Other coming events cast their shadows before. At the next session of the legis-lature, Hon. George M. Selders of Port-land will be elected attorney general. Four years ago Mr. Selders was a candi-date against Hon. W. T. Haines of Waterville and came within a few votes of win-ning out. Since then he has been the only candidate and his election is assured. Today there has appeared a can-didate to succeed Mr. Selders four years hence. Mr. Bertram L. Smith of Patten, the present county attorney of Penob-scot county, announces that he is an as-pirant for the higher place. Mr. Smith argues that as Penobscot has not furhed an attorney-general since 1872, the many other gentlemen may appear a contestants against Mr. Smith.

Straws are eagerly grasped at the time of a convention. The fact that Michael Clark remains the Aroostook member of the state committee without a contest was the subject of comment. Two years ago Mr. Clark had a competitor in Mr. contest was a lively one. This year the place was not contested and there are hose who see in this state of things signs of a coming event. THE DELET TES ASSEMBLE.

It was long before the hour for the convention that the hall began to fill, while the American Cadet band and the Bangor band from opposite corners of the gallery took turns in playing popular and inspiring airs. When Chairman Manley at last rapped for order, he looked down upon a gathering that filled every seat on the floor and in the galleries of the great hall. Before this there was a burst of applause when Senators Frye and Hale and Govenor Powers appeared upon the platform, but the cheers first mingled with the applause when the tall form of Congressman Littlefield was seen as he entered the hall on the floor. A moment later when he to the Republican party?" was the next appeared on the platform, the cheers broke out again and flags were waved, while from the plaftorm the members of the convention could be seen craning their necks to get a good look at the representative from the second district.

KILLED AN AMERICAN.

In Cuba This is Not Considered a Crime.

Havana, June 27.-A Cuban policeman who recently killed an American named Welsh, and against whom evidence was apparently complete in the opinion of army officers and others who saw the whole affair, has just been acquitted by the judges in circumstances so extraordinary that Governor-General Wood will order an investigation. The fiscal said the case had been completely proved and he demanded a sentence of 14 years.

Americans in Havana are very indignant over what they claim is a studied attempt to show the Cubans that it is no crime to kill an American.

There are a great many varieties of eye-glass chains upon the market. The most convenient form for ladies who wear their glasses constantly is the hair-pin chain. This chain fastens in the back hair and is not liable to get caught and pull your glasses off. Then there is the "ivory ball" chain to hang over the ear and the gentlemen's ear chain. For people who use their glasses only for reading or shopping, there is the long chain with pin and hook for hanging the glasses upon the dress. I have a large assortment of these chains in solid gold and gold plate. They include all the latest styles and patterns.

Come when the last Ametrcan soldier is withdrawn from the island for the American people do not favor that way. We are to teach the people of Cuba the art of self government. We cannot give them good government. France could not have given this country good government. It was Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Marshall and other great men backed by the spirit of the Anglo-Saxon nation that gave us our government. New as to those teem ing Islands in the Pacific. We have adopted at Philadelphia a platform on which we all may stand for it leaves to the President and Congress the question of the Philippines. I do not see that question, perhaps, as my colleague does. Men look into the future in different ways but the Republican party tolerates honest differences of opinion. I might say that it almost encourages them. A man may hold to his opinions even if they are not those of all his party and still be a Republican. This fall it is important that we should have a great majority here in Maine. Let us make it 30,000 in place of our usual 15,000 or 29,-000.

SPEECH OF HON H. M. HEATH.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the convention:

The manhood of a State is best shown in its governors. From the pioneer days of 1820 to this hour of responsibility, all political parties have put forward men worthy to stand for the rugged manhood and hardy strength born of life upon the sea, the forest and thef arm. There were giants in the earth in those days. William King, living in marble at the Nation's Capitol; Albion King Paris, Senator and Judge; Enoch Lincoln, leaving a seat in Congress for the Chair of State; Jonathan G. Hunton, from the farms of Kennebec; Samuel E. Smith, broad-minded gentleman; Robert P. Dunlap, his life in keeping with his college town; Edward Kent, the upright judge; John Fairfield, colleague of Webster and of Clay, Hugh J. Anderson, merchant, governor and Congressman; John W. Dana, with long and honored service; John Hubbard, with character as strong as the graid of lils of his native town, and William G. Crosby, in the troublous times when conscience rent in twain the two great per ities of his day.

