AT THE CAPITOL

Smith Not a Member of Reapportionment Committee—Pending Matters

Out of a maze of parliamentary technicalities surrounding two bugaboos to administrative peacefulness, the Maine Legislature last week had threaded its harassed way toward a semblance of unity for the business ahead.

While committees functioned normally on an increasing list of new bills in the week just ended, the House cleared its skirts of the two controversies which had bothered leaders of the majority party for three weeks. At almost the last moment in the last week's session Republicans amassed strength enough to push through an order for a reapportionment committee to redistrict the State, and named another committee to consider various measures relating to consolidation of State departments and agencies as outlined in an administrative "code."

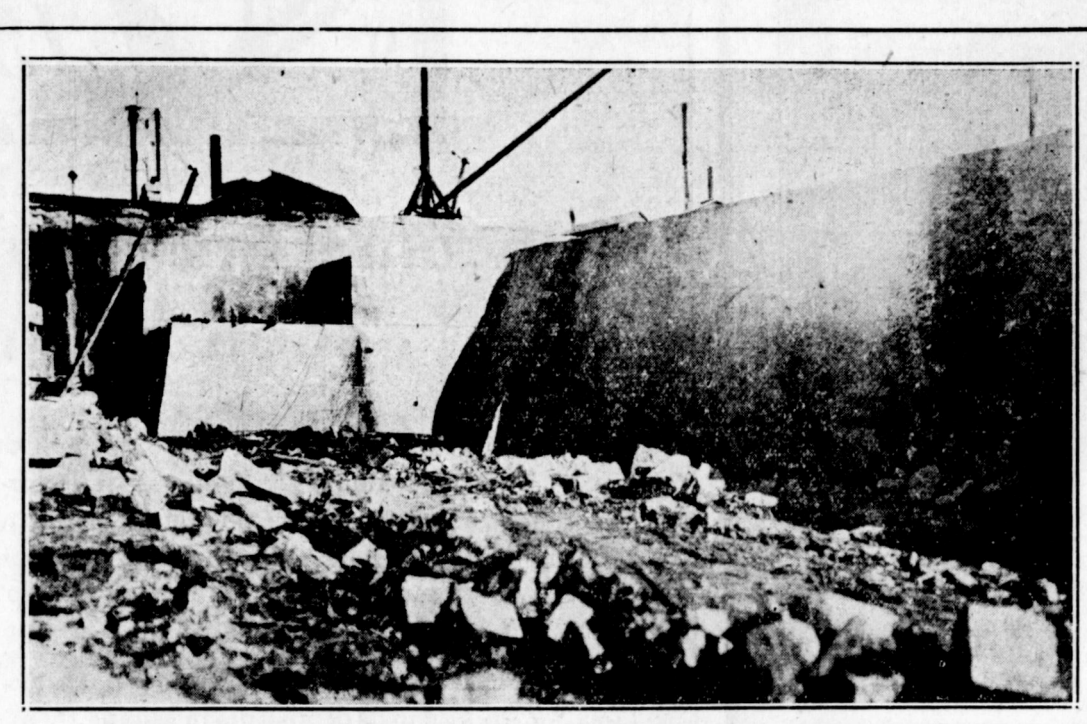

Led into its error by the mis-statement of an evening daily, The Courier-Gazette Saturday stated that Representative Smith of Vinalhaven had been named as a member of the reapportionment committee. Mr. Smith in reality was named as a member of the "code" committee. Representative Albert C. McLean of Rockland is the Knox County member of the reapportionment committee.

One-half cent and up for every mile traveled by motor vehicles operated for hire, with a capacity of more than seven persons and for motor trucks of a capacity of more than 3000 pounds, would be collected as "compensation" for use of highways and for maintenance, repair and reconstruction," under two measures introduced into the Legislature by Cram of Mt. Vernon. The measures specifically provide that out-of-State vehicles shall come under that law.

The charge against busses and other such vehicles would be one-half cent for those from 8-15 capacity, and one-half cent increase for each additional unit, while the charge on trucks would be 3000-5000, one cent; 5000-10,000, 1 1/2 cents, and 10,000 and over two cents. Automobile excise tax payments would be deductible.

Quarrying a Thirty-Thousand Ton Stone

One View of the Stonington Quarry Where the Big Granite Slab Is Being Manufactured

Had Uncle Sam decided to build his Boston Postoffice of pink granite all he would have had to do was go down here to Stonington, whisper a word in the ear of a certain quarry boss and a crew of experts would have begun manufacturing the necessary material from a single slab of stone, which has just been freed from its native bed on the plant of the Deer Island Granite Corporation.

From a single slab, mind you! Being one of the most famous granite quarries in the world, the Deer Island deposit offered exceptional opportunities for quarrying, so that it became merely a question of mathematics when the owners decided to hew a slab which would keep the quarrymen busy for an extended period.

And so they attacked one of the most promising heads, and with a skill that was little short of weird, began to separate from the granite mountain a slab which would measure 400 feet long, 45 feet in width and having an average depth of 17 feet.

The granite giant contains, roughly speaking, more than 300,000 cubic feet of stone. Uncle Sam has done many wonderful things in his day, but up to date has built no super-dreadnaught with a displacement equal to the weight of this giant slab.

Monolith? No. The manipulation of a 30,000-ton stone, 400 feet long, into a single column would cause even Atlas and Hercules together to pass the buck.

So, instead of amazing the world in a monolithic form, the huge slab is to be dismembered, and after the cutters and polishers have wrought their magic, sections of it will enter buildings and bridges in various parts of the United States. At the present time stone is being cut in this quarry for the Brooklyn Postoffice and two New York bridges.

The general public has only a hazy idea of the steps which are necessary to hew a 400-foot slab out of a granite ledge and maintain the desired thickness and depth, but to men engaged in the granite industry it is just another piece of knitting work only using a larger ball of yarn.

When the foreman desires to quarry a stone similar to the one described, or even very much smaller, as is usually the case, he goes back about 50 feet from the front of the ledge, and puts in a Lewis at a strategic point. A Lewis, in the vernacular of the granite quarryman, is a series of holes drilled close together, and penetrating the desired slab to within a foot or so of the bottom. A Lewis generally consists of from two to six holes, and when the first has been drilled a blast is touched off in it so that the ledge will crack for some distance. It is needless to say that the holes are drilled in alignment and in the direction which the ledge is to be broken. The process is repeated on the other end of the ledge until the crack runs the entire length of the slab, the effect being similar to that which is obtained when a man splits wood with wedges. The ends are freed with dynamite, and the slab is then in readiness for the quarryman to drill into the desired dimensions.

The value of the big slab now being manufactured may be judged from the fact that the estimated value of the stone is $750 a ton in the rough. It solves the unemployment problem of a good sized crew for one year, as that is the length of time which will probably be occupied in putting the product of the slab onto the market—Rockland correspondent in the Boston Globe.

KNOX COUNTY CLUB FORMING

Weekly Motorboat Races To Be Summer Feature—One Class To Be Lockwood Motor Equipped

The Knox County unit of the Maine Outboard Motor Association met in the Legion hall at Camden Saturday, and acted upon several important matters. The State officers present were A. L. Anderson, vice commodore; Henry Beverage, secretary and treasurer; M. S. Dick, director for Knox County.

It was decided to form a class to be Lockwood motor equipped, boat to be optional but to conform to the A.P.B.A. rules. This outfit can be bought through the club, the price for new motor and new boat being $186; and for used motor and new boat $125. Should the driver care to build his own boat $75 would about cover the expense, his time and labor.

Anyone buying either of the two outfits first named would have an equipment suitable for use in the weekly races which are being planned, and would have an equal chance of winning in the Camden regatta. It is planned, not only to have weekly races in Knox County, but to have races monthly with clubs in other counties.

There will also be a special race at the annual Camden regatta, the date for which has not been set.

Before the Knox County club is formed it will be necessary to have 10 members, and with seven already in sight this would seem to be quite feasible. Five of these members must own boats and motors before a charter can be received from the Association. Boat owners who are interested in the proposition will find it to their advantage to confer with the Rockland member M. S. Dick.

The membership of the Maine Outboard Motor Association, as of Feb. 1st, follows:

Guy E. Albee, Bangor; Victor G. Carlow, Brewer; Herbert R. Drinkwater, Brewer; Russell D. Drinkwater, Brewer; Thomas H. Flanagan, Bangor; William H. Nason, Bangor; J. E. Drinkwater, Brewer; W. D. Richardson, South Brewer; Hugh Quinn, Bangor; Henry S. Beverage, Camden; Fred F. Boyce, Portland; Albert G. Frost, Portland; Richard D. Frost, Portland; Roger C. Hay, Portland; Alvah L. Anderson, Camden; Ethel M. Anderson, Camden; Robert L. Anderson, Camden; M. S. Dick, Rockland; Paul A. Jones, Union; Charles Miller Harris, Augusta; F. H. Hutchinson, Philadelphia; Harold S. Cortnell, Camden.

THEY REMEMBERED THE MAINE

Spanish War Veterans Hold Notable Service—Judge Gould Expresses Opinion Of Pacifists

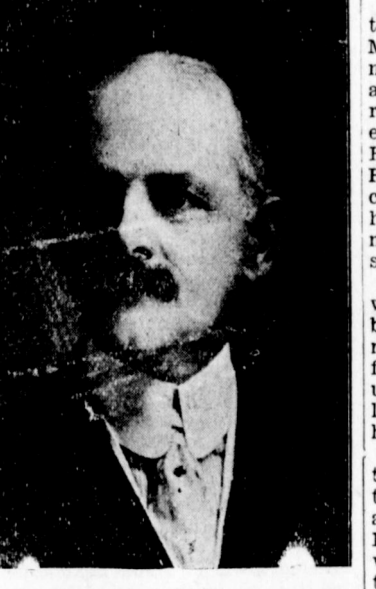

Sunday was the 33rd anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor and in commemoration of that tragic and epoch making event Ralph Ulmer Camp of United Spanish War Veterans held notable services in American Legion hall.

The orator on this occasion was Col. Edward K. Gould, whose ancestors were military men as far back as he can trace them, and whose own prominence in patriotic affairs fills a large chapter in Maine's history. His address Sunday night was a graphic recital of the catastrophe which befell the Maine—bringing its flood of memories to those who were old enough to recall the sensation which it caused, and thrilling those of the new generation who had never before heard the story so vividly told.

The speaker showed convincing evidence that the Maine was the victim of an exterior explosion; he told of the disappointments which followed his own attempt to throw into Spanish War service a battery of light artillery; and he expressed in most vigorous English his opinion of the retribution which should overtake the pacifist element of citizenship.

It was, in brief, one of the finest patriotic addresses Col. Gould has delivered in his long career as a public speaker.

The program Sunday night was begun with a patriotic melody played by the American Legion Orchestra, two numbers being songs which were favorites of the men who fought for the Union's preservation; two which were greatly in vogue during the brief struggle which marked the suppression of Spanish cruelties; and two which thrilled millions of buddies while that gigantic struggle "to make the world safe for democracy" was being waged.

Judge Edward K. Gould, Whose Patriotic Address Featured Sunday Night's Memorial Service.

Judge Gould, who was introduced as "a loyal friend of the Spanish War Veterans," said in part:

It is 33 years ago today since the country was astounded by the news that the battleship "Maine" on a visit to Havana, to care for American interests in Cuba, then in the throes of rebellion, had been blown up while at anchor at a government buoy in the harbor.

The country was at once aflame with the spirit of war to avenge this insult to our flag. Not since the firing on Fort Sumter had the nation been so stirred, but President McKinley endeavored to hold this warlike spirit in check until some preparation could be made to meet the emergency.

Rockland responded with ardor to the clarion call to battle. Co. H, 1st Maine, was recruited to war strength, many young men entered the Navy, and a battery of light artillery was recruited from civil life, ready to enter service whenever needed. Co. H, marched away with the First Regiment to Chickamauga, but were condemned to remain in that death hole by the inefficiency of the regimental commander, who declined service in the Philippines.

"You men of the Spanish War do well to celebrate this event and to bring to mind the brilliant achievements of the short but eventful conflict that reflects so much of honor, unselfish devotion to the cause of liberty, and chivalric spirit in the hour of danger."

