont Kennedy. McClure's Magazine for February contains a study of Croker, by William Allen White, in which this brilliant writer analyzes Tammany's leader and declares the secrets of his power; In the World of Craft, by Josiah Flynt, the author, who has won fame as a personal explorer of the underworld, discusses Chicago and its municipal government from the view point of the law-breakers themselves; Professor Ira Remsen, LL. D., contributes an account of some Unsolved Problems of Chemistry, in which he treats of those curious and puzzling phenomena that baffled all the efforts of science to explain them; this number is notable for its fiction and for its art. The authors represented are Rudyard Kipling, Robert Barr, Sarah Orne Jewett, Josephine Dodge Daskam, and Edwin Lester; the artists are Benson Fox, Edmund Sully, Lowell, Kipling, Edwin Lord Weeks, Genevieve Cowles, Charles L. Hinton, Henry Hunt, George Gibbs and Frederic Dorr Steike; Scribner's Magazine for February begins a new series of theatrical life—a form of articles in which it has been peculiarly fortunate in the past, having published the recollections of Lester Wallace and Mrs. John Drew, who are here begun, are full of vivacity, incident, and entertaining recollections of great actors of the past half century. Mrs. Gilbert is eighty years of age and has been on the stage for more than seventy years of that time, beginning as a dancer when a mere child at Drury Lane. This statement first gives some recollections of her childhood and then the narrative moves to America where Mrs. Gilbert and her husband emigrated in 1840. Her recollections of her experiences in Chicago

A Model Watch.

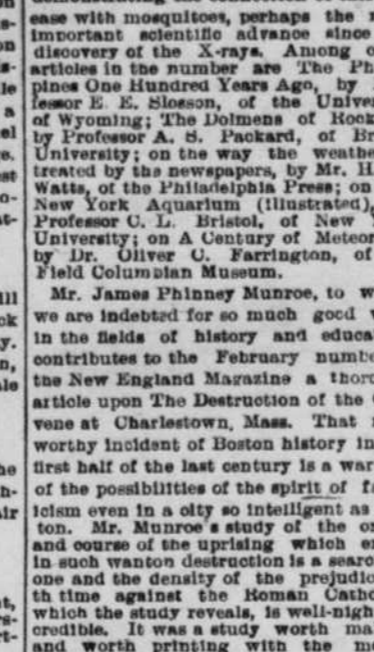

The THIN model—deservedly popular because of its many good points. This slender and graceful timepiece will slip into a vest or a fob pocket without causing that bulging which is so objectionable. It is especially desirable for evening wear when one wishes to carry a watch that does not betray its presence. We are showing them in solid 14 K gold; also in gold filled cases.

Milwaukee, St. Louis, and other western cities are very amusing, and gives a vivid idea of the old stock companies of half a century ago. It is remarkable that when Mrs. Gilbert first appeared in New York she came as a "western" actress from Cincinnati. These reminiscences, which will run through three numbers of the Magazine, are exact transcripts of the conversations with her friend Mrs. Charlotte M. Martin, who has been a most sympathetic editor. The abundant illustrations have been selected from the wonderful collections of Evert Janssen Wedell, and also from Mrs. Gilbert's own souvenirs. Mme. Melba and Jean de Ruzke tell of their lives and art in copiously illustrated interviews in the February, 1901, issue of The American Queen. Following this very interesting article is a story of a celebrated musical composer entitled, A Coverted Artist on Music. Other complete stories are A Lover's Quarrel, Why the Museum was Built, and There are Two Sides to Everything, Fancy Dress costumes, evening frocks and the advance styles in Spring gowns and millinery are shown in effective profusion, and an article on What Dress Makes of Us is replete with suggestions for women in all conditions of life. G. Bush, the cartoonist, terse comment on books and the record of doings of the month in trade and professions. Among the World's Workers. Sahara is the greatest desert. A GUARANTEE. THE SPECULATIVE PUBLIC has assurance of the reliable and sound nature of this enterprise in the fact that, as an evidence of good faith to present purchasers of the original stock, the owners of the Mines, the Directors of the Company, and their personal friends, HAVE POOLED THEIR STOCK, AMOUNTING TO $5,160,000.00, UNDER AN UNTRANSFERABLE VOTING TRUST FOR A PERIOD OF FIVE YEARS FROM OCTOBER 1ST, 1901, and have deposited said stock in trust with the West End Trust and Safe Deposit Company of Philadelphia.

