DURHAM, NH – Vermont Senator Bernie Sanders has opened a small lead in New Hampshire, with former Vice President Joe Biden, former South Bend (IN) Mayor Pete Buttigieg, and Massachusetts Senator Elizabeth Warren chasing. While Biden trails Sanders, likely Democratic primary voters continue to believe he has the best chance to defeat Donald Trump in November. Democratic primary voters trust Sanders most with handling the climate crisis and healthcare, their two most important issues. Most Democratic primary voters would be satisfied or enthusiastic if any of these four candidates became the Democratic nominee. President Trump faces only token opposition in the Republican primary.

These findings are based on the latest CNN 2020 New Hampshire Primary Poll*, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand and one hundred seventy-six (1,176) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between January 15 and January 23, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 2.9 percent. Included in the sample were 394 likely 2020 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 4.9 percent) and 516 likely 2020 Democratic Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 4.3 percent). Trend points prior to July 2019 reflect results from the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

2020 Democratic Primary

Just under half of likely Democratic New Hampshire primary voters (49%) say they are still trying to decide whom to support in the NH primary, 20% say they are leaning towards someone, and 31% have definitely decided. The higher percentage of undecided voters is not unusual in the NH primary. Among likely Democratic primary voters, about an equal amount of registered Democrats (48%) and voters registered as undeclared (50%) say they are still trying to decide which candidate to support.

Democratic Candidates Favorability

When asked for their overall opinion of 2020 Democratic candidates, two-thirds of likely New Hampshire Democratic primary voters (66%) say they have a favorable opinion of Sanders, 64% have a favorable opinion of Buttigieg, 61% have a favorable opinion of Warren, and just over half have a positive opinion of Biden (54%) and entrepreneur Andrew Yang (52%). Less than half have a positive opinion of Minnesota Senator Amy Klobuchar (46%) and businessman Tom Steyer (40%), while just over a quarter have a favorable opinion of Hawaii Congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard (26%) and former Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick (26%). Less than a quarter have a positive opinion of former New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg (22%), Colorado Senator Michael Bennet (19%), and former Maryland Congressman John Delaney (9%).

Favorability - January 2020

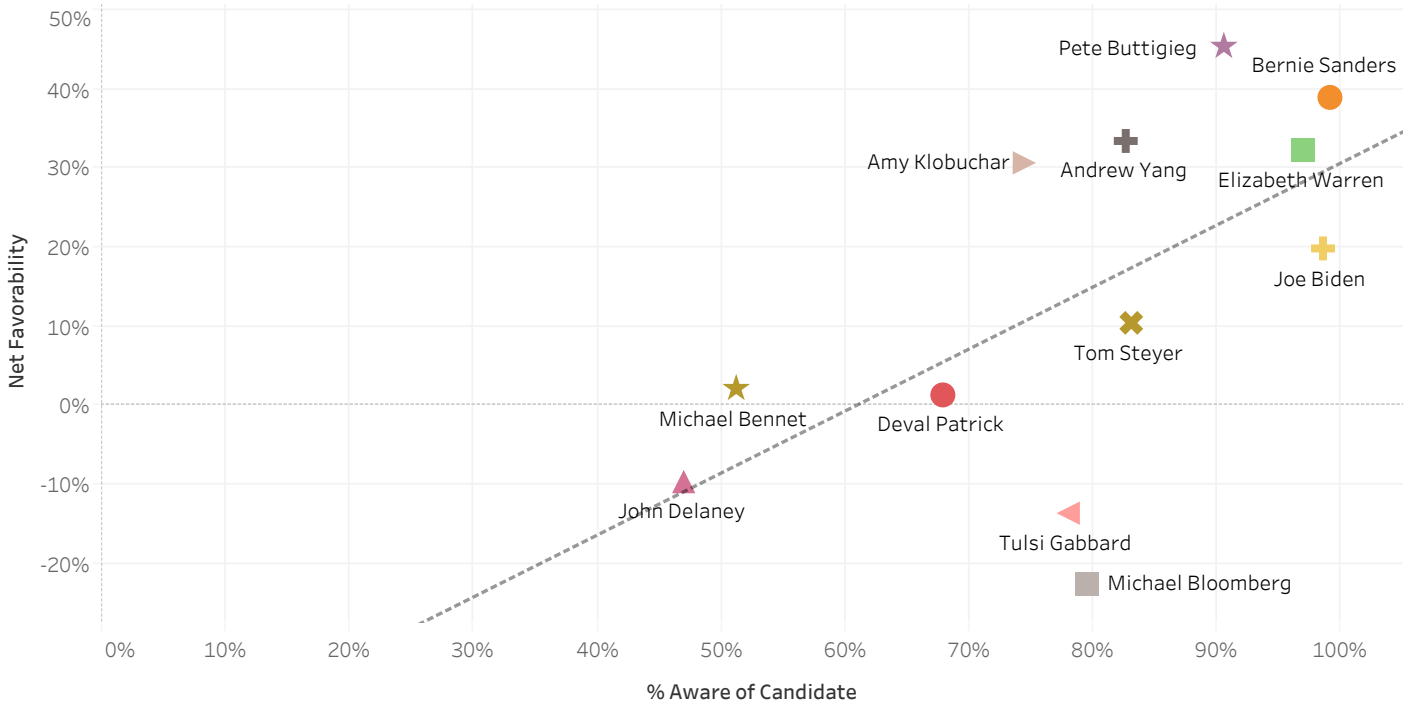

Compared to October 2019, Yang's net favorability (percentage who view them favorably minus the percentage who view them unfavorably) has increased substantially (+21 percentage points), while Steyer (+9), Delaney (+7), Klobuchar (+7), and Buttigieg (+6), have also experienced gains in net favorability. Meanwhile, Biden's (-6) and Warren's (-6) net favorability have slightly declined and Gabbard's net favorability has declined more significantly (-11).

Change in Net Favorability from October 2019 to January 2020

More than ninety percent of likely New Hampshire Democratic primary voters are aware of Sanders, Biden, Warren, and Buttigieg, but Buttigieg (+46%) enjoys a slightly higher net favorability than Sanders (+39%) and a good deal higher than Warren (+32%) and Biden (+20%). Biden's net favorability is now lower than Yang's (+33%) and Klobuchar's (+31%), despite fewer likely primary voters having an opinion of Yang and Klobuchar. Delaney, Gabbard, and Bloomberg have negative net favorability ratings, with Gabbard and Bloomberg far less popular than expected given that around four in five likely voters are aware of them.

% Aware of Candidate by Net Favorability - January 2020

The dotted line is the line of best fit. Candidates above the dotted line are more popular than would be expected based on the proportion of likely voters who are aware of them, whereas candidates below the dotted line are less popular than would be expected.

