Cape Town, Thursday, February 22.- In reply to Gen. Cronje's request for an armistice of twenty-lour hours to allow him to bury his dead Gen. Kitchener told the Boer commander that he must fight to a finish or surrender unconditionally. Gen. Cronje's position is reported hopeless.

General ish infantry in the hope of forcing their Cronje immediately sent back word that way out or to surrender. derstood, and that his determination then as before was to fight to the death.

The battle went on. This was the si toation of General Cronje Tuesday evening, as sketched in the scanty telegrams that have emerged from the semi-silence of South Africa.

Officially Lord Roberts wires that he has scattered the advance commandoes of the reinforcements that were striving to reach General Cronje. It is regarded as singular that Lord Roberts, wiring Wednesday should not mention the appeal for an armistice on the previous day, and also that the war office should withhold good news if it has any.

Without trying to reconcile even the scapty materials at hand, it seems plain that General Cronje is in a bad, and even a desperate situation and that the British are pressing their advantage. While the attack on General Cronje proceeds, there is a race for concentration between the Boers and the British. The engagement with General Cronje's five thousand to eight thousand entrenched men is likely to become an incident in a battle between the masses. The separated factions of the Boer power are rapidly draw to attack Lord Roberts. Will General Cronje be able to hold out until the Boer masses appear or, if he does, will they then be able to succor him. The British are facing the Boers on ground where the arms, tactics and training of the British are expected to give hem the advantage.

General Buller, according to a despatch from Chieveley dated Wednesday, finds the Boers in positions north of the Tugels largely reinforced. This seems strange The war office for the first time has given out an official compilation of the British losses. The total is 11,208 to February 17. This does not include, therefore, Lord Roberts' recent losses, nor the Wiltshire prisoners.

The press association learns that the British losses at Koodoosrand were seven hundred.

Three thousand fresh troops will embark for South Africa today. The relative position of the combatants is likened to chess players, one of whom, from time to time, adds pieces to the board, while any loss to the adversary is trreplaceable.

The morning papers aliude to the thoughtfulness of Lord Roberts in sending a despatch to the Earl or Minte, the anadian governor general.

The military critic of the Times urge the continuance of efforts to send mor troops to South Africa, so as to be ready fer the many difficulties that must be surmounted even after Lord Roberts has succeeded against General Cronje. He "The splendid spirit shown in Canada which has just received the first news of losses incurred in the cause of the empire should serve to impel us to greater exertions."

Cronje's March Ends in Disaster.

Tuesday, Feb. 20,-General Cronje's magnificent night march from Magersaster. The main body of the Boers is enclosed in a terrible death trap. The enemy are hiding in the bed of the Modand enclosed on the east and west by the British infantry.

It is somewhat difficult to explain Sunday's action in which all the British force was engaged and in which General Cronge, under difficult conditions, managed to hold his own. On Saturday night the British mounted infantry came into touch with Cronje's rear guard, driving it back upon the main body. On Sunday morning the action was renewed but the Boers, who had entrenched the river bed during the night, prevented a further advance of the mounted infantry in this direction.

Meanwhile the highland brigade, consisting of the Seaforths, the Black Watch and the Argylls, advanced from the South bank and the Essex, Welsh and Yorkshires formed a long line on the left which rested on the river, the extreme right being the Welsh. The whole line was ordered to envelop the Boers, who lined both banks of the river. The firing soon became heavy. The Boers, holding a splendid position, covered the left of the highland brigade, which advanced partly up the river bed and partly in the open, while the rest of the brigade with the other regiments, swung around the front of the highland brigade on the level, cover less ground, exposed to a terrible fire which obliged the men to lie on the ground as they did for the remainder of the day.

This began at half past seven in the norning. Through the dreadful heat and a thunder storm, our men hung to the position, answering the Boer fire and shooting steadily. In the meantime the rest of the infantry completed the enveloping movement the Welsh regiment having succeeded in seizing the Drift, thus closing in the Boers who had fought throughout with splendid courage. General Cronje's . General Smith-Dorrien colfontein now appears likely to end in dis-lected a large body of men, including the Canadians and crossed the river by Paardeberg Drift, advancing toward the laager, which was being vigorously der, commanded by the British artillery shelle I. Toward evening the battery on the south side opened, co-operating with the battery on the north side. A wonderful sight followed. The shells fell with amazing precision along the river bed, opposite the laager which was shelled thoroughly, damaging everything it contained. SUPERSTITIONS.

There are a good many superst!tions about glasses. Spectacle fakirs have been taking advantage of this fact for many years. They have a long story about the peculiar material of which the lenses are composed. They call them "magnetized" lenses, "electric lenses," pebbles," "rainbow pebbles" and a thousand other high sounding names. They tell you that by their wonderful virtue an electric corrent is constantly circulating through the eyes and healing them of all disease. They tell you that if you will wear them for six months you will never need glasses again. I believe in some osses that this is true. I should never expeot to use my eyes again if I wore some of these glasses for six months. The secret of getting perfect comfort with glasses, is in the skill and accuracy with which they are fitted. The best leases in the world if not formed to neutralize the peculiar defects of the eye do more harm than good. Good lenses perfectly adjusted to the eyes, is my specialty.

On Porto Rican Tariff Bill Yesterday.

Mr. McCall's Argument Against the Mrasure.

Gen. Grosvenor in Its Favor.

Speeches by McLellan, Brantly, Parker and Others.

" Washington, February 22.- The debate on the Puerto Rican tariff bill brought out reveral notable speeches in the House today, including one by Gen. Grosvenor of Ohic, who answered a number of questions as to the attitude of the President, another by Representative McCail of Massachusetts, the Republican member of the ways and means committee, who dissented from the majority report, and Representative Moody of Massachusetts, who sharply criticised the position of his colleague. Mr. McClellan of New York and Mr. Brantly of Georgia ker of New Jersey in support of it. The debate was continued at a night ression.

Mr. McClellan of New York opened the debate speaking in the opposition to the

Mr. McClellan said in part: On its face the bill is simple enough. It provides for a reduction of 75 per cent in the Dingley tariff rates on all goods imported to and from Puerto Rico, and yet it is the most outrageous opportunism that has been sulmitted to a legislative body, at least since the days of that prophet of opportunism, Leon Gambetta.

