In Summer

Cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Rockland as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in the city, wholeful summer drink in the city, whole-some, healthful, and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer bever-ages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all

Lieutenant in the Regular Army.

The appointments of some 200 young men to be second lieutenants in the regular army will be sent to the Senate by President McKinley this week acording to the New York Herald's Washington correspondent. Among these one or two and perhaps more will be selected from among the many fine young men graduated from the University of Maine at Orono.

men graduated from the Contests, at Orono.

In order to get the best military talent without at the same time offending his political friends the President contemplates the appointments of honor graduates from the leading state military colleges.

For some time past, it has been the practice of the war department to include in the army register the names of the three military students standing at the head of their respective graduating classes from each military institution having a regular army officer as instructor.

tion having a regard amount of army patronage at his disposal, President McKinley feels that he can well afford to recognize the military colleges throughout the country. It is his purpose to give at least one appointment to the leading military college to each state, making 45 appointment in all from this source. Do not fail to hear Dr. R. C. Flower lecture

Source,

It is possible that he will finally decide to select two from each college, but 45 are sure.

He has also decided to appoint 16 meitorious non-commissioned officers from the regular army.

These men successfully passed competitive examinations, and are, therefore, entitled to their soldier straps. There will still be many appointments for distribution among young men with good political backing, but the President has told his political friends that their candidates must have some military training and pass a rigid examination to show their oualincations.

candidates must have some military training and pass a rigid examination to show their qualifications.

For several years past, the authorities at the University of Maine have forwarded to the war department the names of the three students of the graduating class standing highest in the military department, Usually the major of the battalion and two of the captains of the corps have been named. Among the many graduates whose names are now on file are several who have since been identified with state goards, notably Capt. H. S. Boardman, '95, of Bangor, now in command of Co. G, N. G. S. M., who upon his graduation was major of the Coburn Cadets of the U. of M., and Capt. John Bird of Co. H of Rockland, now with the First regiment at Chickamauga, who while in college in 1889-90 was captain of Co. A, of the cadets; Edmund Clark, '01, major of the battalion, now with the U. S, signal service; Chas. H. Farnham, '97, former captain, now a second lieutenant with a Massachusett company. In last year's class, '07, the names of Wm. T. Brastow, major of the battalion, and Chas. S. Bryer and Stephen S. Bunker, captains, were forwarded to the department. Of these, it is reported that Maj. Brastow, who is a Rockport boy, who is now assistant in physics at the university, is an applicant for a commission and his name is mentioned in the Herald correspondence as one standing first among the U. of M. graduates on the list. So it seems quite likely that his name will be forwarded to the Senate along with the other leading college men from other states.

There are several other applicants from

WHAT HE CAME FOR.—What on earth did the Spanish fleet come across the Altantic for? Perhaps some Prescott of the Twentieth Century, privileged to burrow among the papers of Sagasta cabinets will explain the mission of the squadron that has caused so much needless search and unjustifiable anxiety in its effort to get to Cuba unseen and unknown. It brought no provisions for the besieged army of Blanco. If it had there was no use for them in the eastern end of the island, which has long been in the power of the rebels, unless Blanco is expected to desert Havana and make a break for Santiago. The Spanish general is credited with a deal of craft; the only surmise we can make of his plan is that he meant to hitch on to Cuba in the fog and tow it across the Atlantic, leaving the stupid Yanks to hunt around for it in the Carib sea.

Weary of Herrsy Trials.—The Presbyterians, by the prudent action of their General Assembly, have steered between Scylla and Charybdis without grazing either. Prof. McGiffert, the author of a book which threatens the foundations of the historical trustworthiness of the New Testament, is allowed to decide for himself the propriety of continuing in the ministry of that denomination; at least that's the construction put upon the resolution adopted by a large majority; "That the Assembly in a spirit of kindness no less than in devotion to truth, counsels Prof. McGiffert to reconsider the questionable views set forth in his book and it he can not conform his views to the standards of our church then to peaceably withdraw from the Presbyterian ministry." But the liberality in the method of dealing with the learned professor may be interpreted rather as an admonition to preserve the peace and the regard of his brethren by considering himself at liberty to open his veins at any time he may see fit, after the manner of distinguished Romans who had fallen under disfavor with a Tiberius or Nero. It is evident that the Presbyterians want no more Briggs business; as Dr. Briggs has taken himself out of the denomination of his own accord the above resolution simply shows Dr. McGiffert that the door is invitingly open in the same direction.

THE PHILIPPINES AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE.—Already the question, What shall we do with the Philippine Islanda? is a subject of carnest discussion. It is proposed by some that they be handed over to the care of Great Britain. Senator Edmunds, after considering the inconvenience or inconsistency with the Monroe doctrine, of retaining possession of them, suggests the return of them to Spain gratis, after peace is restored. We doubt whether either of these methods of getting rid of the first spoils of the war will sunt the American people. They will naturally desire to accomplish as far as possible the object which they had in view in going to war with Spain, that is opt a limit to the power of that weak and cruel to sovereignty to misgovern our neighbors. Geographically considered the Philippines are not our neighbors, but having the chance to rid those thickly inhabited islands of their Spanish oppressors we may consider them, according to the Parable of the Good Samaritan, our neighbors, and accord to them the same wide independence that we seek for Cuba.

