Mrs. Martin J. Thorsen and son Leon returned Saturday to their home in Weehawken, N. J.

There will be a regular meeting of Irene chapter, O. E. S., Friday evening. Circle supper at 6:30.

Mrs. Robert Barrett, who has spent the summer at the Treat farm, returned to New York Friday.

Mrs. Charles F. Fonda and Mrs. Harry B. Morrill, of San Francisco, are guests of Mrs. Henry E. Davis.

The ladies' aid society of the Baptist church installed a new kitchen range in the parsonage last Monday.

Walter K. Barrow arrived home yesterday noon from Bar Harbor, where he has been employed the past few weeks.

Rev. B. H. Johnson visited Franklin Tuesday to complete arrangements for the coming there Oct. 8 of a new pastor.

The many friends in Ellsworth and vicinity of Rev. A. J. McGown, of Turner, regret to know of his serious illness.

Miss Florence Smith, who has spent the summer at her home here, left Sunday for New York to resume her school work.

James Murphy left last week for Midland, Mich., where he will spend the winter with his brothers John and William.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Emery, of Camden, with little daughter Barbara, are guests of Mr. Emery's sister, Mrs. Charles H. Leland.

Mrs. Henry W. Sargent, with little son, left Sunday night to join her husband at Springfield, Mass., where Mr. Sargent is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Small are receiving congratulations on the birth of an eleven-pound daughter, Elizabeth Lee, born Sunday.

Mrs. Mark Vague, of Bangor, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Forrest O. Silsby. Mrs. Silsby's mother, Mrs. S. E. Crosby, of Aurora, is also with her for an extended visit.

"Be of good cheer, and let us play the man for our people and for the cities of our God," will be the subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning at the Unitarian church.

Luther A. Leach, superintendent of Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co., has moved here from Bar Harbor. He will occupy Mrs. Curtis R. Foster's house this winter.

Mrs. H. M. Hall and daughter Margaret are in New York city. Mrs. Hall expects to return home next week, but Miss Margaret probably will remain there for the winter.

The governor and council, at their meeting last week, ordered an expenditure of not exceeding $10,000 for the continuation of the State highway work on the Bangor-Ellsworth road.

The Baptist Sunday school has introduced graded lessons into five departments of the school. They are proving very interesting. "See Latin America without leaving home," a series of short exercises covering three months, is a feature at the Sunday school.

C. I. Staples and wife, of Portland, were in Ellsworth for a few days this week, making the trip by automobile. Mrs. L. W. Pettengill, who had been in Portland for a short visit, returned with them.

At a special meeting of the incorporators of the Hancock County Savings bank Monday forenoon, Charles R. Burrill was elected a trustee and treasurer, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, Col. C. C. Burrill.

The monthly meeting of the Ellsworth teachers' association will be held at the high school building Friday evening. There will be an address by Roy C. Haines, and Miss Clermont Knowlton will sing. All are invited.

Capt. Nebemiah H. Means, Ellsworth's nonagenarian, is looking for the good Baptist who exchanged overcoats with him during the Baptist association meetings in Ellsworth last week.

Miss Muriel Byard left Sunday for Northampton, Mass., where she will enter Smith college. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. William Byard, who will remain with her for two weeks.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The October term of the supreme judicial court for Hancock county will convene next Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock. The grand jury is summoned to appear at that time, but the traverse jurors will not report until Thursday forenoon.

Go-to-Sunday-School day will be observed next Sunday at the Baptist church. In the morning the pastor will preach on "Some Encouragements to Sunday School Work" and in the evening on "The Best Book, in the Best Place, for the Best Purpose".

Mrs. I. W. Pettengill will move this week to Portland, where she has taken a furnished-room house at 53 Pine street, and will make a home for her brother, Harold Wilbur. Mr. Wilbur, who has been in Ellsworth for a few days, left for Portland yesterday.

Mrs. Florence E. Blake, of Talladega, Ala., sister of ex-Chief Justice Emery, and her daughters, Miss Florence Blake, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Rice Woodward, of Talladega, and the latter's little son Emery, who have been at "Firlands" through the summer, left last week.

The meetings of the Hancock County Baptist association in Ellsworth Wednesday and Thursday of last week were largely attended, the weather both days being ideal. Interest was sustained throughout the meetings. The ordination of Rev. Allen G. Knight, of Cores, was a feature of the session.

Miss Gwendolyn Barnes, the talented Bangor violinist, who has been heard several times in concerts in Ellsworth, was married Saturday afternoon to Alton L. Robinson, of the clerical staff of the First National bank of Bangor. Mr. Robinson is also a musician, being first clarinetist of the Bangor symphony orchestra.

A new schedule went into effect on the Maine Central railroad Monday. The time-table and mail schedule at the head of local column have been corrected to date. The New York and Bar Harbor express, not included in the table, will continue running for this week only, arriving at Ellsworth at 11:16 and leaving for the west at 4:11.

The Fogg family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fogg, on Dean street, September 23. A chicken dinner was served at noon, and an automobile ride about the city and a visit to the power dam were enjoyed in the afternoon. Among those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Fogg, of Hull's Cove; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Fogg, of West Enfield; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fogg, of Bucksport; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fogg, of West Eden.

Miss Frances R. Peters, daughter of the late Chief Justice John A. Peters, of Bangor, and Miss Sarah L. Mason, of Bangor, were injured in an automobile accident in Boston Sunday evening, when their car was struck by a trolley car. While Miss Peters' friends here were relieved to learn Monday that her injuries were not as serious as first reported, no further details have been received of the accident. Miss Peters' back was injured and Miss Mason was injured about the head.

The house of C. E. Pettengill, at Salisbury Cove, was burned Sunday afternoon. Mr. Pettengill was preparing to move to Ellsworth to be with his daughter, Miss Florence Pettengill, who is employed here. The fire started in the upper part of the house, where Mr. Pettengill had been working a short time before, and he thinks it might have been caused by a spark from his pipe. Most of the furniture was saved. Mr. Pettengill will move here the last of this week. They will occupy the McFarland house on Central street.

The Davis theatre will move from its present quarters to the Odd Fellows hall, opening there next Monday afternoon, with matinee at 2. This move is made for better heating. The Davis is putting on a fine class of pictures. On Oct. 26, one of the master photo-plays will be put on. It is from Alexander Dumas' work, "Black, the Story of a Dog." In this remarkable story of guilty love and bitter atonement, an idea of striking originality is presented by the transmigration of a man's soul into a dog, which by a series of circumstances saves a young girl from suicide, and unites her to her father.

Other things Mr. Brown mentioned were interesting, but first he asked who sold Cedulas in Ellsworth. The leading cigar store, of course, H. W. Morang.—Advt.

Miss Ida Bostelmann, who is spending the winter at "Bettel's", Bluehill village, will accept a limited number of violin and piano pupils.—Advt.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED.

Crabtree's Ledge Light Scene of Fatal Accident.

Chester Brinkworth, aged thirty-one years, assistant keeper of Crabtree Ledge light, Hancock Point, and his brother Leon, aged nineteen, were drowned at the light early last Friday evening. The details of the accident will never be known, but it appears as if Leon must have fallen overboard while making a landing at the ladder of the lighthouse, and his brother was drowned in an attempt to save him.

Keeper Peaslee has been at his home on the point, ill, leaving Chester in charge of the light. Leon left the shore about 6:30 o'clock Friday evening to go off to the light to spend the night with his brother.

The first indication that everything was not right at the light was not noticed until Saturday morning, when the light remained burning after daylight. This did not cause great alarm, but when a little later in the forenoon the boat came ashore at the point, an investigation was made.