The bill must be considered from two aspects, the legal and the moral.

The position of the majority in reference to the status of Puerto Rico is this: That Puerto Rico belongs to the United States but is not a part of the United States, and that the constitution does not extend over it proprie vigore. enunciated this proposition the majority demurs and insists that even if the constitution does extend over Puerto Rico proprio vigore, the treaty of Paris is the supreme law of the land and if in conflict with the constitution, then that treaty is paramount.

In the case of Puerto Rico there has been no violation of the great principles that "governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Puerto Rico belongs to us and it is necessary for us to consider first, what is the status of its inhabitants and second, what is the status of its territory.

Mr. McCleilan then urged at some length, quoting a great many decisions to prove that the position of the majority was untenable and that the inhabitants of Puerto Rico are citizens of the United of citizens and that the constitution extends proprio vigore over the island of Puerto Rico, the United States only holding it in trust for the state eventually to be erected out of its territory. Continu - ing, Mr. McClellan said: 'The moral aspect of the case is quite as important as is the legal. It involves the good faith, the credit and the honor of the United States. Some gentlemen distinguish between individual honor and national honor, some insist that there is one standard of honesty for the individual and no standard whatever for the nation. Puerto Rico came to us freely of her own accord, believing that she would become a part of the United States and enjoy the blessings of our constitution and of free intercourse with us. I find myself taking my stand with the minority in support of the President of the United States against the party that elected him to office.

In closing Mr. McClellan said: "There are these of us who are fond of saving that the white man's burden lies far beyoud the summer seas, and the white man's duty requires that he bear his burden no matter how much it may oppress him. "There are those of us who in all sincerity maintain that it is the duty of this country to extend the blessings of its civilization to the people of the east. They tell us that an open door in China would increase our commerce and that the addition of millions of pauper savages to our rody politic would improve the condition of American labor. I may be conservative beyond reason, but I think I am an humble member of the great majority of the people of this country who believe that the greatest glory of a free people is in its honor and in its righteousness as a nation, that there is only one rule of conduct for the individual and for governments; that the same standard of honor should govern this congress as governs its most inconspicuous member; that our ultimate destiny will be worked out through the factories of the east, in the wheat fields of the west and in the plantations of the south; that we must strive for happiness not in Asia but in America, that the radiance of our flag one sist most not in the triumphs of under the majority of the people is in the form of the constitution of the unit of would increase our commerce and that own. Mr. McClellan was frequently applauded by his arsociates. Mr Brantley of Georgia spoke against the bill. He pointed out that a year had esapsed since the trea'y of peace and yet Congress had failed thus far to lay down a policy for the Philippines. It was this inaction by Congress he said which spread uncertainty among the Filipines and nerved them to further opposition. He declared that the new Philippine commission could acomplish nothing.

When Mr. Grosvenor began speaking in support of the Porto Rican bill he had a well filled house. He said that any political party or individual who took part in ratifying and supporting the treaty with Spain was stopped from opposing any of the legitimate effects of that treaty. When that treaty hung in the balance a pertein Nebraska compel left his reginent and came to Washington to aid in ecuring ratification and he did influence votes at a critical juncture. So that Mr. Grosvenor said if there was one man in the country who should shoulder the responsibility for the treaty and its succe ing responsibilities that man; was William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

had performed his constitutional duty in presenting his views to Congress. Since then much official information has been submitted showing conclusively that it was imperatively necessary to rai e money for Porto Rico in some way.

This information had been so conclusive that views had changed both in the Senate and here and yielding to it the Ways and Means committee brought forward this till believing it to be the best thing attrinable for Porto Rico and for also spoke against the bill, and Mr. Parthis country. There was only one alternative to this tariff measure and that was to go down in our own pockets and ap-The House began holding early sessions propriate from the treasury amough to

Mr. Gresvenor responded that he was not the mouthpiece of the President and hat Mr. Biobardson's question did not correctly represent what had been said. He added. "I think I know the President of those decisions we who have taken an reasonably wall and speaking as an indiilvai and knowing all things involved in the situation here now I think that nothing would give the Prefident greater sor row than the defeat of this till and the turning over of this house to the Democratic minority."

justly fashionable since the war of the re-bellion, and that is that this government pork that goes to Porto Rico 25 per cent is not merely a close corporation of states of the high duties must be paid. Is this is not merely a close corporation of states but that it rests in the people as a whole, body politic created by the constitution. But, the question involved is far beyond the dignity of any controversy about tions come has great virtues, it has great syntax. Our revolution was based on the faults as well. It may not be cruel like idea that one community had no right to permanently levy taxes upon another community and the prime motive which led to the establishment of the constitution was a desire to do away with the barriers upon trade, which were set upon the frontiers of each state, so that trade might be freely carried on throughout the domain of the United States. As our government is not a simple and element-As our ary government, but one of limited powers under a written constitution, the power to tax and create barriers within Ireland has equal rights with a B:1'ith our dominion against trade should, in ci izen in any other part of the empire, view of our history before the adoption of the constitution be most strictly con-strucd. I do not care to see our fing em has the power to levy duties over an area comprising territories then the rule of and tyranny abroad. I brand with all uniformity applies to that same area. my energy this hateful notion, bred some This is in accordance with the primary rules of construction. But, the decisions of the Supreme court put the imatter above question. John Marshall, as great a jurist as ever sat upon the bench, declared in Loughborough vs. Lake, that the rule of uniformity in the imposition of duties extended to the territories. A fantastic theory which has been discovered by some modern jurists within eighteen months holds that this opinion of Marshalli's was a mere dictum and that the district of Columbia, in regard to which the decision was rendered, got under the constitution by some process which made it different from a merterritory. It is only necessary to say that in all the long line of decisions concerning the constitutional status of the District of Columbia the court has shown its ignorance of this modern doctrine and treats the district as a vulgar territory. A third of a century after the Lough borough case the supreme court again when California became a territory decided that the rule of uniformity would apply to it. Here are two different decisions, a generation apart, by our bighest court, each rendered when the court was composed of entirely different justices, Factorially holding that the rule of uniformity in impost applies to territories and those decisions stand absolutely uncontradicted. And, yet in the face cath to protect and defend the constitution are asked to levy duties against an Américan territory.