It has been held that consumption is hereditary, and the fact that one person of a family had died with consumption was considered a sure sign that others of that family could not escape it. This is partly true and partly untrue. A man with weak lungs is likely to transmit that weakness to his children. Betthere is no reason in the world why the weakness should be allowed to develop. Keep the lungs full of rich, red, wholesome blood, and the weakners will disappear. Decaying tissues will be thrown off, and new material will be added until the lungs are well and perfectly strong again. This is the thing that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does. This is what makes it cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption where it is taken according to directions. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be in the body and forces them out of the system. It supplies the blood with rich, life-giving properties. It makes the appetite good, digestion perfect. Send 21 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. MONEY FOR THE SOLDIERS

Rev. C. S. Cummings, of Auburn, Chaplain of the First Infantry, National Guard, has addressed a circular to the churches and people of Maine as follows:

The State of Maine has sent a regiment of her noblest sons to battle for human liberty and to defend the national honor in the war with Spain. The danagers and hardships of this contest will be great; its centers will be outside the limits of our own beloved land and where, besides the enemy and the privations incident to war, our boys must face the conditions which surround the unacclimated in the tropics, and the subtle foe, disease.

In order to lighten their burdens and to relieve in some measure their distresses, it is proposed to raise lunds to be expended for such comforts and delicacies, not supplied by the General Government, as may be necessary for the sick and wounded men of our regiment. The change from the inspiring air, the cool, refreshing springs, and the luxurous homes of Maine, to the privations of army life under a hot southern sun is very great, and is infinitely intensified in the distress of the sick and wounded. We may greatly relieve that distress. This is a case where the gift of "a cup of cold water only" cannot lose its reward.

The pastor of every church in Maine is hereby requested to call the attention of his congregation to these facts, and to fix the first Sunday in July as a day on which a collection shall be taken for this fund. The setting apart of this day as "Hospital Sunday" throughout the entire state will serve as an inspiration to our people, and will give the privilege of joining at the same hour in their contributions in aid of the brave men at the front. Those who are not reached by the collections in the churches can remit directly to me any amounts they may destrobled.

The money received will be duly acknowledged.

From this nest in the mountains Colonel Cebreco is watching Santiago, its bay and Admiral Cervera's ships. Every day a little boat goes to Admiral Sampson with detailed information. Every two days faithful pacificos risk their lives to enter the trebly guarded city for details of its starvation.

Friday the Spaniards ate horses within the fortifications. Sunday the exterme Spanish cavalry outposts on a cleared patch on the mountain side, in plain view from here, cooked their pack animals. The condition of noncombatants is beyond description. Already 4000 women and children are existing on roots and the fruits of the mountains, but those in the town are starving. The dead carts are inadequate to carry the victims away.

Cuban scouts reported Friday that a number of Spanish soldiers were massed at a point of land lying between the fleet and the town. The Marbiehead and the Suwariee steamed in and took a position within easy range of them, and the St. Paul and the Dolphin opened from their anchorages. Firing began at 9 o'clock, and continued for an hour, during which the strip of raised land was mowed almost level with the sea. This was the beginning of the day's work. It was carried on by the Oregon, which came in from the blockading fleet. When she had finished coaling she went close in-shore and sent four 13-inch and six 8-inch shell struck a building in the town, and threw debris 100 feet in the air, It was a cascade of stone and mortar. Son afterward Cuban scouts reported that hundreds of Spanish troops in Guantanamo, aroused to vengeance by reason of this shot, were massing for an attack on Fort McCalla. A company of 50 bluejackets and one field piece was immediately sent from the colliers and the Panther to reinforce the marines. The expected attack did not take place.

The U. S. steel auxiliary cruiser Badger, formerly the Yumari, which is commanded by A. S. Snow of Rockland, arrived at Bar Harbor.

She is described as a funny old craft with the high freeboard and her towering smokes tack, but her armament is heavy for a vessel of her description and she, with the shore batteries soon to be creeted, will afford ample protection to Bar Harbor.

The Badger is 3,250 tons register, and is server. She carries a crew of 240 men and the feet of the fleet of auxiliary cruisers Badger, The Badger is 3,250 tons register, and is very popular with both officers and mis.

The Badger is armed with sk five-inch riftes, which are mounted three on each side forwarded of the funet. The guns poke their ugly muzzles through the open ports and none would mistake for an instant the characteristics.

The Badger is armed with six five-inch rides, which are mounted three on each side forward of the funnel. The guns poke their ugly muzzles through the open ports and no one would mistake for an instant the character of the craft as she may fairly be said to bristle with cannon. tack by one-half their number. There are 3500 Cubans in the province, most of them holding the roads to prevent the Spaniards getting supplies into Guantanamo. In his opinion the American forces can easily take Guantanamo and from that point operate against Santalago with every prospect of success.

Several attempts to find landing places for the United States troops, within a distance of two miles west of Santiago, have demonstrated, along with previous linquiries to the eastward, that the shore for 15 miles is lined with Spaniards. While this will not prevent a landing close to Santiago, it may mean delay, as the surrounding country must be thoroughly shelled and cleared before the troops can land in safety. When Rear Admiral Sampson received advices that upwards of 30 transports would be here Saturday he sent word that they should stand to the south 10 miles and ile there until a landing place had been secured. The launches of the New York and the Massachusetts reconnoitered the shore between Cabanas, two miles off the entrance to Santiago harbor, and Guayaganaco, two miles further west, both of which points lie east of the range of mountains surrounding Santiago bay. They pushed their noses into a hornet's nest. The brush was fairly alive with Spanish troops, infantry and cavalry; and the fire opened upon the launches was so fierce that their retreat had to be covered by the Vixen and the Texas. When the Treeps Land.