It has been a matter of wonder that your organization has allowed these anniversaries to slip by year after year, without public observance. By this neglect the people of this vicinity have almost forgotten that there was a Spanish war. A generation has grown up since that war closed, who hardly know that there was such a conflict, and it is due to your dear comrades, men of the Spanish War Veterans, that you do not suffer their names to sink into oblivion.

It was a spirit of vengeance, the cave man element that lurks under every man's vest, in spite of the veneering of civilization that thinly covers us all, that called the young man to war. He thought only of those 250 dead sailors lying at the bottom of Havana harbor, murdered on the Maine without a chance to defend themselves, and he itched to take a Spaniard by the throat and make him pay the penalty of such treachery.

Occasionally a man might remember that the Good Book says "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord," but most of the soldiers and sailors of that day preferred to take a hand in the vengeance themselves. Perhaps they believed themselves to be the instruments of the Almighty in inflicting vengeance, or thought they might improve on the Divine method. But the average volunteer gave the divine plan little thought as he marched away to deal out justice to the Spaniard.

War brutalizes man. We all want peace. Yet none can safely be a pacifist in the present condition of the world. Why talk pacifism in the United States which is by tradition a peaceful nation. Why talk it in Great Britain or France. Both these nations want peace, but France is compelled to be an armed camp because of the enemies that surround her. In self defense she must be always ready to be assailed. Let the pacifist go to Russia or Turkey or Italy and preach peace, and he will spread his propaganda where he will be of some avail. Make these nations advocates of peace and there will be no need of a large navy or a huge standing army in the United States.

One can have but little patience with a pacifist in this country. He would strip the nation of all defense and lay the country open to devastation and destruction by any hostile nation that was prepared for war. If a burglar invades your house in the night time, which of these two methods would be the most effective in dealing with him and saving your life? Hand him a copy of the Sermon on the Mount or give him the contents of your revolver.

Every pacifist who advocates disarming this nation should be taken before a firing squad and shot at sunrise. With the best of intentions, he would bring about a condition of affairs that would threaten the very existence of the nation, and bring upon us the dire calamities he hopes to avoid.

At the conclusion of the program the audience stood with bowed heads and in silent prayer.

In the lower hall ice cream, cake (made by the Spanish War Auxiliary) and soft drinks were served.

Commander Cross is receiving many congratulations on the success of the memorial service—one of several important events destined to mark his administration. The Camp is very grateful to all who assisted, not forgetting H. B. Bowes for chairs loaned.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

GOOD-NIGHT

When the bright lamp is carried in,
The sunless hours again begin;
O'er all without, in field and lane,
The haunted night returns again.

Now we behold the embers die
About the fire-lit hearth; and see
Our faces palely lit by gas,
Like pictures, on the window-glass.

Must we be bed indeed? Well then,
Let us arise and go like men,
And face with an undaunted tread
The long black passage up to bed.

Farewell, O brother, sister, sire!
O pleasant party round the fire!
The songs you sing, the tales you tell,
Till far tomorrow are ye well.

"NO GO," SAYS THE WARDEN

The Manufacture Of Potato Bags At State Prison Would Require Prohibitive Equipment

Warden Linscott and Prison Commissioner P. H. Gay visited the plant of the Bemis Bros. Bag Co. in Brooklyn last week, acting under instructions from the Governor and Council, and having in mind that an industry dealing with the manufacture of potato bags could be installed at the State Prison.

They soon found that the idea would be impracticable for the reason that it would require equipment prohibitive in cost, including a printing plant. The stock is also expensive. The Brooklyn concern employs 500 at its local plant and has branches all over the country.

The manufacture of office and school furniture for State departments is under consideration, and Legislature has been asked to provide the means for establishing the necessary machinery.

It is also hoped to start a department at Thomaston for painting and repairing autos, and the officials are trying to get a contract for broom making.

Meantime the chief industry is the manufacture of wheelbarrows, of which there are about 800 on hand. The prison registry shows 238 convicts, two of whom are women.

KIPPY KARNIVAL

Conceded To Have Eclipsed Its Predecessors—A Kute Golf Course

The third Kippy Carnival which closed with a grand ball Friday night was bigger and better in every way than either of its predecessors. The decorations of the gymnasium and booths were especially dainty and effective and all obeyed the rule "no tacks in walls or woodwork."

It is no easy matter to run an entertainment in a crowded hall with people constantly moving about but experience has taught the youngsters the kind of thing that will get over in such circumstances and the following program was very successfully presented, Friday afternoon under the direction of Hugh Benner:

Song, Eddie Griffin; comedians, Yale Goldberg and Frank Pietroski; harmonica, Ernest Rich; acrobatics, Victor Armata; saxophone solo, Virginia Proctor; dance, Annie Anderson; whistling, Ruth Richards; reading, Ernest Blackington; dance, Phyllis Snowman and Jeanette Cohen. The Boys' Band assisted.

Never has the response to solicitation for goods for the booths been more prompt and generous. Hot dogs, cold drinks, popcorn and forties were dispensed by the seniors, Walter Gay, class president, Mrs. Stratton faculty advisor; remembrances, ice cream and candy by the juniors headed by Malcolm Haskell advised by Miss Dingley. The sophomores, Alden Johnson president Miss Pride, advisor, managed the handkerchief display, sold grabs from a snowy igloo and ran what proved to be one of the most popular features of the fair—a miniature golf course.

With an outlay of $1.88 for lumber and nails and the gift of a few old rags Burton Bickmore, Nicholas Pellicane, Herbert Pendleton, Lawrence Crane and Morton Sumner contrived an clever and sporty little course as one could wish. Clubs, balls, etc., were lent for the afternoon and more than one person took his first try at this fascinating sport.

Coach Heal's 33 and Paul Merriam's 29 were among the lowest scores of the afternoon.

The tea room under the direction of Mrs. Keen was another example of magic transformation. The sudden sprouting of evergreen trees all around the walls of Miss Pike's room, the installation of an honest-to-goodness electric range, to say nothing of the fairy white curtains at $400 and $450. How fine this showing is may be judged from the fact that last year's Kippy netted only a trifle over $300.

It is, of course impossible to mention all the people that deserve credit. The general committee of five was as follows: General chairman of fair, Rodney Murphy; publicity chairman, Walter Gay; chairman of ball, Mary Lawrence; assistant, Ted Lawrence; specialty chairman, Hugh Benner.

Yesterday they counted the proceeds and were delighted to learn that the fair had netted between $400 and $450. How fine this showing is may be judged from the fact that last year's Kippy netted only a trifle over $300.

"JERRY" SMEAD'S RETURN

Aviator Recuperating At Hospital—Wrecked Plane Here—As Eye Witnesses Saw the Disaster

Lieut. Gerald M. Smead, whose life was imperilled by the airplane accident at North Haven last Friday afternoon, is now at Knox Hospital, with a prospect that treatment and recuperation process will cover a period of a week or two.

The wrecked plane was towed to Rockland by Sumner Whitney and Charles Carver of the scallop smack Madeline & Flora, and while not damaged quite so badly as had been expected it is likely that the Curtiss-Wright folks will not attempt to repair her, but instead will replace it with a new plane.

The North Haven end of the airplane story is thus told by a correspondent in that town.

To Harold Young and H. Russell Crabtree belong the credit of saving Lieut. Smead when he made the terrible plunge into the water of North Haven Thoroughfare Friday night. Mr. Young and Mr. Crabtree had just returned from a cruise down the harbor in Mr. Young's power boat and the motor was not shut off. It was simply idling at the float, and when Lieut. Smead made the plunge they were ready to go to the rescue.

"When they were near enough to the plane they could see Lieut. Smead, face up, apparently lifeless and slowly sinking. With all possible haste they reached the plane and without a moment's hesitation Mr. Crabtree jumped upon it and reaching down some six or eight inches into the water grasped the sinking man and brought him to the surface."

"After taking him into their boat they brought him to the Western Steamship wharf where many willing hands were ready to take him into the office."

"Dr. Woodman who lives near the landing had seen the plane when she took the header and catching his grip made for the wharf and was ready for work when they got Lieut. Smead there. After first aid was given he was then taken in the car of Elena Thornton to Nebo Lodge of which Herman Crockett is proprietor. As they have quite a large supply of emergency supplies there, with the aid of hot water bottles, dry clothes, etc., everything possible was done to save his life. Burdiss Brown was night nurse."

"They tell about it being an unlucky Friday the 13th. In some ways it was unlucky for Lieut. Smead and in other ways it was very lucky for not once in a thousand times would everything have worked in favor of saving the man as it did on Friday the 13th. One-half minute more and he would have paid with his life for the accident. As for honor it is Mr. Young, Mr. Crabtree, Dr. Woodman and Mr. Crockett."

"Capt. Winepaw came over in the cabin plane Sunday and took Lieut. Smead to Rockland where we hope with good care he will regain his usual health. As Lieut. Smead was leaving the wharf he said to Mr. Crockett, 'I wish I could see the man who pulled me out of the water, and take him by the hand and thank him.' As luck would have it when he got to the landing to take the plane Mr. Crabtree was there. It is safe to say that as long as the lieutenant lives he will never forget the kindness he received at the hands of the North Haven people."

OUR HOME SERVICE COLUMN

(By Florence Foreman Ellis of the Home Service Department of the Central Maine Power Company)

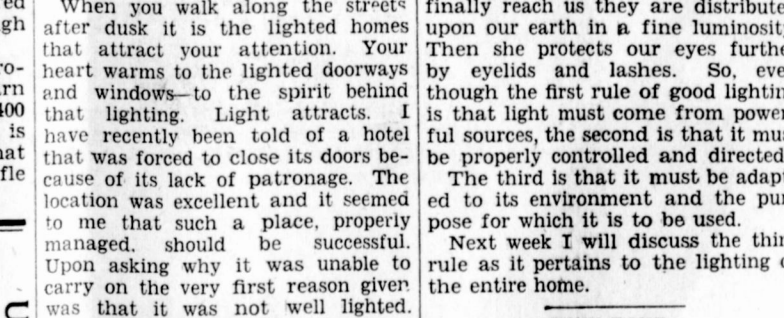

Better Home Lighting

"First impressions strike deep."

This is equally true of men and houses. The entrance is the welcoming hand of the home. When, at night, you are making an expected call upon a friend and find a lighted doorway awaiting you, you feel that the warmth of that friend's hospitality extends beyond the night and bids you welcome. There is not only an extended hospitality in lighted doorways but the thought of safety for family and friends.

When you walk along the streets after dusk it is the lighted homes that attract your attention. Your heart warms to the lighted doorways and windows—to the spirit behind that lighting. Light attracts. I have recently been told of a hotel that was forced to close its doors because of its lack of patronage. The location was excellent and it seemed to me that such a place, properly managed, should be successful. Upon asking why it was unable to carry on the very first reason given was that it was not well lighted. One gloomy looking light hung on the front veranda and the interior was equally dark. Passers by, tired and seeking comfort, had no rise of spirits upon reaching the hotel so they passed on, looking for a hotel that was forced to close its doors because of its lack of patronage. The location was excellent and it seemed to me that such a place, properly managed, should be successful. Upon asking why it was unable to carry on the very first reason given was that it was not well lighted.

We are all lovers of light. We like sunny days and blue skies. "In the beginning was light." Under that light—sunlight—human life had its origin. Until there was artificial light there was really no home life. In past ages, when the sun went down we lay down and slept until it came up again. Artificial light has stood behind the growth of home life.

At first lighting was indeed primitive. But the demands of mankind have now brought it to an almost perfect state. Now the quality of the light we receive from electricity is really sufficient to the needs of the human eyes.

It should be remembered that illumination is the first intention of lighting installations. After that is cared for we may begin to look for harmony and beauty. We do not want a glare from our lights but a soft, well diffused light. This is accomplished by shading the direct light. Nature sees that the sun sends its rays through clouds and mists of the upper air so that when the rays finally reach us they are distributed upon our earth in a fine luminosity. Then she protects our eyes further by eyelids and lashes. So, even though the first rule of good lighting is that light must come from powerful sources, the second is that it must be properly controlled and directed.

The third is that it must be adapted to its environment and the purpose for which it is to be used.

Next week I will discuss the third rule as it pertains to the lighting of the entire home.