If Congress is not bound by these limitations sgainst taxing unequally, it is not bound by any limitation upon its power in the constitution.

The case is conclusive so far as judicial authority is concerned and when we regard the circumstances out of which our government and the constitution sprang, the words of the taxing power, the direct adjudication of their meaning, the long line of authorities which deny the exstence of absolute power in Congress, it is clear that the theory of despotic power is absolutely repugnant to our institutions. We are asked to pass the bill that the question can come before the supreme ourt. That question can be brought up today, but if you pass this bill it will go to the court with the weight that attaches to the action of the great political department of the government. We have had one decision of the court rendered in times of great political stress, that a black man had no rights which a white man was bound to respect, and this country was deluged with blood, to wash that decision from our laws. Now we are and I will tell you what we shall tell the asked to lay the foundation for a sucot case with the weight of Congress behind will listen to me now. under our flag. Let no act of Congress impart sanction to that idea. Then it is said that if this view or the constitution prevails we cannot afford to keep the Philippines. How often might our ancestors have become alarmed over the cessions of vast territories, many times in excess of our original area and have been fearful of the result upon their industries and their institutions. Yet the human rights secured by the constitu tion have been recognized over these broad annexations and nobody will say today that the whole country was not better for it. The ultimate solution of the Philippine problem has been reserved to us and I have no doubt we shall solve it the Philippines, just as quick as we wisely. We are now considering the case think the time has come to do it, and we of a territory which is a part of this con are not going to do it one minute before, if tinent, admitted to be within the natural radius of our political action and of great importance to our defense. I do not view without concern the prospect of this na tion for ever taxing the people of that island. We impose by this bill a certain par cent of duty on goods passing to and fro between that island and this country. Can there be any doubt that the tax will be levied more and more for the benefit of great interests in this country and that that hapless people who were told by our generals that they were to receive the giorious blessings of American liberty

That notion comforts very little with my ilea of American liberty. It was resisted to the last extremity by the heroes who fought at Bunker Hil and starved at Valley Forge. It fell be fore the gleaming sabres of our troopers at Winchester. It was shot to Appomettox. Half a million men gave up their lives that their country might stand clothed in the resplendent robes of consti-tutional liberty and that we might have the flag. All the sweet voices of our history plead with us for that great cause brigade in the centre and right today, and I do not believe sir, that this Gen. Smith-Dorren's brigade that principle which has made her, among the nations.

The bill, in taking off 75 per cent of the regular duty on Puerto Rico goods con ferred a rrivilege and advantage to the people of that island and their industry which would be a boon to any nation. Mr. Moody declared that the majority propesed to abide by the spirit of the constitution rather than is letter, and derided those who were guided only by a "paper constitution."

those who were guided only by a "paper constitution."

The chief reliance of the opposition had been in the dictum of Chief Justice Marshall in Loughborough vs. Blake, but Mr. Moody said this case had been submitted to the court of Tuesday and decided on the follwing Friday and he was not ready to accept such a hastily formed dictum as determining the very destinies of the country. The attitude of Webster and the various militarities were reviewed by Mr. Moody who declared that Mr. Mo-Call in quoting Webster had wrested a portion of the statement from its context, thus changing the meaning and placing Webster in a position which should make him turn in his grave.

Mr. Parker, of New Jersey, made a legal argument in support of the regularity of the reposed tariff and also urged that it would prove of substantial advantage to the bland.

CONFEREES AGREED.

Speedy Passage of the Currency Bill Now Assured.

Washington, February 29 .- When the Republican conferees of the two houses of Congress on the currency bill adjourned Hill and Colenso today and the British tonight, their work had been practically completed. There were still some slight differences on phraseology and still some uncertainty as to whether the Senate amendment in the interest of international bimetallism would be retained, but one of the members expressed the opinion that five minutes would be sufficient time tomorrow to complete the work. They expect to call in the Democratic members during the day tomerrow and to be able to present their report to the Senate during the day. The bill was sent to the printer tonight. All the mem bers to the conference refused to give out the terms of agreement.

Modder River Fight Repeated at Paardeberg.

Paardeberg Drift, Orange Free State, Tuesday, February 20.—Via Modder River, Wednesday, February 21. - One of the liest actions of the war occurred at Paardeberg Drift Sunday, February 18. Gen. Kelley-Kenny in his pursuit of Gen. Cronje, caught his rear guard at Klip Drift and followed the burghers to the Bowrs' langer at Koodoesrand. The drift action began at daybreak, the mounted infantry driving the Boer rear guard up the river towards the main body, while another body of mounted indeath by our guns at Gettysburg and fantry manouvred on the right front and flank of the Boers. The British main body advanced to outflank the Boer's langer on the north bank of the river. Gen. Kelley-Kenny having seized two government of laws and not of men for drifts, found the Boers strongly enclosed ery man beneath the shining tolds of and ordered an attack with the Highland brigade on the left and Gen. Kno's brigade in the centre and right, while nation will tolerate any abandonment of the river and advanced along the north bank. On both north and south banks morally and physically without a peer the ground is level and the advance eross this was deadly and the British Mr. Moody of Massachusetts spoke in losses were heavy. The battle was an favor of the bill. He said he had hoped exact replica of the Modder River. The to hear his colleague (McCall) recall his soldiers were under fire all day long and assertion that this bill was a step toward all the fighting had no definite result as the Boer's langer was well barricaded and they remain therein. The British guns shelled the laager vigorous ly and the Boers confessed a less of over 800 men. The terrific shelling was resumed Monday, when Gen. Cronje asked for an armistice. The shelling was continued Tuesday, over 50 guns pouring lead into the Boer camp.

London, February 22, 4.17 p. m.-Th war office has received from Lord Roberts the following message which was delayed in transmission dated Paarde-

The Boers were driven off in all directions losing a good many killed and wounded and about fifty prisoners, who say they arrived from Ladysmith two days ago by railroad. They also say it was our artilleryfire which caused them to abandon the kopje they were occupying. Our loss was two officers, Captain Campbell of the Ninth Lancers and Lieutenant Housnce with a tacit agreement with the ton of the artillery, and four men all

A Transvaal flag was captured as was a handerchief inscribed with General Botha's name. This is treasured a a great trophy.