The lighthouse was vacant. Supper was on the table, unopened, and there were indications that Chester had left the house hurriedly, probably in response to his brother's call for help. In an attempt to save him, he also fell into the water, and both were drowned.

Search was at once begun for the bodies. The lighthouse tender Hibiscus was ordered to the light to join in the search. The body of Chester Brinkworth was recovered Monday forenoon. That of Leon was recovered this forenoon.

The tragedy has cast a gloom over the community, where both young men were well and favorably known. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brinkworth, of Hancock Falls. Chester had been assistant keeper at the light several years. Leon had been in the employ of the Maine Central railroad, and intended leaving for a new position Saturday.

They leave besides their parents, three sisters—Mrs. Sadie Daizell, of Portland, Mrs. Clara Gaircomb and Miss Nora Brinkworth, and one brother, Joseph, Jr., of Hancock.

Bucksport Boy Missing.
Earle, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reynolds, has been missing since about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He was fishing from the Nicholson wharf earlier in the day, with an older brother, and left his fishing rod on the wharf. It is feared he returned for it and fell into the river.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson II.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 8, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxiv, 10-21. Memory Verses, 14, 15—Golden Text, Acts xxiv, 16—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This chapter gives us Paul's testimony before the high priest and the elders from Jerusalem, at Caesarea, in the presence of the governor Felix, and also some account of one of Paul's talks with Felix and his wife Drusilla.

It is counted heresy even now by many supposedly orthodox preachers to look for a literal Israel to occupy the land given to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and a literal kingdom of God on earth with Israel as a center.

All the dead shall rise; that is clear not only from lesson verse 15, but also from our Lord's own words in John 5, 28, 29, with Dan. xii, 2.

If this sounds strange to any who read, please do not turn away from it, as I once did, but look into it humbly and prayerfully, with a real desire to know the mind of the Lord, and He will surely teach you.

We may infer from verse 27 that the case was deferred for at least two years so that Paul must have had much rest and many opportunities. We cannot think as well of Felix as we would like to, for he was evidently an up to date grafter and a man pleaser.

Mutual Benefit Column.

EDITED BY "AUNT MADGE."

Its Motto: "Helpful and Helpful."

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and helpful.

Let me be a little kinder; Let me be a little blinder; To the faults of those about me; Let me praise a little more; Let me be when I am weary.

Let me be a little sweeter; Make my life a bit completer; By doing what I should do; Every minute of the day; Let me toil without complaining.

Nearly a year ago "E" wrote me: "I send you a little paper that one of the writers sends me," and for this week I have selected the poem from that, and also am using some extracts from the leading article in it.

Why should we seek to do this? The reason is two-fold. First, man is so created that he must mingle with his fellowmen, for no man liveth unto himself.

The need of this sunshine, is as great as the number of lives our life touches. Have you caught the significance of the word unconscious? Somehow it means doing the nicest things in the nicest way, to those whom our lives touch.

A personal letter from N. assures us that she still reads and appreciates the M. B. column. She has much sympathy for lame and rheumatic sufferers.

Yes, Uncle Madge and I attended the Orchard fair, for the first time, and we enjoyed it as every one does who attends. I am not going to say more about it, for I am expecting reports of that gathering from at least four M. B's.

SUSAN'S LETTER (continued from some weeks ago).

Of course Willie's mind expanded with the growth of his body. It's perfectly natural that it should. The pork, with a streak of lean and a streak of fat, that mother scored and put on top of those beans as she put the pot in the hot brick oven of that long-ago day, in the old home by the river, in a Maine town, now nestles in Willie's grateful memory.

Now this not only filled the boy's stomach, but it set him to thinking of the great blessing any good mother must be to a youngster like himself.

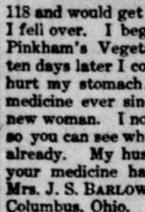

Don't let skin troubles spread. Trivial blemishes are sometimes the first warning of serious skin diseases. Neglected skin troubles grow.

THE AMERICAN WORKING MAN SHALL NOT SUFFER. The Republican party stands for the principle of protection. We must apply that principle fairly, without abuses, in as scientific a manner as possible; and congress should be aided by the investigations of an expert body. We stand for the safeguarding of our economic independence, for the development of American industry, for the maintenance of American standards of living. We propose that in the competitive struggle that is about to come the American working-man shall not suffer.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

The Old Hen. Little Pitchers—Mrs. Fussy, let me see your old hen. Neighbor—What old hen, boy? Little Pitchers—Why, she asked me this morning when you sent over to borrow some flour and lard if she was sending more chicken feed to the old hen next door.—Baltimore American.

What Beauty is Called. Socrates called beauty a short lived tyranny; Plato, a privilege of nature; Carnades, a solitary kingdom; Aristotle, that it was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world; Homer, that it was a glorious gift of nature.

Joy For Him. Wife—The dressmaker says she won't make me another gown until you pay her bill. Hub (with relief)—That is very good of her. I'll send her a note of thanks.—Boston Transcript.

Warning. Don't go shouting your virtues from the housetop. Some inquisitive person might go poking around to see what you've got hid in your cellar.—Florida Times-Union.

Get This Out—It Is Worth Money. Don't miss this. Cut out this slip, enclose with it to Foley & Co., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Hoosey and Tar Compound for bronchial coughs, colds and croup; Foley Kidney Pills, and Foley Cathartic Tablets. Specially comforting to stout persons.—Moore's Drug Store.

CASTINE MAN PRAISES TANLAC; "IT DESERVES IT." SAID MR. PERKINS

To give an endorsement for anything one must know from personal knowledge that praise is due that article, I give this Tanlac an endorsement because I took it for indigestion, said Mr. Charles R. Perkins, who lives in Castine, Me., and I know what it is to suffer from stomach trouble.

Before taking Tanlac my stomach was in a miserable condition and I had all the symptoms that go with a faulty stomach, gas, heart burn, restlessness and nervous, with many sleepless nights. Since taking Tanlac I can sleep, eat and enjoy life. It has helped me very much indeed and I am quite willing to praise it for it does just what is promised to those that use it. Tanlac is creating the same sensation here in Bangor as it has done all over the country. Maine has gone wild over it, five hundred towns and cities are selling Tanlac in Maine alone, said Getter, the Tanlac Man today in talking to one of the News reporters. I have made it possible for people in the remote parts of Maine to now get Tanlac. I have worn out three cans this summer but Tanlac is now where it can be purchased in nearly every hamlet, town and city in Maine. I only allow one agent in each locality to have Tanlac and I have made these towns myself to see that I got the right man and that the Master Medicine would be properly presented to the public.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

THE PROFITABLE COW.

Her Value Depends Upon Ability to Turn Feed Into Milk and Butter Fat.
Invariably the successful feeder's most noticeable characteristic is liberality says Kimball's Dairy Farmer. He loves the animal that feeds well and much of his joy comes from seeing his charges eat. His task is that of inducing the animal to eat all it possibly can in a given time and yet utilize the feed in a manner profitable to him. The question of how much it costs to feed a cow a year is of secondary importance to him. Because he is humane he loves the cow, and because he loves the cow he feeds her abundantly enough to maintain her well. But when this point is reached his considerations are placed on a strictly business basis. He then views the cow as the manufacturer does the machine. Her value depends upon the quantity of raw material she can eat in a given time and convert profitably into a finished commodity. The important question is: "How much does it cost to produce a gallon of milk and a pound of butter fat?"

The milking strain of Shorthorn cattle is in favor with many dairymen. The cows are usually referred to as dual purpose—that is, good milk and beef producers. In England the milking Shorthorn is preferred to the other breeds of cattle for the dairy. The cow and calf shown are of the milking Shorthorn strain.