Washington, June 20.—With the troops disembarked on Cuban soil, there will be no delay in the prosecution of the business which has called them to Santiago. Secretary Long said last night that the present would be the most important work of the war up to this time, and it is evident from this remark that he anticipates the attack on Santiago is to follow the landing of the troops. In army circles it is said that at least two and possibly three days will be accessary to get the troops and all mutitions ashore. The wharf at Buiquiri will be useful in permitting the transports to get alongside of it and discharge their men and the guns and artillery caissons which they have in their holds. The point of landing determined apon is connected by road with Santiago, which will make easier the task of the engineers in preparing the way over which the troops are to march in their ards.

Porte Rico Expedition.

Washington, June 20.—The occupation of Porto Rico is likely to be deferred unil after the capture of Santiago and its efenses, and the capture or destruction of Cervera's squadron. This is chiefly use to the lack of transports. It is estimated that at least 30, and possibly as nany as 45, steamships will be required o convey troops and supplies for an exmated that at least 30, and possibly as many as 45, steamships will be required to convey troops and supplies for an expedition of 20,000 men.

Another embarrassment is the lack of convoys. Navai officials insist that it would be injudicious to withdraw any if the navai force now off Santiago, and they assert with equal positiveness that twould be unwise to withdraw any of the force on blockading duty, as it has seen already materially diminished to furnish convoys for the Santiago expedition. The movements of the Cadiz leet, while not very menacing at present or likely to be in the future, require a reserve navai force which shall be at the lisposal of the navy department.

Another argument for the postponenent of the Porto Rico invasion is the inufficiency of regular troops in this country. There are about 3000 regulars at Fampa, a force which cannot be maierially increased by transfers from artillery posts. It is deemed essential to nuccess in Porto Rico that the troops forming the expedition shall consist of a strong force of regulars. This will be ossible only by transferring to the Porto Reliable Havana erchant Tells How That City Cets It Supples.

That City ctes it: Supp ies.

Key West, June 20.—A prominent resident of Havana, who left that place on the 5th inst., has arrived here, on his way to New York.

His description of the situation in Havana at the time he left contradicts widespread reports of famine and suffering in that city, and throws a new light on the effectiveness of the blockade, which, it appears, falls in its purpose as far as cutting off all means of supplies and communication with the outside world is concerned. His story is entitled to full credence and consideration, coming, as it does, from one of the leading merchants of Havana, a foreign resident, unbiased in his views or sympathies.

He reports, in the first place, that Havana is practically an open port, as it is not blockaded on its southern approach. Batabano, on the south side, is only 40 miles from Havana, with which it is connected by rail. Batabano has never been more than a shipping point and headquarters for the sponge fisheries of southern Cuba, and a landing place for the Isle of Pines ferryboat, which there connect with the northbound trains for Havana.

The water between Batabano and the Isle of Pines being yery shallow, nowhere exceeding nine feet in depth, and therefore inaccessible to any large craft, has caused the Isle of Pines to be overlooked as a possible enterport or base of supplies for western Cuba and undeserving of further consideration than that attaching to a fifth-rate and much mismanaged penal colony.

It now appears, however, that constant traffic has been kept up between the Isle of Pines and the Yucatan coast, and that full cargoes of provisions and live stock have been regularly landed there from steamers, schooners and other sailing vessels unmolested by American warships, which rarely, if ever, patrol these waters.

Although the amount of the subscriptions to the new 3 per cent loan is not made public, it is officially stated that it exceeds all expectations. This is particularly true of the larger amounts. The number of subscriptions received for sums of $500 and less is large, but the department wishes it thoroughly understood by the public that, even should the whole loan be subscribed for several times over in large amounts, every subscription of $500 or less will be accepted at once, as all small amounts will take precedence in the allotments over large ones. A subscription for twenty millions has been received from a prominent life insurance company of New York, enclosing a certified check for $400,000, as required by the regulations governing the placing of the loan.

OAK HILL GROVE THEATRE

A large crowd attended the performance given at this popular resort last night by the Quaker City vaudeville and comedy company, and that they were pleased was demonstrated by the applause which followed each act. The company comprises some of the most noted performers upon the vaudeville stage today and Manager D. A. Carey deserves credit for the excellent manner in which he conducts this popular place of amusement. The entertainments are of the highest order and especially pleasing to ladies and children and no one need have fear of attending any performance as there is nothing said or done upon the stage to offend the most fastidious. The company this week is headed by Tom Hardie, a gentleman who does a very clever specially and is justly styled America's greatest Acrobatic Tramp.

Miss Inga Orner pleased the audience with her rendition of descriptive and operatic selections. This young lady possesses a voice of rare culture, and it is a treat to hear her sing. Miss Lillian Williams in a plantation sketch, gave a true representation of the southern darkies and kept the audience convulsed for infecen minutes. Ed Gallagher kept the audience in rears during the time he occupied the stage and deserves credit for his work as it is out of the general run of monologue artists. Phil Jason, a Rockland boy and Victor Mazzello, gave a four round exhibition of the manly art which deserves special mention; this was followed by Prof. Herman Kuehuene, a musician of rare ability, who plays upon a different variety of instruments. The entertainment closed with a one act comedy, "Down on the Farm," which kept the audience in good humor, after which followed a social dance. These entertainments will be given every evening rain or shine; cars will leave the grove every evening after the dance for all parts and no one need have any fear of not arriving home in good season as Manager Carey has arranged with the railforad company to have cars after each performance.