In the womb of Liberty was born the Republican party. Its first leader, Anson P. Morrill,—on man more brave,—his very volce worth ten thousand men in the hours when the fiying slave followed the star of the North to the homes of liberty. In state affairs we favor an economical administration of our State government. We are opposed to the granting of any appropriations beyond the life of the Logislature making the appropriations.

We favor the re-adjustment of the systems of taxation prevailing in the State, and the enactment of measures which will lead to a more just and equitable valuation and assessment of all forms of property of every kind and description. We commend as a business measure the creation of the office of State auditor, in order that all the accounts of the State may be carefully examined, and an itemized account of each and every State department published annually.

We favor such constant and intelligent regard for all the resources of our State as will tend to their development, and to the keeping of Maine capital employed in Maine. Good roads enhance the value of property, especially in the farming distircts; attract thousands of visitors who come to enjoy the grand scenery and healthful influences of the State; shorten the distance to market; and are potent factors in the development of every community. We favor such action by the State as will bring to the knowledge of the State as will bring to the knowledge of reported, however, Francis F. Wall, 18

And the Veteran Pugilist Didn't Like the Idea a Bit.

New York, June 27 .- John L. Sullivan, the old-time pugilist, was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Deuel in the Jefferson Market court this afternoon on a charge of assault preferred by George H. Snyder. Sullivan had a big gash in his head and Snyder had bruises on his face. Sullivan is manager of a saloon in Broadway and gets a per centage of the profits. Snyder claims to be secretary of the company employing Sullivan and says Sullivan has been drinking a good deal of late and that he has driven many customers away from the saloon. He had given orders not to let Sullivan have any drinks in the bar Applying for a warrant for Sullivan today, he got it. When the puglilist was shut in a room at the station, he cried and roared like a bull and the doors leading to the court room had to be closed. He refused to come out with the other prisoners and was arraigned alone. He called Snyder names and tried to hit him in the court

General Grosvenor renews his charge that a resolution which had been agreed upon relating to the policy of the Republicans regarding our new territory was "drivelled" out of the platform by Mr. Quigg, and offers some evidence in supmake a reply and the controversy will go of Maine's resources, and fidelity to the on until the two disputants get tired of What we would like to know is where the reason or sense comes in in starting this controversy. There can be no doubt that the committee on resolutions prepared and assented to the resolutions which were submitted to the conthey were submitted, and it is equally certain that the convention endorsed them without a dissenting vote. If the committee modified any draft of one or a dozen resolutions that were put in their hands it was an act that was clearly within their right. If Grosvenor or anybody else did not like the resolutions when presented to the convention, then was the time to say so and have them changed. Now that they have been adopted, nobody has the right to change them, and this whole controversy is a waste of words so far as altering the plat form is concerned. The resolutions adopted at Philadelphia must stand as the par ty's expression of its principles and policies during this campaign whether Grosvenor likes them or not.

TAX REFORM.