This is well recognized by all dairymen, as shown by them when they purchase cows. They ignore the cow with the small mouth, the shallow body, the flat sides, the hard, resistant hide and the wiry hair because they know that these are evidences of limited capacity. They well know that under no conditions are such cows large producers of either milk or profit. The cows with large mouths, long, deep bodies, with well sprung ribs, and hides that are soft, pliable and elastic, covered with soft, silky hair, are the ones that are selected—even though they are the ones that cost most—because experience teaches that such cows are the great producers.

But words fail to express the folly of selecting and paying a premium for such cows and then giving them no more feed than could be eaten by a cheap cow, sadly lacking in capacity. Every cow is endowed with a certain capacity to eat, digest and assimilate food. Every cow is endowed with a certain ability to manufacture milk and butter fat from her food. Therefore it is unquestionably true that to supply the feed in amounts and quality necessary to take full advantage of the cow's ability to make milk and butter fat, even though her capacity to handle the food is taxed, results in greater production and larger profits. The better the cow the greater her power to eat and the greater her ability to produce.

Cement Floors For Cows.

Cement floors are not wholly desirable for stabling cows unless sufficient bedding is used to keep the udders of the cows from coming in contact with the cement and to keep the pens dry enough for the calves. The most usual expedient used in this connection is to install either cork brick or creosoted block on the stable floors. Another method that is sometimes used is to place planks over the concrete or build slatted racks of planks which can be taken up from the cement and the barn thoroughly cleaned. It is somewhat questionable whether the use of planks of any economy, although their first cost may be less. With the cork brick or creosoted block one will have a sanitary and comfortable floor and one that is fairly permanent.

Feeding Calves.

Do not feed milk in a tub or trough to calves. One calf will often drink twice as fast as another. One gets too much and has indigestion. The other does not get enough and is poor. Make stanchions to hold the calves and feed them carefully.

The Babcock Test.

The invention of the Babcock test is what has put more champions in the field than any other mechanical contrivance. People imagined what their cows were giving by the old processes, but now they actually know.

Value of Cow Records.

The dairyman will never know where he stands unless he keeps records. Test for butter fat and keep an accurate table of production for each cow. Without any record you can be a long time locating a "star" boarder.

Keep Cows Comfortable.

If you doubt the advisability of keeping dairy cows comfortable and contented, visit the man who makes the best records with his cattle and see how he cares for them.

Wounds of the Heart.

In wounds of the heart itself the escape of blood is never in large quantity, and the lethal consequences are due to the fact that the escape of blood from within its cavity of cavities into the surrounding sac of the pericardium mechanically interrupts the alternate contraction and expansion by which its pumping action is maintained. Accordingly the results of the wound of the heart are usually identical with those of gradual suffocation. — Exchange.

"His face, an expressionless mask of jam, turned toward her.
"Yes, but not till after I'm dead," he explained."

A Queer Marriage Custom.

In the Loochoo Islands there are some curious marriage customs. One consists in the bridegroom going around to all his friends' houses and permitting them to dress him up in any ridiculous style that they fancy. Sometimes the happy man is arrayed in a gayly painted kimono, the sleeves of which are tied up with a string laden with bells, toys and trumpets. A mask is then put on and a red hat, the "rig-out" being completed by an empty kerseene tin, which rattles noisily along as he walks.

HUGHES FOR ARBITRATION.

He Would Be First to Accord to Labor All Rights Found Just After Consideration.

In his Maine speeches Mr. Hughes made it plain that he was not attacking labor or the equity of the proposed increase of wages for the railroad men.

"I deeply deplore, in the name of labor, in the name of justice, in the name of American ideals, the surrender of the Executive and of Congress to force, instead of permitting reason to reign."

"This particular measure shows on its face that it was legislation in advance of the investigation, instead of investigation in advance of legislation. It is said that there was in its favor the judgment of society."

"Autocracy represents force; tyranny represents force. Democracy represents the rule of the common judgment after discussion, after an opportunity to know the facts."

+++++ DECRYING INTERFERENCE, WE INTERFERED IN MEXICO EXASPERATINGLY. The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders. We have not helped Mexico. She lies prostrate, impoverished, famine stricken, overwhelmed with the woes and outrages of internecine strife, the helpless victim of a condition of anarchy which the course if the administration only served to promote. For ourselves, we have witnessed the murder of our citizens and the destruction of their property. We have made enemies, not friends. Instead of commanding respect and decrying good will by sincerity, firmness and consistency, we provoked misapprehension and deep resentment. In the light of the conduct of the administration no one could understand its professions. Decrying interference, we interfered most exasperatingly. We have not even kept out of active conflict, and the soil of Mexico is stained with the blood of our soldiers. We have resorted to physical invasion only to retire without gaining the professed object. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humiliation. From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

As a Police Cashier. "Ha!" said McNiffiter, when he met McDougall. "Did you hear about my brother's new job? He's been appointed cashier at a police station."

"Na!" said McDougall. "I heard new word 'o' that. Cashier at a police station? An' what does he do at that job?"

"Weel, man, it's like this," answered McNiffiter as he made tracks off, "he counts the 'coppers' as they come in."—London Telegraph.

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY TO VOTE FOR HUGHES.

He Says Wilson Has Failed to Enforce Pure Food Law.

"I favor the election of Mr. Hughes to the Presidency for entirely different reasons than those held by most of his supporters. It is not because of the Mexican policy nor the foreign policy of the administration nor by reason of its domestic policies."

"Mr. Hughes in his activities on the supreme court has stood like a stone wall for the proper administration of the food law. I believe his election would see a radical change in the attitude of the government towards pure food and pure drugs, so vital to the welfare of our people."

"I should expect Mr. Hughes as president to have the same attitude toward the pure food and drug law that he had as a judge on the bench and to appoint a secretary of agriculture with subordinate officers who would be enthusiastic and earnest in the enforcement of the pure food law for the benefit of the physical, mental and moral welfare of our people."

IN PREPAREDNESS THE ADMINISTRATION HAS FOLLOWED, NOT LED.

In the demand for reasonable preparedness the administration has followed, not led. Those who demanded more adequate forces were first described as "nervous and excited."

We are told that the defects revealed by the present mobilization are due to the "system." But it was precisely such plain defects that under the constant warnings of recent years, with the whole world intent on military concerns, should have been studied and rectified.

NORTH ELLSWORTH FAIR.

Good Exhibition of Produce—Interesting Sports Thursday. The annual fair of the North Ellsworth Farmers' club Wednesday and Thursday of last week brought together a fine exhibition of produce, and some interesting sports were enjoyed Thursday.

This is purely an agricultural fair, which is accomplishing much good in the agricultural development of the section. It cannot successfully run horse-racing and a big midway to draw the crowds, but as an agricultural display it is excelled by few small fairs.

The slow race, nearest to four minutes, was won by Walter A. McGown, with H. F. Maddocks second and Arthur W. Salisbury third.

The peg race was won by H. F. Maddocks, with Walter McGown second. The old man's race, for contestants over sixty years of age, was won by H. F. Maddocks, with Walter A. McGown second and Charles W. Sweeney third.

The foot race for married women was won by Mrs. C. W. Sweeney, with Mrs. James A. Salisbury second and Mrs. Isaac L. Emery third.

The fair closed Thursday evening with a dance, which was well attended. Premiums were awarded as follows: H. F. Maddocks—Rocky Mountain potatoes, 2; Hubbard squash, 1; Boston Marrow squash, 1; Turban squash, 1; largest squash, 2; citron, 1; drum cabbage, 1; Savoy cabbage, 1; largest beets, 1; largest green tomatoes, 2; ripe tomatoes, 1; display agricultural produce, 1. WATER RATES.