A DESIRABLE HOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Franklyn had

Mr. and Mrs. Enumence Frankly in had got tired of life in the country.

Of course, wild roses, strawberries and cream, and the song of blackbirds and linnnets before dawn were very enchanting—but they had their balancing disagreeables. The gothic roof leaked under its braided greenery of wistaria vipes and honeysuckle; the wistaria vines and honevsuckle: wistaria vines and honeysuckle; the klitchen stood an inch deep in water whenever there was a trifle heavier rain than usual, and the half-mile walk from the depot, however enchanting in flowery time, gave Mr. Franklyn a amping neuralgia when traversed in a drizzly equinoctial. The butcher for-got to call, just when his wares were needed most, the next-door-neighbor charged a little more than city prices for his milk, eggs and butter, and th cook and chambermaid left at the end of the first mouth.

"Sorra a bit will a dacent girl be af-ther stayin' in a haythen place like this where there's not a church spire to be seen, and the frogs look at yez like Christians through the basement windows" said they.

So that life in the rural districts was so that life in the rural districts was not altogether without trials to Mrs. Laurence Franklyn; and about the time that New York houses break out into a harmless erysipelas of bills, having the legends, "To Let," and "For Sale," she said to her husband: "Don't you think, dear, it would be well enough for us to return to the

Mr. Franklyh said it was a pity they hadn't found that out before. Mrs. Franklyh said that, as far as she was concerned, she would just as soon stay where they were. Mr. Franklyn retorted that anything was better than an indolent woman. Mrs. Franklyn burst into tears. Mr. Franklyn went out of the room, banging the doo hind him. Miss Lesiardi declared that all men were brutes, and that she for one never intended to be married. "I don't care," sobbed Mrs. Frank-lyn. "It was all Lourence's fault, tak-ing this horrid, damp hole."

"I wouldn't do anything without consulting Bee," pleaded Julia.
"I shall give her a pleasant surprise," said Mr. Franklyn, buttering a muffin. "Remember, Ju., this is between you and me."
"Oh, of course," said Julia, beginning to feel a little embarrassed by the amount of confidence reposed in her. Early next morning Mr. Franklyn went to New York. Bee followed in the next train; while Miss Lesiardi breathlessly awaited the crisis.

"Oh, nonsense!" exclaimed Julia.
"That's only the professional landady's ruse."
"Oh, but it's true," persisted Bee, for I saw his hat on the sideboard, and I caught a glimpse of his legs walking about in the upper story to see if the paint was in good order on two thousand.

"And suppose the other party—who, I dare say, was the plumber or gas-fitter, or perhaps the carpenter, come to see about repairs—should offer twenty-five hundred?"

"He won't," said Bee, confidently. "The house isn't worth that."

"But I really think, Bee darling, that you'd better speak to Laurence."

To Beautify a Storeroom "How to beautify the storeroom," may be a popular subject for conversation among housekeepers who have aesthetic tastes. A New York shop keeps a supply of large boxes of heavy pasteboard, covered with beautifully flowered paper, landscape paper, or paper with quaint human figures upon it, for storing purposes. There are two sizes of boxes; the one just large enough to hold a soft cushion, and the other about twice as and the other about twice as large. They sell for, respectively 75 cents and $1.25 each. The small for cents and $1.25 each. The small-er boxes are given with sofa cush-ions bought at the place. All the shades of plum, heliotrope and violet are very popular for trimmings, and for the cloth dresses which are now being so much worn. White and black gowns are being or-dered for this season. One gown which I saw, and which seemed to catch the popular fancy, was of ivory-colored etamine, the bodice with an empiece-ment of Maltice guipure. The waist-band was incrusted with amethysts. Two shades of violet velvet trimmed the bottom of the skirt.

CONDITIONS MATERIALLY CHANGED

Campaign Active and Aggressive—Spain Can Do Nothing Now but Resist-Cabence on Present War-Defenses at Caimanera Demolished by American Bombardment Lasted One Hour and Thirty Minutes.

said today that the departure for Cuba of the first division of General Shafter's army of invasion put an end to all present prospects of peace. While none of the foreign representatives has ever made peace overtures to the United States government, yet a paceful solution has always seemed to members of the diplomatic fraternity as within the bounds of possibility, so long as the United States troops remained at Tampa and Key West.

Now, however, with 15,000 American soldiers about to take a position on Spanish soil it is said that the conditions have undergone a material change, as it commits the United States to an aggressive land campaign and also makes it impossible for Spain to adopt any other course than that of defense of her soil against invasion. The presence of our ships at Manila, Havana and Santiago have not, this official held, constituted an actual invasion, although they had wrought much damage.

The landing of 15,000 troops on Cuban soil, however, has advanced the campaign from a passive to an active and offensive condition, and the hopes of a peaceful squitton of the conflict have passed away and cannot be revived until the result is determined. This would take some months, probably all summer.

passed away the result is determined. This would take some months, probably all summer.

If a peace proposition had come before General Shafter sailed, diplomatic officials are inclined to think it would have been eagerly accepted by Spain and would have stood some chance of consideration by the United States. The belief is entertained in diplomatic quarters that the authorities here were loth to send a large invading army into Cuba during the rainy season, when yellow fever, heat and pestlence combine to make such a movement exceedingly hazadous, even if no enemy were on hand capable of an effective defense.

