PREFACE

Each year an increasing number of theses and dissertations are accepted by graduate schools in partial fulfillment of the requirements for advanced degrees. While the content of these studies are of uneven quality, they constitute a significant amount of research—the only research in some areas. A few are later published but most wind up in some graduate school library where they remain relatively inaccessible and virtually forgotten. This is especially true of master's theses and to a lesser degree doctoral dissertations although a number of bibliographies and Dissertation Abstracts do provide valuable sources of information.

In this bibliography an attempt has been made to list the theses and dissertations dealing with Nebraska and Nebraskans. Questionnaires were sent to the librarians of 565 colleges and universities offering graduate degrees in the United States and Canada. Of the 408 that responded, 114 had one or more theses or dissertations dealing with the subject. A few librarians indicated their files were not set up in a way that would enable them to readily obtain the information requested or lacked the staff to provide that kind of service. In all probability, a number of the institutions did not reply because they had no studies germane to the subject. While an effort was made to borrow theses located outside the immediate area, this was not always successful. Some librarians would not lend as a matter of policy while most were disinclined to honor a request when only one copy existed. If the work had been published and the original could not be secured, the published edition was substituted. In any event the title and all available information was included.

In the main only theses or dissertations were included that contained the name Nebraska in the title or dealt with some individual or subject that was obviously related to the state. No attempt was made to annotate works in Education or Science. In these areas the titles were self explanatory for the most part. Considerable difficulty was experienced when it came to categorizing studies under various topic headings. In some instances two or more headings seemed equally applicable. At times the title seemed to suggest one area while the content indicated another. As a last resort the department that sponsored the graduate research was used as a guide line.

The format adopted seemed to provide the most information in the least space. Where the name of a state appeared as a part of the name of the institution, the generally accepted abbreviation was used, unless otherwise noted, to avoid confusion. While the official title of some institutions has been changed over the years, the one indicated on the theses was retained. The number of introductory pages were not included but the total number of pages of text, bibliography, appendix, etc., were indicated. At times this involved the actual counting of pages since there was no uniform system of pagination. Sometimes the pages of the text was in Arabic numbers while the bibliography and appendix were in Roman numerals or had no numbers at all.

The present compiler is well aware of the limitations of any study of this type. The list becomes dated before it is completed as more titles are being added all the time. Moreover, there is a considerable lapse of time in many instances after the degree is awarded before the thesis or dissertation is bound and appears on the library shelf. Sometimes library copies disappear while copies are still available at the department in which the work was done or in the institution's graduate office. Some years ago the compiler of a similar bibliography in another field stated that while every effort had been made he doubted if he had been able to find over three-fourths of the existing titles. It is hoped that the percentage may be a bit higher in the present instance. For subsequent listings, attention is invited to Nebraska History; since 1969 it has included a section periodically dealing with this subject.

Finally, some credits are in order. Dr. P. Milo Bail, President Emeritus, University of Nebraska at Omaha (then the Municipal University of Omaha) made money available at the inception of this project. Later the Senate Research Committee, University of Nebraska at Omaha, provided additional support. The inter-library loan librarians at the Gene Eppley Library and the librarians at the Love Memorial Library deserve special mention. Last but not least, a debt of gratitude is owed to Professor A. Stanley Trickett and other members of the Department of History, University of Nebraska at Omaha, who took a friendly interest and by their occasional inquiries gently nudged the writer to complete this project.

1. AGRICULTURE

A. GENERAL

1. Blake, Gordon J., "Reasons for Entry into and Exit from Small Business, Farming and Ranching in Buffalo County, Nebraska, Since 1946," PhD, UN, '70, 216 p, ac.

Information secured from farmers, ranchers, and small businessmen rather than census reports; retirement and death chief reasons for abandoning farms while those who entered did so because they liked that type of life.

2. Bowden, Martyn John, "Changes in Land Use in Jefferson County, Nebraska, 1857-1957," MA, UN, '59, 227p, c.

Both quantitative and qualitative approach to land use; extensive bibliography.

3. Bush, Ralph Frederick, "Trends of Adjustment of Size of Farming Units in Nebraska," MA, UN, '39, 119p, cm.

The size of farming units increase during periods of prosperity while the opposite is true during depressions.

4. Collett, Clinton Ellsworth, "The Agriculture Geography of Fillmore County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '17, 38p, cim.

Locates various soil types and indicates crop most suitable for each; also a brief history of the county.

5. Cornelius, Grant Leland, "Availability of Farm Land to Beginning and Established Farm Operators in Johnson County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '56, 65p, ac.

Part of Nebraska Agriculture Experiment Station Project 487. Compares characteristics of beginning with established farm operators; based on questionnaires sent to county committeemen.

6. Fitzgerald, Denis Patrick, "The Transitional Character of the Farm Landscape of Central Nebraska," MA, UN, '59, 243p, cmp.