COMPLAINT FILED WITH PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN DISCUSS THE MATTER - ANOTHER LETTER TO POWER COMPANY FROM MR. REDMAN.

The new schedule of water rates issued by the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co. is still the vital topic of discussion in Ellsworth.

The board of aldermen, at its regular meeting Monday evening, also discussed the water rates informally. The board feels that the power company has always been fairly treated by the city government.

The board feels also that the increased valuation placed on the property of the power company this year was fully justified, and no higher in proportion than is placed on the property of private citizens.

The board feels that the increased water rate is simply a retaliatory measure because of the increased taxation, and, as one of the aldermen put it Monday night, "the city can play at this game as well as the power company."

There is no doubt that had the suggestion that the power company be obliged to put all wires underground been put in the form of a motion at Monday evening's meeting, it would have been passed unanimously, but it was decided to take no action pending the hearing of the matter before the Public Utilities Commission.

The complaint to the Public Utilities Commission, headed by Embert C. Osgood, after citing the fact of the issuing of the new rates, a complete schedule of which forms a part of the complaint, says:

That the said rates, tolls, charges and schedules for pumping, transmitting, delivering and furnishing to the patrons of said company in said city of Ellsworth are unjust and unreasonable and unjustly discriminatory.

They are unjust and unreasonable and the regulations, measurements, practices and acts of said public utility are unreasonable, insufficient and unjustly discriminatory.

No date for a hearing on the complaint has yet been announced. Mr. Osgood has received a letter from the Public Utilities Commission stating that the Ellsworth water rates have never been approved by the commission, it not being within its province to pass upon rates until complaint has been regularly made.

Mr. Redman's second letter to the power company follows:

ELLSWORTH, ME., Oct. 2, 1916. Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co., Bangor, Maine.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your letter of September 28, 1916, in which you give as the reason for the advance in my water charges, the fact that I have increased the water fixtures at my home.

You even intimate that I have been unfair in not notifying you of my company's increase in installation of water fixtures since October, 1915. There has not been any increase thereof in my home since that date, with the exception of one bath-room, the extra charge for which, under your schedule would be $4 per year.

Yet you are raising my rate from $26 to $40 per year. Now, to get down to business, your reason for raising my water charges is not that you have just discovered a number of extra water fixtures which have been in my home for nearly a year and a half, and which must have been known to you inspectors.

You raised my water charges, and those of the other citizens of this community, because the city of Ellsworth raised the tax assessment on my property for an amount commensurate with the fair taxable valuation thereof.

It is something that it was the plain duty of the assessors of this city to do. If, in capitalizing and leasing bonds, your company has failed to take into consideration that you were not paying a tax in Ellsworth commensurate with the valuation of your property there, that is your mistake.

Now that the tax assessment on your property has been raised to where it belongs, you have no right, as a public service company, to charge more for your service, in order to pay dividends and interest on capital stock and bondholders which should have contemplated this increase in taxes.

This is good law in many jurisdictions where these public service questions have arisen. I believe it is good law in this State to-day, and if it is not, that it will be as soon as the general public understands the principle involved.

To refer to one other portion of your letter, you say, concerning your water rate schedule: "This schedule was filed with the Public Utilities Commission September 7, 1916, and is approved by them. I do not understand that it is necessary for any of the water-takers to be present at such a hearing."

tions, the schedule has been approved by the commission.

Conceding that you have, as the law requires you to do, filed your schedule of rates with the commission, I do not understand that the commission has had any opportunity as yet to have a hearing or to give formal consideration to the matter of determining whether the rates are reasonable and just.

In your letter you say: "I know of no hearing which, up to the present time, has segregated the business of the water departments of the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co. from its other branches."

Yet, you say, referring to your water rates in your newspaper advertisements: "These rates and rules have been approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Maine."

This letter quotation is a misstatement of fact, and your publication of the same constitutes a deliberate attempt to deceive the public.

I wish to address myself to the matter of your taxation in Ellsworth. The assessed valuation on the tax books of your property in this city to-day is $415,350. From a casual examination of the financing of your company, it would seem that this tax assessment is low.

It is my understanding that at the beginning of the current year there were issued and outstanding 5% interest-bearing bonds of the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co. as follows: $308,000 in the hands of the public; $229,000 pledged as security for Bangor Railway & Electric Co. bonds; $16,000 owned by Bangor Railway & Electric Co.; and $23,000 held in the treasury of the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co.

This makes a total of $576,000 in bonds actually issued, on which, I understand, your company has been paying 5% interest.

In addition to this, $1,024,000 in bonds has been authorized by your company, $100,000 of which, when issued, is to retire a like amount of bonds of the Bar Harbor Electric Light Co., and the remainder to be issued against betterments, extensions, etc.

It also appears that your company has issued capital stock of the par value of $1,000,000, $300,000 of which is 6% cumulative preferred stock and $700,000 common. I am not aware what the company is paying in dividends.

In view of the valuation which you must have placed on this property in order to issue bonds in the sum of $776,000—for certainly good banking would require a million and a half in actual valuation to secure $776,000 in bonds issued and outstanding—you should congratulate yourself that the tax assessors of Ellsworth were so fair with you and let you down so easy, when taking into consideration the large amount of property in Ellsworth which stands behind this bond issue.

With regard to the taxation of the water system as a unit, it appears from the tax books that the assessed valuation placed thereon, including real estate, pumping station, water mains, etc., is $20,000. I wonder if your company would be willing to concede that the fair value of the water system, including its rights and plant as a going concern, is as low as $20,000—twice the valuation that the tax assessors have placed thereon?

It is my guess, if the matter of the reasonableness of your water charges comes before the Public Utilities Commission for formal hearing, as it will in due course, that you will seek to place a valuation on the system about four times as great as the valuation for taxation purposes placed thereon by this city.

The city of Ellsworth has for years kept your taxes down much lower than they should have been. This is our mistake, for now that your taxation has been raised to the valuation where it belongs, you are turning against the water-users of Ellsworth and putting up our rates. This is like biting the hand that has fed you.

I am sending a copy of this letter to THE ELLSWORTH AMERICAN. Yours truly, FULTON J. REDMAN.

CITY MEETING.

Rolls of Accounts Passed—Suit for Damages Against City. There was little business outside the routine at the regular meeting of the city government Monday evening.

All the aldermen were present, Ald. Wescott presiding in the absence of the mayor. Rolls of accounts were passed as follows: Roll of account No. 3, $2,410 18

STREET COMMISSIONER'S ROLLS. Highway, $755 72; Perm sidewalk, 67 86; Bridges, 27 55; Sidewalk, 79 94; Rock crushing, 5 85; Sewer, 74 00; 1,050 02

TEACHERS' SALARY ROLL. Common schools, $610 50; High school, 241 66; 852 16; Grand total, $4,312 36

City Clerk Hale reported that the city had been served with writ and notice for trial in an action for damages brought by Mrs. Reby C. Lord for injuries received in stepping into a sewer opening at Main and Grant streets last September.

METHODIST FAIR.

Opened Yesterday With Record Attendance for First Day. The annual three-days agricultural and domestic fair of the Methodist society opened yesterday at Hancock hall, with a record attendance for the first day, both at the dinner and in the hall.

A feature of the afternoon was the baby show, in the carriage parade, the silver cup was won by Cathleen Austin, with Willie Merriam second. In the baby show, Elma Holley received first prize, Marion Cunningham second and Elma Phelps third.

An address by Mr. Sink, of the agricultural extension department of the University of Maine, and recitations by Mrs. Phillips, of Melrose, Mass., were features of the afternoon.