Mayorality Convention Slimly Attended.

Mr. Merrill Nominated For Mayor.

Mrs. Coolidge Nominated For School Board.

The Democratic mayorality convention was held at Reception hall last evening and it was a very tame affair. The attendance was about the smallest that has ever been known at a gathering of this kind and there were certainly no signs of the lively interest which it has been said the Democrats are manifesting this year. Originally it had been intended to begin proceedings at 7:30 o'clock, but it was nearly 8 before Chairman land forwarded to Representative Webb at Augusta, petitions signed by 500 Portlanders asking favorable action on a bill which Mr. Webb will introduce this week, making it optional with municipalities to place their entire tax levy on real estate, exempting its incumbents.

A real estate agent of this city has given out the information that representatives from the temple at Shiloh, Me., have recently been in the city looking for a rent in which to establish a sort of sub-station for furthering the work begun several years ago at Shiloh.

OBITUARY.

JAMES W. PINKHAM.

After an illness which dated from last November and which developed into Bright's disease, Mr. James W. Pinkham died at the home of his mother, 11 Deering avenue, at 6:40 o'clock last evening. The first of the year Mr. Pinkham returned from New York where he had been under the care of a specialist and under which treatment it had been hoped that his condition would show improvement.

Mr. Pinkham was a young man who had a large number of friends and his early death will be the occasion of sincere mourning. He was a tireless worker and from the lowest round had worked his way up to the position of one of the members of the well-known business concern of A. F. Cox & Son. He had been with this house for over 20 years.

Mr. Pinkham was the only surviving son of Mrs. Caroline D. Pinkham, widow of the late Thomas C. Pinkham and was born in Brunswick 41 years ago last May. Two sisters, Mrs. H. H. King and Mrs. W. A. Fagan, both of this city, are left.

He was a well-known and influential member of several secret societies, having been one of the past officers of Windsor Castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, Past Grand of United Lodge of Odd Fellows and Past Chancellor of Pine Tree lodge of the Knights of Pythias.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence of A. S. Pinkham.

MRS. NELLIE G. JONES.

As many friends of Mrs. Nellie Gartrude Jones will be pained to learn of her death which occurred at her home on Cushman street after an illness of only a few weeks. She leaves a father, mother, sister and a son, Leon, besides hosts of friends to mourn her loss. She was a member of Pine St. Methodist church and was one of its most efficient workers, always ready to say a good word or do a good deed at every opportunity. Her heart was always in sympathy with the weak and suffering and many are the deeds of kindness shown to the unfortunate. She was organist at the Congregational church at Gerham and had accepted the position as organist at the Pine St. church. She has passed through many trials but her sweet nature has triumphed over every difficulty and come out stronger and purer in the end. Funeral to be held Thursday at 2 o'clock, from her late residence, No. 8 Cushman street.

W.L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOE UNION MADE

To the Public:—Twenty-five years experience enables me to offer the best $3.50 shoe in the world for men. My constantly increasing business has enabled me to reduce the cost so that I can give the wearer more value for $3.50 than any other manufacturer. I make and sell, at $3.50 a pair, more $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer; on account of this large business the wearers get the benefit, the magnitude of my business permitting me to make a fair profit by charging only a few cents per pair above the actual cost. Others producing less than half the quantity, have to reduce the quality to make a satisfactory profit.

I believe my $3.50 shoes are now made to as high a standard as it is possible to make shoes. The style, material and workmanship are just as good as the best custom made bench work.

Yours truly, W.L. Douglas, W.L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass., will send you a pair by mail for $3.50. Enclose 10c. Stock Gait Sole Leather and Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively in our shoes.

Sore Hands Red Rough Hands Itching Burning Palms and Painful Finger Ends

ONE NIGHT TREATMENT

Soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of CUTICURA SOAP. Dry, and anoint freely with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. Wear, during the night, old, loose kid gloves, with the finger ends cut off and air-holes cut in the palms. For red, rough, chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, with shapeless nails and painful finger ends, this treatment is simply wonderful.

Millions of Women Use Cuticura Soap

Assured by CUTICURA OINTMENT, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sensitive antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used them to use any others, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor, $1.25. Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle; CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation and irritation and soothe and heal; and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring and humiliating skin, scalp and blood humors, with loss of hair when all else fails. Sold throughout the world.