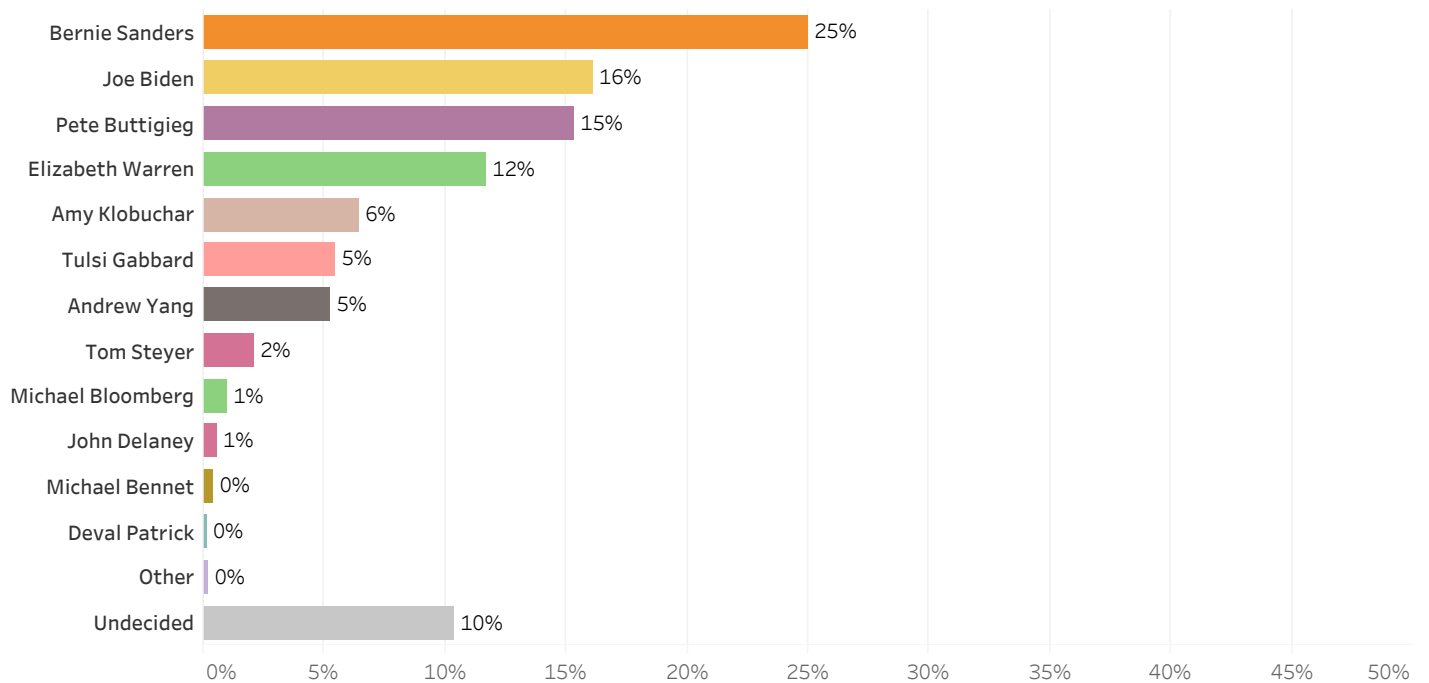

Buttigieg is by far the most popular candidate among self-described moderates, followed by Klobuchar, Biden, and Yang. Sanders and Warren are the most popular candidates among liberals but they are considerably less popular among moderates and conservatives. Gabbard is most popular among conservatives, followed by Biden and Yang.

Net Favorability by Ideology - January 2020

If the 2020 New Hampshire Democratic primary were held today, a quarter (25%) of likely primary voters say they would vote for Sanders, 16% would vote for Biden, 15% would vote for Buttigieg, and 12% would vote for Warren. Six percent say they would vote for Klobuchar, 5% each would vote for Gabbard or Yang, 2% would vote for Steyer, 1% each would vote for Bloomberg or Delaney, and less than 1% would vote for Bennet, Patrick, or another candidate. Ten percent of likely Democratic primary voters say they are undecided whom they would vote for.

Preferred Democratic 2020 Presidential Nomination Candidate - January 2020

Preferred Democratic 2020 Presidential Nomination Candidate - October 2017 - January 2020

Because Michael Bloomberg is not running in the New Hampshire primary, his name was not included in the list of candidates who were read aloud. However, responses from those who volunteered Bloomberg as their choice are included.