The exhibits at the hall this year are unusually attractive. There is a fine showing of fruit and vegetables, W. C. Fogg & Son, of Hull's Cove, making the largest exhibit, a particularly fine display.

To-day the flower show is a feature, the Malvern Greenhouses, John H. Stafford, proprietor, and the Mt. Desert Nurseries, both of Bar Harbor, making handsome exhibits of plants and cut flowers.

W. O. Fogg & Son are also exhibitors of fancy poultry, showing Blue Andalusian and Salmon Faverolle fowl, also a pair of geese. Other exhibitors of poultry are W. E. Whiting and Dorothy Shackford, Barred Plymouth Rocks, and Cecil E. Sowie, bantams.

The largest and most instructive booth is that of the agricultural department of the University of Maine, in charge of Mr. Sink. Included in this display is a showing of preserves and pickles by Dorothy Shackford and Frances Lowree, of the Ellsworth Falls girls' canning club.

The fair will continue this evening and to-morrow, with new features each day, dinners at noon and moving-pictures in the evening.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

There is a large attendance at the school this year, about 120. Friday afternoon there will be another meeting of the student body, after which there will be music and talks.

After the meeting Principal Stoddard gave an interesting talk on the European war, after which Miss Wentworth gave a history of the Island of Haiti.

The basketball season will soon start, under the coaching of Principal Stoddard. The team has four veterans from last year's team—Clement, Jr; Johnston Jr; Fortier, Jr, Paul Whitcomb, Jr, with many promising candidates from the second team, among which are Small, Stewart, Moore, and many husky freshmen.

Mgr. Fortier has already arranged for several games, including one with Bangor high. At a meeting of the student body Friday afternoon, Lewellyn Fortier was elected president and Miss Margaret Ford secretary for the year.

The members of the athletic council were chosen as follows: Senior, Paul Whitcomb; junior, Roscoe Clement; sophomore, Carrol Johnston; freshman, Dana McGown. Entertainment committee: Senior, Miss Brady; junior, Miss Moore; sophomore, Miss Royal; freshman, Miss Cooke. Milton Barron was chosen cheer leader for the basketball team.

DOLLARDTOWN.

Mrs. Jerome Floyd is visiting at South-west Harbor. Mrs. Clara Hart, who has been assisting Mrs. Kemp, went to Bangor Sunday.

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Miss Helen Kenny Plaisted, of York, to Fred G. Foster, on Sept. 27. Congratulations are extended.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flanagan, of Forge Village, Mass., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born Sept. 22. Mrs. Flanagan was formerly Miss Della Drake.

Mrs. Susan P. Provost, aged ninety-two years, eleven months, died Sept. 20, at the home of her niece, Mrs. William L. Kemp. She came here from her home in California three years ago to visit the scenes of her childhood, and had been tenderly cared for in her failing health.

Although nearly blind, she retained her brightness and good cheer, and made many friends who sent lovely floral remembrances for her last resting place. Funeral services were held Thursday. Interment at North Bend.

Bar Harbor Lighting Rates. Thursday the public utilities commission rendered a decision in the case of J. L. Ketterlinus and others against the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co.

The petitioners made two allegations—first, that the company's rates are too high; second, that its schedule is discriminatory. The commission states that it neither approves nor disapproves the rates, withholding final decision until the appraisal of the company's property, now in progress, is completed; and it finds that the "present schedule has not been shown to be unduly discriminatory."

ELLSWORTH FALLS.

Mrs. Frank Gray, of Pittsfield, visited John W. Moore and wife Thursday and Friday.

Miss Laura T. Flood and Waldo L. Higgins were the guests of Miss Flood's sister at Bangor over Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Eugene Carlisle is home from the Bar Harbor hospital, where she has been for treatment for two weeks. She is much improved in health.

Martin E. Selisbury and family, who have been living at the Cushman farm several months, have finished there and moved to their home here. Oscar Doyle and wife have engaged to work at the farm.

At a meeting of the community, held in the vestry Friday evening, a committee of three, composed of Charles M. Whitcomb, Charles A. Joy and Mrs. Helen M. Fox, was chosen to formulate plans for a Junior cemetery association.

The Union Congregational Sunday school will co-operate with the State-wide movement to observe Sunday, Oct. 8, as Go-to-Sunday-school day. The annual rally day of the Sunday school will be held then, and every person in the community is urged to be present.

DARK HARBOR BOY KILLED.

Daniel A. Hatch, aged fifteen years, son of Delmar Hatch, of Dark Harbor, was instantly killed yesterday by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting.

Success In New England States Indicated by Eastern States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition.

A NEW era has dawned for the agriculture of New England. After a period of depression due to various causes, among them a competition in the middle west in the shape of cheap land of great natural fertility, low transportation charges to the markets of the east and few large cities of their own to feed, conditions have so changed that New England is today more nearly on an agricultural parity with the newer country.

New England has the land and the markets and needs only the determination to take its rightful place as a provider of food for its people. Land in the middle west is no longer cheap; it no longer will yield big crops without good tillage and fertilizer; transportation costs more, and there is now a great number of large and growing cities demanding an ever increasing amount of food.

These facts constitute New England's opportunity. That she is disposed to grasp it is apparent in many ways. The rise of the co-operative spirit in the last few years has been notable. This contains one of the greatest promises of the immediate future. It is not in vain that men are now for closer relations between the rural and urban sections.

Each Dependent on the Other.

The farmers are coming to see that times are vastly better with them when the business men are prosperous—that the workers in a factory running fifty-two weeks a year, full time, offer a much greater market for farm produce than those in a factory operated thirty weeks a year, three days a week. And the other side of this idea is that the business man is learning that a prosperous rural community is better for his bank account than one where the farmers can purchase only the bare necessities.

The mathematics of the idea has been recently put this way: If ten farmers in one community can either save or increase their incomes $10 each in one year, there is added to the bank balances or the circulating medium of that community $100. If 100 farmers do it, it would begin to attract attention; if 1,000, business would certainly "boom." The day is not far distant when something of this sort will come about here in New England.

Forward Steps in New England.

The better understanding of the interdependence of the country and the city has accounted for some very definite forward steps in some sections of New England. What many believe was the greatest of these was that in Springfield, Mass., where a group of men, quick to comprehend the trend of events, some months ago took up the subject and saw that what was needed was a movement big enough to comprise every community in the six New England states—an all-New England movement. Their big view of the matter followed the extraordinary success of the first county league in southern New England, that of Hampden County, which in the first two years of its existence added to the farm incomes and values of one county $1,200,000. "If this can be done in this county, why not in others—in all New England?" was the way the vision presented itself.

The outcome was the organization of the Eastern States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition. Though its title contains the word "Exposition," the emphasis is on the words "Agricultural and Industrial."

The keynote in this organization is co-operation. The organizers and directors believe firmly that if the agricultural and industrial interests of every part of New England can be brought into close relations both will benefit hugely. Each interest will learn from the other and there will be brought about a spirit of mutual helpfulness, an appreciation of each other's difficulties and a pride in success that will make New England more united.

Support For the Exposition.

Launched about the beginning of the year, the Eastern States Exposition has won the support of not only the business men of New England, to whom its program appeals as the most workable yet devised for the purposes sought, but of the leaders of agricultural thought in every state and of hundreds of "on the ground" farmers. It is a Massachusetts corporation, with a capital stock of $750,000, divided into 30,000 shares of a par value of $25 each.