The Boers heavily shelled Hlangwans advanced infantry was subjected to a severe musketry fire, but they had exellent cover and the casualties were few. The Boers had the railroad running from Colenso to Bulwana. The British continue to discover large Reason for Hurry on General Roberts's Par t.

London, Feburary 2.-The Times says "The fact that the Boers started to reinforce General Cronje from Natal days ago is an additional reason why Lord

VIOLENCE CAUSED DEATH.

So Doctors Testify at Sargent Trial.

Bodies of Victims Had No Water in Lungs.

State Rested Its Case Thursday.

Defense Said to Have Conclusive Evidence.

Bangor, February 22.—Thursday was doctors' day in the Sargent trial. Seven loctors were put upon the stand by the government. The court room was crowded to the limit as on the other days and the sheriff had hard work to keep quie and order at times,

Dr. Tibbets was the first physician called and he testified to making an autopsy together with Dr. Porter on the day after the deaths of the men occurred. Both Dr. Tibbets and Dr. Porter gave evidence concerning the condition of the corpses of the dead men and both agree that no water was found in the lungs of either.

Dr. E.B. Sanger was then examined by the county attorney at length and also cross-examined by the counsel for the defense, Mr. Gillin. Dr. Sanger's testimony as to the condition of the bodiss when he saw them corroborated the evidence of the two preceding phsylcians in mest of the details. Dr. Sanger was called to make a post mortem examination of the bodies after the autopales performed by Drs. Porter and Tibbets. The only weak point in Dr. Sanger's testimony was the fact that in his eximination he did not discover that 'Quimby had a dislocated neck. This ievelopment was found on the third day of November when the body of Quimby was disinterred at the order of the county attorney and re-examined by Drs Sanger and Woodcock of Bangor.

There physicians then found that the third cervical vertebrae of Quimby's spine was displaced. Both doctors t stifled on the stand that the injury in question must have been caused by force and violence probably before death. The other three doctors placed on the stand by the prosecution were as expert witnesses. The most important testimony was that given by the first of these, Dr. W. H. Simmons of Bangor. He explained to the jury the nature of the structure of the neck and the resu ts of dislocation. The other experts were Drs. Mason and Robinson and they corroborated the testimony of Dr. Simmons, in almost every particular. Dr. Simmons will be called by the fense as an expert.

After the testimony of the experts, the county attorney, Mr. Smith, said: "Your honor, we rest here."

This was a surprise to almost everybody. The opening for the defense will be made at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. It is said that the prisoner's counsel will introduce evidence which will practically clear Sargent. However, this is only a rumor and it cannot be told what the day may bring forth.

THE GORHAM FAIR.

The first night at the canon was passed in the camp of Capt. John Hance, an indomitable mountaineer whose obaracteristics the lecturer picturesquely portrayed. Antonio Cosato, an Italian Teamster Shot Dead by Unknown Person.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 22.-Autonic

Cosato, an Italian teamster in the employ of the Concord Manufacturing Co. at West Concord, was murdered at the entrance to the company's stables about six o'clock this morning. The dead body was found by his wife who became alarmed when her husband did not come to breakfast, after completing his early morning duties at the stable.

It was soon found that death had been caused by two pistol builets which entered the abdomen three inches above the navel and went clear through the body, one coming out and the other lodging just under the skin.

Cosato has lived in West Concord since 1802. He was 28 years of age.

Nothing is known here as to his antecedents. He has had numerous little disputes with his neighbors and fellow employes but none of them serious enough to furnish a motive for this cold-blooded murder.

The defeat of free trade for Porto Rico and the refusal of Congress to treat the island as under the constitution of the United States will inevitably check the growth of annexation centiment in Cuta. All classes in Cubs, Spaniards and Cubacs will prafer a government of their own rather than to be vassals of the United States with no rights guaranteed them which Congress is bound to respect. Friends of the ann exation of that island -and there are many in the country-can but regard a refusal to grant free trace to Porto Rico as a knock down blow to this project.

It looks very much as if Mr. Clark would have tog back and commence his campaign for the Senate all over again. His explantions are altogether too thin to command the belief of a majority of the Senate. He is a fusionist, but apparently politics had little to do with the Montans senatorial campaign which was to all intents and purposes a struggle between two very rich men. Clark and Marcus Dally, for supremacy. Probably one was as uncorupulous as the other and spent as much mency for improper purposes. But just now Clark is the only one on trial, and it doesn't help his case that his rival was as bad as he.

The Democrats have selected July 4th as the date of their national convention. This is two months' later than the Populite's date, and as both conventions will nominate Bryan the Populites will have some ground for colaiming that the Democrate have endoised their nominee.

Probably the Democrats would have preferred to have the situation reversed, but the Populists chose so early a date that it was practically impossible for the Democrats to get in ahead of them There is good ground for suspecting that the early date of the Populist con vention was selected for the very purpose of compelling the Democrate to play

Looking at the matter purely from the standpoint of political advantage we are incitned to think that the Republicans will make a mistake if they do not follow the President's recommendation in regard to Porto Rico. Of course to do so would offend a certain number of Republican voters, but not so many, we believe, as a contrary policy, for the case of Porto Rico appeals strongly to the sympathies of the people in general. Some pathies of the people in general. Some effort has been made to make it appear that the 25 per cent tariff would be betn favor of free trade, will have great weight with the mass of voters.

Such talk has ten made purely for the purpose of prejudicing the ignorant and thoughtless, and Beretary Hay's denial, will not much hurt its usefulness for that purpose.

Some twelve or fifteen names have been mentioned in connection with the nomination for school committee; some by the Woman's Council; some outside that organization. The women of Portland have expressed their desire to stand before the public as educators and progressive workers quite free from any rating as either Republicans or Democrats.

This being the case would it not be urteous act at the convention today for the nominations first made to receive nnanimous action.

Miss McCobb, Mrs. Burgess and Mrs. Coolidge represent the east and west ends of the city and Deering, and are cultivated women specially fitted for the office. Why not unite and regardless of politics place there three women on the school board?