The cabinet crists in France may exert other indirect influences on the present war. M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs in the present French cabinet, has been foremost in overcoming the anti-American spirit shown by part of the French people and French press. He has, moreover, exercised a strong repressive influence on Spain. He was able to do this through his peculiarly close and personal intimacy with the Spanish ambassador at Parls, Senor Leon y Castillo, and through him to have a considerable part in the shaping of the policy of the Spanish government.

It was through Castillo that Spain hoped to induce France to come to her rescue, but Hanotaux would not entertain the proposition, and on the contrary urged that Spain must make the concessions necessary to secure peace. It was this attitude of France, shaped by Hanotaux, that caused such deep depression in Spain a few weeks ago, as it brought to the Spanish government and people the first realization that they were without an ally or friend in Europe. The course of Hanotaux has been highly gratifying to the authorities here, and without an ally or friend in Europe. The ourse of Hanotaux has been highly ratifying to the authorities here, and hey would be giad to see him retain the ontrol of foreign affairs in France.

Reports received at the adjutant gen-Reports received at the adjutant general's office show that practically all the regiments now in the field, and which are to be filled to their maximum strength under the president's second call for troops, have sent recruiting parties to the states from which the organizations come to obtain the necessary men for this purpose. It will require between 40,000 and 50,000 men to fill the existing organizations to their maximum strength. Meanwhile the war department is not making public the appointment to the states under the second call for 75,000 men.

After the regimental recruiting is well under way then the department will indicate to the states such new organizations as may be desired. It is preferred that, as far as practicable, the men recruited under the second call first shall fill the existing regiments and not be given the option of choosing between them and any new organizations. There are a number of states and territories which will not be permitted to furnish troops under the second call, as their quota is aiready filled.

The organization of the volunteer army made necessary the appointment from tivil life a few less than 500 staff officers and second lieutenants. The enormous amount of work entalled upon the president and the war department, particularly the adjutant general and his force, by these appointments can be imagined when it is known that for the 500 appointments there were more than 21,000 applications. Every one of the applicants had to be briefed, arranged and filed, and before the appointments were made many of the applications had to be handled several times. Each one had to be answered, and many of the were the subjects of considerable correspondence.

The majority of the applicants had expressed in official circles that the task is now approaching completion.

Steps will be taken by the war department in a few days looking to the payment of the claims of the several states and territories for expenses incurred by them in the subsistence and maintenance of the volunteers prior to their muster into the service of the United States. All such claims will be referred to a board consisting of any army officer designated by the secretary of war and an official of the treasury department. It will be the duty of the board to protect the government's interests as far as practicable in the settlement of these claims.

Guantanamo Bay, June 14, via Kingston, Jam., June 16.—However unpleasant the experience or unjustified by precedence, the landing of this smail detachment of marines, mostly raw men, in the enemy's country has taught some lessons to the officers and men here, and, pressibly also to the authorities at Washpossibly, also to the authorities at Wash possibly, also to the authorities at Washington.

It has showed the Spaniards to be daring bush fighters, and it has proved that every American camp must be compactly built, and as well protected to resist night attacks as though in the Apache country. It has developed several small defects in the mavy guns under service conditions, and it has shown that, given a free rein with repeating rifles, 50 nervous troops can waste 10,000 rounds of ammunition, killing shadows, in a single night, and not think even then that they have done much shooting. Though the 16 dead Spaniards found by Lieutenant Nevilles' men were regular uniforms, most of those seen in the daylight attacks wore scarcely anything except big plantain leaves found around their foreheads in lieu of hats. This acted as an effective disguise in the bush. Others, striped to a pair of dirticolored trousers, tied branches around their waists, reaching shoulder high, and, moving very cautiously, they could even cross open ground without being detected, though some of them were caught at the game.

Another trick was to make a moving screen of two or three big palm leaves, almost impossible to detect where stunted palm everywhere rises out of the chapparal.

The Cuban auxiliaries were most useful in pointing out these tricks. There are 60 of these men now in camp, mostly negroes, with Cuban officers. They are hawk-eyed woodsmen, breaking even with the Spaniards in every device of bushcraft. The American marines, at first, were inclined to discount them. But this morning they spoke enthusiastically of the auxiliaries for their daring. At night, in skirmish time, the marines say the Cuban auxiliaries for their daring. against W. P. Ryan for libel, He's the author of "Literary London" and has entered her name under the heading "Authors I Cannot Take Seriously." Her attorneys wrote the following letter to the publishers of the book:

"Miss Corelli considers that she is most coarsely and abominably libeled. She will, however, be satisfied with a full apology from you and the author, together with a written undertaking not to sell any more copies of the book until the libelous passages are eliminated. Unless you are prepared to agree to these terms we are instructed to commence an action," etc.

The publisher has apologized, but the author not only declines "emphatically" to do anything of the kind, but has made arrangements for publishing the book on his own account and invites Miss Corelli to proceed against him.—San Francisco Argonaut.

