Dear Sirs:

Do you need a teacher in shorthand? in bookkeeping? or in both? Or in Touch Typewriting? or in English?

Every spring a great many public schoolteachers enter our school to prepare to teach in business schools; most of them high schoolteachers of good education and considerable experience in teaching. The fact that I was so long State Superintendent of Public Instruction of this state, no doubt, induces more teachers to come to our school than to any other school in this part of the country.

If you are in need of a teacher I think it is not too much to say that we can furnish better educated and better prepared teachers than can be had from any other source. Any system of shorthand you may want.

Very respectfully,

Harry D. Worries