The resolutions adopted by the Repubican State Convention yesterday dealt largely with State affairs, and dealt with them in a way that ought to give general satisfaction. The utterance on the question of a revision of the tax laws was clear cut and explicit. It commits the party without reservation to a reformation of the tax laws, "which will lead to a more just and equitable valuation and assessment of all forms of property of every kind and description." If a Republican legisl ature is elected this falland of that there is of course no doubt it will be under the strongest kind of obligation to set to work as soon as it meets to fulfill the promise of the party platform; and every step it takes will be carefully scratinized by the people. And the people will be in no mood to tolerate any mere pretence of reform. A few superficial changes will not satisfy them. The whole system of taxation must be gone over, its inequalities corrected as far as may be and every class of property, so far as is possible, made to bear its proportional burden. It is of great importance that nothing be done at the start that will rouse suspicion or distrust. To place a man all his life closely identified (with great corporations in such a position as to be able to direct and control the work of revision will be a capital mistake. It will be just as much a mistake as would be the placing of the revision in the hands of some "walking delegate" or professional labor agitator. Protest as he may, a man closely identified with big corporations placed in that position will not be able to secure the confidence of the people, and whatever is done under his direction or by those appointed by him will be viewed with suspicion and distrust, The work of the legislature is practically done by the committees, and the matter of tax revision will be placed either in the hand of one of the regular committees, or what is more probable, one specially created for this purpose. In any event the appointment of this committee, or the House. It is therefore of the greatest importance, if we are to have a fair and just revision, protecting alike the rights of capital and labor, that we should have in the speaker's chair a man who is not under heavy obligations to either the one or the other. We can easily imagine what a trevision to either the one or the other. the people will be in no mood to tolerate obligations to either the one or the other. We can easily imagine what a tremendous shout of protest would go up from the combinations of capital if it were seriously proposed to elect as Speak-er of the next House of Representatives a of the famine is equal to all New Engman who had been closely identified with land, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, labor agitation all his life. It would be Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsaid, and with good reason too, that such a man was not the proper man, to direct 6,600,000. The number in extreme desa man was not the proper man, to discuss the pro action could not act with fairness and impartiality. A man identified all his dreds of native states where the government has little or no control, that thouwho has grown rich in their service, is sands must perish unless added soon. Injust as much disqualified. He can't deed with all the aid sant from this just as much disqualified. He can't shake off the obligations of a life time in a moment. A reform carried on under his auspices will be guided, unconsciously perhaps, but none the less really, by his prejudices and they will all be in one direction. The masses will have good reason to distrust him, and will distrust him, and the work carried on under his direction. To set the wheels of tax reform in motion we want a man who has no strong prejudices in either direction. We want one who is bound by no obligations either to capital or labor. We want one with a judicial mind and of sufficient strength of character to resist sinister pressure from any direction. Only under the guidance of such a man is such a revision of our tax laws likely o be made as will be fair and equitab o all interests and win the general ap-

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention which met at Bangor yesterday was, so far as candidate was concerned, little ere than a ratification meeting. Mr. John F. Hill was long ago practically nominated, the convention simply atnding to the necessary formalities to get his name on the ticket. In presenting Mr. Hill's name the Hon. Harbert M. Heath of Augusta paid him a tribute which was glowing, but not too glowing. Mr. Hill is a gentle-man whose name at the head of their ticket the Republicans can point to with pride. He is a successful business man, he is thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the State, and he has all the ualities to make him not only an efficient, but a popular governor. On every occa-sion he can be trusted to represent the State in a way which will reflect credit

The platform endorses, of course, the Republican national platform and the administration of President McKinley. In State affairs it is is generally outspoken and explicit. It favors an economical administration of the State government, a readjustment of the system of taxation, the creation of the office of State Auditor, port of it. We suppose Mr. Quigg will free popular education, the development cause of temperance. It also commends the movement for the improvement of Matne's roads, though it suggests no legislation to that end, and it condemns the making of appropriations to extend beyond the life of the legislature making them. The only resolution that seems to vention, in the precise form in which us to be open to just criticism is the one relating to temperance. It was not necessary to declare that the party favors fitelity to temperance, everybody of respectability favors that. If the convention was not disposed to say more than this it had better said nothing.

CHANGE IN PROGRAMME.

Maine Democrats for Bryan and the Chicago Platform.

(Kennebec Journal.)

"Yes, the Maine delegation is for Bryan and the Chicago platform," said F. W. Plaisted, while speaking of the plans for the trip to the Democratic national convention, at Kansas City, July 4. Continuing, he said the date of the de-parture form Portland will be Friday of this week. "Maine will send a good-sized elegation of representative Democrats to the convenion. I am already assured of 25 who will make up the party. The delegates, with several prominent Maine Democrats, will leave Portland, Friday morning, June 29, by the Maine Central's Niagara Falls' route to Chicago, which runs through the White Mountains of New Hampshire and the Green Mountains of Vermont. At this season of the year, this is undoubtedly the pleasantest way to reach the West.