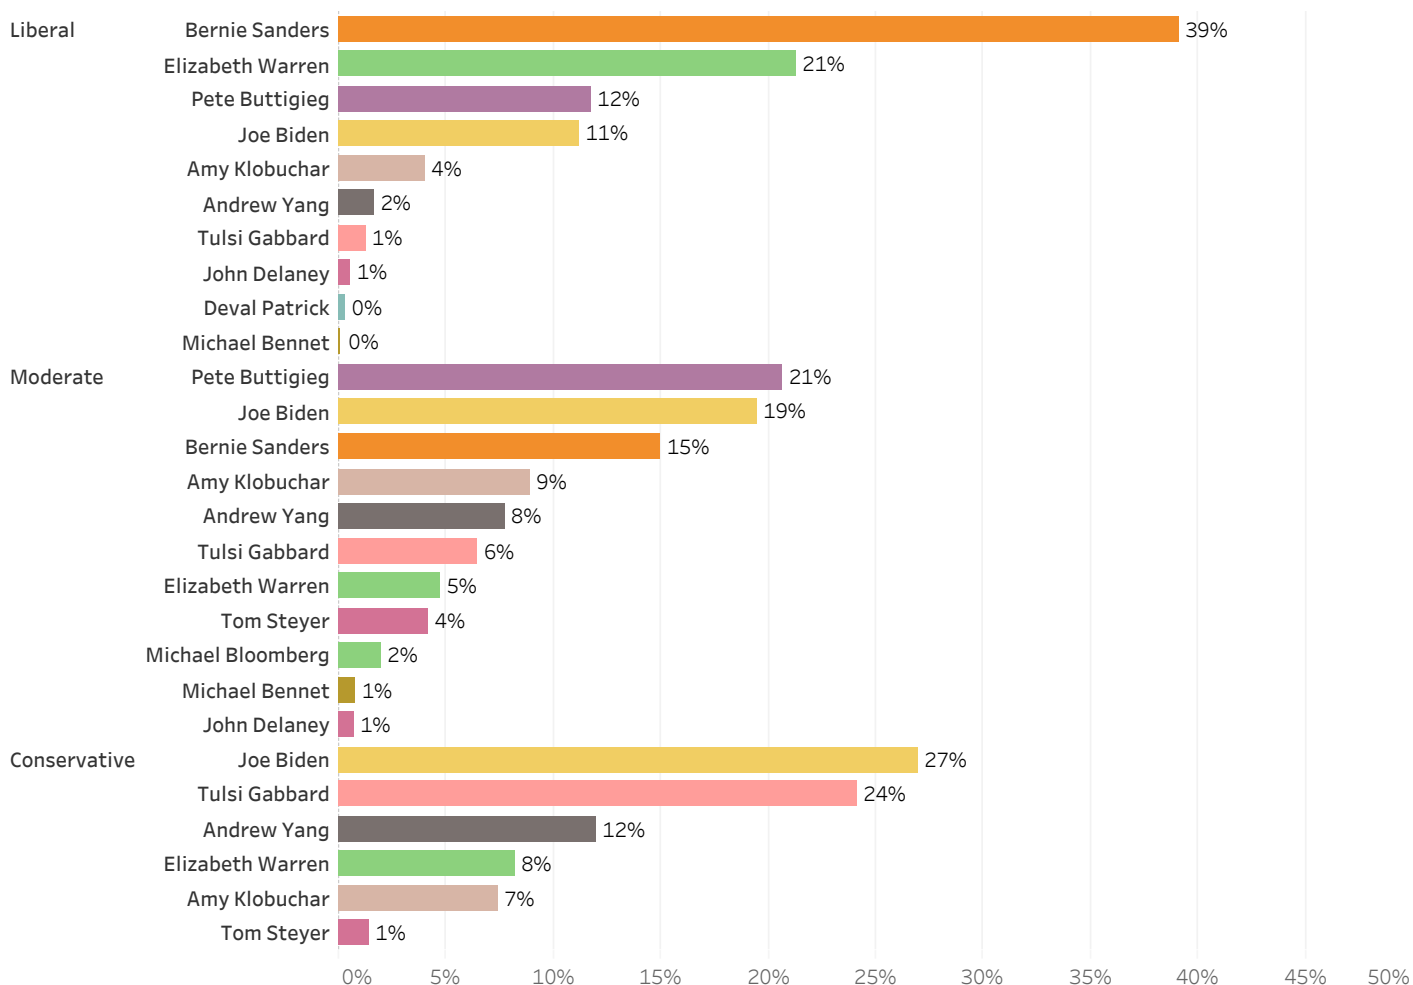

Since October 2019, support for Buttigieg (+6 percentage points) has slightly increased, while support for Warren (-6) has slightly declined.

Change in Preferred Democratic Candidate from October 2019 to January 2020

Among likely Democratic voters who are self-described liberals (N=212), 39% support Sanders, 21% support Warren, 12% support Buttigieg, 11% support Biden, and 4% support Klobuchar. Among moderates (N=249), 21% support Buttigieg, 19% support Biden, 15% support Sanders, 9% support Klobuchar, 8% support Yang, 6% support Gabbard, and only 5% support Warren. Among conservatives (N=30), 27% support Biden, 24% support Gabbard, and 12% support Yang.

Preferred Democratic Candidate by Ideology - January 2020

While Warren trails her top rivals in first-choice support, she holds a slight lead when likely Democratic primary voters are asked whom they would support if their preferred candidate were not on the ballot. Twenty percent say they would support Warren if their preferred candidate were not on the ballot, 16% would support Buttigieg, 13% would support Sanders, and 10% would support Biden. Eight percent pick Yang, 7% would support Klobuchar, 6% would support Steyer, and 5% would support Gabbard. Fewer likely voters would choose Patrick (2%), Bennet (1%), Bloomberg (1%), Delaney (<1%), or another candidate (3%) as their second choice. Six percent say they don't have a second choice while 4% are undecided.

Second Choice for Democratic 2020 Presidential Nomination - February 2019 to January 2020

Forty-six percent of Sanders supporters say Warren is their second choice while a similar number of Warren supporters say Sanders is their second choice (45%). Supporters of Biden and Buttigieg are more divided in their second choice. Among Biden supporters, 25% select Buttigieg as their second choice, 19% select Warren, 16% select Sanders, and 10% select Klobuchar. Among Buttigieg supporters, 22% pick Klobuchar as their second choice, 17% pick Biden, 12% pick Warren, and 7% pick Sanders.

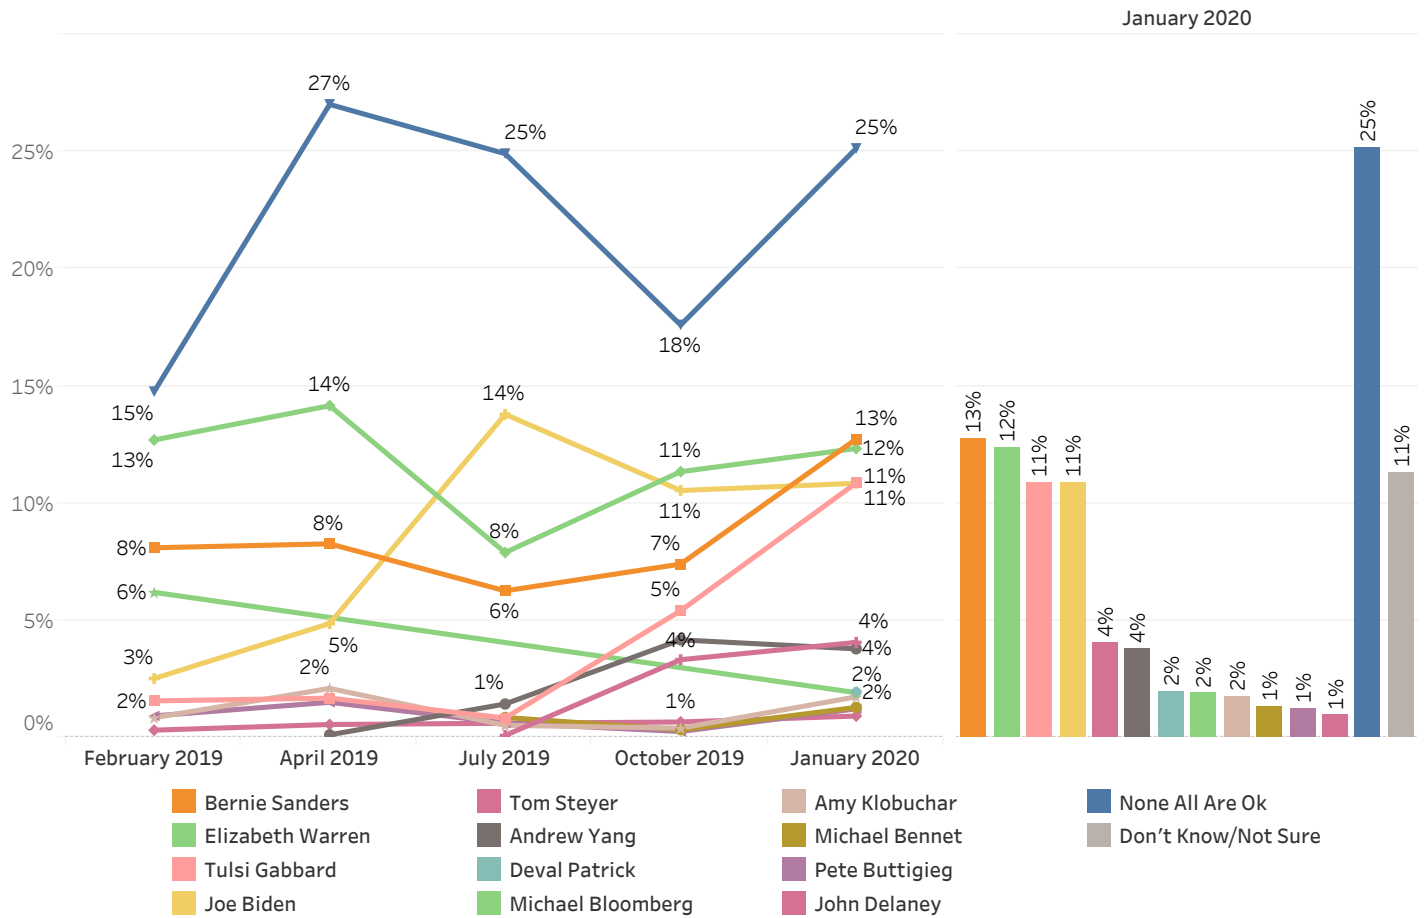

"Warren and Sanders are the clear second choices for each other's supporters while Biden and Buttigieg are the second choices for each other's supporters," said UNH Survey Center Director Andrew Smith. "This is evidence that two 'lanes' are firming up for the Democratic nomination: a liberal lane, occupied by Warren and Sanders, and a moderate lane occupied by Biden and Buttigieg."