The Exposition will co-ordinate, reinforce and extend the work that is now being done in New England by State boards and commissioners of agriculture, agricultural colleges, the Granges, county leagues and farm bureaus, farmers' unions, breeders' fairs and poultry associations and other like organizations. In order to do this it has provided a plant consisting of 170 acres of land and a group of exposition buildings of steel, concrete and brick, located in the town of West Springfield, 20 minutes' walk from the Springfield postoffice. This plant, which represents the entire capital of the corporation, is declared by the best experts to have no equal in this country. If in the world.

THE FARMER OF CO-OPERATION

Bringing Into Closer Relations of Soil Tillers and Other Business Men Benefits All.

This provision by the exposition of a magnificent headquarters has not been for the purpose of holding shows, but to be a real headquarters for the "movement for the betterment of the agriculture of New England."

New England's Clearing House. Primarily, the Eastern States Exposition has provided a clearing house—a place where New England men and women may meet for an exchange of experience and thus transfer the ideas of the most progressive communities to those not yet awake to their possibilities.

An illustration of what this means was given in the New England Farm and Business Conference held in Springfield Sept. 15 and 16, under the auspices of the Eastern States Exposition. About 200 of the foremost men of agriculture, business and industry in New England responded to the call. More than 50 of these men spoke on the general subjects: "What is the Matter with New England?" and "What is the Remedy for New England's Ills?" and out of what every one present at the close declared was the most important gathering of its kind ever held in New England came the resolution for the formation of a permanent New England Farm and Business Union, to work in conjunction with the Eastern States Exposition Committees on finance and organization will meet in Springfield at the time of the National Dairy Show, Oct. 12 to 21, on the exposition's grounds.

Founded and designed to be a benefit to all New England, the Eastern States Exposition is essentially a people's movement. Its board of directors is composed of men who represent the agriculture, business and industries of New England, and its financing has been done by the people. Scores of individuals in the six states have sought the opportunity to participate in the movement. The directors believe that many others will do the same when they understand the scope and promise of the exposition as a forward undertaking.

Brought Dairy Show to East.

The bringing of the 10th annual National Dairy Show to New England is one of several definite accomplishments to the credit of the Eastern States for the upbuilding of agriculture and dairying of the six states. Always heretofore held in Chicago, the effort to transplant it to New England for a year could never have succeeded had the directors of the exposition not been able to show the men of the middle west that New England would appreciate a dairy stimulus and that there was an organization here big enough to fittingly handle the greatest thing of its kind in the world. Soil fertility is an essential to a successful agriculture and the encouragement of dairying is therefore one of the chief aims of the new movement. The dairy show will be a great force in this direction.

The dairy show will be given in a group of buildings consisting of a Coliseum, 300 by 200 feet, containing an unobstructed arena, 200 by 100 feet and seats for 5,000 persons; a Machinery Hall, 301 by 234 feet, horse show and cattle buildings for 1,200 head, a beautiful new woman's building and other structures.

The woman's building will this year be used for the exhibition of the work of the boys' and girls' clubs of New England and the North Atlantic states. The Eastern States Exposition, together with the dairy show, created a committee to co-operate with the state and local club leaders in this project.

Work of Boys and Girls.

There are 100,000 boys and girls doing work as club members. These boys and girls are carefully supervised and directed. They are engaged in one or more of ten projects: Market gardening, canning, potato, corn, poultry, pig, bread-making, garment-making, farm and home handicraft and dairy judging.

The United States Department of Agriculture, through an appropriation of $15,000, is co-operating. The State club leaders, the county agents, many volunteer workers and the extension men of agricultural colleges have been enthusiastic in helping along these boys and girls. Some of the extension men have sacrificed their summer vacations for the cause. In addition to this the government is employing about 20 specialists to help instruct the boys and girls how to select, judge and demonstrate.

The boys' and girls' club work is being so organized that it is federating in the Eastern States and giving young people an unparalleled opportunity to achieve distinction. The reasons the boys and girls have been leaving the farms are principally four: Lack of an avocation as the farm has been conducted; isolation; the lack of an opportunity to satisfy their aspirations and ambitions; lack of enjoyment. The committee contemplates a ten-year program so thoroughly worked out that it will show hundreds of thousands of boys and girls in the Eastern States that farming can be made a prosperous business, that country life affords an opportunity to satisfy their highest ambitions.

Mrs. Jennie Ford and Mrs. Aldana Young were in Bangor last week visiting Mrs. Young's daughter Etta who is a trained nurse at the Maine general hospital.

The sad news was received here Tuesday of the death of Cleaves L. Cole at Port Moody, British Columbia, Can., after an illness of only two days, of infantile paralysis. His death was a great shock to his many friends and relatives here. When a very young man he was advised by physicians to go West for his health. Recovering his health, he secured a good position with the Hancock county boys who made good in the far West. At the time of his death he was commanding a large salary, and was connected with extensive oil works at Port Moody. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Hattie Redman, one brother, Fred L. Cole, both of this place, a wife, who was Miss Minnie Thurston, of North Sedgwick, and five children ranging in age from six weeks to six years. Mr. Cole was nearly forty years of age.

AFTER SIX YEARS.

Ellsworth Testimony Remains Unshaken.

Time is the best test of truth. Here is an Ellsworth story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

A. M. Franks, carpenter, High St., Ellsworth, says: "My back grew lame and as time passed, the trouble became constant. Finally my condition was so bad that I had to lay off from work for several days. When suffering in that way, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Moore's Drug Store and the first few doses helped me. Two boxes of this medicine cured me."

Over six years later, Mr. Franks said "I use Doan's Kidney Pills when a cold settles in my back and I always get relief."

TRY THIS TO BANISH ALL RHEUMATIC PAINS

People who have been tormented for years—yes, even so crippled that they were unable to help themselves—have been brought back to robust health through the mighty power of Rheuma. Rheuma acts with speed; it brings in a few days the relief you have prayed for. It antagonizes the poisons that cause agony and pain in the joints and muscles and quickly the torturing soreness completely disappears.

It is a harmless remedy, but sure and certain because it is one discovery that has forced rheumatism and sciatica to yield and disappear. Try a 50-cent bottle of Rheuma, and if you do not get the joyful relief you expect, your money will be returned. G. A. Farcher always has a supply of Rheuma and guarantees it to you.

The valve is continually popping up and down as the cam turns, which may account for the name "poppet" for this type of valve. However, the word poppet probably is a corruption of the name puppet applied to this type in England on account of its resemblance to the popping up and down of the puppets in the old time Punch and Judy shows.—New York Times. Bedouins and Water. It is not unusual to hear a Bedouin upon reaching a camp where water is offered him refuse it with the remark, "I drank only yesterday." On the Bedouins' long marches across dry countries the size of the water skins is nicely calculated to just outlast the journey, and they rarely allow themselves to break the habit of abstemiousness, as this would be sure to make their next water fast all the harder. They are accustomed from infancy to regard water as precious and use it with religious economy. Remarkable Relief Map. The most remarkable relief map in the world is a public park in Guatemala city. A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. New York

STATE W. C. T. U.

Some Features of Gathering at Lewiston Sept. 20-23.

[Reported to THE AMERICAN by Mrs. J. M. Mason, Southwest Harbor.]

While it would be impossible in the short space I dare claim to give a detailed account of the three days' convention, I will mention a few of the many good things it was the privilege of the white ribbon delegates to listen to and participate in. We regretted that only three from our county were present to sit under the Hancock bannerette—the county president, Mrs. Nettie Fullerton, the county treasurer, Mrs. A. W. Clark, and myself.

Our State president, Mrs. Althea G. Quimby, a worthy successor to our beloved L. M. N. Stevens, was at her best, and carried forward the business of the annual council with courteous but swift dispatch and impartial rulings. Her address and recommendations proved her thorough knowledge of the temperance situation and gave a masterly analysis of the broad field of endeavor, and the pressing need of alert and aggressive work.