President Callaway, Depew's Successor.
Samuel R. Callaway, who succeeds Chauncey M. Depew in the office of president of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, is one of the most active men in America. He has been in the business of railroading since 1863, when he was a lad of 12. He was then a Canadian boy starting out on his own career, and he chose the great industry of railroading for his life's work. He began as an office boy with the Grand Trunk railway, and he has won his way steadily from that lowly place to be the chief of a great system. Like all successful railroad men, his advancement has been achieved by pure merit, large capacity for work and unflagging attention to his duties. President Callaway, Depew's Successor

F. H. Berry drove in on the track during the afternoon with Thad Irish. This horse has a mark in the thirties and is one of the best drivers in the county.

The age of Uncle Gil Ingraham, the vet-eran driver from West Rockport was under discussion in the grand stand. Finally some-one appealed to Alvin McLain for a decision. "How old is Gil Ingraham?" said Alvin, "why he's just 101 today."

The exhibition miles trotted by Lucky Strike, 2.19½, and Belle P 2.17, were features of the meet. F. H. Berry himself, drove Lucky Strike, while Ryder, his newly-acquired jockey handled the reins over Belle P. The first mile was simply a warming up heat and was made in 2.35, the last quatrer being driven in 35½ seconds. The second heat was a very pretty one, the two trotters keeping neck and neck almost the entire distance and traveling like clock work. No attempt was made to speed them, but they did the mile in 2.28, the first quarter being in .37, the half in 1.4½ and the three quarters in 1.53. Lucky Strike and Belle P make a splendid pair and Mr. Berry is often envied their possession.

KNOX COUNTY CONVENTION

Ladles of the W. C. T. U. Hold a Profitable Session at Thomaston.

The 11th annual convention of the Knox county W. C. T. U., was held June 15, at the Methodist church in Thomaston.

The session opened at 10.30 a. m. with devotional service conducted by Mrs. Teague of Warren, after which the president, Mrs. R. C. Hall of Rockland, took the chair and opened the convention to business.

The roll was called by the secretary, Mrs. Heal of Camden, the response showing that all the local unions of the county and nearly all the superintendents of departments were represented. Others came in later.

The address of welcome for the church was given by Rev. S. L. Hanscom; that for the W. C. T. U. by Mrs. E. O. Burgess. There were responded to by the president. Next came the president address to the convention, given in a few well chosen phrases.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer gave no cause for disappointment. A letter was read from Mrs. Johnston, the state treasurer and listened to with interest, after which the teports were given of the superintendents departments of work, of which there are sixteen taken up in Knox county. These reports showed that as a whole much good work had been accomplished during the year.

Weekly Freight Circular.

The larger class of vessels for long voyage trades continue in good demand, particularly for case oil to China and Japan, but the offerings do not increase to any appreciable extent, hence rates are maintained firmly upon the basis of recent fixtures. Some few vessels are required to meet the wants of the Colonial lines, but the bids submitted indicate a slight yielding upon the part of charterers, 17s 6 and 18 being tendered owners for medium size tonnage to Sydney and Melbourne. There is no demand for Africa in consequence of the competition of steam. For barrel petroleum tonnage there continues a fair inquiry, and with suitable vessels scarce, rates have a strong and buoyant tendency. ## ENEMY LOST CAMP

Marched Five Miles From Their Entrenchments.

GOOD WORK OF CUBANS.

Kingston, Jam., June 16.—Tuesday the United States marines under Lieutenant Huntington and Cubans attacked a Spanish camp five miles from the Amer entrenchments. They completely can entrenchments. They completely routed a force of 400 Spaniards, breaking up the camp and destroying a well which supplied them with water. One American was slightly wounded; two Cubans were killed and four Cubans wounded. The Spanish loss is believed to be 40 men killed. Fifteen bodies have already been discovered.

The captured camp lay about five miles outheast of the rifle pits of the marines southeast of the rile pits of the marines and was an important base for the enemy, as it contained the only well within six or seven miles. Lieutenant Colonel Huntington decided on the at-tack early in the day, and the force started across the mountain. The march up and down the steep hillsides under the glaring sun was a severe test of endur-ance, and before the battleground was eached 22 men had received medical at tention. All were able, however, to reach the position before the fighting ceased The marines were compelled to march in single file, following the mountain trail. Many Cubans darted backward and forward, to right and left, on the scout. It was noon when from a hillton the Americans caught sight of the Spanish camp lying on a ridge below them. It consisted of a large house—the offi-cers' quarters—surrounded by numerous "shacks" and huts, all clustering about the precious well enemy before the crack of a rine from the Spanish lines announced that the Spaniards had discovered them. The troops quickly moved into line of battle with the Cubans on the left flank. The enemy's bullets were whirling viciously over the Americans, but the marines settled down to their work as unconcernedly as though at target practice.

Very few Spaniards were in sight. They were lying behind the huts and in the brush, but the puffs of smoke revealed their positions and enabled the Americans to do effective work. For 20 minutes both sides maintained a terrific fire. The Spanish shots were generally wild and spasmodic, while the Americans coolly fired away, aiming carefully and shooting to kill. For the most part our firing was done individually; but at times the officers would direct fring b. squads, always with telling effect.

shooting to kill. For the most part our firing was done individually; but at times the officers would direct firing b. squads, always with telling effect.

It was beginning to look as though a bayonet charge down the slope would be necessary to dislodge the enemy, when suddenly the latter began to break for a thicket 100 yards further on. Little groups could be seen fleeing from the camp, separating, darting through the brush and zigzagging to escape the bullets. It was then the American fire became the most deadly. Man after man could be seen to fall in a vain rush for shelter; and the fire from the Spanish became scattering and almost ceased. Two Cubans lay dead and four wounded; and Private Walker of company D had to limp to the rear with a slight wound in his ankle. The easy victory put the command in his ankle. The easy victory put the command in his high spirits. The Cuban warriors waved their machetes and howled curses at the Spanish in savage fashion. Their firing had been wild fabroughout, but they all displayed the utmost contempt for the Spanish bullets, apparently being absolutely without fear.