"Col. F. E. Boothby of the Maine Central, assures me that the delegates will have one of the finest Pullman cars to be obtained for their exclusive use. There will be no change, the car running through from Portland to Kansas City, where the party is due to arrive Monday of childish voices.

The conditions which precide motherhood are often remediable. They grow out of a diseased or enfeebled condition of the delicate female organs. When these conditions are removed, and vitality and elasticity given to the organs of motherhood, it frequently follows that the home is gladdened by the coming of a healthy, happy infant.

There is no other medicine that will do as much for women as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It dries up disagreeable drains, allays inflammation, heals ulceration, cures female weakness, and establishes the delicate womanly organs in a state of perfect health ness, and establishes the deflect wom-anly organs in a state of perfect health and vigor.

There is no alcohol, opium or other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription."

Any sick woman may consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. V., by letter, free. Every letter is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential.

private and sacredly confidential.

"I had been a sufferer from uterine trouble for about three years, having two miscarriages in that time, and the doctors that I consulted said I would have to go through an operation before I could give birth to living children," writes Mrs. Blanche E. Evans, of Parsons, Luserne Co., Pa. "When about to give up in despair I saw the advertisement of Dr. Pierce's medicine and thought I would give it a trial as a last resort. I bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription, and after taking it felt better than I had for years. After taking four and a half bottles I gave birth to a bright baby girl who is now four months old and has not had a day of sickness. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are a boon to women of constipated habit.

M'CULLUM'S THEATRE. When Manager McCullum engaged May Hosmer for the leading lady of his stock company this season he chose wisely. The first two weeks of the season Miss Hosmer appeared in distinctly opposite parts and created a most favorable impression. In the production of "The Lost Paradise " this week in the character of Margaret Ruthner she is winning sincere approbation, firmly establishing herself in the good opinion of local play goers. Miss Hosmer's conception of the character is one that displays more than average intelligence, and her impersonation of the haughty and spolled daughter of the wealthy manufacturer is marked

OIL AND GOLD MINES.

Visitors Speak of the Food Used,

Major Desborough, writing from Fresno, Calif., says: "I found Grape-Nuts food 45 miles in the mountains in an old oil camp, where the whole crowd, ten men, eat it for breakfast every day and every Sunday have it in a pudding for dinner.

General E. C. Machen, an old Confed-General E. C. Machen, an old Confederate Soldier, has just returned from an W. E. Willard, extended trip through the Southwest and along the Mexican border, investigating mining properties. He says: "No matter where I traveled, I always found it possible to get Grape Nuts and Postum Food Coffee of which I am very fond."

The Grape-Nuts breakfast food is espec ially valued by campers and frontier peo ple, as it is already cooked and ready for instant service, and being concentrated furnishes unusual strength and nourish ment, in a small quantity. It is believed that a man can travel farther and exer cise more continuously, on a few tea spoons of Grape-Nuts than on a like quau- lightful little exhibition in the improved tity of any other food known.

The reason for this is that there are that furnish direct to the brain and nerve centers, the necessary particles to rebuild the delicate gray matter contained in these parts, therefore a man continuously fed on Grape-Nuts is absolutely certain of a good condition of the nervous system, which is really the controller of the entire body.

In the White mountains. At the conclusion of the bridal tour they will be "at home" at 262 Cumberland street.

Last evening the committee on police met and gave a hearing to Patrolmen Foss and Hans Smith who were suspended a few days ago. The hearing was not the nervous system, which is really the controller of the entire body.

IN THE FORTIES.

[Written for the rew 1 on of the class of 1880 in Colby College, June, 1900.]

We've crossed the morning ridge, The first divide; Life's broad plateau we tread With level stride.

Stilled are the matin songs, And dried the dew; The dusty roads of noon Our feet pursue.

Manhood, with straining thews And beaded brow, Has been so many miles Our yoke-mate now.

That well-nigh we forget
What shifts he brings—
Toil's hobnail shoen for Hope's
Doeldalian wings.