It was her happy privilege to introduce the beloved national president, Anna A. Gordon, of Evanston, Ill., dozens of times during the week, and on each occasion, amid hearty applause, Mrs. Gordon responded with heart-stirring words.

The Pine Street Congregational church, Dr. W. A. Bartlett, pastor, bore outside and inside words of cheery welcome, and the pictures of the promoted leaders banked with flowers and greenery. The music director of Maine W. C. T. U., Mrs. Georgia Vail, of Portland, with her strong melodious voice, was ever ready to serve in song and solo, aided at evening by the choir soloist and quartette, with the magnificent pipe organ.

Nearly 200 delegates had gathered from all parts of the State to review the work of the past year and plan for the coming year, all full of enthusiasm. The keynote of the convention was law enforcement, and there was a general rejoicing over the result of the Maine elections, strongly emphasized by the reading by the chairman of a letter from the governor-elect, regretting that prior engagements prevented his attendance, and expressing his sympathy and endorsement of all the aims and work of the W. C. T. U.

Welcome night held many excellent features, the greeting of local President Dr. Bartlett, Mayor Brann and Dr. Chase, president of Bates college, all rang with no uncertain sound, and the response by Mrs. Shapleigh, West Lebanon, voiced the thanks of the convention. A stirring speech by the national president, and a fine address by Gertrude Stevens Leavitt on "The Signs by the Way", together with the special music, made the evening program a memorable feast of good things.

The children's hour on Wednesday, each led and lassie waving the stars and stripes as they sang, and listening with eager interest to the charming talk of the leader of loyal legions, Anna Gordon, delighted all.

Thursday afternoon, the pastor's hour, brief but eloquent speeches from seventeen pastors, of Lewiston and Auburn, gave promise of hearty cooperation, even to the desired end of securing the ballot for women.

The generous hospitality of the citizens was manifested not only in the reception and care of delegates in beautiful homes, but in other ways. Thursday an invitation was extended by the chamber of commerce for the delegates to take an automobile ride around the city, and some forty or more cars conveyed the grateful white ribboners to all the points of interest that could be reached in an hour's ride.

The unique but most enjoyable demonstration in city hall was appreciated by a large audience, where twenty-four countries having W. C. T. U. mission work were illustrated by Lewiston Loyal Temperance Legionnaires in the quaint costumes of the many countries, each bringing to Miss Gordon a message of greeting and brief accounts of the work being done in their home lands. An address by this splendid leader of children all over the world enthralled the audience.

The Lewiston orchestra gave fine music, supplemented by the Scottish bag pipes played by Prof. Andrew Scott, in Highland costume.

The speaker for Friday evening, Prof. John A. Nicholls, of Boston, gave the prelude to what at the church next evening was one of the greatest temperance speeches on record, "Footprints of a Great Reform." Auburn L. T. L. had a part, and occupied seats of honor.

One of the most enjoyable functions of the week was the 5 o'clock reception Friday, by the president and faculty of Bates college, the students graciously serving delicious refreshments. The welcome by the president and responses by white ribbon officers sped a happy hour away. A visit to the new chapel closed this delightful reception.

An invitation was received from Calais, through the Washington county president, Mrs. Jennie Price White, and was accepted for the convention of 1917.

MARIAVILLE.

Elwood Frost has purchased an automobile.

The house of Harley Black was gutted by fire recently. Mr. and Mrs. Black, who are employed on the Morrison farm, were not occupying the house, and the origin of the fire is a mystery. It was discovered by men working on the road, and a volunteer crew made desperate efforts to save the house. The furniture, most of which was new, was badly damaged by smoke and water, though most of it was taken from the building.

Oct. 2. F.

Then She Felt Better.

To the great relief of the neighbors, the snobbish and unpopular Jones family were moving.

While the furniture was being brought out some difficulty was experienced in removing a piano from an upper room, and some one proposed getting it through a large window and sliding it down.

Then came a suggestion from the Jones' next door neighbor, who had long fostered the deepest enmity toward them, though until now she had attempted to conceal it.

"No," she said acidly, all her pent up bitterness at last showing itself in her tone; "let it come out as it went in—on the installment system!"—London Mail.

Two of Them

They Met In a Vacant House

By AGNES G. BROGAN

The European war had brought an abrupt ending to Jack Hayden's important commission, sending him back unexpectedly to his own country. He was not surprised, therefore, at finding the old homestead vacated and his sister Cynthia away, presumably upon one of her customary visits.

Cynthia insisted upon keeping up the old estate and living in solitary grandeur, while her brother traversed the world in his civil engineering capacity. His latchkey fitted now into the lock with old time easiness. Going upstairs to his room, now evidently occupied by Cynthia, he lit a cigar and threw himself into a chair for a smoke.

He must have been more tired than he supposed, for the cigar turned to ashes in his fingers and all became oblivious. How long he slept he did not know. It was a slight grating sound which first attracted his attention. Then as his senses became more alert he discovered a black capped head upon the outer side of the window, within direct range of his vision.

There was no doubt the intruder had climbed to the veranda roof and was now at work loosening the clasp of the window. Darkness and silence had added to the worker's assurance that the house was empty. With fascinated eyes Jack Hayden watched the black cap as he withdrew farther into the shadows. As the grating continued a sharp instrument appeared above the sill, and the catch was deftly moved aside.

Jack waited no longer. One swift backward reach for his valise, and he stood revolver in hand against the paneling of the wall. There was no sound for a moment but his own rapid breathing; then the window was flung up noiselessly and a slim silhouette figure slipped into the room. Simultaneously with the click of the electric button came a sharp cry, instantly followed by a low exclamation from Hayden. The figure standing under cover of his threatening weapon was the figure of a girl. Little more than a girl she seemed, at least with her fair hair curling in tendrils about the close fitting velvet turban, which so resembled a cap.

Her eyes met his, wide and startled, while the hand which fell to her side held but a long and jeweled hatpin. This was the instrument, he realized, which had unfastened the latch. The girl, still facing him, withdrew almost imperceptibly toward the open window.

"Stand still," Jack commanded. The shock of being confronted by this small, appealing figure after his tense, expectant waiting, unnerved Jack Hayden strangely. His very fingers trembled at the revolver's hilt.

"Sit down," he ordered huskily. Slowly the girl obeyed. From the window his keen eyes searched the moonlit garden, the portico outside. For a possible accomplice; then his gaze returned to the girl.

"Why are you here?" he asked. The young woman glanced over the gleaming point of his revolver.

"Why are you?" she said coolly. Hayden compressed his lips. "Answer me," he insisted, "before I call the police."

The girl smiled scornfully. "You won't do that," she said. "It would be rather too dangerous—for yourself." She leaned forward suddenly. "Have you taken anything yet?" she asked. "Because if you haven't and will go away quietly no one need ever know that you were here. I—I'm not as calm as I look. Your revolver makes me quite sick."

Hayden bent toward her. "What do you mean?" he asked slowly. "What do you take me for?"

"What would any one take you for?" the girl retorted. "Who but a burglar is found armed at night in a vacated house?"

Jack stared, then laughed shortly. "So," he said, "you think there are two of us?"

The girl sprang to her feet. "Two of us?" she cried indignantly. "Do you dare to think that?"

"Certainly not," Jack answered sarcastically. "I merely supposed when you so skillfully pried that rear window that you had dropped in to pay a friendly call upon my sister, who is very evidently not at home."

The girl stood breathlessly regarding him. "Your—sister!" she murmured unbelievably. "Cynthia Hayden your sister?"

In careless proof Jack handed to her the double photograph. For a time she looked from the original back again to the picture, then, with crimson flushing face, returned the picture to him.