As the enemy began breaking from the camp, the Dolphin, which lay out at sea, was signalled and began pitching shells toward the thicket for which the Spaniards were making. Meanwhile Lieutenant Magill was seen coming with 40 men as reinforcements; and Captain Mahoney was on the way with 90 more; but before either could reach the scene the trouble was all over. As the Spanish is saved the trouble was all over. As the Spanish is well and the spanish bullets, apparently being absolutely without fear.

As the enemy began breaking from the camp, the Dolphin, which lay out at sea, was signalled and began pitching shells toward the thicket for which the Spanish reserve squadron has left Cadiz for an unknown destingtion. The minimum the sundaron sailed, but it appears we will be for either could reach the scene the trouble was all over. As the Spanish is saved to the squadron sailed, but it appears he will return o retreated the Americans moved slowly forward, firing as they went, and by the time the camp was reached the enemy had all got away, taking their wounded and probably many of their dead. No time was lost in burning the buildings and filling the well with earth and stones. The Dolphin landed water and ammunition, as an attack was expected on the return march; but none was made. Evidently the Spaniards were too thoroughly beaten to attempt further fighting. The marines did not reach the American camp until after nightfall, and as they had been without food since the early morning they were thoroughly exhausted. Colonel Huntington believes the destruction of the camp and well will seriously cripple the bush-whacking operations of the enemy.

There was no renewal of the attack on the marines Monday night. They slept in the trenches with their rifles beside them, protected by a heavy picket line of insurgents and marines, under the command of Lieutenants Lenore and Smith. They share a larms, but no firing during the night. In consequence, the men awoke much refreshed after four days and nights of continuous work and fighting. It was supposed the enemy had retired to the windmill in the night, on the south coast, the only remaining source of water supply.

There was no renewal of the attack on the marines Monday night. They slept in the trenches with their rifles besided them, protected by a heavy picket line of insurgents and marines, under the command of Leutenants Lenore and Smith. They had strict orders not to fire unless commanded to do so. There were several alarms, but no firing during the night. In consequence, the men awoke much refreshed after four days and nights of continuous work and fighting. It was supposed the enemy had retired to the windmill in the night, on the south coast, the only remaining source of water supply.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning the menny made an unexpected, sharp attack upon the American rear and left flank. When the pickets reported for resident and got within 100 yards, when the accidental discharge of a rifle in the trenches led them to believe they wree discovered, and they opened fire with a volley which whisted harmlessly overhead. They shot too high as usual, and the marines serambled from their steaming coffee and hardtack back to the trenches and met the guerillas with a ragged, but well directed rifle fire. In addition, five filed picces, mounted at angles in the trenches, and the machine guns poured a hall of builtest into the chapparel, scattering the main body of the Spaniards in all directions. Shels were dropped into their midst as they ran. A few of the enemy stood their ground desperately on the left flank, and the crack of the Mauser rifles and the pings of their builtes were heard rather han seen for an hour, as the smokeless powder used by the Spaniards made their location in the dense underbrush almost impossible.

The Cubans were with difficulty forced out of the skirmish line, and some of them refused to be driven even when struck by their officers with the flat of their machetes. They tried to work out their knowledge of the methods of the Spaniards in all directions. Shorts were also to the strains line with a research the special part of the spanish guerillas in warf

Madrid, June 16.—Advices received here today by The Liberal from Manila, under date of June 16, practically repeat the news contained in the dispatch of June 15 from the Shanghal correspondent of the London Dally Telegraph who forwarded upon that occasion difformation which he had received from Manila up to June 8, saying that on June 5 the insurgents forced the passage of the Zapote river and captured Las Pinus and Paranaki, since which time the fighting between the insurgents and the Spanlards was continuous, and the latter were being gradually driven in. The Liberal's between the insurgents and the Spaniards was continuous, and the latter were being gradually driven in. The Liberal's dispatch explains that "in the face of Aguinaldo's superior forces the Spaniards were compelled to retreat."

The Liberal correspondent also says: The fighting continues incessantly. There are skirmishes at intervals day and night, and lack of provisions has caused the Spaniards to yield at certain points. Both ammunition and food are both scarce. Nevertheless the Spaniards are animated by the best spirit and are fighting heroically. The wounded, who are crowding into the churches and convents, have been placed under the protection of the Red Cross.

It is reported that the archbishop has gone to the insurgents in the hope of moderating their animosity and preventing acts of violence. The Jesuits are seeking places of refuge in the province al unlearned public to pin their faith to one man, as they used to do with Fred Archer in England, but when the 'dope book' is discarded and the handicapper throws away his memoranda and only waits to find out what Tod rides the case is different. Jealous as most of the other jockeys are, they are powerless. Under the circumstances Sloane naturally has the pick of the horses, and his coolness and generalship seem never to fail him. It is only when he comes to a whipping finish with Sims, Taral or some of the strongest horsemen we have that he fails, and he is so careful and long headed, has such aknack of avoiding pockets, has such admirable judging pockets, has such admirable judg-ment of pace and such a way of getting even the ugliest tempered horses to run kindly for him that in his case the necessity for a whipping finish seldom arises. Like Tom Cannon, Sloane does not believe in the whip and never uses it if he can avoid it."