2011年 Prof. Tripler's discovery—liquid air—has therefore passed, the experimental stage and can now be profitably used everywhere for refrigeration and motive power, as well as in numerous other important lines. Its utility and practicability have been demonstrated beyond question. Charles E. Tripler, President of this Company, is the inventor of the only practical devices for the production and utilization of liquid air on a commercial scale. He is not connected directly or indirectly, with any other company, and is to liquid air what Thomas A. Edison is to electricity.

STEPHEN BERRY. The cost of retrigeration in the United States is estimated at over $150,000,000 annually; by the use of liquid air a saving of over one-half is assured.

As a simple instance, in the shipment of fruit from California, 55 gailous (500 lbs.) of liquid air per car will do the work of 5 tons of ice, with dry air instead of moist air, and will save more than $130 per car in ice and its freight.

This means over a million dollars profit annually, and it is but a very small fraction of the immense refrigeration and cold storage business of the country, as well as that of ocean steamships.

For motive power on land and sea, liquid air will produce as great a percentage of saving and relatively greater profits than for refrigeration. Book, Job and Card Printer NO. 37 PLUM STREET.

Annual Meeting Was Held Yesterday.

Medals Presented to Those Who Served in Spanish War.

The Maine Society of the Fors of the American Revolution he'd its angual meeting at lilverton yesterday. Although the storm, one of the most severe of the doubtless kept many people away, the attendance was large. At the business meeting, Rev. Dr. Henry S. Burrage, the secretary of the society, read his annual report, as follows:

The past year has been one of growle in our membership though the additions have not been as large as in the preceding year. Fitteen names have been added to the list One has been transferred to the Massachusetts Society; one has withdrawn; three have been dropped for the non-payment of dues; and five have died: Frank Louis Lincoln North Deerng, February 23, 1899; Charles Franklin Manning, Portland, March 7 1839; Joshua Davis, Porfland, October 21, 1899; Frederick Alton Cummings, Bangor, December 13, 1899; and Robert Ingalis, Portland, January 26, 110). At the opening of the society year we had a membership of 257. We close the year with a menibership of 362, a net gain of five.

Meetings of the board of managers have been beld as follows: March 30, July 15, September 11, November 8, and Decemter 14, 1869, and January 6, 1900.

On account of ill health the president of the society, Col. John M. Glidden, has been in Europe since the early autumn. His enforced absence has been a disappointment to him and greatly regretted by us. Deeply interested in the objects of the society and desiring earnestly to promote its interests, he had hoped to devote considerable attention to the affairs of the society during the year, but his illness has prevented. We a e glad to know that he is improving in health. From his wint r home in the south of France he sends us his cordial greetings and his sincere wishes for the continued grosperity of the society.

Early in the year the society published and issued to its members Mr. Nathan who served in the war with Spain. Goold's "History of Col. Jonathan Mitchell's Cumberland County Regiment, Bagaduce Expedition, 1779," a handsome pamphlet or (0 pages, containing the valnable work performed by Mr. Goold in record the names and the services of the men of Maine who were in the Revolutionary War. VII. it was enacted that "State societies shall only be represented at meeting of the National Society by members of their own State society, or by members of other State societies who may be designated by the regularly appointed delegates from such State society, who may be present at any meeting of the National Society and that the delegates representing any State society, as provided herein, shall be authorized to cast the entire vote to which such State society is entitled, each delegates or representative present being authorized to cast his proportionate vote or fraction thereof." The report of the Registrar General at Detroit showed that the society had at that time 9,690 members, connected with 40 State societies. is that of Massachusetts, 1375. The New York State society has 1159 members. Connecticut, 1018, and Illinois, 520. Maine, with 357 members as reported a year ago, was ninth in the list of 40 Etate societies.

On the centennial of the death of George Washington, December 14, 1899, the society held memorial services in the in the afternoon, the Elizabeth Wads-

Hon. A. F. Moulton presided at the post prandial execrises, and Leslie C. Cornish, Esq., of Augusta delivered the principal address on a "Chapter in Washington's Life." He spoke as foilows:

MR. CORNISH'S ADDRESS:

Happy the nation that from its incep tion down along the years of its journey. ing can claim a long line of great men shildren, men who, as Carlyle says, "taken up in any way ere profit-able company." The day on which we are gathered points to one who stands out like an Alpine peak which the storms have raged and the sunlight played for outlines have been brought into nobler p.o. o tions as the storms have cleared atmosphere and the sunshine has rendered vision mors perfect. Like the other two great soldier Presidents, Jackson and Grant, Washington was a man of silence, given to thought rather than to speech: a man of deeds, not words; yet it is safe to say that of no other whom America and percaps the English speaking race have produced, has so much been wr tten and so much been said. I often wonder if he himself would care to listen to the fulsome eulogies that are poured whenever his name is mentioned; he who in his simple modesty once said "All ree and most admire, the glare which hovers round the external happiness of elevated office; to me there is nothing in it teyond the luster which may be reflected from its connection with a power of promoting human felicity." Vast as is the subject, many-sided as it is, it has been covered so critically and so often that today I could not hope make even a suggestion that is novel original. The life and the character Washington form a part of the education and of the inspiration of every man woman in America, as they form richest portion of our national herithe tage. Sometimes I think he has been regarded too much as a god to be wor-shipped and too little as a man to be followed; too much as a being above us and too little as a mortal with us. Without detracting at all from the truth, cannot the ideal be made more real? Addressing a society composed of the descendants of the men who fought in the Ravolution, it might be more appropriate to consider Washington of that epoch-making period, the Washington of Trenton, of Valley Forge and of Yorktown; but I have in mind today a picture of him not in war, but in peace; not unsheathing his sword against his country's foe, but taking up the scepter of constitutional authority; not bringing disaster to an enemy, but comfert and protection to his devoted people, and that single picture is

To me there is no moment of his life s thrilling, none when the uniqueness of his position stood cut so strong as when on the 30th day of April 1789 on the balcony of old Federal hall in the City of New York in the presence of comrades promised to support a constitution which he himself had helped to frame and which then first breathed the breath of actual existance and when Chancello Livingston made for the first time the proclamation "Long live George Washington, President of the United States."