Second Choice for Democratic 2020 Nomination by First Choice - January 2020

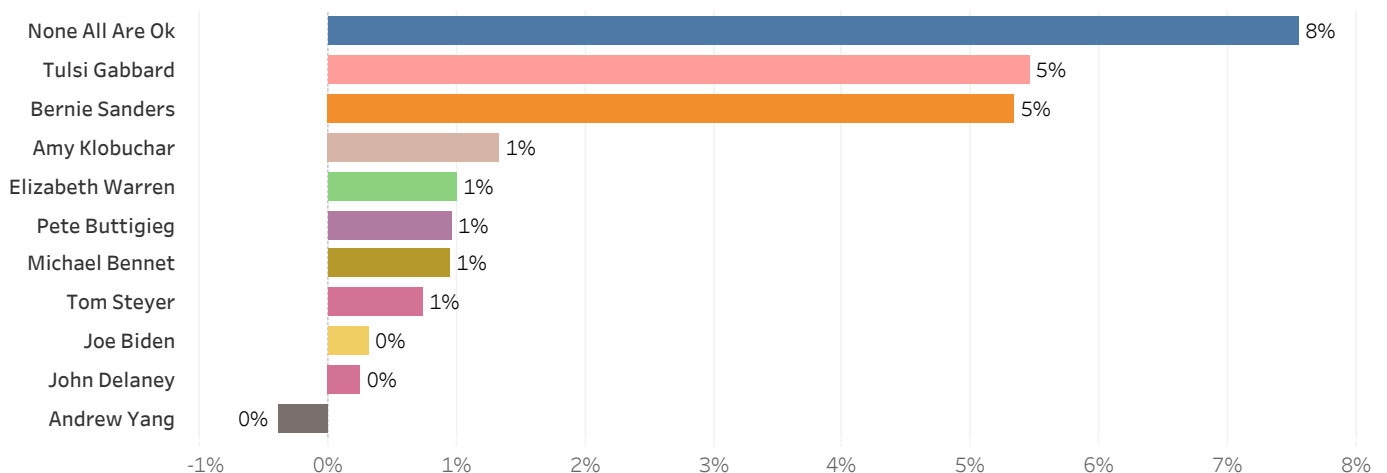

When asked which candidate they would not support under any circumstances, a quarter of likely Democratic voters (25%) say that all of the candidates are acceptable to them. Thirteen percent say that they wouldn't under any circumstances vote for Sanders, 12% would not vote for Warren, and 11% each would not vote for Gabbard or Biden. Fewer likely voters say they would not vote for Steyer (4%), Yang (4%), Patrick (2%), Bloomberg (2%), Klobuchar (2%), Bennet (1%), Buttigieg (1%), or Delaney (1%). Eleven percent don't know or are unsure whom they wouldn't vote for under any circumstances.

Would Not Vote For Candidate Under Any Circumstances - February 2019 to January 2020

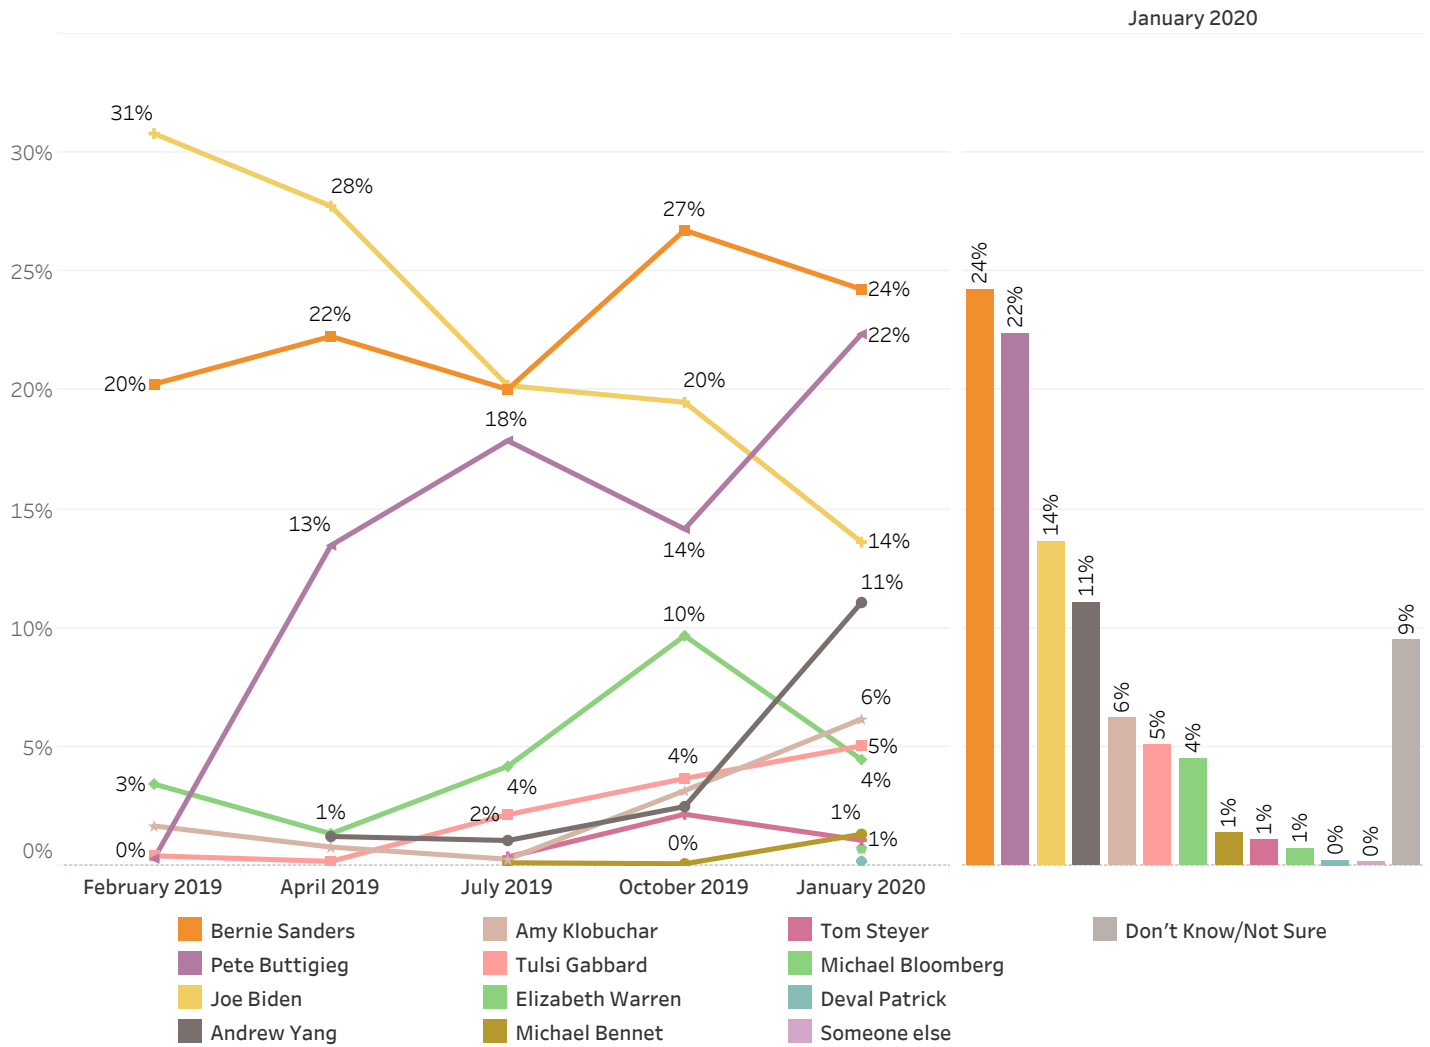

Since October 2019, the proportion of likely Democratic voters who say they will not vote for Gabbard (+5 percentage points) or Sanders (+5) has increased. However, the proportion who say they would vote for any of these candidates has also increased by 8 points.