Fate of Some Race Horses.

Hopeful, 2:13¾, was in his day as celebrated as Rarus or even St. Julien. He was a magnificent race horse to harness, to wall and an ideal trotter. When his raing days were over, the gallant little gray began to drift about the country, pulling up for a time at Sing Sing prison, in New York state, where he was a vned and driven by a detective. He eventually drifted into the hands of a man in Maryland who esteemed it an honor to care for the trotter who for 13 years held the record for the fastest miles to wagon. Darby, 2:16½, one of the most popular horses that Dan Mace ever drove, struck the down grade as old age came upon him and was hawked about and sold for a pittance before his death. Great Eastern, 2:18, disappeared almost as soon as he left the grand circuit tracks. Judge Fullerton, 2:18, had a more checkered career after Humphrey sold him. He met his fate in Boston, where he was being exhibited in a clothing store and would have been presented, had he lived, to the purchaser who guessed the nearest to his weight. While being exercised, however, he fell on the railroad track and was so seriously injured that he had to be killed.—Chicago Tribune. he had to be killed .- Chicago Tribune.

view very large quantities of sea sand were brought up the river and used freely, with the result that putting, which was formerly a source of infinite vexation and worry, has now become a comparatively simple matter. No course a year or two back could have been in parts heavier or more disagreeable to travel over, and the "flogging" process became terribly monotonous and wearisome, and could hardly be called golf. The use of the sand, however, has now brought the course into excellent condition.

BRYAN SLOPPING OVER

The Political Colonel-Not a Uniform, but

The Political Colonel—Not a Uniform, but a Costume.

The most uncharitable view of Mr. William J. Bryan's intentions when he became a soldier, and the severest remarks that have been made concerning his military posture, are justified by the perfermance of this politician and actor at the Omaha Exposition on Tuesday. At that place and on that day and in full regimentals the only political Colonel began his campaign.

The spectacle was disgusting to every right-minded citizen, no matter what his politicis may be. The Colonel of the Third Nebraska was aware that there would be a large crowd at the fair, the occasion being what was known as Nebraska Day, with a program of speechmaking. The combined attractions of the crowd, the brass bands, the hustings, and the opportunity for political self-promotion proved irresistible, as might have been expected, to the Colonel of the Third Nebraska. He laid aside for the day the text book of tactics which he had been studying ostentatiously for the past three weeks, but he did not lay aside the uniform which he has been wearing for about the same space of time. Arrayed in the complete habiliments of war, he marched to the fair grounds and exhibited himself from the platform to the multitude of civilians there assembled.

The Thespian instinct that determines most of Col. Bryan's movements impelled him to se'ze upon this magnificent chance to make his first political speech in a Colonel's uniform. The Omaha speech of Col. Bryan consisted in part of a denunciation of what he calls "land-covetowness in the garb of national destiny," and a declaration of his views about the proper policy of the United States, but in unquestionable insubordination to the Commander-in-Chief directing the present plan of campaign, Mr. Bryan proceeded, in pomposu language and in the full uniform of a Colonel of Volunteers, to warn the Administration that under no circumstances must the fruits of Dewey's victory be retained. Manila must be given up. The penalty of disobedience of the in the full uniform of a Colonel of Volunteers, to warn the Administration that under no circumstances must the fruits of Dewey's victory be retained. Manila must be given up. The penalty of disobedience of the Colonel's decree is to be not only his personal displeasure, but also the disapproval of Nebraska, for which the Colonel, for fairground purposes, assumed to speak: "Nebraska, standing midway between the oceans, will contribute her full share towards the protection of our seasonat. Her sons will support the fing at home and abroad. Whenever the honor brasks will hold up the hands of the government while the battle rages, and when the war clouds roll away her voice will be heard pleading for the maintenance of those ideas which snaptred the funders of our government and gave the nation of the control of the control of the standard of the control of the contr beginning of war."

"Our guns," remarked the political colonel, in his fine oratorical manner, "destroyed a Spanish fleet, but they cannot destroy that self-evident truth that governments derive their just powers not from superior force, but from the consent of the governed? Shall we abandon a just resistance to European encroachment upon the Western Hemisphere in order to mingle in the controversy of Europe and Asia?

This invalidation.

Shall we abandon a just resistance to European encroachment upon the Western Hemisphere in order to mingle in the controversy of Europe and Asia?

This incident ought to teach the Administration that its good-natured tolerance of Mr.
Bryan's desire to pose as a military character was ill-considered and unfortunate. The political colonel is bound to use his opportunities for all he thinks they are worth to himself politically. His uniform is nothing more of less than a costume which he has put on in order to play a part. The part which he aspires to play is that of a shoulder-strapped leader of the Opposition, haranguing the country on its duty and destiny whenever he can secure an audience, and postponing camp duties from time to time in order to proclaim his ideas concerning matters of national policy which the people of the United States at the last presidential election, intrusted not him but to William McKinley, now his Commander-in-Chief.

Notwithstanding all this, we are firm in the opinion that it will be better to keep Col. Bryan at home, where his political speeches in uniform can only volate military propriety and diagust the public sense of decency, rather than to send him to the front, where his military incompetency would surely be dan grous to the lives of the men under his command, and might at a critical juncture prove terribly expensive to the American cause.—