If "peace hath her victories no less renown than war" so too peace bath her responsibilities no less weighty than war. However firm the fibre of his brain, however unswerving the loyalty of his heart owever steadfast his courage, he must have been more than human had not his hand and his voice trembled as he assumed the headship of the new rapublic. How often is painted for us the picture of Washington taking command of the raw recruits on Cambridge Common; of The medal was accepted for him by his midnight crossing of the Delaware amid snow and ice; of his pitiable con-dition that long, long winter at Valley vision of the greatness of this great man. But somehow my mind oftener A banquet was served at 1 o'clock in turns to that April day when he raised the handsome dining hall of the casino his hand to the Creator of republics as of and the dinner was an excellent one, in men and took upon himself the solemn First Parish church, Portland, at 3 o'clock keeping with the reputation of this command of the ship of state on her first famous resort. of Great Britain, but recently risen to the grade of statehood, screly impoverished by a long and exhausting war of evolution as well as of revolution and just states over all that broad domain, and in merging from a makeshift confederation through what Fiske calls the criti-cal period of American history; the western toundary, the Mississippi; the northern, the Great Lakes; a nation only in name, without precedents, forms or traditions, without a treasury or credit; floation of the Jay treaty, he was patient without a single department of government; without a navy and with an army most insignificant. So much within; what was without? On one side, Spain, ing policy of evasion and delay; or either side Great Britain, smarting under dereat Britain, smarting under de-arrogant if not revengeful; and often "suffereth long," was the ted rock the water was France, just on of each. The methods of Washington in feat, arrogant if not revengeful; and the eve of her herrifying revolution, too fami far and too patronizing, and seeking to take advantage of the assistance she had rendered. Such was the somtre setting of this combre portrait. "Find," says Carlyle, "in any country name today is on every tongue, may tohe ablest man that resides there, raise him to the supreme place and loyalty reverence him; you have a perfect govnment for that country. No bailot box, parliamentary cloquence, voting, consti-tution-building or other machinery whatstever can improve it a whit. It is in the perfect state, an ideal country." This may be going farther than we Americans care to follow, but fortuna's it was that at that supreme moment the peo-ple with one accord had elected their "ab'est man" to be their President. They gave him all that they had to give, the constitution as a chart and themselves as loval subjects.

Great results are accomplished by many dent causes. Great men are a happy blending of various traits and it is difficult to point out this or that as the principal cause of success; but were we o make a composite picture of Washington's characteristics, I believe that the one standing out prominently above all others would be his remarkatly commen sense, that peculiar faculty whose name implies a wide distribution among morals in general, but which, when found in large measures, rices almost if not quite to genius. In fact, in the executive and administrative affairs of life it stands and does its work where genius lags behind and falls. No better examples of can be found than at this critical period when he was shaping the destinies of an experiment in nation building, and in small things as in great, was creating models for the future. Glance for a moment at the preliminaries that followed his inauguration.

What shell his title be? A trifling matter, say you. Not so. Here was a nation that but recently had been a colony and two centuries and a half of cotonialism cannot be wiped away in a moment by a bit of parchment. But the spirit of democracy was also abroad and the disoussion between the two tendencies waxed warm. "His Highness" said some; "His Highness, the President General," said others, and "His Highness, the President of the United States and Protector of their Liberties," said the aristocratio Senate. But largely through Washing ton's own influence the simple designa-tion "President of the United States" was adopted and thus it has remained the present day. Then came the question of etiquette, so firmly settled now by a century and more stop to consider that it was ever created. Forms Ilay an important part and to anner as to maintain the dignity of the high office on the one hand and not pattern after the folly of rayalty on the other required the exercise of a sound discre-Washington decided to receive public reception on fixed days; to return o calls and to invite to dinner only those of official rank or high distinction. He was informed that all such communications must reach the President through the department of state. The Frenchman was furious. Washington was calm. The Frenchman persisted. Washington was firm. And again sound judgment mapped out a road that has ever since been travellad.

How did he treat Congress? Look at his first inaugural address, a model of diplomacy. Did he submit recommendations of particular measures, cuiling a policy of his own and thus run in danger of developing a personal opposition at the very outset? His judgment was sounder than that and he did little more than call to their attention their constitutional powers and privileges with an expression of confidence in the wisdom of their action. It was not until the next year that he brought forward his own recommendations as to the necessity of establishing post roads, the encouragment of education, and the providing of neans for the common defense. Washington's idea was doubtiess to put himself in pleasant relations with Congress as they embarked in their new work and it is interesting to note that he sent in only two veto messages during his entire term of office, while President Cleveland issued fifty, exclusive of the pension vetoes which were innumerable.

Had we time to follow Washington alone, his hand upon the tiller, his face turned toward the future, thoughtful, through the various steps of his administration when matters of vast importance K. Wilson, Jerome B. McDonald, A. L.

But our purpose was only to take a glimpse of him at the beginning. His cone controlling purpose was national unity, with a self respect at home that would create respect abroad. His vision took a far range. He looked beyond the

No man was firmer of purpose than he and yet no one was more politic in bringing the people around to his own ideas. this there was a marked resemblance be-tween Washington and Lincoln; and this there was a marked resemblance his negotiations with England and Lincoln in his management of the Eman-cipation Proclamation were strikingly similar. us, gathered here more than a century at ter to do honor to that great name, gathered elsewhere throughout this country, it sees well nigh incredible that this motion was voted down. Such, however was the fact, so high did the Anti Federalist feeling run because of bis con rervative conduct in foreign affairs. The narrow souls that opposed that motion were soon forgotten, and as soon as the people in their hearts resoluded that shameful vote, while the next century sers the great mercantile world, as often as the 22nd of February comes around, rest from its labors and take a recess not for a half an hour, but for a day.

When the Hebrew king went into the temple of the idolaters he cast down and broke in pieces the idol that the children of Israel had teen worshipping, with the Washington's resources along this line single word "Nehushtan," which means "a bit of brass." After the lapse of a century we enter the temple dedicated to American liberty and gaze with reverence upon the statues of her worthiest sons, the idols of the nation. There, foremost, stands, the figure of the first Chief Magistrate, the tail, well poised form, the thoughtful brow, the strong yet kindly tace, the dignified and purposeful son of the Old Dominion, the First American. No king dare attempt to sast that from its pedestal, for time which is the final crucible, has long since proved it to be of gold, pure gold.