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Me., Feb. 17, 1931.
Personally appeared Frank S. Lydell, who on oath declares that he is President of the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that the issue of this paper of Feb. 14, 1931, there was printed a total of 6,267 copies. WALTER H. BUTLER, Notary Public.

The mid-winter production of the Maine Masque at the University of Maine will be "Journey's End," presented Feb. 25-26. This will be the high light of the season. Prof. Mark Bailey, professor of public speaking and coach of dramatics, is facing one of the most ambitious of his notable undertakings, and the amateur talent of Maine will have a splendid opportunity to display the ability which has led to so many successful plays. The cast which has been selected for the play contains names which have nearly all been associated with the important plays given on the campus during the past several years, with some newcomers mixed in. The lead is to be taken by Atwood Levensaler of this city, a junior, and long prominent in Masque plays. Taking the part of Captain Stanhope, he appears as a comparatively young man who has had great responsibility thrust upon him, and who has had his personality torn by the problems which informed an officer in the midst of actual conflict. Captain Stanhope is the center about which the play revolves, and the ever changing emotional aspects of his character make this an ideal part for an actor to show his dramatic skill. Let us remember, who was recently Mr. Levensaler's house guest, has a place in the cast as the sergeant-major, his first appearance in a Masque production.

The interesting nature story which appeared in Sunday's Courier-Gazette relative to the interesting finds which workmen had made at Pine Hill attracted much attention, and there was the usual crop of skeptics to vouchsafe the opinion that Arthur Packard must have been dreaming when he saw June bugs, crickets and angworms. But the flint lock showed no signs of life.

Without a touch of ceremony the new building of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., Bangor was officially opened yesterday morning. This new structure is the most modern business block in Bangor and is an imposing spectacle in the heart of the Queen City's business district. M. C. Orbeton, a former Rockland boy, is district traffic superintendent of the Bangor plant, with an office on the second floor, in company with the other officers of the district. Only a part of the building is in full use at the present time, but the whole system is expected to be in operation the latter part of May or the first of June.

State Senator St. Clair discussed the activities of the present session of legislature before the Forty Club yesterday, laying special emphasis on the reformatories in which he has a keen interest. He was particularly interested in the boys' school at South Portland and his committee is trying to secure the introduction of manual training there. O. E. Wishman was welcomed into club membership. The annual meeting will be held next Tuesday night at 6:30 in the Thorndike dining room with an entertainment and the ladies invited. Members are asked to make reservations immediately with John H. McLoon.

Writing from Melbourne, Fla., under date of Feb. 12, Mrs. Freeman Young says: "Imagine my surprise the next morning after I arrived here. I was delighted to get it, because you see I am about 1800 miles from home. It is just grand here, and such a change from Rockland's 14 deg. below the morning before I left. Three days later I was in bathing, and eating strawberries right off the vines, for only 15 cents a box. Florida is just grand. I am visiting my sister, Mrs. Frank Langill, who has been here for the past five winters."

Ray C. Hopkins of Fredericksburg, Va., has been promoted from assistant manager to manager of the Virginia Electric Light and Power Company. Mr. Hopkins went to Fredericksburg from Rockland about a year and a half ago, and has been steadily employed by that company. He was formerly of Camden, the son of Clifford Hopkins. His wife was Miss Isma Crockett, daughter of G. O. B. Crockett, this city. Mr. Hopkins' promotion is most gratifying to friends both in this city and especially in Camden, his home town.

Philip L. Martin, instructor at the School of Practical Art, Boston, was in charge of the archery activities at the Sportsman's show at Mechanics hall last week. Mr. Martin chose as one of his designers of his booth, Edwin E. Witham, who is a freshman at the school and receives highest rank in his class. Young Witham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Witham of this city.

"Life's a hard struggle," quoth car No. 24 of the Street Railway, as it went down on its knees Saturday night, as the result of a broken axle. The mishap occurred near the Thorndike Farm and nobody was hurt. The motorman tied himself to the nearest phone, and the disabled car was soon on its way to the trolley sanatorium at Glencove.

Manley T. Perry, proprietor of the Park Street Cafe, phoned down yesterday in a considerable state of excitement that robins appeared on his premises. He qualified two days too late in the "first robin" contest, but is still convinced that "New Rockland" is still in the game.

ON MY SET

I wonder how many heard Rabbi Levy's sermon at Temple Israel, which was broadcast over WNAC Sunday forenoon. They listened to a powerful arraignment of those who can see no good in men of other races and creeds.

After three weeks' absence, the golden voiced tenor, James Melton, returns tomorrow night to the Salada Tea program heard at 8:30 p. m. The Salada Tea Co. had released Melton so he could tour the West with Will Rogers to aid the Red Cross Drive. He will sing three numbers by special request, "L'Amour Toujours," "Ah, Moon of My Delight," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

A local reader, who says that he takes great interest in "On My Set," asks as to the identity of Station KLUK. I am informed that it is a fictitious station used in the course of a bit of "horse play" in one of the entertainment programs. It is certainly not listed as a bona fide station.

Efrem Zimbalist, world-renowned violinist, will be heard over the radio for the first time this year at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 26, over the nationwide NBC-WJZ chain, in a concert sponsored by General Foods-Maxwell House. A noteworthy program has been arranged.

Amos and Andy may broadcast a half hour program once a week starting in a month or so on behalf of the Peppermint mouth wash. The new program will not use the Amos and Andy name, but will be designated by the boys' right names, Gosden and Correll. Included will be an old style minstrel show, with a 25-piece orchestra as the background. The boys will write their own scripts as with their Fresh Air Taxi programs.

Will Rogers is to make three free appearances over the N.J.C. network the latter part of this month. Tomorrow he will be heard over WEEI at 9:30 p. m.; Feb. 23 over WEEI at 9:30, and Feb. 26 over WBZ at 8:30. Rogers volunteered to go on the air as an expression of gratitude to the Revelers, a male quartet, and the commercial sponsors of the three programs.

Adventures which she and her husband recently encountered in the jungles of Sumatra will be described by Mrs. Ernest S. Schoedsack, wife of the producer of "Chang" and "Grass," during the Paramount Public broadcast tonight over WNAC at 10:30.

If your set was not operating to the queen's taste last night consult your radio doctor immediately. Reception was very powerful, tone clear and no fading.

Among the stations which came to my net last night was KWKH of Shreveport, La. where somebody was delivering one of the most impassioned addresses I ever heard on the radio.

STRAND THEATRE

A famous picture—"Resurrection"—will be shown Wednesday and Thursday, starring Lupe Velez. This review was furnished by Nance O'Neill.

In my life which has been chiefly devoted to the stage and but recently to the talking pictures, I have seen many young girls bubbling over with hopes of stage success, these hopes in most cases fading into oblivion. But in Lupe Velez, I discovered a burning spark, sincerity and a devotion to work from the first day we shook hands and she, in an almost humble and frightened voice, asked if I would help her with her lines.

Miss Velez is co-starred with John Boles in "Resurrection" and I have a small part.

Lupe Velez is fiery, but not in the way people think. She has fires of deep emotion within. She possesses ability to express emotional drama unusually well. She has a spark of genius and she has tremendous histrionic talent. I predict for Senorita Velez a complete success as an emotional actress. This little star told me she has never been given a chance to display her dramatic self until executives of Universal studios gave her the difficult role of Katusha Maslova in Tolstoy's great love epic, "Resurrection" is a great picture for several reasons and I know there will never be an artist who can play Katusha better than Lupe Velez does.—adv.

NOW BILL, YOUR TURN

Arkansas Judge Sentences Negro To Hear the Famous American Humorist's Lecture

Bill Johnson, Negro, was under sentence Tuesday to hear Will Rogers.

Bill was brought before Municipal Judge Harper Harb, embarrassed. "I borrowed me a chicken," Yo Honah," he replied to the court's query. "But Ah intended to sell it and get me a dollar to hear this Cap'n Will Rogers, Judge."

There was silence as the court considered the prisoner.

"If I let you go will you get back the chicken?" asked the court.

"Yessah, I suah will Jedge," eagerly affirmed the culprit.

"Very well then, I sentence you to hear Will Rogers tomorrow night. O and by the way—here's a dollar to buy your ticket."

Gorgeous Roustabouts Aid Relief Work

NEW YORK—The theatrical profession is contributing its bit in a novel form to the work of Mayor Walker's Unemployment Committee. Following the acceptance by the committee of a carload of whole wheat biscuit, the city's allotment of a ten-carload donation by the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek, Michigan, to relief agencies throughout the country, a squad of show girls from "Sweet and Low" volunteered their services in helping unload the shipment.

These dainty "roustabouts" performed their job with an efficiency and snap that brought loud praise from the Mayor's Committee.

EAST FRIENDSHIP

The youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Autio had the misfortune last Wednesday of getting his arm caught in an electric wringer, breaking one bone and two blood vessels.

Byron Combs of Pleasant Point was in this place Thursday in the interest of the clam business for Black and Gay of Thomaston; Clamming is a very discouraging proposition to the diggers this spring, as a cut to 45 cents seems rather hard on them. The banks are nearly dug to the limit now. It is hard to understand how the diggers will be able to make a living at the work this spring. It looks as though the hardest times were just reaching us.

Mrs. Albert Jameson, Mrs. Carl Fales and Austin Orne attended the Farm Bureau meeting Thursday in Masonic hall at the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis of the Harbor are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Feb. 13. Mr. Lewis was formerly of this place. Sidney Bradford, agent for the Christy Co. of New York city is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Bradford. He has been traveling in southern parts during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Marshall of South Hope spent Sunday at the home of R. J. Marshall.

Capt. Roy Morton is driving a new Reo sedan.

The heavy rain of Saturday settled the snow nearly one-half. Let's hope we will see some more soon.

The most interesting conversation in this neighborhood just now is on hard times and town meeting.

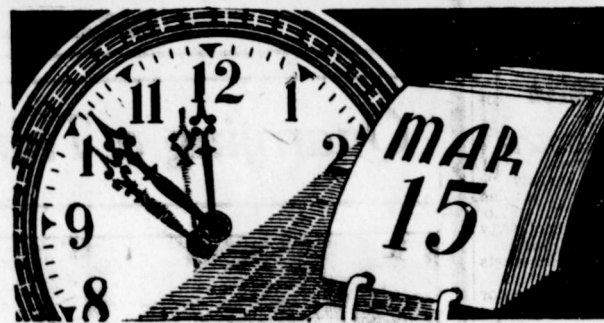

This community was saddened Saturday by news of the death of Capt. Blanchard T. Orne of Thomaston. Capt. Orne for many years was a resident of this place and conducted a general store, nearly 12 years ago moving to Thomaston where he had since made his home. He leaves relatives and friends in this place who join in sympathy with the bereaved family.

HOPE

Mrs. L. P. True is giving a whist party at her home Wednesday evening for the benefit of the street lights fund.

"Vegetables for Health" is the subject of the next Farm Bureau meeting to be held at Grange hall Feb. 20. It will begin promptly at 10:30 and is to be a combined session for both men and women. R. C. Wentworth, county agent, will be present in the morning to discuss vegetable gardening.

KNOX COUNTY'S LARGEST BANKING INSTITUTION

Income tax returns will soon be due

March 15 is the latest date on which income tax returns for 1930 can be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue. If you have not yet filed your return and would like to have the assistance of any of our officers in making your report we will be glad to help you in any way we can.

The Security Trust Company is always willing to be of service to its depositors in helping them to solve business and financial problems. We consider this to be an obligation which we owe our depositors and the communities we serve.

Service, backed up by the highest possible degree of safety, are, in our opinion, the two most important qualifications of good banking. We try to conduct the business of this bank on these principles.

an Open letter to Buick owners

February 7, 1931

Dear Buick Owner:

Because of its importance, we decided to inform you now that the present line of 1931 Buick Straight Eights will not be replaced by new models this summer.

Buick, as you know, has introduced its new cars on August 1st, year after year. But inasmuch as these new Straight Eight models have met with such spontaneous approval by thousands everywhere, Buick has decided to continue manufacturing the present Eights throughout the summer and coming fall.

This is mighty good news to thousands of Buick owners because they will buy new Buicks now with the knowledge that there will be no model change next summer.

They will find in these new Buicks a degree of performance that is certain to give them a genuine thrill. All have the safe, silent-shift Syncro-Mesh transmission. All have Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engines. And all have the famous insulated Bodies by Fisher.