Oh! glorious flights we dreamed To reach the sun! But here we plod, nor yet Earth's heights have won.

Pluck immortelles?

And who shall faint below?—

No Sibyl spells.

In vain we strive to pass
The bounds of Fate,
But blind, we bleeding strive,
As early, late.

Yet, who would know his weird, And cease to strive? The strain 'tis, not the gain, That makes alive.

prizes. The men of the fraternity have been equally prominent in the literary and athletic interests of the college.

A Zeta Psi march, especially prepared for the occasion by Band-master R. B. Hail was next given, to the great delight of the audience. In the board of overseers the following of the audience.

The orator of the evening was Hon.
Harry Neil Haynes, a Zete of the class of 1877, and now a prominent citizen of Colorado. gentlemen were elected for five years: Hon. Hiram Knowlton, Portland; Rev. Carter E. Cate, D. orado.

Mr. Haynes, who received an enthusiastic welcome, spoke briefly of his great pleasure at again visiting the scenes of his youth after an absence of more than twenty years. He deplored the death of the leader of the National House—Mr. Dingley,—who was to have been the orator of the evening, and spoke of his diffidence at attempting to fill the place which had originally been assigned to so eminent a statesman. Charles T. Goss and J. R. Little were lected auditors by the board of fellows which had originally been assigned to so eminent a statesman.

Mr. Haynes spoke of the great national growth, and national prosperity that had attended the passage of the last fifty years over this democratic republic. In this progress the sons of Zeta Psi had borne an honorable and influential part.

The American race was not decadent, but progressive. Aggressions from foreign foes were not to be feared. The war with Spain had demonstrated the national strength against foreign force.

The great dauger to be feared now was not from without; yet many of the evils pictured now by the pessimist were given an undue prominence in the social and political landscape. Corruption in the cities, great aggregations of wealth, the and overseers; also New Hampton, (N. H.) institute was recognized as a fitting school for the college.

AMHERST COMMENCEMENT. Amherst, Mass., June 27.—Graduation week at Amherst college came to a close today with the seventh commencement delightful weather. The exercises took place form college hall at 10 o'clock. EXERCISES AT HARVARD. Cambridge, Mass , June 27 .- The class of 1900, Harvard university, was graduated in the Sanders theatre today with an undue profilmence in the social and political landscape. Corruption in the cities, great aggregations of wealth, the labor troubles, race antipathles, these and other like evils are heralded by prophets of gloom as harbingers of destruction.

It was true that there were problems to solve; but these could easily be solved by a strong and vigorous nation like this. The problems of today were nothing to those of fifty years ago, when slavery was intrenched in the life of the nation.

Mr. Haynes then discassed learnedly and delightfully the relations of present problems to the condition of the individual as a free citizen.

The poem of the evening, by Hon. Wm. H. Mcklroy, LL. D., now editor of the New York Mail and Express, and a Zete of the old Union college chapter, was one of the most enjoyable leatures of the evening.

Waterville, June 27 .- The severest electrical storm that has visited this section for many years, occurred this afternoon. Three storms appeared to centre over this section, the period being more than one hour. Lightning struck in 16 places in this city, three places in Fairfield, five places in North Sidney, three places in Winslow and one place in Varsal-

As far as heard from there has been no considerable loss as none of the buildings struck took fire. In this city a boit entered the house of Fred Poolsr on Gold street, smashing a mirror in such a manner as to throw glass over the inmates of the room injuring a woman and man. Another bolt struck the house of Napoleon Lubs on Gray street, but did no damage in consequence. A third bolt struck the house of Joseph Rogers on Ticonic street and a fourth struck the home of Horace Wood on Hight street.

The old Campbell house on the Fairfield road was struck and sightly damaged. Trees were struck and broken. John Fitzgerald of North Sidney was felled in the field and has not recovered.

