rumors are pacific. Many radicals think the vote of supplementary supplies after all will not be demanded on Monday. No definite action has yet been decided on by the opposi-tion, many Liberals wishing to await the gov-ernment's explanations on Monday. Before explanations were made tonight rumors were freely circulated that a dissolution of Parlia-ment was imminent in consequence of the probable resignation of the Marquis of Salis-bury and the disruption of the Cabinet. The situation is now regarded easier and immediate dissolution is improbable. The Admiralty have ordered the despatch vessel Lively and the frigate Newcastle to prepare for sea immediately. HOUSE.

vessel Lively and the frigate Newcastle to prepare for sea immediately. CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 25.—Safvet Pasha has informed Mr. Layard that the Porte had made solema engagements to keep the condi-tions secret until the treaty was signed. It had today telegraphed to its plenipotentiarles to ac-cept the conditions. It would communicate them to the ambassadors the moment they were signed. It is again alleged that the Russians are advancing on Gallipoli. LONDON, Jan. 25.—A special from Athens to the Standard says that the new ministry pub-lished a programme stating that they intend to prefer action towards and to provide for the defence of the country, and protect Greeks re-siding in other countries.

Bill revising steamboat laws came up, and Mr. Harrison offered an amendment declaring pilots and engineers of all steam vessels officers of said vessels, and that none but citizans of the United, or persons actually residing in the United States, shall be licensed as pilots and engineers. Adopted.
The bill passed. Yeas, 173; nays, 80.
Mr. Singleton, chairman of the committee on printing, reported back the Senate bill anthorizing the public printer to purchase material in open market, with an amendment providing that such purchases shall not exceed $50 for any particular article, within a term of six months, which amendment was agreed to and the bill passed.
The House resolved itself into a committee of the boate having been limited to one hour, Mr. Tucker proceeded to explain the bill. He said there was great agitation throughout the country on the question of the reduction of the tax on whiskey. The question was, should the House, during that gritation, save from bankruptcy and ruin the golden gees who are to lay the golden eggs for the government? He though the bill a very good one. It had been drawn up by the commissioner of internal revenue, who had agreed that some action should be taxen by Congress.
Mr. Barchard also supported the bill, should he declared he was opposed to the reduction of tax on whiskey. He did not believe the House would vote for a bill which would reduce the tax on whiskey attempt on the part of a certain interest to take from the transury by an economical House, and would not be the last. It was simply an attempt on the part of a certain interest to take from the transury by an economical House, and would not be the last. It was simply an attempt on the part of a certain English of the resolation the transury by an economical House, and would not be the last. It was simply an attempt on the part of a certa defence of the country, and protect Greeks re-slding in other countries. The Standard says we understand that the Duke of Buckingham will probably succeed Earl Carnarron. The same journal's leading article says Lord Derby is still at the foreign office and we shall be slow to believe that he will find it consistent with his duty to abandon the Cabinet at such a moment.