So well has the 1931 line been received that, out of every 100 eights sold in Buick's price class, 56 are Buicks.

May we suggest that you drive the Eight as Buick Builds It? Your Buick dealer will be glad to have you take the wheel and learn at first hand how much Buick Straight Eight performance adds to the joy of motoring.

Very truly yours,

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICH.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Has Your Vacuum Cleaner "Gone 500 Miles?"

Your Vacuum Cleaner, like all highly efficient machines, needs attention once in a while. You think nothing of running your automobile into the garage every 500 miles and having it serviced, do you?—and yet your cleaner may go for years without any attention at all, not even an oiling.

It will run perhaps indefinitely, year in and year out, without this attention but a check-up every two years will insure a lifetime of efficient service.

Special February Offer

We will thoroughly clean your vacuum cleaner, install new motor brushes and overhaul it for $1.75.

If it costs more than this amount, we will estimate the cost and advise you before doing the work. Generally, however, $1.75 will put the average cleaner in running order again.

There was a strange visitor in Lermond's Cove yesterday forenoon, and for the moment it caused a complete suspension of business on that part of the waterfront. The visitor was the cutter Kickapoo, looking almost as large as the Cove itself, smashing ice in the interests of navigation.

Calais Academy girls have broadcast a challenge for State basketball honors to all girls basketball teams in general and to Rockland High in particular. It will be recalled that Calais Academy sent a remarkably clever sextette here two years ago on a similar mission. In that instance they failed of victory but put up a fine game.

Dr. J. C. Hill's house on Camden street was broken into about a week ago and a number of small articles taken including a clock. Three "Deadend Dicks" whose ages range from 11 to 13 were rounded up yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick and this morning will be made by Judge Butler to realize the seriousness of their offense.

Those from this city who attended the opera "The Toy Maker," given at Rockport under auspices of the grammar school of that place, enjoyed a real treat. It was an unusually pleasing entertainment and the parts were all well taken by the young stars, extended excellent training. The stage settings were in fine taste and the whole affair reflected much credit upon those in charge.

It isn't very often that Johnny Watts the Thorndike tonsorialist gets caught napping but he was "all wet" when he bet Jack Harvey a ten-spot that Jack couldn't name the pictures of the Presidents as shown in a magazine. Harvey went through the list letter perfect, and the boys around the barber shop are now wondering how he got that way. John was just recovering his speech yesterday.

The W.C.T.U. will meet in the Central Maine Club rooms Friday afternoon. Mrs. Althea G. Quimby, State president will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Quimby is a very active, busy woman, and much in demand as a speaker. It is a great privilege to have her visit the local union at this time. Her message is always inspiring and encouraging. It is urged that all members both locally and in the county be present. A social hour will follow the program.

At the meeting of Blue Bonnet Troop, Girl Scouts, yesterday part of which was devoted to a social, Mrs. Ruth Ellingwood, commissioner awarded these pins and badges: Tenderfoot pins, Eleanor Ames and Marian Harvey; silver stars for 90% attendance, Arlene Haver and Helen Rubenstein; gold stars for perfect attendance for two years, Emma Harding, Avis Lovejoy and Alice Gay; second-class badges, Emma Harding, Vernet Morgan, Arlene Haver, Elizabeth Till and Betty McAlary; first class, Bernadette Snow, also merit badges for needlewoman and health winner; Helen Rubenstein, health winner; Virginia Walker, citizenship, needlewoman and cook; Alice Gay, pioneer, homemaker, citizenship, needlewoman, scout aid and health winner; Helen Rubenstein now has 22 badges, and Alice Gay and Avis Lovejoy each have 21.
Mrs. Millie Thomas will open Ye Wall Paper Shoppe Wednesday, Feb. 18. It is in New Glover block, opposite Masonic Temple. She will be pleased to meet old and new friends.

BARBARA T. WIGGIN

This community has seldom received a greater shock than that which it sustained Sunday with the news that one of its talented young daughters, Miss Barbara T. Wiggins, had succumbed to an attack of pneumonia at Bath City Hospital. It was known to a few intimate friends of the family Saturday that her condition was critical, but to her friends at large there had come no intimation of her brief illness. Miss Wiggins was a member of the Morse High School faculty—instructress in French at the age of 22—and though suffering from a severe cold was at her desk as recently as last Tuesday.
Miss Wiggins was born in Boston, the only child of Ralph L. and Leola (Thorndike) Wiggins. She attended the public schools of Braintree Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins later returned to Rockland, and their daughter graduated from Rockland High School in 1925 as salutatorian. She graduated from Wheaton College in June, 1930. While at Wheaton, she had the honor of being selected as one of a group of students to study in France. Her junior year, 1928-1929, was passed in that country, where she studied at La Sorbonne and at the University of Nancy.
Of her work at Morse High School and of her influence in that community the Bath Daily Times said: "Miss Wiggins came to this city in September as French instructress to succeed Miss Alice N. Magoun who had resigned after 35 years of teaching experience. She at once endeavored herself to her pupils and to all with whom she came in contact. Upon her arrival in this city, Miss Wiggins became a member of the Cosmopolitan Club and made her home in the clubhouse. Her sweet disposition made her popular with the members who found her congenial and pleasant at all times. She was instrumental in getting other teachers to become members of the club. At its February meeting, she entertained her hearers with a delightfully vivid talk of her life in France while she was a student at La Sorbonne and the University of Nancy."
Miss Wiggins' educational career was brilliantly marked from the time when she graduated from Rockland High School with second honors and her studies in France endowed her with exceptional qualifications as a language teacher. She was intensely devoted to her work, and was likewise foremost in social diversions, as applied to the younger set where her vivacity and charm made her an acknowledged leader and favorite.
Miss Wiggins is survived by her parents and her grandfather Fred A. Thorndike, by whom she was idolized. The funeral services will be held at the Thorndike residence, Maple street at 2.15 this afternoon.

AMES-GREY

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized Saturday evening at 7.15, when Miss Mildred C. Grey and Morton K. Ames were united in marriage, at the home of the bride, 28 Masonic street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Herman Winchenbaugh and the double ring service was used. The matron of honor was Mrs. Fannie Chandler and the groomsmen were Cecil Ames, a brother of the groom. The bride was attired in blue canton and carried pink roses. The matron of honor wore blue printed chiffon and carried pinks.
Immediately after the service an informal reception took place and refreshments were served.
The bride is a former resident of Bluehill, but has been employed at Trainer's bakery for about three years. The groom is a baker and is employed at the Ellsworth Bakery in Ellsworth.

RESOLUTIONS
Whereas, The great and supreme Ruler of the universe has in His infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our beloved members, Minnie Deane; and whereas, the long and intimate relationship held with her makes it befitting that we record our appreciation of her; therefore,
Resolved, The capable and conscientious wife she has exercised her duties in our Order by service, contributions and counsel will long be remembered.
Resolved, That the removal of such a life leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members who knew her and by the friends she made in this community.
Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased, we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.
Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the organization, a copy printed in the local paper, and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

Members of the Nitsumsum Club and husbands were entertained at dinner and cards Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Marie Bisbee.
Miss Martha Hartshorn who teaches at South Hope is spending the school vacation of eight weeks at her home here.
The Twentieth Century Club held a musical afternoon Friday at the home of the president, Mrs. Minnie Paul. Twenty-one members were present and the program arranged by Mrs. Linthe Lane and Mrs. Amy Miller was much enjoyed. Readings on the lives of various musical artists were given as follows: Heifetz, Mrs. Alice Gardner; Fritz Kreisler, Mrs. Elizabeth Spear; Emma Eames and Geraldine Farrar, Mrs. Lane; Lillian Nordica, Mrs. Miller. Victrola selections interspersed the program. The club will hold an open meeting next Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mildred Putnam with the program in charge of the entertainment committee, Mrs. George Currier, Mrs. Alice Gardner and Mrs. Amy Miller.
Herbert Mann, Jr., is ill from the prevailing epidemic.
At the regular meeting of Harbor Light Chapter, O.E.S., this evening past matrons' and patrons' night will be observed, the stations being filled by past officers. Naomi Chapter of Tenants' Harbor and Forget-Me-Not of South Thomaston will be guests. Supper at 6.30.
A trio from the choir of the Baptist Church, Edgar P. Shibles, Charles Marston and Thomas McCuskey, called Saturday evening at the home of W. A. Clark who is very ill, and sang for him several of his favorite selections, an act which was much appreciated by both Mr. and Mrs. Clark.
The Thursday evening prayer service at the Baptist Church will begin at 7 o'clock this week instead of 7.30 as usual.
The Saturday Club was entertained last week at the home of Mrs. Maynard C. Ingraham with Mrs. Effie Veazie as hostess.
Mrs. Clifford Gardner was the weekend guest of Mrs. Ray Easton.
An entertainment will be given Tuesday evening at the town hall under the auspices of the school band, the program to consist of band selections, solo numbers and the movie "Young America."
Friends in town of Mrs. Hattie Gregory were grieved to learn that she is at Knox Hospital suffering from a fractured hip as a result of a fall at her home at Glen Cove.
Mrs. Lola Beardsley of Meredith, N. H., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Bernice Mears, Camden street.

Opera Delightfully Presented
The stage at the town hall never presented a more attractive setting than when the curtain was raised Friday night on the first act of the opera "The Toy Maker," presented by Rockport grammar school. The scene was the interior of the Toy Maker's workshop and grouped about him on every hand were girls and boys costumed to represent the toys he had made.
Mona Stahl, the best dressed doll; Alice Steward, rag doll; True Spear, Jr., wooden soldier; Marion and Mary Cavanaugh, Chinese dolls; Flora Wellman and Vera Richards, blue jackets; Louise Tolman, balloon girl; Helena Upham, baby doll; Madeline Smalley, Japanese; Hilda Wall, Indian maid; Mel McFarland, Spanish senorita; Ethel Morse, picanniny; Lucy Childs, modern doll; Everett Morong, brown bear; Lillian Whitney, Dutch doll; Walter Weed, sailor doll; Joyce Simmons, dancing doll; Roberta Holbrook, Beatrice Lane, Dorothy Burns, Barbara Noyes as four leaf clovers; Vera Easton, Dorothy Wellman, Gertrude Haver, Phyllis Crockett, cupids; Mary Dauceit, Earline Davis, Barbara Richardson, Margorie Brodis, bunny rabbits; Gladys Noyes, Lucille Dean, Betty Cavanaugh, Beatrice Marston as teddy bears.
Raymond Snow as the Toy Maker was excellent in his part and his opposite Vera Bray as the mother was very natural and her acting brought forth peels of laughter from the audience. William Smalley, the clown, was well chosen for that part and the dance in which he featured with Alice Steward was encored several times and was one of the hits of the evening. Virginia Noyes as the Princess was very attractive and a delight to the audience in both her singing and speaking parts. Others who deserve worthy mention are Eugene Lowell, the Prince; Steward Rhodes, the Emperor; Arthur Turner, the Herald; Walter Bryant, Carl Eaton, Ralph Marston and Edward Noyes as Courtiers. The specialties consisted of selections by the Toy Symphony Orchestra and a butterfly dance gracefully executed by Arlene Ingraham and Phyllis Johnson, their costumes of black and gold with wide spread wings adding to the natural charm of the young ladies.

The opera was repeated Saturday evening, both performances being witnessed by good sized and very appreciative audiences. Those in charge of the affair were Ronald G. Billings, Margaret Allen Johnson, stage supervisor, Mrs. Minnie Wellman, dancing instructor, and Roland Richards, stage manager. Mrs. Wellman also arranged many of the artistic costumes. This has become an annual event with the school but this year's production surpassed all previous performances.

Mrs. Millie Thomas will open Ye Wall Paper Shoppe Wednesday, Feb. 18. It is in New Glover block, opposite Masonic Temple. She will be pleased to meet old and new friends.

HERE'S LOYALTY FOR YOU
F. K. Smith Gives Rockport Girls' Team the Praise He Feels That They Deserve
Editor of The Courier Gazette:—
There's an old saying: "It isn't whether you've won or lost, but how you've played the game." With this thought in mind I would like to say a few words about that plucky little sextette, the Rockport High School girls' basketball team.
Taking a keen interest in the "doings" of the Knox & Lincoln League, I have attended all the games so far between these schools in the League and I say in all truth that as far as "good sportsmanship" goes, these girls sure have it all over any other school, except, perhaps, Lincoln Academy.