A flock of sheep was killed in Oakland. There has been considerable delay in the telephone and telegraph service

"Why isn't she married?"
"They say she has buried her heart in Cutter's grave. You remember, or Charlle was thrown from his horse me five years ago and broke his neck and her heart at one blow. She is a stun-ner, though, isn't she? No use trying to get her, Billy. Settle down and calm yourself. My sister says she never had a spark of sentiment about her. But now a spark of sentiment about her. But now she seems to have lost all interest in anything. Oh, no, not a mean, stingy streak in her nature! "Whatever is is right. My love will guide me. I will be satisfied."

A messenger had brought to her the first letter from the National club. She drew it from the envelope and reread the lines she knew she would have to an-

Before you opened the envelope which holds this letter, Dorothy Sargent, you knew who was the writer, and you knew what he had to tell

By breaking the seal you have proved you are willing once again to listen to me.

I have returned to my native land after an exite of ten weary years. God knows I did my best to give my wife the love she craved, and he knows give my wife the love she craved, and he knows I did my best to make her happy and was as true as steel to her, but in his wisdom, which I dare not question, be gave her pure mind the power of seeing beyond what I gave her, and the dear child returned to her Maker broken hearted, leaving me and four motherless children to you, my one love, my one thought and my dearest wish.

Would that you were poor that I might give to you what you could not otherwise have!

Nothing but pity for Marion's children, for my children, can tempt you to come to me now.

No man ever gave to a woman a purer love than she objected. s offered to you again.

Give to me this one word I crave in the name of the innocent woman who knew she held the heart that belonged to another. I cry to you-and not in valn! John H. Norton.

Rigid and white as death, she threw the letter on the burning coals and watched the flames devour the paper till there was nothing left but a gray mass that trembled and fell to pieces as a whiff of wind blew across the grate.

Opening the second letter, she read: Dearest-For the years I have known and loved on I have never till now dared to tell you of my

And she read the third letter My Dear Dorothy-You were a little girl that I saw you first. I force you then became you beautiful eyes ware so like those God had given to the woman I was found to marry.

You know of the short year of happiness which was granted me, and you know what a long weary life I have led since my wife died.

You, than, have been and are the one woman it this world to whosh I can offer myself and what is left of my life and heart.

Thou art not my first love.

I loved before we met,
But the vision of that summer dream
Is pleasant to me yet.

Thou art my last love,
I will not say my best;
My heart has shed its outer leaves
To give thee all the rest.

I do love you, not with the boyhood pa ou may crave, but with the true and honest f a man old enough to be your father. For, have loved you thus, but would not tell car. I wanted you to have the happiness w so tenderly I wanted you are please you most.

You know your own heart's story. I do not ask you to tell me anything, but if you will be my wife I will do all in my power to make you as happy as I know you can make me.
Send me one word, dear, and I will promise to watch over the treasure God has trusted to my care if you will bid me come. Faithfully yours, TMOMAS Skwhill.

"He asks so little. I ought to be able to live with him and be happy. I shall be making less sacrifice if I say 'Come' to him, and his dear, old, gentle life will be a benediction indeed."

With tears in her eyes she laughed aloud as she threw this last letter in the fire, and while watching it burn she said:

Taking a sheet of paper in her hand and smoothing it gently, as though giving it a little blessing, she dipped her pen in the ink, and, with a shudder, as though it were with her own blood she were writing, she wrote the one word:

Folding the paper, she put it in an envelope and scaled it.

She then drew another sheet from the case before her and wrote upon it: horoughbred; never saw her do or look thing out of the way."

"By Jove! I think the girl has a heart give myself to you, and myself is all I have t and sealing it, she gave a sigh of relief and took another sheet of paper, on which she wrote:

No woman living ever grieved more in saying no to a devoted suitor than does your sincere and unhappy friend,

And she sealed this as she had the others and went to the library, leaving all three of her answers on her desk. Touching the bell in the hall as she passed through, the butler answered her

"Is she a bluestocking?"
"Certainly not. She is nothing but what a man would want his wife, mother or sister to be, with a couple of millions thrown in. She takes a box by the season at the Savoy and turns it over to the young folks, like a dear that she is, but, by Jove, she would give you the same kind of a nod if she met you, as she would her cook, and there would be no more heart or soul in her greeting than in a dish of uncooked mushrodiant and politic through the cook, and there would be not have a woman set of a good foundation for criticism. I wish you were going to be here, Billy. If any one could move her, you could. But she is a stuner and no mistake. Here comes Ned in his trapplane too, Good luck. We'll ride home.