The last speaker of the afternoon was Rev. Joseph B. Shepherd. He made an exceedingly bright and witty speech in which he said many good things. This closed one of the most interesting sessions the Maine Society bas ever held.

> That is What Senator Clark's Son Tells Committee.

Says His Income Quarter of Million.

Expenditures During Fight Were $11 8,000.

Washington, February 23 .- C. W. Clark, son of Senator Clark of Montana told the Senate committee on elections today that he had an independent income $250,000 a year and that he was in bustness for himself. With the exception of a brief interval given to the testimony of Rev. A. B. Martin, Mr. Clark occupied the the entire day before the committee in connection with the inquiry being con ducted into the methods pursued in the election of the young man's father to the United States Senate. He denied in de-tail the assertions of such witnesses as Mr. Whitwelde, Mr. Hewitt, State Senator Miers and others. Mr. Clark submitted what he said was a detailed statement of his receipts and expenditures for political purposes during the Montana campaign.

The aggregate feeted up $118,000. Dr. Martin testified concerning his in-terview with Chief Justice Brantly, producing the letter written him by Mr. Clark in the Welloome case.

John B. Wellcome was recalled before the Clark investigating committee today to make two slight corrections in his ank account testimony.

Charles W. Clark, son of the Senat from Montana was then called. He said he had been treasurer of the Clark campaign committee. There had been fully three hundred people in Heteua from first to last, most of whom wished to help Mr. Clark in the contest, though witness had no doubt some of them hoped to earn s little expense money. Witness denied all incriminating testimony given by White-side who had told witness that he was tired of the Daly people; was unpledged and wanted to support Senator Clark. He did not want any money but sought an equal chance with others in bidding on buildings contemplated by Senator Clark. This had been promised and Whiteside had said he would vote for witness's father. Rev. Albert B. Martin, principal of the female seminary at Deer Lodge, testified next. He produced the letter written him by Senator Clark last October, which the doctor had taken to Chief Justice Brantly in connection with the Weilcome disbarment case. The letter ran as follows:

Dear Mr. Martin: "If you could see our mutual friend Judge B, and state to him what John R. T. told you, outlining the plan of the campaigo, which practically showed that everything was practially prearranged, 1 am sure that he would have a better understanding of the Wellcome proceedings and would not allow that splendid man to be disbarred. He has a lovely wife and children, and it is a shame that he should suffer disgrace through two such dis:eputable men as Whiteside and my namesake, W. A. Clark, of Madison county. (Signed) "W. A. CLARK." Mr. Martin said that "our mutual triend Judge B," was Judge Brantly, and that "J. R. T." was John R. Toole who four weeks previous to the meeting of the legislature had told him that the rumors concerning Senator Clark's methods would be investigated by a con: mission. He said he felt interested in Mr. Welloome because his father-in-law wes an old Presbyterian minister. He had hoped that they could influence the supreme court to sand the case back to the Silver Bow county court but he saw no indelicacy in doing that.

"It was no more improper than it would be for me to approach a senator here and ask him to vote for Mr. Clark," said the witness. The interview with Justice Brantley was perfectly friendly. Dr. Martin said that he had also received another letter from Mr. Clark after the

Of this amount he expended about $25,000 prior to the state convention, about $70,000 on the state campaign and the remainder during the sitting of the legislature. In July last his father had also given him $14,000 for expenses in the Welloome dis-barment orse. Mr. Clark read from his semoranda a detailed statement, giving the names of all persons to whom

The list included many names of workers" to whom payment was made nd some newspaper men who received small sums. One entry showed a pay-ment of $7,000 to J. P. Decision of National Committee at Washington.

Usual Call Issued by Committee.

Taken for Granted Bryan Will Be Nominated.

Washington, February 22.—The next national Democratic convention will be held at Kansas City, Mo., July 4.

This was the decision of the Democrati national committee which met at the hotel Raleigh today to fix the time and place of holding the convention. Milwankee was the only other city which competed for the honor of entertaining the convention and the poor showing she made when the vote was taken (the result being Kansas City, 40; Milwaukee, 9.) caused general surprise.

The claims of the rival cities as to hote accommodations, railroad and telegraphic tacilities, were presented in open on by representatives of each city and subsequently in executive session.

Hon. W. J. Stone, on behalf of Kansas City, and National Committeeman E. Wall, on behalf of Milwaukee, explained the financial inducements which the city they represented was willing to of expense to the committee.

One of Milwaukee's strongest arguof the convention in that city would have upon the German-American voters, who all, in fact, were excellent. were represented to the committee as wavering in their allegiance to the Rept bl can party.

Is seered to be taken for granted by at least two speakers that Bryan would re-nominated and that the Chicago platform in substance would be reeffirmed. Opposition to trusts, expansion and imperialism together with every mention of Bryan and the Chicago platform aroused enthusiasm but, during the open session of the committee there was no allusion to the issue of free silver.

After the committee had selected the "Gate City" of the West, the Kansas City beomers held a jollification meeting in their rooms at the Raleigh. Ex-Gov. ne addragged the gathering, predicting that the nominee of the convention would be the victor at the polls in November.

The vote upon fixing the date of the convention was: In favor of July 4, 27 votes; June 14, 21 votes; May 9, 1 vote.