Change in Candidate Would Not Vote For Under Any Circumstances from October 2019 to January 2020

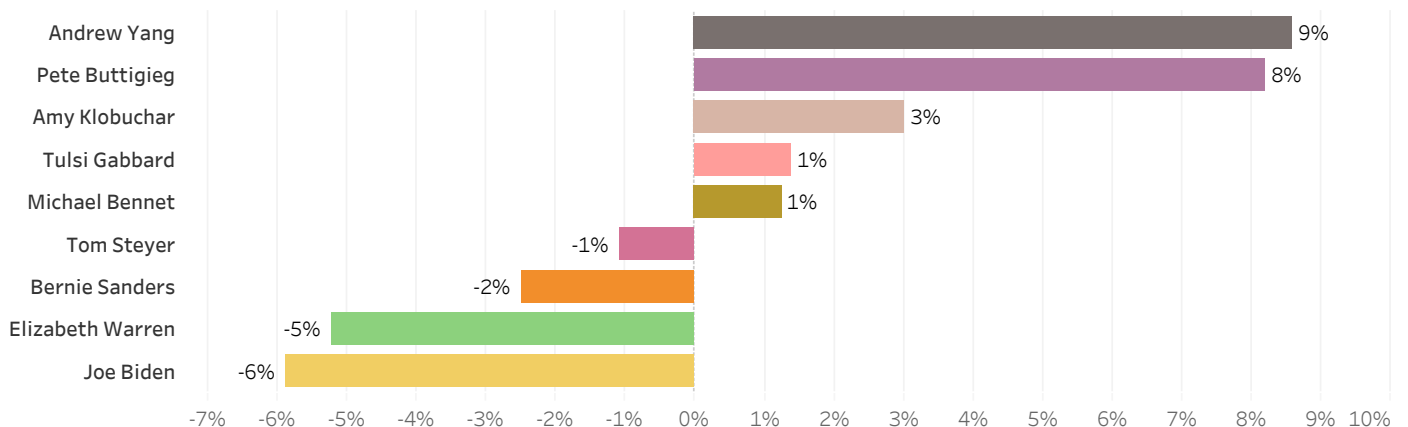

Likely Democratic primary voters were asked which candidate they find to be the most likeable. Sanders (24%) and Buttigieg (22%) garner nearly half of the responses, followed by Biden (14%) and Yang (11%). Fewer respondents say that Klobuchar (6%), Gabbard (5%), Warren (4%), Bennet (1%), Steyer (1%), Bloomberg (1%), Patrick (<1%), or someone else (<1%) is most likeable, while 9% don't know or are unsure.

Most Likeable Democratic Candidate - February 2019 to January 2020

Compared to October 2019, a larger percentage of likely Democratic voters think that Yang (+9 percentage points) or Buttigieg (+8) is most likeable, while the proportion who think Biden is most likeable has declined by 6 points.

Change in Most Likeable Democratic Candidate from October 2019 to January 2020

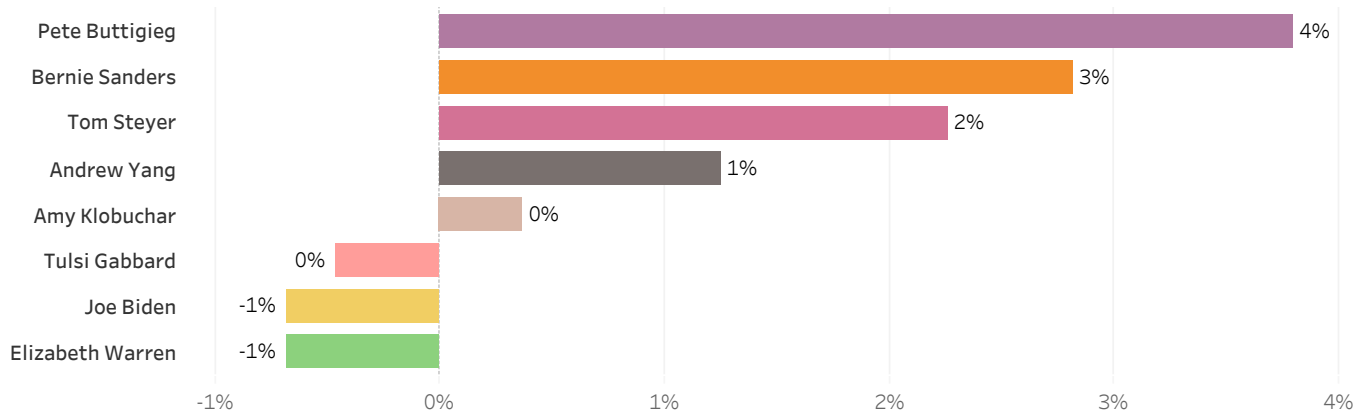

Half of likely Democratic primary voters (50%) believe Sanders is the most progressive Democratic candidate, slightly higher than at any other point since the question was first asked. Eighteen percent believe Warren is the most progressive, 8% think that Buttigieg is most progressive, and 7% think Yang is most progressive. Fewer likely voters think that Steyer (4%), Biden (3%), Klobuchar (1%), Gabbard (1%), Bloomberg (<1%), Patrick (<1%), or Delaney (<1%) is most progressive, while 8% don't know or are unsure.

Most Progressive Democratic Candidate - February 2019 to January 2020

Compared to October 2019, a slightly larger proportion of likely Democratic voters think that Buttigieg (+4 percentage points) is most progressive.

Change in Most Progressive Democratic Candidate from October 2019 to January 2020

Biden continues to be the candidate who likely Democratic primary voters believe has the best chance to win the general election: 41% say he has the best chance, 20% think Sanders has the best chance of winning, 8% believe Buttigieg has the best chance, and 6% believe Warren has the best chance. Fewer respondents believe that Bloomberg (2%), Klobuchar (2%), Gabbard (2%), Steyer (2%), Yang (1%), or someone else (1%) has the best chance of winning, while 16% don't know or are unsure.

Candidate With Best Chance to Win General Election - February 2019 to January 2020

Compared to October 2019, a slightly larger proportion of likely Democratic voters think that Sanders (+6 percentage points), Biden (+6), or Buttigieg (+5) has the best chance of winning the general election while the proportion who believe Warren has the best chance (-12) has declined.