Hi, Ned! Room for two? Thanks."

Today Dorothy Sargent entered the she reached the grave that held all that was mortal of the one man she had ever loved she pressed her face against the marble cross and in her angulsh cried aloud:

"Help me, dearest!"

Suddenly, as though the load were lifted from her heart and her prayer answored, she sprang from the ground and hurried home.

Going at once to her room, she took from her deak three letters. Bowing her head upon her hands, she whispered:

"Whatever is is right. And then she wondered at the laugh which reached her cars over the wire.

The Pastor's Salary.

They have ways of their own in doing things in dear old Massachusetts, and they cannot be said to be generous ways. In a certain little coast town lives and works a clergyman beloved for his good deeds. From early morning till late at night he is at the beck and call of hi parishioners, never complaining, always cheerful. His annual stipend is $200. The summer visitors to this town last year, appreciating the preacher's gentle ness and hard work, and noticing his lack of material prosperity, clubbed together and presented to him a purse of $100. The good church folk, of course, heard of it-and when it came time to pay him happy. That you will bid me come is the prayer of thine,

As the poor girl finished reading this letter she threw it, as she had done the other, in the fire. As she watched it burn, she said aloud:

"I could be happy with him."

"When I had people boast what they would or wouldn't do under the persuasion of a six shooter," said an old passenger conductor, "I am always reminded of an experience of mine years ago on the Iron Mountain rairoad.

"If was station agent at the time at a little town near Texarcana and had been summoned to Little Rock on some business that has nothing to do with this story. I was in the first day coach, well up to the front, and in the next seat was an express messenger who had attracted a good deal of attention from the fact that he wore his hair leng and had a pair of enormous revolvers stuck in his belt. The rest of the car was well filled with a mixed crowd, including perhaps a dozen women. At about 9 o'clock at night, while we were going over a very desolate part of the road, the train slowed down suddenly, and before we could inquire what was wrong the front door flew open and a masked man stepped inside with a sawed off shotgun at his shoulder. 'Sit still!' he yelled. 'I'll turn loose if airy soul moves a finger!' As he spoke another masked man stepped around him with a cocked revolver in his hand and started down the aisle, looting the passengers as he went. When he around him with a cocked revolver in his hand and started down the aisle, looting the passengers as he went. When he came to the express messenger, he burst out laughing. 'You — scarecrow!' he said, 'what are you doing with them guns?' And he snatched one of the pistols out of his belt and hit him over the head with the butt. Then he took the other, made him hand over his watch and money and passed on. The messenger wiped the blood off his face and said nothing.

had disappeared the messenger was a target for numerous sneering remarks. 'If I had made a break,' he said to me quietly, 'that feller at the door would have blazed away with his sawed off gun and killed half the women folks in the car.' At the next stopping place he got off, and one of the women stuck her head out of the window and screamed 'Coward!'

"Two days later that same messenge walked up to a little cabin in the mountains, kicked in the door, shot two of the rains, sienced in the other tracks and captured three others, all single handed. I often wondered whether the woman who holered 'Coward!' heard of that incident."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Sew York Stock, Money and Grat Market Review

New York, June 27 .- Prices failed to hold in today's stock market and after Acid Carbolic Acid Oxalic Acid Oxalic Acid tart ally downwards until the average level tallen to below that of last night. ere was some irregularity in the novement as amongst the industrials and railroads but the tone of the market during the latter part of the day was undeniably heavy. The irregularity consisted Copperas ... in the better resistance to the depression Ex Logwood offered by some stocks. This was true of the steel stocks and of the coalers. But the rairroad list as a whole gravitated downwards quite heavily. Not only do call leans continue easy, but time loan rates were quotably lower today, notwithstanding the fact that the sub treasury has absorbed nearly $2,000,000 from the market rince last Friday and that the dividend and interest disbursement which must be arranged for at the beginning of the fiscal year approaching largest in the history of the countile largest in the history of the countile largest in the history of the countile largest in the largest in the largest in the countile largest in the largest in the largest in the largest large are the largest in the history of the country. ICE CREAM WITHOUT LABOR.