The Camden-Rockport girls' game was an example worth mentioning. When the Camden girls' team went on the floor it was mistaken for Cox's army, until it was revealed that it was only Camden, after all. The team numbered 24 players in all. Evidently they expected to play their game. To say that the Camdens were surprised, is putting it mildly, when the score, at the end of the game was only 23 to 19, in favor of Camden. Did they "alibi" or slam Camden? Not they came off the floor grinning, and congratulated the winners.
Recently I read an account of the Rockport-Rockland game, and I must say I didn't like the adjective "helpless" used in describing the Rockport girls. I failed to see anything "helpless" in the way Graffam and Lofman guards, held down those supposed "Champs" Mattson and Howard, nor in the way that Riley blocked all their passes in that direction, ably assisted by the side center, Tolman. The forwards, Priest and Spear are the forthcoming "Champeens."

Probably this won't get to press but even if it doesn't, I feel relieved to know I've told someone, and oh well I could write pages but all I have to say for these Rockport girls, well, watch out for 'em or they'll be coppin' the old cup for sure one of these days.
F. K. Smith.

CHAPTER XII

The Boat Train.

MAYTHORNE hurried out of the room, leaving me, still indignant and glooming, alone with the policeman. Presently Corkdale, who had been whispering to Manners, turned to me.

"It's all very well, and I've no doubt very natural, for you to be a bit huffy, Mr. Holt," he said, half protestingly, half apologetically. "You're sweet on the young lady, as anybody with half an eye can see, and—"

"Leave the young lady's name out of the question, if you please!" I exclaimed. "And mine, too!"

"But difficult to leave her out, isn't it?" he retorted, smiling. "After what we've just heard! I don't disbelieve her tale, not I!—though I'm more than a bit surprised that a young woman of her intelligence—clever girl—should let herself be trapped in that fashion. Trapped she was, no doubt—but I don't believe her mother was trapped!"

"What?" I exclaimed. "Why, you've just heard—"

"I've just heard what we've all just heard," he interrupted. "My opinion is that it was all a put-up job between Mrs. Elphinstone and this woman Murdoch, and that Miss Merghison has been taken in by both. I think that Mrs. Elphinstone went willingly to that house and stood the detention there—she wanted for nothing. You heard—that her daughter, who was beginning to know too much and to get dangerous, should be kept safe and quiet while the Murdoch woman got right away! And I'll lay all I'm worth to a penny that Murdoch knocked that chap Bowens on the head in that back alley, and that by now she's somewhere!"

"You don't think that Mrs. Elphinstone knew anything about Bowens?" I said. "Good Lord, according to you—"

"According to me, sir, Murdoch murdered Mazaroff, and Mrs. Elphinstone's well aware of it," he said determinedly. "There's what the lawyers call prima facie evidence of that, anyhow, and Manners here agrees with me. And we're not going out of this hotel until that doctor comes back, and then we're going to see if Mrs. Elphinstone isn't fit to be questioned. And if she isn't—just yet—then we're going to stay on the premises till she is!"

Before I could say anything the outer door opened and Maythorne stuck half his face inside the room.

"Holt!" he said.

I went to him; he drew me into the corridor and closed the door.

"Message from Cottingley," he said in a whisper. "He's been carrying on a close investigation of steamship offices this last forty-eight hours, working like a nigger. And at last he's hit on something! This afternoon a woman, closely answering to the description I gave him of Alison Murdoch, booked two passages for New Zealand at the New Zealand Shipping company offices in Cockspur street, by their ship the Rimeraka, which leaves Southampton early tomorrow morning. The boat train is the ten o'clock tonight from Waterloo. Cottingley's down there—he's got a couple of detectives with him from the Yard; to save time he went there and told what he'd discovered. We'll get down there at once—the immediate question is—shall we tell these fellows inside? What do you think?"

"Corkdale's just declared that he won't leave this hotel till he's questioned Mrs. Elphinstone!" I replied. "He's going to wait for the doctor's return."

"Then come on!" he said. "It's now about nine-twenty—we shall be at Waterloo in plenty of time. And I shouldn't wonder if Cottingley's struck the trail at last!"

I told you what a sharp chap he is."

We ran down to the entrance hall; outside there were two or three taxicabs standing about; Maythorne made for the first.

"We'd better wait up a little short of Waterloo," he remarked as we got in. "Stop in York road—by the hotel there," he added to the driver. "You see, Holt," he went on as we moved off southward. "If this woman is Murdoch, she'll know you from having seen you at the Woodcock; she may know me, though I don't remember her. So we must move warily; if she's attempting a total clear-out, the least thing will put her off. But—she booked two passages, this woman of whom Cottingley's heard. Now, for whom Cottingley's heard."

"Can she have had an accomplice?—if this woman really is Murdoch?" I suggested.

"She's had accomplices here in London, in that Harrow road affair, without doubt," he answered. "May be the brother she spoke of to Mrs. Elphinstone and Miss Merghison. But as an accomplice in the Mazaroff business—now! If she had, he would have been with her when she was last seen. He paused there and remained silent so long that at last I asked him what he was thinking about.

"I was thinking this," he answered slowly. "That—if this woman Murdoch really murdered Mazaroff and had an accomplice, and if Murdoch is the woman who booked two passages for New Zealand this afternoon, and if it's all if, you see—if it's all if, we're probably going to have a very astounding surprise revelation! But as I say, it's all if."

We got out of the cab at the corner of York road and walked quickly toward the big station. Before we were half way up the incline we met Cottingley. He was lounging along with his hands in his trousers pockets and a cigarette hanging loosely from the corner of his queer mouth, and he looked as phlegmatic and unconcerned as ever.

"Thought you'd come this way," he said as we passed. "You're in good time—twenty-five minutes yet. I should say she—she, I mean—'ll not turn up till the last thing. And all's ready. The only thing is, if this woman is the woman we think—Murdoch—who can recognize her positively?"

"Mr. Holt can," answered Maythorne.

Cottingley regarded me with speculative eyes—I fear I was not of any great account in his opinion. "Know her?" he asked.

"I know her!" I answered.

Without another word he turned on his heel toward the front of the station.

"What's to be done is this," he said, walking between me and the Southampton train leaves Number Four platform ten o'clock precisely. I've got two thoroughly dependable men from the Yard—had to go there and tell 'em everything, of course, if I meant to do any good—and they and I'll be on the platform. She'll not know us. Now, then, there's my fear of her knowing either of you."

"The strong presumption," replied Maythorne, "is that she'll know us both."

"Very well," said Cottingley. "Then, this is what we do. I've already, with the detectives, given the tip to the railway authorities—that there may be an important arrest, d'ye see? Now, I'm going to post you two just within the barrier, where you can't be seen. You'll keep there until the passengers begin coming through for the train. I shall be close by—the detectives will be a yard or two further on, in touch with me; there'll also be two or three railway police about, in case there's any bother. Now, if Mr. Holt there recognizes that Murdoch woman, he'll signal to me by lifting his hat the instant she passes him—and you can leave the rest to us."

"All clear!" said Maythorne. "We've got you, Cottingley."

We passed into the big brilliantly lighted station. Even at that late hour of the evening it was crowded. Cottingley moved swiftly ahead of us through the groups, passed us through a barrier with a whispered word to the man in charge, and suddenly twisting to his left, ushered us behind a big wooden partition, a few yards away from the gate whereat tickets were punched.

"Remember!" he said. "If it's the woman we want up with your hat! But—be sure!"

That waiting was about as big a trial of my nerves as I had gone through—since I heard the last shots fired in Flanders. Folk came streaming in upon the platform; porters went by with piles of luggage; there were all the scenes and sounds, hurries and bustlings, incidental to the departure of a big express bound for a great shipping center. But what we waited for—I with my eyes and throbbing against a table; her breath was coming in short, sharp gasps; her whole frame trembled.

"Take off that veil!" snapped the detective. "Come on, now!"

We stood staring intently at the woman lifted a hand and dived herself of the thick veiling that had completely obscured her features. It fell aside—and it was from Maythorne, usually so cool and collected, that the first excited exclamation broke:

"Good G—d! Mrs. Musgrave!"

Mrs. Musgrave burst into tears and turned on Alison Murdoch, who stood close by, grim and defiant.

"You said it would be all right!" she wailed reproachfully. "You swore to me that we were safe, this way! You said and said again and again that there wasn't the least chance of 'em catching us—"

"Hold your tongue, you fool!" snapped Alison Murdoch.

I stood by, sick, wondering, while Cottingley, under the detectives' supervision, unlocked the women's valises and turned out their contents. There was money there in a surprising quantity—bank notes that had been Mazaroff's, of course—and there were diamonds, and Mazaroff's personal belongings. And in Alison Murdoch's valise there was a gold hunter watch, within which was an inscription to the effect that it was a present to James Bowmans from his colleagues.

"There's always something that these people forget," remarked Maythorne, when, a quarter of an hour later, he and I were driving back to Short's hotel. "Or, rather, some absolutely idiotic mistake they make. If Alison Murdoch hadn't thought she was going to the Elphinstones' library, it would have been hard to get at the real truth about Mazaroff, and if she hadn't been so covetous and grasping that she couldn't refrain from carrying off that poor chap Bowmans' presentation watch, we should probably never have convicted her of murdering him. However—there they both are! But . . . Mrs. Musgrave!"

"Which of them shot Mazaroff?" I asked.

"Ah!" he replied, knowingly. "That's a stiff 'un, Holt! But—Mrs. Musgrave knows, and Mrs. Musgrave will tell. She'll not face it out like the other."

We hurried upstairs as soon as we reached Short's hotel—and found Corkdale and Manners talking to the doctor and Sheila in an alcove that opened off the corridor. Corkdale was evidently still indiscreet; the doctor looked somewhat annoyed and Sheila was obviously angry.

"—you must see, doctor, that it's a question of duty," Corkdale was saying as we came upon them. "I want some explanation from Mrs. Elphinstone—"

"There's no need now, Corkdale," interrupted Maythorne, laying his hand on the detective's shoulder. "It's all over! We've got 'em!—they're safe under lock and key."

Sheila uttered a sharp cry of surprise and Corkdale turned quickly on Maythorne.

"Got 'em?" he exclaimed. "Who's got 'em?"

"Well, if you want to know, my clerk Cottingley—smartest man in Europe at your game!—he got 'em. With the help of your own people, to be sure. But the kudos is Cottingley's," replied Maythorne. "Top-hole capture."

"And who'd he capture?" demanded Corkdale, almost incredulously. "Who?"

Maythorne glanced at Sheila.

"Well," he replied, "there's no secret about it now. Two women! Alison Murdoch and Mrs. Musgrave. And there's no doubt about it, either—they had property belonging to Mazaroff and property belonging to Bowmans on them—actually on them!"

Corkdale turned to Manners, who, at the mention of Mrs. Musgrave's name, had opened his mouth and his eyes to their widest extent.

"Oh, well!" said Corkdale. "In that case, of course, I think we needn't wait to see Mrs. Elphinstone."

It was some days before I myself saw Mrs. Elphinstone. At last I was admitted to see her. We exchanged a few conventional remarks about her state of health. Then she sat for some time in silence, steadily staring at me—staring so steadily that I began to feel uncomfortable. Suddenly she spoke.

"I suppose," she said, "I suppose that you and Sheila will become engaged—eventually."

I thought then, that I had better speak.

"The fact is, ma'am," I replied, "the fact is—that Sheila and I are engaged already."

[THE END.]

A Woman Was Just Coming Through the Barrier—A Tall, Slim Woman, of Erect, Easy Carriage.

nerve—was long in coming. Across the broad expanse of station, above some far-distant platform, hung a clock—I could not avoid an occasional glance at it. Never, surely, had the hands moved more slowly. Twenty minutes to ten—four—three—two—

"Holt!" whispered Maythorne. "Sharp, now! Is that she?"

A woman was just coming through the barrier—a tall, slim woman, of erect, easy carriage. By her side was another woman, slighter in height, of fuller figure, and heavily veiled. I could not see her face, but the face of the taller woman was that which I had seen two or three times in the big kitchen at the Woodcock. A second later she and her companion, each carrying a substantial-sized valise, had passed the ticket puncher and come full into the light. I had no doubt then, and my hand went up to the brim of my hat as if a machine had moved it.