Change in Candidate With Best Chance to Win General Election from October 2019 to January 2020

Primary voters must consider both personal preference and electability when deciding who they will ultimately vote for. Just over half of likely Democratic primary voters (51%) believe their preferred candidate is the one they like the best and has the best chance to defeat Donald Trump. One-third (32%) say their preferred candidate is the one they like the best, though they believe someone else has a better chance to defeat Trump. Thirteen percent say their preferred candidate is not the one they like the best, but they believe their preferred candidate has the best chance to defeat Trump.

Perception of Preferred Candidate's Likeability and Electability

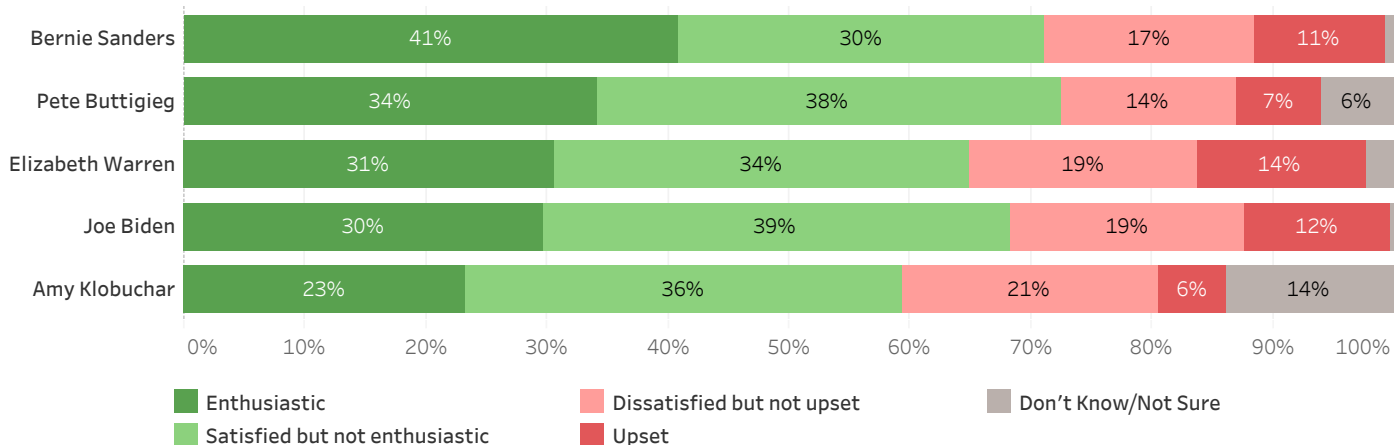

More than two-thirds (69%) of Sanders supporters say they like him the most and that he has the best chance to defeat Trump. A majority of Biden supporters (58%) say the same about him, but three in ten (29%) Biden supporters say that he is not the one they like best, but that he has the best chance to defeat Donald Trump. A majority of Buttigieg supporters (52%) say he is the candidate they like the most but they believe another candidate has a better chance to defeat Trump.

Perception of Preferred Candidate's Likeability and Electability - By Preferred Candidate

Forty-one percent of likely Democratic primary voters say they would feel enthusiastic if Sanders won the Democratic presidential nomination, three in ten (30%) would be satisfied but not enthusiastic, 17% would be dissatisfied but not upset, and 11% would be upset. Slightly fewer likely Democratic voters say they would be enthusiastic if Buttigieg (34%), Warren (31%), Biden (30%), or Klobuchar (23%) were the nominee. One-third (33%) of likely Democratic voters say they would be dissatisfied or upset if Warren won the nomination, 31% would feel this way if Biden were the nominee, 28% would feel this way if Sanders were the nominee, 27% would feel this way if Klobuchar were the nominee, and 21% would feel dissatisfied or upset if Buttigieg were the nominee.

How Would Feel If Candidate Won Democratic Presidential Nomination - January 2020

Voters' Predicted Winner of NH Primary

Thirty-nine percent of likely Democratic New Hampshire primary voters think that Sanders is most likely to win the New Hampshire primary. Twenty-two percent believe Biden is most likely to win, 12% think Warren is most likely to win, and 7% think Buttigieg is most likely to win. Fewer likely voters think that Gabbard (1%), Steyer (1%), Yang (1%), Klobuchar (1%), Delaney (<1%), or Bloomberg (<1%) is most likely to win the primary. Fifteen percent don't know or are unsure who they think is most likely to win.

Candidate Most Likely to Win the New Hampshire Primary - January 2020

Sanders supporters are quite confident that Sanders will win the New Hampshire primary: nearly three-quarters (72%) believe he is most likely to win the primary, while a slim majority of Biden supporters (53%) believe Biden is most likely to win the primary. Warren and Buttigieg supporters are less optimistic about their preferred candidate's chances: only 35% of Warren supporters believe she is most likely to win and less than one-third (31%) of Buttigieg supporters believe he is most likely to win. Only 7% of Klobuchar supporters believe she is most likely to win.

Believe Preferred Candidate Most Likely to Win the New Hampshire Primary - January 2020

2020 Republican Primary

Likely Republican New Hampshire primary voters are overwhelmingly positive in their overall opinion of Donald Trump: 90% have a favorable opinion, 4% are neutral, and 6% have an unfavorable opinion. Trump's favorability among likely Republican voters has ticked slightly upward since 2019.

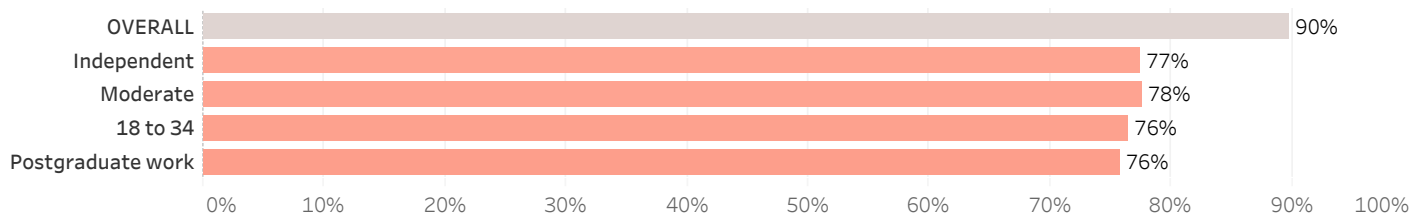

Former Massachusetts Governor William Weld and former Illinois Congressman Joe Walsh are challenging Trump for the 2020 Republican nomination. Likely Republican voters in New Hampshire have a largely negative opinion of Weld: only 12% have a favorable opinion of him, 11% are neutral, 43% have an unfavorable opinion, and 35% don't know or are unsure. Walsh remains poorly-known in the state: only 8% have a favorable opinion of him, 17% are neutral, 23% have an unfavorable opinion, and 53% don't know or are unsure. Opinion on Weld and Walsh is largely unchanged since October 2019.

Republican Candidates Favorability - July 2019 to January 2020

Among likely Republican New Hampshire primary voters, those who have completed postgraduate work, those aged 18 to 34, self-identified Independents, and self-described moderates are less likely than others to have a favorable opinion of Trump.

Favorable Opinion of Trump by Selected Demographics - January 2020

There remains very little support for Republican primary challengers to Trump. The vast majority of Republican primary voters (90%) say they would vote for Donald Trump if the primary were held today, 4% would support Weld, and 1% would support Walsh. Two percent say they would support another candidate while 3% don't know or are undecided. Responses to this question closely mirror those provided in July and October 2019.