If your are one of the people who are interested in labor saving devices, you will be interested in the new Twentieth Century Ice Cream Freezer, which is being demonstrated all this week in the basement of Oren Hooper's Sons. The remarkable thing about this freezer is that it will make smooth and hard ice cream or fancy ices without a particle of the old fashioned back-breaking crank turning. All you have to do is to pack it once with ice and salt and let it stand awhile. This freezer will be demonstrated every day at Oren Hooper's Sons. Free samples of the cream will be given away every afternoon from 8 to 5 It is worth your while to attend this demonstration.

Exercises at City Hall Yesterday Afternoon.

Address By Mr. Whitehouse of Board

The North School Graduation Exercises.

The class of 1900 of the Portland High School graduated yesterday afternoon at City hall with the usual pomp and cere-mony befitting the occasion. The hall was meeting at 10.30 yesterday morning for the auditing of monthly bills and to crowd was very uncomfortable on ac-count of the great heat every seat remained occupied until the class song had been sung so interesting were the closing exercises. The crowd came early and half an hour before the graduating was decorated in the class colors while the potted plants and graceful palms which were placed on the sides of the stage added much to the beauty of the scene.

The decorations of the hall were simple The brick house at No. 70 Gray street, and yet pretty. At the rear of the stage recently built by L M. Leighton, the real was a frieze of purple and white in the centre of which were fac similies of the class pin with the words, "Class of 1900," and "P. H. S." illuminated with incanwas decorated in the class colors while goes to Steep Falls tomorrow to take part in the graduation exercises of the High school in that town. The exercises take place in the afternoon and in the evening the quartette will give a concert.

The girls were all dressed in simple white gowns and were seated at one side of the stage while in the centre were Misses Myrtle and Winnie Holt of the boys in sombre black with the school members, the teachers and others on the other flank.

The programme as carried out was as follows

One pleasing feature about the exerpossesses some excellent musicians and programme was as follows: The class of '85, Bowdoin college, will they added much to the enjoyment of preparation. One of the most pleasing things on the programme was from "Quo Vadis," which was given by Mr. Charles J. Chapman with dramatic effect and at the conclusion he was given the hearty applause he deserved.

The class poem was written by William H. Harris and was entitled Jacob's Vision. It is a composition which marks its author as a poet of more than ordinary ability and with a touch of genius. was recited by Harry C. Burnham with great expression. The valedictory by Katherine C. Aagerson gave a resum of the events of the past four years, rapidly upon one another. Her farewell address to the junior class, the teachers and her own class, was gracefully done. These are only some of the things in the excellent programme

gr. Robert Treat Whitehouse, mem-bers of the school committee and chair-man of the High School committee, pre-sented the diplomas. He spoke as follows:

Young ladies and gentlemen of the graduating class—In behalf of the school committee of the City of Portland I wish to congratulate you on this successful conclusion of your high school course. I believe that this period of four years spent in our free high schools is in many respects the most important in our educational experiences. To those of you who go no further it is the climax of your educational career. Within these four years are comprised all the associations of school comradeship fwhich you will ever know. To you therefore this period means more than to others, and as your valedictorian has feelingly assured will be fondly cherished by you all. But see to it also that although it is the climax of your school work it is not the end of all educational influence. Through careful observation, readingfand thought, the whole world of knowle ige is still open for you. Make this four years thus the corner stone not the cupola of your educational structure. To those of you on the other hand to whom this is the stage in the progress of your studies as preliminary to future academic study through your anticipations of a college course may lessen in; your minds the values of these four years yet to you also they are vitally important. This is the formative period in your educational life. During these years you have formed habits of discipline and study of honorable conduct and gentlemanly manners.

Mr. Whitehouse went on to say that the knowledge gained not only of books, but of character in the High school, was of inestimable value to the young man and