"Come on!" said Maythorne. "Now for it! But—whose's the other?"

The two women were being hurried into a third-class compartment by an already impatient guard as watching detectives, some railway policeman, Cottingley, and Maythorne and I closed round them. One of the detectives laid a hand on the taller woman's arm.

"It was the first time in my life that I had ever seen an arrest, and I was amazed at the quickness, the alertness, the absence of fun, in it. We had the two women into the little office close by, and the door locked, and the blinds down, before I had realized what was happening—as the key turned in the door I heard the whistle of the guard and the shriek of the engine as the ten o'clock sped out to time. And then I turned . . . to answer a question.

"That's Alison Murdoch—yes!" I said. "Yes—without doubt."

The senior detective turned to the other woman. She was leaning against a table; her breath was coming in short, sharp gasps; her whole frame trembled.

"Take off that veil!" snapped the detective. "Come on, now!"

We stood staring intently at the woman lifted a hand and dived herself of the thick veiling that had completely obscured her features. It fell aside—and it was from Maythorne, usually so cool and collected, that the first excited exclamation broke:

SWAN'S ISLAND

Mrs. Nelson Morse entertained two dinner parties at her home on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. A chicken dinner was served each day with dessert of custard and mince pie and cake. The guests for Wednesday were: Nettie Milan, Rilla Joyce, Mary Butman, Myra Bridges, Mary Trask, Dora Stinson, Winnie Newman, Sadie Gross and Ruby Holmes and the Thursday guests: Mabel Stanley, Sophia Strickbridge, Mary Butman, Hester Freethy, Rachel Moulden, Nina Sprague, Maggie Sprague and Lucy Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bridges are on a pleasure trip to Boston and vicinity. Ernest Smith is in charge of Mr. Bridges' business during his absence.

Myron Sprague, Bradlee Joyce, Bernice Smith, Hulda Smith and Maurice Sprague are home from Rockland High School for a week's vacation.

BURKETTVILLE

Twenty or more braved the bad roads, storm and cold on Feb. 10 and attended the Farm Bureau at Mr. and Mrs. Will Hatch's in Washington County. Agent Ralph Wentworth, Miss Jesse Lawrence, H.D.A., and Miss Thelma Wood, food specialist of Orono were present. They had a very hard trip coming as far as Union with their car, then engaging Mr. Cameron with his team. Going to hard roads they did not arrive until afternoon, but at that time gave helpful talks and suggestions on "Vegetables for Health." March 18 Mrs. Jesse Rhodes will entertain the ladies, subject, "Home Flower Gardens."

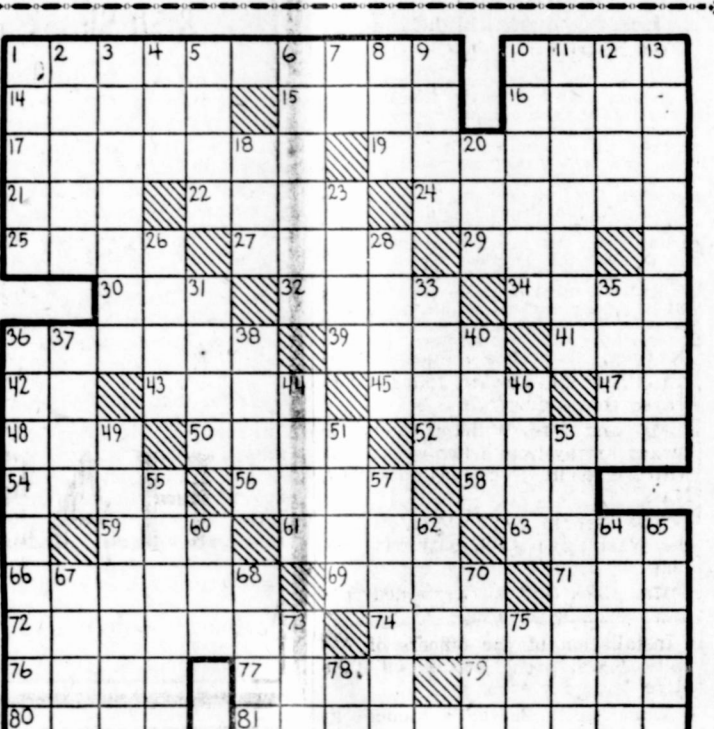

SORE THROATS serious now:

A sore spot no larger than a quarter can spread to the whole throat overnight. Gargle the very moment you feel the least soreness. Physicians recommend Bayer Aspirin for this purpose. It allays all inflammation immediately. It reduces the infection. Just crush three tablets in 1/2 tumblerful of water, and gargle well. It's a wise plan to take Bayer Aspirin after exposure to bad weather or whenever a cold threatens. If you ever have neuralgia, neuritis, or rheumatism, you should never be without this quick antidote for all such aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless. See that tablets bear the name, thus:

(Solution to Previous Puzzle)

SPAIN HAS HER MATADORS; THE UNITED STATES HAS HER SENATORS

SOUTH WALDOBORO

Rev. Mr. Timberlake of Friendship will hold a meeting at the church Thursday evening and it is hoped there will be a good attendance to hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Brown of Jamaica Plain, Mass., spent the weekend at Edwin Winchester's. "Twenty neighbors and friends of Mrs. Adelbert Winchester gathered at her home Friday evening to celebrate her birthday anniversary. It was a complete surprise to Mrs. Winchester but all details had been carefully looked after by the ladies of the Union Aid, so every thing went well for a merry party. Mrs. Winchester was presented with several gifts, one from the Aid in which all had a part. In response she said words failed to express her thanks, to those who had so kindly remembered her, and for making the day such a happy one. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in a social way, the company bidding their hosts good night feeling that a very happy evening had been passed.

MARTINSVILLE

The ladies circle of the Second Baptist Church held its regular afternoon session Feb. 12 with Mrs. Florence Cook, about the usual number being present. The time was spent in sewing and socially. It being the birthday anniversary of the president Mrs. Eliza Wiley, during the luncheon hour she was the recipient of a very prettily decorated cake, made and presented by the hostess, who also furnished chocolate mousse and fancy cookies, and a very handsome casserole from the members of the circle, presented by Mrs. Etta Harris. All report a very pleasant afternoon.

WARREN

Mrs. Hattie Perry died very suddenly Sunday morning.

Mrs. Leroy Norwood entertained three tables of bridge Friday evening at her home. Honors were awarded Mrs. Leland Philbrook and Mrs. H. D. Sawyer.

Mrs. Edward Spear and Mrs. Oliver Libby entertained at cards at the Spear home in South Warren, with Miss Zetta Jordan of Brunswick as honor guest. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodcock, Albert Jordan, Miss Zetta Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Libby and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Spear.

Mrs. Beatrice Watts returned to Thomaston Friday.

Mrs. Charles Wilson and son Alfred are improving in health.

Roy Spear of Portland visited relatives in this place Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. St. Clair Chase of Newton Center, Mass., arrived Saturday to spend a few days.

Mrs. and Mrs. Reverdy Carroll of Union were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burden Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement Moody of Rockland were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moody.

The ladies of the Baptist circle will serve the usual supper Thursday at six o'clock. The committee is, Mrs. Mary Teague, Mrs. Caro Copeland, and Mrs. Cora Simpson.

An entertainment will follow in which Albert MacPail will take a prominent part.

William Piper is home from Rockland much improved in health.

Rev. Howard A. Welch conducted the funeral services of Mrs. Jane Henderson which were held Sunday from the home of Mrs. Lottie Crockett. The body was placed in the tomb at Fairview and interment will be made later in the Skinner cemetery. Mrs. Henderson is survived by two sons by a former marriage, William Conant of Turner, Joseph Conant of Warren and a brother John Dunn also of Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Spear and Miss Mildred Spear were supper guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peabody.

Miss Helen Maxey is having a week's vacation from the Fuller-Cobb-Davis store.

The High School netted a tidy sum from the play "Chintz Cottage" which they repeated Friday night at Glover hall. The musical program was also especially enjoyed.

Joseph Conant will spend the remainder of the winter in Turner with his brother William Conant.

Supper will be served by Warren High at the Montgomery rooms Feb. 27 the date of the speaking contest with Waldoboro.

Miss Josephine Downs of Lowell, Mass., niece of Mrs. Hattie Perry was expected to arrive Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Daniels of Union were guests Friday of Miss Mabel Crawford.

Miss Cora Russell of Mt. Pleasant has been visiting her cousin, Miss Evelyn Erickson at North Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. George Teague were Friday dinner guests of Mrs. Ida Libbey.

Miss Lena Poland and Mrs. Bertha Gordon spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Madden, Jr., were supper guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Parker McKellar.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKellar spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wellington.

Mrs. Luther Clark, who has been caring for Mrs. Arnold Teague and young son, returned Monday to Thomaston.

Sunday callers at Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Teague's were: Mrs. Edith Leach and sons, Maurice and Raymond Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dean of Union, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carroll and son Lawrence of Thomaston, Mrs. Isa Teague and family and Mrs. Charles Overlock and children.

Much sympathy is felt by Warren friends for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wiggin of Rockland in their bereavement.

The Twelve Club had a "poverty party" Saturday evening by way of variety at the Libby Homestead Farm, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Libby playing hosts. A hot supper was served and much enjoyed, followed by bridge. The costumes furnished a great deal of amusement, and it was agreed that Mrs. Carlton Simmons should have the prize for the worst looking one. Honors at cards went to Mrs. A. V. McIntyre, Clarence Spear and Mrs. George Coucne.

Mrs. Millie Thomas will open Ye Wall Paper Shoppe Wednesday, Feb. 18. It is in New Glover block, opposite Masonic Temple. She will be pleased to meet old and new friends.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Give us the man who sings at his work. Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He will do more in the same time—he will do it better—he will persevere longer.—Carlyle.

From Here and There

GOOD things gathered from a thousand sources fill our cook books, and like other choices, those that appeal to us depend upon our individual tastes. There are those who do not on dishes seasoned with garlic, while others regard it so vulgar that it is beneath notice. The Belgian people prepare a sweet-meat with raisins, sugar, vinegar and pig's feet, which even the pampered appetite of an epicure will call tasty, yet some will not enjoy it.

So in the making of cook books and the presenting recipes to readers, one should remember that we all do not like the same things; but happy is the man, and greatly to be praised is his mother, if she has taught her children to eat without unfavorable comment, the food that is set before them. "May her tribe increase."

The housewife who has spent two hours of preparation on food to be served to her family is in no mood to see them refuse to eat it, or find fault because something else was not served. Where expense is to be considered (which it is in 98 per cent of our homes), variety is a bugbear; everybody gets tired of the same things day after day served in the same way. It might be a good plan for the fault finders to be given an opportunity to show what they could do with the money to spend, and the time to give to food, as well as the countless other duties a mother has to keep in mind.

A mother must always be kind, considerate of others, unselfish and at the same time make ends meet in the family budget. Why should she be expected to be the only one to hold these virtues? The tired business man after a hard working day likes to have a peaceful, well regulated home to come into. The business of running a home is just as exacting, strenuous and tiring as any other business, and women should demand as much consideration as is expected if she were a business man.

OUR JUNIOR PUZZLE

ONE CAN HARDLY BELIEVE IT

"Oh, my, one can hardly believe it!" cries Mary. She is reading a letter from her friend Tommy. Tommy says he is having a wonderful time and is sitting under a tree writing this letter. He drew a picture of the tree, and if you want to draw it too, take a pencil and join all the numbered dots together, starting with dot number one and ending with dot number forty-seven.

WHEN CHILDREN CRY

CHILDREN often cry for no apparent reason. Many times we can't guess what is wrong. The crying may mean a touch of colic; the little bowels may be sluggish—or some other upset. It may mean any of the common little ailments that children suffer. To bring quick comfort to your little one, give a few drops of Castoria. Most upsets of children are soon soothed away by this pleasant-tasting remedy that children all love.