A speech which had a great deal of in-fluence in fixing the date was made by sx-Benator Gorman. He said that four years ago it might have been well to hold the convention as the party then look a new position, one which drove many of the leaders out of the party and

To the Citi rene' City Committee: Gentlemen:-The time has come when you should be informed of my conclusion in the matter of accepting the nomination from the Citizens' party, on the 17th inst., to serve you as candidate for mayor

At the time of my nomination, as I were circumstances which I though called for my taking the matter under advisement. These circumstances related not only to my own private interests, but also to the cause of Municipal Reform in this city, for which the Citizens' party was called into existence and to which ! believe it stands fully committed, uncompromising and unalterable. After a care ful and comprehensive consideration of these circumstances, have decided to accept the honor you have conferred upon ne, and serve you. The unanimity with which the nomination comes to me and which has throughout prevailed in the party, to have me serve as the candidate, with no other choice, is quite an unusual feature in politics. And the fact that it is given, wholly unsought by me which is truly grat fying. In my acceptance I believe I am acting in full barmony with all true citizens-men who are cit zens first and partisans afterward. The Citizens' party is not in the political field by accident, but by necessi ty. Neither does it exist by the sufferance of any other party or rait'es. Those who have had full opportunity, covering the lapse of years even, to see that the interests of our oity were properly administered-with exact justice to all and special privileges to none, and that the good and wholesome laws of the state and the enactments of the city were impartially executed, have, for no good reasons, as many of our best o't'zens think, failed to By invitation of Pine Cone lodge, No. exercise their functions as they were in honor bound to exercise them. We have demonstrated that we are, in the true sense, anle to keep from being atsorbed into, or dictated by any political or other

Our party exists for the same purposes nd operates in the same manner, sub stantially, as do similar organizations in many other cities of the Union, which have demo natrated the desirability and practicability of non-partisanghip in municipal affairs. DIET IN DISEASE. By Christine Terhune Herrick. (Continued from last week.) RICE CREAM, II.

This is a simpler preparations than the former and is especially to be recommended for young children. Wash two tablespoonfuls of rice thoroughly and put it in a double boiler with a quart of fresh milk. Let it simmer until the rice is very soft, sweeten to taste and serve with or withous cream. For children who suffer with constipation this may be given with stewed prunes or

A variety may be imparted to the raped beef diet, while the patient is still confined closely to this, by putting the beef pulp into a frying pan over the fire and letting it become just heated through. If should then be spread upon thin bread, either dry or very lightly spread with butter, as suggested above, or upon thin dry toast. Such sand-wiches are a pleasant change from the regimen of meat balls, of which the patient is likely to weary after a time. The child soon becomes very found of such ment sandwiches, and I have nown and young children who preferred the meat entirely raw. In that case it is perhaps hardly necessary to say that the mother or whoever does the buying, must give all care to see that the beef comes from a house where one may be sure that strict cleanliness is observed in the cutting and care of the meat.

For older children beef chopped as for Hamburg steaks may be provided and is excellent for the child who has been forbidden to eat twice cooked meat. It sounds a simple thing to give a child bit of fresh steak or a chop every day, but to people in moderate means, it is a good deal of a burden financially. When, however, the chopped beef from the pense steak, and if the meat is well freed from tough and gristly fibre, is even easier of digestion. The marketer should see always that the meat is chopped by hand at the butcher's, and not put through a sausage machine,—a process by which the meat merchant saves time and labor and robs the beef of much of Its best flavor and nutritive value

In serving put in each saucer some rich cream weetened and flavored with vanilla, and on the cream place a liberal portion of he moonshine. Worst Storm of Season in Some Respects.

For Awhile.

Longhshoramen Also Had to Quit Work.

Washington's birthday of this present ear will be remembered for by far the year will be remembered for by far the most disagreeable storm experienced in this city during this winter season. At ne place in the city was the storm mor severe than along the water front. From an insignificant snow storm of early morning there followed a downpour o rain which continued up to the noon hour. Then came the hall which con-finued with increasing fury every minute during the afternoon. The wind blev a perfect gale. Down on Portland pier one could only with the utmost difficulty reach the end of the wharf and between the end of the ferry allp and the barge office the wind was so strong that the few men who were obliged to traverse that territory had to creep along. The seas were the h ghest that have been known during the winter and in the afternoon when the tide was high the water came up to within a few inches of the tops on all of the wharves. Bug Light could hardly be seen from the end of the wharves. All of the vessels tied up at the wharves pounded about in a threaten-ing way. The ferry beat Elizabeth City had a tough time all day. She managed to make all of her regular trips up to tw o'clock in the afternoon. Then she can celled the trip to the city and for the res of the day made trips once an hour. At four o'clock in the afternoon th gangs of longshoremen employed in the Grand Trunk ocean sheds, were ordered Ly their superiors to quit work. The longsheremen had bravely kept at their lators since early morning and the man agers believed that the men had up to that time earned a good day's wages The news that they were to leave off until morning was welcome to every man at

No vessels were reported to be out during the afternoon and only a few came in during the morning. As the storm had not begun to show its fury up to that time none of the arrivals reported any unusual incidents. Two schooners, th M. V. B. Chase and the Lizzle J. Tucker. reached their wharves before noon. Each of these was lumber laden. There were three fish arrivals. The schooner Eva A Race brought in 1000 pounds, the Robert and Carr had 10,000 pounds and the Nettle May had a fare of 5000 pounds.

The big steamer Californian of the Allan line arrived at a few minutes before seven o'clock in the morning, having a cargo of 1800 tons and one salcon, fifteen intermediate and 163 steerage pas sengers. She left Liverpool on the ever ning of the 10th and her officers reported that the voyage was a usual one, no incidents out of the ordinary taking place.

Glasgow direct and has aboard a cargo of 80 00 tons. She also took 842 head of cattle.

Articles were drawn up during the day at the office of the United States Shipping Commissioner for a crew for the schooner Lugano, which is bound with a cargo of lumber from this city to Boston and return.

Portland, February 23, 1960.

T is a reversal of the regularly accepted order of things, perhaps, but it is nevertheless fashion's decree that whatever the gown may be, the petticoat must be of silk, and rustling and elegant and expensive.

The shape, the fit and above all, the quality of the skirt that's under it has much to do to make or mar the richness of a costume, and that's why it has become such an important feature of a correct get-up.

The stock of silk and other Skirts and Petticoats we are showing now is very extensive and includes a much broader range of kinds than we've shown before. Elegant taffeta silk ones from $5.00 to $25.00. Cerise, violet, royal purple, turquoise, shamrock green and other popular shades. Very elaborate ones with deep flounce, demi-train, tucked and shirred and trimmed with a silken ruch. Black and white stripes with deep Vandyke points, scalloped and pleated. Very handsome black ones of rich quality Peau de Soie Silk, solt and lustrous, tucked and flounced.

It's an interesting exhibit of novelties, a thouroughly up to date show of the newest and best things in a skirt way.