"I—I did not know," she began blunderingly, "that you were here. I—I'm a new friend of Cynthia's, you see, and I promised her"—she paused uncertainly, watching his face—"promised her that I'd stay and take care of the dog and cat, feed them until she came back. We came in tonight on the train together. I mean," she continued desperately, "that Cynthia went on, and I stopped over."

"And entered my sister's home,"

Jack added caustically, "through an upper rear window."

"I hadn't the key," the girl explained. "Cynthia had given it to me, but then there was a mistake, and—and I had to get in," she went on excitedly. "I simply had to. It was night, and there was no place else to go. I don't know a living soul in this town, and I'd lost my money, all of it, or, rather, Cynthia had taken my money and my watch and rings and everything."

Anger died out of Jack Hayden's face, and pity took its place as he listened to the girl's confused and improbable tale. "But the hatpin?" he asked dryly. "You're rather expert at that trick, aren't you?"

"I've often got in that way," she replied. "It's quite simple with a certain sort of window catch. The outer shutters were locked in the lower part of the house. That's why I had to climb up by way of the tree."

"And your name?" Jack inquired tersely. The girl flushed her white teeth at him. "Celia Celtone," she said.

To him the name sounded as fanciful as her story. He recalled none like it among his sister's acquaintances.

"You might," he suggested hopefully, "have some means of identification, a card, perhaps, in your purse?"

His prisoner raised her brows. "Cynthia has my purse, too," she said. Then with a sudden, graceful, beseeching gesture, she put out her hands to him.

"Pity died out of Hayden's heart. 'You consummate actress!' he exclaimed.

The girl turned from him quietly. "Well," she asked, "what are you going to do about it?"

Through the silent house came the long and imperative summons of a bell. Jack swung about impatiently.

"You'll have to come with me," he said. "It's the front door."

Deliberately Miss Celia Celtone settled herself in a great chair, her hands firmly grasping its sides. "I won't go a step," she affirmed.

"Very well," Jack answered shortly, and advanced to the open window. "I am here," he called. "No, this way; round to the right. That's it. Now, who is there?"

"Messenger," answered a concise voice from below. "Come down and sign for a package."

Jack muttered an imprecation as his sleeve caught upon a nail. "You will have to come with me now," he sternly told his prisoner; but, as he released his sleeve and turned about, no rebellious young woman awaited in the great chair. The room was empty.

Headlong he rushed down the stair. The street door stood open. "Which way?" he wildly inquired of the messenger, but as that person was just rounding the path information could not be gained from that source.

Mechanically Jack signed the book held out to him, fuming silently that this mocking, reckless, maid should have so outwitted him. Still absorbed he drew the wrappings from the bundle delivered at so late an hour, falling to notice in his abstraction that the name of the address was not his own. A woman's dainty purse presented itself to his view, while from its violet interior he brought forth a note. The handwriting was unmistakably his sister's. He read perplexedly:

Dearest Celia—We are rushing on toward Buffalo, and from there I will forward your purse with its valuables and very necessities. I have scandalized the passengers by laughing continually, since our hasty parting at the station. I can't forget the panic-stricken expression of your face as my train moved off so an expected—your wedding after your departing. I was in it frantically in your direction. I declare I should have thrown it at you had it not been for your watch inside. Why, oh, why, dear girl, could you not have been satisfied with my assurance that I had dropped the house-key into your purse, without handing it through the car window that I might show you just where I had placed it? I can only hope that you, poor, penniless child in an unknown town, will at least have the courage to wait upon my door step until the messenger brings this to you. Remember I shall not rest until you telegraph tomorrow. Lovingly, CYNTHIA

Helplessly big Jack Hayden collapsed into a chair. Remorse and shame and regret settled deeply upon him. And he had held this plucky, resourceful little woman at the muzzle of a six shooter, had sneered at her unfortunately truthful tale, had driven her from her only possible shelter alone into the night. Her little white blouse was very thin, he remembered, and her jacket still clung to the porch railings where she had relieved herself of it. Ye gods and little fishes, but he had been an ass and several kinds of fool! Where could she go at this hour of the night?

Desperately Jack wandered among the flowers of the garden. Something moving at its farther end attracted his attention, but it was only the ham mock swayed by a breeze. Closer inspection revealed a white object in the depth of the hammock and—yes—it was she, the little outcast girl, a Persian kitten cuddled drowsily against her cheek. With a sudden, overwhelming wave of tenderness Jack bent and picked the girl up in his arms. No word he spoke until he had placed her safely inside the house.

"Good night," said Jack. "I'll be back tomorrow."

Just one week later Miss Cynthia, receiving no response to her insistent ringing of the front door bell, passed inquiringly round to the rear. A swaying hammock beckoned the only evidence of life about the place. A man's broad and strangely familiar shoulders showed above the back of the hammock, and against one of these shoulders rested a woman's fair head.

"Jack," cried Miss Cynthia aghast, "and Celia Celtone! I didn't know you had met. Who could have introduced you?"

"No one could," Jack answered pleasantly. "So we waited for you. Our meeting was—er—rather unexpected."

Party-Line Consideration

A party line is a single circuit from the premises of more than one person to the central office, technically connected, so that more than one subscriber may obtain service over that circuit used in common.

A party line is not reserved for a single user any more than an entrance to an apartment house is like the entrance to a private residence.

A party line should be used on the share-and-share alike basis, just as the apartment house door is not used by one to the exclusion of any of the other tenants.

On a 4-party line, it is possible for all four stations to try to talk out on the same circuit at the same time. There is also the liability of all four stations being wanted at the same time to receive incoming calls on the single circuit.

Therefore, there are special considerations which a party line user should keep in mind:

1. Long conversations prevent the use of the line by other subscribers; therefore party line talks should be as brief as possible.
2. Whenever another party line subscriber requests the use of that line for an emergency, courtesy should prompt the first user temporarily to give up the use of the line.
3. Whenever a party line subscriber takes the receiver from the hook and finds the line in use, the receiver should be replaced at once in a careful manner; when a party line receiver is left off the hook, the transmission is considerably reduced.
4. At the end of a conversation the receiver should be replaced upon the hook immediately, otherwise the other subscriber cannot signal the central office.

AND the one who is calling a party line number should remember that when the operator reports "the line is busy," she means that any one of the stations is being used.

What Does Catarrh Mean?

It means inflammation of a mucous membrane somewhere in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, biliary ducts or bowels. It always means stagnant blood—the blood that is full of impurities. Left alone, it extends until it is followed by indigestion, colds, congestion or fever. It weakens the system generally and spreads its operations until systemic catarrh or an acute illness is the result.

Peruna

Is the nation's reliable remedy for this condition. It restores appetite, aids digestion, checks and removes inflammation, and thus enables the membranes, through which we breathe and through which our food is absorbed, to do their work properly. Forty-four years of success, with thousands of testimonials, have established it as the home remedy—Ever-Ready-to-Take. Its record of success holds a promise for you.

"You Should See Jim Eat"

The man who can't take three square meals a day is usually weak or ailing. Food, and plenty of it, is necessary to health and strength. When a man is off his feed, the first thing to do is to get the stomach in order and coax back the appetite. And "L. F." Atwood's Medicine is the thing to do it with. A great remedy for the stomach, liver and bowels, that soon sets these organs working properly, and creates a natural and healthy desire for food, which is one of the first signs of getting well. "L. F." Medicine is an old-fashioned remedy and a good thing to have in the house when any member of the family feels weak and out of sorts.

FREE—On receipt of a yellow outside wrapper with your opinion of the medicine, we will send you a box of our Needle Books with a good assortment of high grade needles, useful in every family. "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Me.