In five million modern homes, Castoria is a mother's first thought when a child is out of sorts, feverish, cross, doesn't eat right or sleep right. When bad breath, coated tongue, or languor tells of constipation. These five million wise mothers know that children should never be given stronger medicines meant for the fully developed systems of grown-ups. Castoria is gentle—safe, yet always thorough and effective for a child of any age. It may be given to the tiniest infant for any little upset. When buying, look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

Keep Watch for the "Feverish Cold"

If you are "run down" or out of condition, if sluggish bowels have allowed poisonous impurities to accumulate in your system, you are liable to suffer from "feverish" colds.

Dr. True's Elixir

will ward off or lessen these attacks, because Dr. True's Elixir is made of tested herbs of pure quality that put the system in good condition, and relieve constipation.

The True Family Laxative

POULTRYMEN ATTENTION!

EAST APPLETON

Now that St. Valentine's Day has passed it seems the winter is well advanced and spring just around the corner. Many are yet suffering with grippe and colds, but there were several days of real sunshine during the past week, and it is hoped that warmer weather will soon banish all winter ills.

Teams have been through and improved the roads, but autos are not running as yet about this vicinity.

Everyone enjoyed the radio program from Vatican City Thursday morning. It was surely very clear and plain and upon the whole wonderful to hear from such great distance such noted people.

George W. Gushee is visiting his son and daughter in Philadelphia and Boston this winter.

Recent visitors at the home of Edward Ames were Elizabeth Gushee and Carleton Gushee, Alvah Ames and sons Gerald and Vernon.

Friends who have enjoyed the writings, music and charming personality of Cora Buzzell Millay, were pained to learn of her sudden death which recently occurred in Camden. She was a person of rare ability.

There was a large attendance at the song and praise service at F. L. Davidson's Thursday evening, and several solos and readings were presented by young artists, also readings by the host which were much enjoyed.

Very few birds are seen this winter. The remains of two partridges were found where some large bird had devoured them, and we wonder if they are the prey of the owls this winter. Occasionally are seen a crow, a woodpecker and one beautiful partridge was so tame as to sit very near the back door and pick buds from the pear tree, seeming not to mind anyone's presence. It is very unusual for them to be so tame. The tame chickadees that have been around here are missed and no one seems to know what has become of them.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When had breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children, to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

NORTH HAVEN

Mrs. Lucy Quinn is ill.

"Get-together" met at Mrs. Albert Beveridge's Thursday. There were present Mrs. Charles Parsons, Mrs. Leigh Witherspoon and daughter Ernie, Mrs. Hansie Crockett, Mrs. Lou Foss, Mrs. Frank Sampson, Mrs. Ned Dyer, Mrs. Herman Cooper and Mrs. Alice Thomas. Ice cream and cake were served.

The heavy rainstorm certainly helped to settle the snow and it is fairly good traveling again for the automobiles.

Rodney Haskell is able to deliver milk now with his truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown are passing a pleasant winter with their children.

There was a very good attendance at Grange. It does seem good to see some of the older members out. That's what helps keep up the standard of our Grange.

Sympathy is extended to Lieut. Smead and best wishes for better luck in the future.

Owen Quinn was down town in his new car yesterday.

Walker Ames has his car at "Way-side Service Station" for complete over-hauling.

Friday night the young people held a box social in the church. Boxes sold at $1 each. There were twelve in all about $14.73 was netted which goes to the Red Cross.

Capt. Bill Wincapaw came to North Haven Sunday for Lieut. Smead who has been staying at Nebo Lodge since his mishap. After Lieut. Smead boarded the plane he said he wanted to shake hands with the man who saved him from drowning. H. R. Crabtree being the one, he was called down to the plane and Lieut. Smead expressed to him his appreciation.

A program of music, readings and reviews of personal trips was given after the Sisterhood last Wednesday. Parker Stone sang "On the Road to Mandalay," his daughter Miss Dorothy Stone playing the accompaniment; Leon Stone gave a fine review of his trip to Norfolk, Va.; the absent members certainly missed a treat, for Mr. Stone's report was not only entertaining, but educational, and most amusing in part; he had us shivering with the poor Florida colored man; Mrs. Lillian Hopkins read an interesting paper on science; reading "The Little Red Hen," Lean Stone; Dr. Woodman told of an air trip he had taken. A Valentine party followed the program.

PENOBSCOT RIVER SURVEY

The National House Rivers and Harbors committee has ordered a new survey of the south branch of the Penobscot river at Frankfort, with a view to possible improvement work. The project was adversely reported on by the War Department about 20 years ago.

Comfort and Peace in Glow of Hearth Fire

When the frost nips the pumpkins and the autumn leaves turn yellow, and the chill of the fall sinks into our homes, then the fire upon the hearth becomes a cheerful companion of the advancing season. Its snapping flames invite one to comfortable thought and bright conversation. Some of man's wisest thoughts have been uttered in family and friendly circles as people gathered about the hearthstone, and mused and meditated over their observation of life.

The fire on the hearth gives a very cheerful touch to a cool fall evening. Fire is a symbol of home, it stands for arts that bring comfort and well being. The household that has good arrangements for fire making is well warmed and fed through the cold winter.

As we look at the dancing flames, home seems good. The intense desire of our age for motion and wandering is repressed to some extent. Blessings on every man who adds a good hearthstone to the dwelling he erects. He adds to human happiness and wisdom.—Nassau County (Fla.) Leader.

Unique Indian Fortress Preserved by Canada

The Southwest earthworks in Elgin county, Ontario, declared by Canadian archeologists to be the only double-walled Indian fortification existing in America, have been acquired by the Canadian government as a national historic site. A unique double-walled fort erected by the Attiandaronk or Neutral Nation of Indians was protected by a double line of earthworks which completely enclosed it. Between the walls lay a moat thirty feet wide. It is believed that the superstructure of the earthworks was a palisade of high sharpened logs. This old stronghold is thought to be the place at which the Attiandaronk made their last desperate stand against the Iroquois, who finally drove them from Ontario about 1650. Although these Indians were visited by French traders, the ruins have yielded nothing that would indicate contact with European civilization. Flint arrowheads and bone needles of the most primitive type have been unearthed.

Ancient Norwegian City

The first Christian king of Norway, Olaf Trygvesson, founded Trondhjem in 995 A. D. It is not only the most important town in the northern half of the country, but it is the largest city in the world to stand at so high an altitude. It is situated on the large fjord of the same name at the mouth of the River Nid. Here the first Christian church in the country was built. The most interesting building in the city is the famous cathedral built in the twelfth century over the tomb of St. Olaf, who was killed in battle against King Canute in 1030 A. D. However, the first structure was destroyed by fire and restored into a more modern building, which is now used as the coronation place of the Norwegian sovereigns.

Youth Not So Bright

Youth is not so precocious after all. Research and comparison in schools here prove that adult pupils learn languages and most studies better than the juniors. It was thought that the kids, not being hampered with a lifetime of English and having more impressionable minds, would pick up alien tongues more readily. But not so. The student beyond the first year of age could apply himself more quickly and deeply than the youngsters. The idea is that when he takes up a study he really wants to learn. With the kid it may merely be an unpleasant duty to perform.—Los Angeles Times.

Much Matchwood Used

Swiftly upon its appearance the match displaced the tinderbox and the twisted paper lighter, but no modern invention has taken the place of matches. Simple, efficient, indispensable, they roll up their decades of usefulness, more in demand than ever. Vast tracts of forest are consumed for them and also—as for human carelessness!—by them, so that the future may lose its penny packages unless more trees are planted now to furnish matchwood to last for a second century.

Origin of Common Expression

The expression "to put a spoke in the wheel" would suggest adding strength to a wheel, although actually the saying is used to indicate that somebody's progress has been barred. It has its origin, no doubt, in the far-off days when vehicles had solid wooden wheels. Holes were made in some of these so that the driver who wished to put on the brake could do so by pushing through one of the holes a piece of wood, called a spoke, and thus prevent the wheel from revolving.

Why Men Stare

Dr. Sidney Jones of the Aquitania, who is retiring after 36 years of sea service, was talking about time's changes. He thought the greatest change was in woman's dress, and on this subject he said wittily:

"It isn't the clothes that make men stare; it's the girl that should be in them."

Wind Hits Audience

To let the audience "think with the actors" during a storm scene in a London thriller, a wind machine is turned on those sitting on the main floor.

Childish Mistake

The reason why a little boy thinks his father is a great man is because mother can't correct every childish error all at once.—Dallas News.

Reason

Since it is Reason which shapes and regulates all other things, it is not itself to be left in disorder.—Epictetus.

WHY I SHALL PROBABLY MARRY AN ACTRESS"

by LAWRENCE GRAY

LAWRENCE GRAY Screen star

"What kind of girl do I hope to marry?" says Lawrence Gray, popular screen star. "Well, I remodel my ideal pretty often these days. "So many types are alluring—blondes, brunettes—the ones that are tall and distant—the ones that are short and confiding. "Youthful radiance is the thing I admire most in a woman. I'd want the girl I married to know how to keep it, too, right through her life! "That's why I say I may marry an actress! Everyone knows how marvelously they stay young year after year."

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

What is the actresses' complexion secret? Hollywood, Broadway, European actresses guard complexion beauty—KEEP youthful radiance with Lux Toilet Soap! This fragrant, lovely white soap is found in theatres everywhere—is the official soap in all the great film studios. Here is the caress of dollar-a-cake French soap for just 10¢.

VINALHAVEN

Mrs. Louise Hardison writes home that she was so fortunate as to witness the premiere performance of the new opera "Peter Ibbetson" at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. The outstanding feature was the singing of the opera in English, with only a part of the act being sung in French. Lawrence Tibbett, Lucie Arnott and Edward Johnson portrayed the leading roles.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lawry returned Friday from a two weeks' visit with friends in Worcester and Quincy, Mass.

Mrs. George Newbert entertained the Washington Club Saturday evening.

Mrs. Cook Sholes entertained Saturday evening at bridge.

Installation of the officers of Atlantic Royal Arch Chapter will take place Thursday evening.

Miss Celeste Carver, a student at Bates College, was a guest of Representative and Mrs. W. Adelbert Smith at the Governor's Ball in Augusta last Tuesday night.

The report for January showed a busy month with the work briefly summarized as follows: Visits were made for nursing care of adult patients, 134; for child below school age, 1; for school children, 4; maternity visits, 1; obstetrical, 2; for exercises, 13; instruction and demonstration visits for babies under one year, 5; home visits, 8; social welfare, 8; miscellaneous, 4. The total number of visits was 180. Two school visits were made and 182 pupils inspected. The treasurer reported that the net proceeds of the January card party including gifts, amounted to $43.15. In order that needed dental corrections among school children be made it was voted to hold six dental clinics. The annual meeting of the association will be held March 6 at the selectmen's office and all citizens are invited to attend.

Mrs. Millie Thomas will open Ye Wall Paper Shoppe Wednesday, Feb. 18. It is in New Glover block, opposite Masonic Temple. She will be pleased to meet old and new friends.

Right after his vacation the clerk asked for a few days off to get married.
Employer: "But why didn't you get married in your vacation?"
Clerk: "Well, I didn't want to spoil my vacation that way."

SEARSMONT

NEW HARBOR

Pauline Carolyn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. McFarland, died Jan. 31 after a brief illness, only 37 of Nov. 1930. $20 reward if found a slight cold giving any warning of anything worse that might develop, and which came so suddenly, taking the life of the little one who was the pride and joy of the loving parents. Pauline, though only six months old, was a very winsome child and much beloved by all who saw her. Services were held at the home, Rev. J. E. Herrick officiating, and the remains were placed in the tomb amid a profusion of flowers to await burial in the spring.

PORT CLYDE

A shower was given Monday night at the public library for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morris (Arlene Boyd) who were recently married. The guests numbered about 50 and an enjoyable evening was passed in games and dancing. Refreshments were served. They received many beautiful gifts, which included table linen, towels, glassware and many other things.

Miss Dorothy Snow and Miss Anna Richardson entertained at a dancing party Saturday evening in the Thorndike grill, and proved one of the most delightful social events of the winter season. There were about 50 guests, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Snow of Wollaston, Mass. The grill was attractively decorated in keeping with the Valentine season, and many soft shaded lamps were used. Music was furnished by three men from Kirk's Orchestra. Punch, harlequin ice cream and Valentine cakes were served.