Preferred Republican 2020 Presidential Nomination Candidate - February 2019 to January 2020

Nearly three-quarters of likely Republican New Hampshire primary voters (73%) have definitely decided whom they will support in the 2020 Republican Presidential Primary. Eight percent are leaning toward someone while 19% are still trying to decide. The proportion of respondents who say they have definitely decided has increased by 20 percentage points since July 2019.

Definitely Decided on Candidate - Republican Primary Voters - October 2017 to January 2020

Most Important Issue to 2020 Primary Vote Among Likely Republican Primary Voters

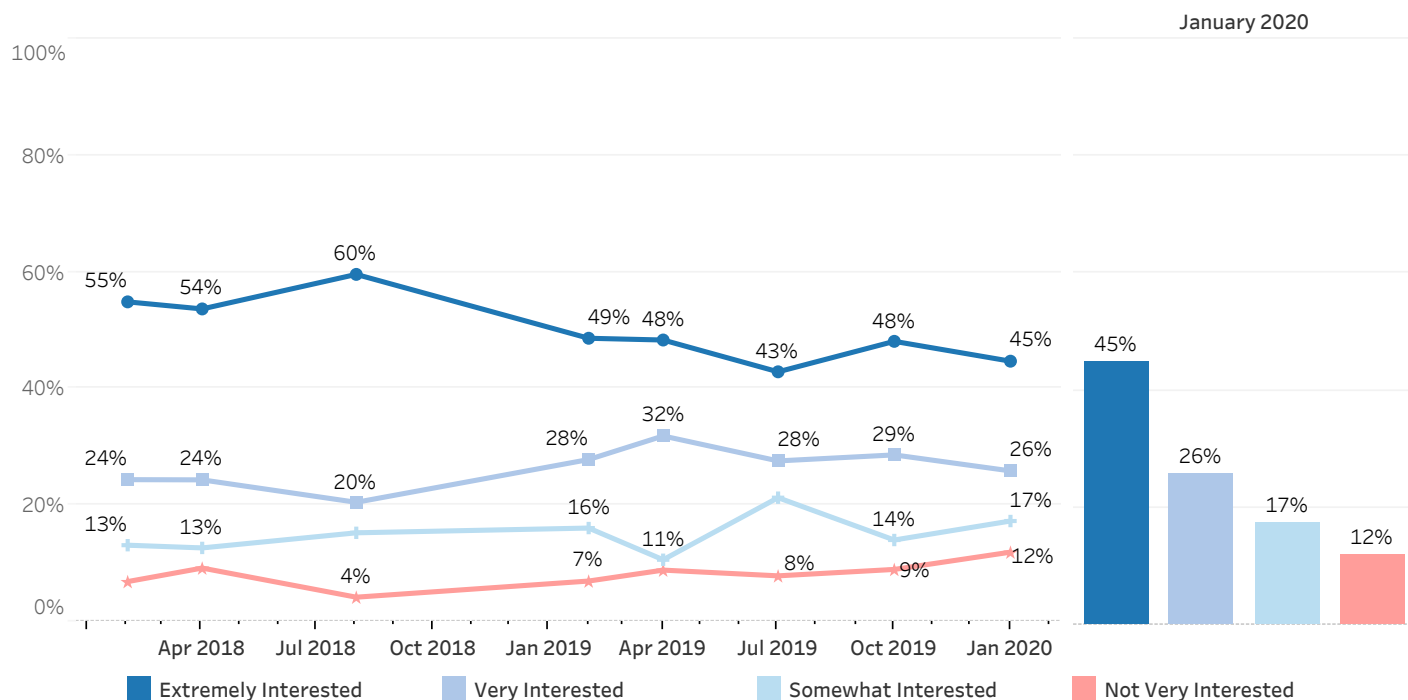

When asked which issue is most important to their primary vote, a clear plurality of likely Republican New Hampshire primary voters mention jobs or the economy (30%) while 12% mention immigration. Six percent of likely Republican primary voters each mention national security and beating Democrats, 5% each mention gun policy or foreign relations, and 4% each mention health care or honesty or integrity in government. Fewer likely Republican voters mention climate change or the environment (2%), abortion (2%), education (1%), beating Trump or Republicans (1%), national unity (1%), the national budget or debt (1%), taxes (1%), or Social Security (<1%). Seventeen percent mention something else while 2% don't know or are unsure.

Most Important Issue to 2020 Primary Vote Among Likely Republican Primary Voters - July 2019 to January 2020

Interest in the 2020 New Hampshire Presidential Primary has declined very slightly among Granite Staters since October 2019. Less than half of respondents (45%) describe themselves as extremely interested in the primary, compared with 48% in October. A quarter (26%) describe themselves as very interested, 17% say they are somewhat interested, and 12% say they are not very interested.

Interest in 2020 NH Presidential Primary

Likely Democratic primary voters (61%) are more likely to describe themselves as extremely interested than likely Republican primary voters (51%), while only 19% of those who are likely to vote but are undecided on which primary in which they will vote say they are extremely interested. This group is far less likely than in October 2019 (45%) to say they are extremely interested.