Earl Derby was not present in the House of Lords to-night, but it is said he was in the lob-by and his resignation is in suspense. It is stated that the Daily Telegraph's re-port of the Russian conditions is substantially correct, although the terms are somewhat harsher than those which have been officially communicated. The general tone of the fre-quenters of the House of Parliament is pacific. It is believed that the Duke of Richmond will replace Lord Carnarvon. The Press association has reason to believe that Lord Beaconsfield received the Earl of Derby's resignation of Thursday's sitting of Parliament. An informal cabinet council was held in consequence of this surprise, and as it appeared the cabinet was in danger of disrup-tion. It was for this reason decided to counter-mand the orders for the fleet to enter the Dar-danelles, though the admiral had been en-structed to remain in a position from which he can cover Gallipoli. Extreme ministerialists think that after Lord Beaconsfield's statement in the House of Lords tonight there is no necessity for either Derby or Carnarvon to resign. This is probable as regards Derby, whose resignation is stated to be only in the hands of Beaconsfield, and not yet submitted to the Queen. The latest lobby rumors are pacific. our best writers to devote themselves more or less to the production of works for the yong Entering into the details of the subject thus generally introduced, Mrs. Woolson considered first the periodicals of the day, which she di-vided into three classes, the Reviews, the Mag-azines and the Newspapers. The latter she spoke of as exerting a great power in the form-ing and leading of public sentiment, which power she appeared to think is in general wise-ly exerted. A glance at the history of the great reviews was next taken, and the maga-zines were spoken of in connection with several representatives of this class of literature. The monthly magazines have a great success in this country, England obtaining the idea here. The magazinej appeals less to scholars than does the review, and yetlendeavors to meet the tastes of all who depend upon them either for entertainment or information. In regard to novelists, the lecturer said that the popularity of Scott's poems in their day was due to their narrative form, and when his fame as a poet began to pale before the rising star of Byron's genius, be turned to prose writing, for which he was better qualified, and so we have his novels, which, masterly in their style, have many imitators. The greatest suc-cessors of Scott in novel writing were Thack-eray and Dickens. The two have been regarded as rivals, and yet no thinking mind could place them in that relation with each other, their writings running in different channels. Thackeray was described as a writer who, back of his apparent cynicism, had a warm heart, and aimed to make society better by his thrusts at it. Dickens appeared to be, in the lecturer's mind, a more genial writer, and was especially an advocate of the lower classes. His work was Christianity made vital and helping the world. In artistic method George Sand was pronounced superior to George Eliot. Miss Austin's merit was dwelt upon with something of enthusiasm, and complimentary opinions of Scott and Macau-lay were quoted. Taking up Charlotte Bronte's writings the lecturer spoke of "Jane Eyre" in a way showing that in her estimation that novel is a work sui generis. Miss Bronte's force was illustrated by allusions to the vivid impressions left by the narrative and the reality attaching to the characters. To George Eliot was accord-for forging the name of Wm. H. Clifford to two bank checks in 1871. This case terminated rather suddenly. Mr. Clifford had testified that he was well acquainted with Scribner's hand writing and the body of the bank checks were written by him. He also thought that the signature was Scribner's. Several bank officers were then called by the govern-ment as experts. When the first was asked if the body of the checks and the signatures were in the same hand writing the witness said that in his opinion they were not. Of course that settled the case as far as that witness was concerned. Two more experis were called and when they testified to the same, that settled the whole case and the county attorney had nothing to do but enter a nol pros, which he did. Col. Mattocks objected to a nol pros being entered under such circumstances and demand. ed a verdict of acquittal from the jury, but the county attorney insisted and the motion was granted. Mr. H. B. Brown will hereafter open his studio to the public on Saturdays, and his friends and all interested in art matters will be welcomed to the inspection of his work on that day of each week. This response reminds us of one given at a levise measures to evade the liquor law. The neeting was duly organized, and was announced

open for remarks. Several dealers in the ar-attempt at oratory offered a number of practical suggestions. Finally one Hibernian

the assembly. His eloquence was of the robust kind and his appeal a very impassioned one.

Gradually he worked his audience up to a pitch

the hearing on the Druggist bill, Thursday, Gen. Neal Dow said the movement was one of amazing effrontery on the part of druggists. The whole movement is a fraud. The public

The whole movement is a fraud. The public are not in favor of litensing apothecaries; no good comes from the liquor traffic; it is oppos-ed to every interest. A pothecaries have be-come so demoralized by their trade that they have the presumption to ask for this thing. The medical administration of alcohol is all a sham. He cited English authorities to prove that such medicines kill, and not cure. The drug shops are worse than the low grog shops, and he would not think of licensing them. He would scover advocate a law allowing men to rob, than to pass this bill. STATE NEWS

Arabian Tonic Blood Purifler, Which DIFFERS from ad other preparations in its IMMEDIATE ACTION upon the HANCOCK COUNTY.

HANCOCK COUNTY. The citizens of Bucksport are greatly excited over the inhuman treatment of a little girl by her uncle and sunt, with whom she is living. The child's parents are both dead and she was taken to the house of her uncle, who has beaten and braised her in a most bratal and shocking manner. This treatment has been carried to such an extent that the citizens have justly become indignant and have taken charge of the child and informed the couple if they did not leave the town at once, they would tar and feather them.