George McLaughlin suffered an ill turn Saturday at his home at Walker Place, but is reported as somewhat improved.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Guy Douglas entertained at bridge with three tables. Two heart shaped boxes, containing cards with ladies' names in one and gentlemen's in the other, and with strings attached, caused much merriment, for when the strings were pulled the partners found names of radio stars. Of course Anos and Andy, were present with Madam Queen and Ruby Taylor, and other famous stars. First ladies' prize went to Mrs. Ardrey Orff, and first gentlemen's to Ardrey Orff and consolation to Mrs. Vinal. Nice refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Milford Payson of Camden, Mr. and Mrs. Ardrey Orff, Miss Barbara Orff, Mr. and Mrs. William Vinal, Mrs. Minnie Rogers, Miss Madeline Rogers and Lendon Jackson. After cards other games were indulged in which caused considerable fun and hilarity.

THE QUILT MRS. BENNER MADE

"You're crazy to go out a night like this! Why don't you stay at home and be comfortable with the thermometer 10 below," said Mr. Benner to his wife, Nora, as she started out for her two-mile tramp through the snow to the electric car line to attend the meeting of Winslow-Holbrook Legion Auxiliary.

"I've raised a big family of children, and now I'm going to do just what I like to do," smiled Mrs. Benner, "and one of the things I like to do best is to attend Auxiliary meetings and to do things for the Poppy Boys."

Mrs. Benner of Benner Hill, Rockland, has not missed an Auxiliary meeting and has also found time in the long winter evenings to piece together a beautiful quilt, with stitches finely set, which will be sold to carry on Maine's Poppy Program.

There are 1500 pieces in the quilt. The design is red stars on a white background—an old New England design.

In appreciation of "Nora's" devotion to the Auxiliary and to the cause of the World War Veterans, one of the Poppy Boys at the Poppy Work Shop, National Soldiers' Home, Maine has sent her the following poem:

BY A MAINE POPPY BOY
On winter nights, when it's dark and chill
And snow drifts are fence high,
You can see a light on Benner Hill
When the air is clear and dry.

That means that Nora is inside
And working for some one in need.
She is one in this cold world so wide,
Who likes to help—it always was her creed.

She raised her nine and buried three
And still thinks, she didn't do her share,
But keeps much busier than a bee
Just helping here and there.

And for the wondrous quilt we thank you!
Each stitch reminds us of love's labor
We know that we can count on the good will
Of Nora Benner from Benner Hill.

Miss Helen Fuller entertained the Monday Club yesterday at her home on Talbot avenue for luncheon and sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Munsey who have been attending the winter sports at Fort Fairfield returned home Sunday by plane.

Miss Gladys Blithen is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence at Simmons College, Boston, for the week.

The Congregational Missionary Society will hold its meeting at the home of the Misses Young, Wednesday at 3. The program will present the religions of India and some outstanding religious leaders.

Capt. Albert Hays of the Coast Guard Cutter Kicksapoo gave an ocean bridge party at his home, 16 Ocean street, last week for the League of Coast Guard Women.

There were 11 tables, the play resulting in these winners: Mrs. Anderson, P. Cohen, A. D. Newhall, Mrs. Bradbury, Mr. Mills, Mrs. Harry Berman, Mrs. N. Snow, Miss Helen Burns, Mrs. Julia Saville, Mrs. Fields and B. Tardiff.

A section of the new working group of Congregational ladies gave a bridge tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. O. Perry, Masonic street, with nine tables in play. Honors were won by Mrs. Cleveland Sleeper, Mrs. Lena K. Sargent, Mrs. Arnold Rogers, Mrs. Sumner Perry, Miss Charlotte Buffum, Mrs. Raymond Perry and Mrs. John M. Richardson. The favors were attractively wrapped in Valentine deckings, and the table covers reflected the Valentine season. The committee in charge was composed of Miss Marian Norton, chairman, Mrs. Fred P. Colson, Mrs. L. B. Cook, Mrs. Fred T. Veazie, Mrs. C. O. Perry, Mrs. Seymour Cameron, Mrs. William Vinal, Mrs. Wallace Spear, Miss Dorothy Snow and Mrs. Harold Combs.

WORDS from a WANDERER by + Harry A. Daniels +

Lower Rio Grande Valley. You folks in Maine who run cars pay a good, stiff gasoline tax. So do the fishermen who run boats out in the bay and never use a road. Would it interest you to know that Texas collects three million dollars a month or 36 million dollars a year from a 4c gasoline State tax? Think of the roads that would build, if it all went into roads. But it doesn't, as of course you all know.

This State boasts of 17 colleges and universities—forgetting for the moment about the cowboys, Indians, long-horn cattle, and the fact I am supposed to be living in, surrounded by Mexicans. Yes, there is some education down here, as they have more than 100 million dollars in school bonds now out.

And goats! My word! These boys lead everything in sheep and goat raising and the production of wool and mohair. There are more than 7,000,000 sheep and goats browsing today on the great ranges of the Edwards plateau in southwest Texas. How many lamb chops is that?

A little more than 40 percent of the entire cotton crop of the United States is grown here, and it sells for more than all the gold, copper, silver and zinc mined in the United States. That's something. Gold mines growing in the fields in the form of cotton. White gold.

Of course you know all about the oil and gas well—far ahead of everyone, and they pipe this stuff up to Minnesota, Nebraska, Illinois, and all through the mid-western States. And that is one reason the railroads are complaining—because they are not carrying it as freight.

I think that is enough boosting for one morning. But it is well for the youngsters to know geography up-to-date, as things change so rapidly now-a-days that it is hard to know from year-to-year just what is going on. I find many things I learned in geography are wrong now—new countries in Europe after every war; boundaries change. Industries change. New industries come into being new pronunciations and spelling of words—and what a child learns today will be mostly wrong 20 years from now. Ask your child in school how he pronounces Buenos Aires, and then try and recall how you were taught to pronounce the name of that city, a few years ago.

As soon as your high school or college graduate starts to travel he has to unlearn some of the things he has been taught. Maybe he just enters the export business in Boston, a san example. He learns that the government has requested that we address our foreign mail properly, spelling the names of the cities as they are spelled in Europe. He learns for the first time there is no Naples; it is Napoli. There is no Genoa; it is Genova. There is no Venice; it is Venezia. Now go over to Denmark and he finds there is no Copenhagen, but a Kobenhavn. And so, all along the line. An Italian would have just as much right to address a letter to you at Rockland, Maine as you have to address one to him at Naples, Italy. I do not know why our geographies do not give the names of foreign cities and countries as the foreigners themselves pronounce and spell them, but they do not. Suppose they took it into their heads to change the names of our cities and States to suit themselves, and then began addressing mail here according to their ideas. A letter would come for Oliver Hills Rockland, Maine, or something like that. And your big surprise when you land in China is to learn that the natives do not know what you are talking about when you say China. What we call China (the country) is really Tsin, and that is the only name they know it by over there. Take a ship from China and run over to Formosa, where the tea comes from, and you learn that no one there ever heard of Formosa—it is Tai-wan. And so on from Peking to Peking, which is now Peiping. It is an endless task.

Maine agriculturists may be interested in the statement that this coming April Texas will harvest an early Irish potato crop greater than any in its history, there being 16,060 acres planted to potatoes. That is 7% more acreage than was planted last year. They have also planted 2530 more acres of Bermuda onion than last year, and will soon harvest a crop of 22,000 acres. With onions this side of the border and garlic and goat's milk cheese over across in Mexico, the outlook is good for a very strong season.

Herbert Quinn, 32 years old, publisher of the Lubbock, Texas, "Avalanche-Journal," wandered out on the desert sand dunes west of the city one Sunday afternoon, to look for antelope. He went so far that in trying to get home he was overcome with exhaustion and died from exposure. His body was found three days later. That is one part of Texas. But Texas is larger than the whole countries of France, Belgium, Denmark, Greece and Switzerland put together. Has more square miles than all of them combined. So its is not strange a man can get lost on a desert here, and wander until sun and thirst kill him. You'll not find me out on the desert looking for any chickens after reading that story.

They may do it in Knox county. I don't know. I never smoke cigars up there. But down here they give you the last cigar in the box free with the last purchase that cleans out the box. If there are three cigars left in the box, you get them and pay for two. And it does stimulate trade and keeps the almost empty boxes out of the case. I have never seen so many brands of 3c cigars as they have here. And they are all dolled up in wrappings of transparent gunpowder that looks like thin glass. This keeps out the dust, keeps in the moisture, makes an attractive package, and is the last word in sanitation, and cleanliness. No germs, microbes or parasites can enter the little pliable glass house, for it is sealed at both ends. Being transparent, you can see just what you are buying. They do say that when the war was over, the big powder manufacturers found themselves with a lot of powder on hand that they didn't know what to do with, and so they set their chemists to work to find out what it was good for. Your Duco finish on your autos is the result. Duco stands for Dupont Company, and Dupont stands for gunpowder, gun cotton and dynamite. Celluloid is a combination of gun cotton and camphor—and this new wrapping, cellophane, is said to also be manufactured by the same people. Anyway, it was a great idea, and will stimulate the cigar business. An attractive package is half the battle, no matter what you are selling.

SKIS IN FLORIDA

Inspector Hoyt Tells Boys At Rockland Airport How They Do It In Florida

An interesting little item which failed to appear in F.V.F.'s "Planes, Passengers and Pilots" department Saturday for lack of space is here told:

Inspector Hoyt who was at the Outis-Wright flying field Friday, pulled a story which was worthy of a place in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" Column. Seeing skis in the corner of the office he remarked that they were just like some he was accustomed to use down in Florida. Pretty quick somebody bit and asked him where he found the snow to ski on in Florida.

"Snow!" he said. "Wah we don't use 'em on snow. We ski on mud." He went on to tell of a certain swamp on the west coast of Florida which is composed largely of thick, blue clayey mud, covered in some places with a tall grass known as duck grass. The mallards and canvasbacks go there by the thousands to feed on the roots of this grass which has a large succulent bulb about a foot under the surface. The ducks will root up the swamp by the acre to get at these tubers and leave it looking like a field which has been turned up by a herd of swine.

The only means of reaching these feeding grounds is over the mud and unless a man has something on his feet he will sink in up to his arm pits. With skis on, however, he can plod along over the mud at a slow walk and can make very fair time on the grass itself which presents a hard slippery surface to the ski.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN GUN

A meeting of the Democratic National Committee has been called by Chairman Raskob to discuss plans for the 1932 Presidential campaign. It will be held March 5 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. In addition, the committee will consider plans for obtaining funds to meet the party's deficit and to carry on its work both during and between national campaigns.

Thank You For Your Good Wishes!

{ National Biscuit Company acknowledges the cordial greeting of the State Chamber of Commerce }

Since 1869 T. A. Huston & Co., has been serving the people of Maine with its quality line of biscuit. And we are deeply conscious of the pride with which the people of this State point to the "Down East" Bakery as a worthy example of Maine's enterprise.

Since the recent affiliation, in which the Huston name was linked with that of the National Biscuit Company, we have received many expressions of your gratification at this forward step. We rejoice with you in the wide-spread belief that this new arrangement has a definite bearing upon increased prosperity for this State. And the welcome accorded our announcement of this new policy is accepted with a deep sense of the added responsibility which it brings.

The National Biscuit Company has an honored reputation in the nation's homes. More than four hundred varieties of cakes and crackers are being marketed under the famous red Uneeda Seal. Many of these items already are familiar to Maine householders. They are found in grocery stores, companions of the "Down East" products with which you are familiar.

As the first step in a definite program to increase, by every means possible, our usefulness to the people of Maine we are expanding the plant capacity of the Huston Bakery just as rapidly as the necessary new equipment can be put into operation. As the result of this enlargement of activities, we will give Maine housewives an even greater variety of oven-fresh quality cakes and crackers by manufacturing, in addition, products of the famous "Uneeda Bakers" line.

Daily we are extending and improving our delivery service in order that our products may be brought to our customers in the freshest possible condition. By the opening of new distributing agencies, and by the installation of more adequate equipment, we are moving steadily forward toward a service still more satisfactory to the people of the old "Pine Tree State".

All these matters are facts accomplished and being accomplished, and are presented here with the belief that you will accept them for what they are—an expression of our appreciation for your well-wishing, and a pledge of our earnestness to serve the people of the State of Maine even more efficiently.