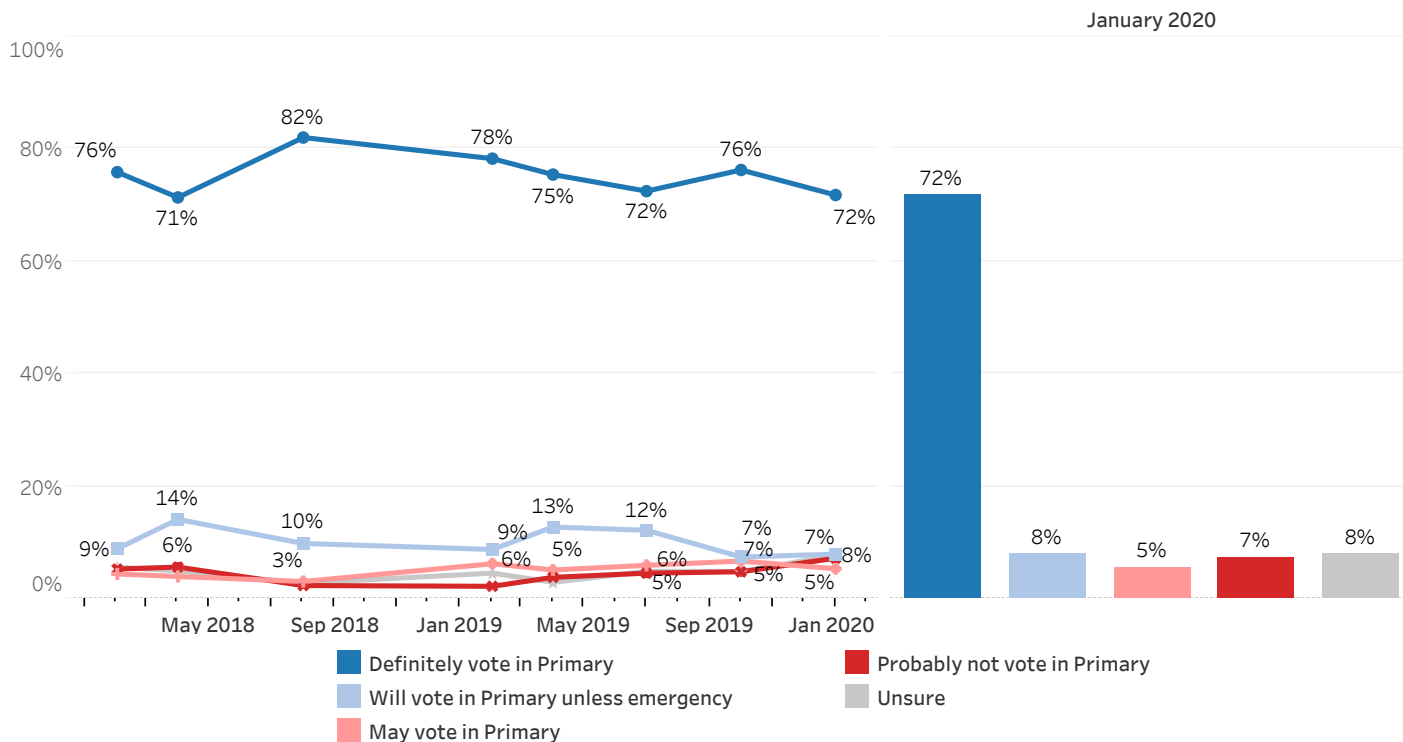

In the run-up to the 2016 presidential election, likely Republican primary voters were slightly more likely to say they were extremely interested than Democratic voters and likely voters who were undecided on which primary they would vote in.

Extremely Interested in Primary - By Likely Primary Participation

Seventy-two percent of New Hampshire residents say they will definitely vote in the primary, while 8% say they will vote unless there is an emergency. Five percent say they may vote, 7% probably will not vote, and 8% are unsure.

Likelihood of Voting in Primary

About the same number of likely Republican (92%) and likely Democratic voters (91%) say that they will definitely vote in the primary. Both groups are far more likely than those who are undecided on which primary in which they will vote (64%) to say they will definitely vote.

Unlike this year, in the run-up to the 2016 presidential election, voters were nearly equally likely to say they would definitely vote in the primary, regardless of whether they planned to participate in the Democratic primary, the Republican primary, or if they did not know which one they would participate in.

Will Definitely Vote in Primary - By Likely Primary Participation

In New Hampshire, undeclared voters are allowed to choose whether to vote in the Democratic or Republican presidential primary. Among this group, 55% say they plan to vote in the Democratic primary, 34% plan to vote in the Republican primary, 1% say they will not vote in the primary at all, and 10% don't know or are unsure. Since February 2019, a plurality of undeclared voters have consistently said they plan to vote in the Democratic primary.

In the run-up to the 2012 and 2016 presidential elections, a plurality of undeclared voters said they planned to vote in the Republican primary, while in the run-up to the 2008 election, a majority of undeclared voters planned to vote in the Democratic primary.

Undeclared Voters' Choice of Primary - February 2019 to January 2020

Presidential Approval

Fifty percent of New Hampshire residents approve of Donald Trump's performance as President, 46% disapprove, and 4% don't know or are unsure.

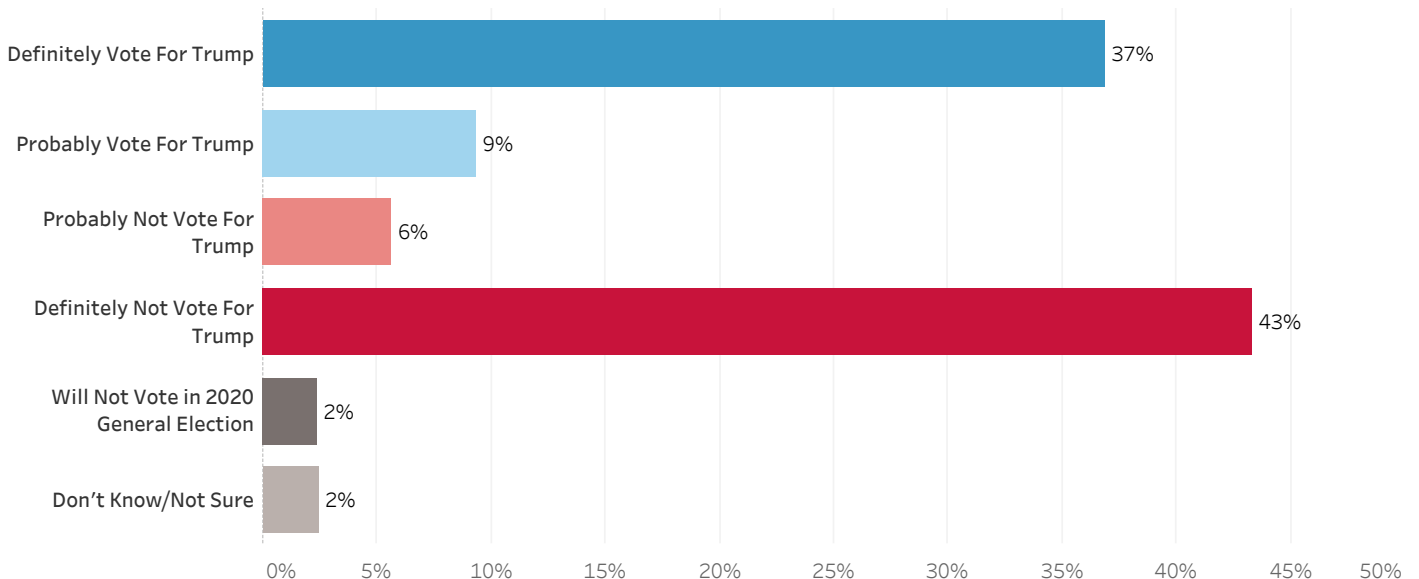

Nine in ten (90%) self-identified Republicans approve of Trump's performance, but only 42% of Independents and 2% of Democrats agree.

Presidential Approval - Donald Trump

If the November election were held today, 46% of New Hampshire residents say they would definitely (37%) or probably (9%) vote for Trump, 49% would definitely (43%) or probably (6%) not vote for Trump, 2% say they will not vote in the 2020 General Election, and 2% don't know or are unsure.

Likelihood of Voting to Reelect President Trump - January 2020

Trump Impeachment

CNN 2020 New Hampshire Primary Poll

These findings are based on the latest CNN 2020 New Hampshire Primary Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand and one hundred seventy-six (1,176) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between January 15 and January 23, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 2.9 percent. Included in the sample were 394 likely 2020 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 4.9 percent) and 516 likely 2020 Democratic Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 4.3 percent). Trend points prior to July 2019 reflect results from the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

The random sample used in the CNN 2020 New Hampshire Primary Poll was purchased from Scientific Telephone Samples (STS), Rancho Santo Margarita, CA. STS screens each selected telephone number to eliminate non-working numbers, disconnected numbers, and business numbers to improve the efficiency of the sample, reducing the amount of time interviewers spend calling non-usable numbers. When a landline number is reached, the interviewer randomly selects a member of the household by asking to speak with the adult currently living in the household who has had the most recent birthday. This selection process ensures that every adult (18 years of age or older) in the household has an equal chance of being included in the survey.

The data have been weighted to adjust for numbers of adults and telephone lines within households. Additionally, data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. All statewide data were additionally weighted by party registration targets based upon data from the New Hampshire Secretary of State. In addition to potential sampling error, all surveys have other potential sources of non-sampling error including question order effects, question wording effects, and non-response. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%. The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions.