Deals with Boone, Nance, Garfield, Greeley, Valley, and Wheeler counties.

7. Fox, John G., "County Commissioners' and County Extension Board Members' Perception of the Nebraska Extension Service," EdM, ColoSU, '68, 118p, ac.

8. Grady, Gilbert Dean, "Farm Tenancies in Nebraska," MS, UN, '65, 162p, ac.

A study of the legal and economic aspects of prevailing types of leases in use.

9. Hayes, Frank Albert, "Agricultural Geography of Dawes County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '16, 31p, c.

Describes the various physiographic regions and type of agriculture practiced in each.

10. Hervey, Jackie Lee, "The Analysis of the Components of Change in Number of Farmers in the North Central States, 1910-1959," MS, UN, 62, 88p, aci.

Covers area from Ohio on the east to Kansas and Nebraska on west; Boone, Custer, Greeley, Howard, Sherman, and Valley counties in Nebraska examined.

11. Kano, Hisanori, "Farm Tenancy in Nebraska Compared with Farm Ownership," MA, UN, '18, 92p, ci.

Compares size of farms, type of equipment used, amount of labor employed, capital required, etc.

12. Lowenstein, Duane Evan, "An Analysis of Selected Human Relations Factors Relative to County Personnel in the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service," PhD, UWis, '61.

13. Lutz, Daniel B., "Relative Significance of Factors Affecting Attendance and Non-Attendance at Area Swine Days in Nebraska," MA, KanSU, '64, 176p, aci.

The larger producers, younger men, and those better educated most likely to attend; if meetings were closer to producers and better advertised, more would attend.

14. Mauch, Arthur, "Relationship Between Type of Land Tenure and Farm Organization in Rock Bluff Precinct, Cass County, Nebraska, 1925 to 1933," MA, UN, '33, 49p, cm.

Examines the effect of farm ownership on farm organizations in a typical diversified farming area.

15. Medlar, Arthur Walton, "Farm Survey of Franklin Precinct, Fillmore County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '15, 43p, c.

Data secured from individual farmers regarding income, size, value of farms, etc.

16. Miller, Hermon Isaiah, "Analysis of Types of Farm Organization in Nuckolls County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '36, 93p, c(fold)m.

Recommends changes in farming systems to increase income.

17. Neuman, Duane," The Effect of Tenure Arrangements on Resource Allocation and Enterprise Combination in the Short-run in Southeastern Nebraska," MS, UN, '59, 153p, acm.

This is one segment of a regional research project involving nineteen counties in four states; data obtained from random block sample of farm operators.

18. Olson, Richard Edward, "Stability of Alternative Production Systems for Kimball County, Nebraska," MS, UN, '61, 100p, acm.

A comparison of livestock and grass system with cash grain system indicated little difference; unless a farmer had a sound financial base his chances of survival were not good .

19. Ordal, Rolf Waldemar, "History of the Federal Farm Program in Nebraska," MA, UN, '41, 99p, a.

An over-all picture of the farm program.

20. Otte, Herman Frederick, "The Geography of Nebraska Farm-Land Valuations," MA, UN, '29, 134p, cm.

A computation of productivity and crop value for farm land situated in sixteen representative counties.

21. Reinmiller, Ronald Thomas, "Factors Affecting the Interchange of Land Among Farm Operators, Including the Availability of Land to Beginning Farmers in Johnson County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '57, 86p, c.

A study of the change and composition of farm operators in a given area during one year.

22. Rodine, Floyd Henry, "The Farm Bureau in Nebraska 1920-1950," PhD, UN, '52, 325p, a.

Traces the history of the movement and analyzes reasons why the organization has not done better in the state.

23. Schaad, Edwin August, "An Agricultural History of Lancaster County, 1856 to 1900," MA, UN, '39, 145p, acm.

Lists annual production figures by precinct for various crops and livestock.

24. Steeple, Doris V., "The Agricultural Adjustment Administration Program in Frontier County," MA, UN, '53, 125p.

Indicates an increase in farm cash and decrease in farm mortgages.

25. Sweedlum, Verne Sebastian, "A History of the Evolution of Agriculture in Nebraska. 1870-1930," PhD, UN, '30, 505p, acm. (mount).

Emphasizes economic aspects and describes the adjustment of the farmer to his environment.

26. Vlasin, Raymond Daniel, "A Comparison of Alternative Systems of Farming for Southern Kimball County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '56, 173p, ac.

This land utilization study based on a single 1440-acre farm indicated that wheat, despite its drawbacks, was best, followed by livestock production; sudan grass was next best crop. USDA publications used extensively.

27. Ward, Callie James, "The Relationship Between Characteristics of the Farm and the Operator's Response to Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service," PhD, UN, '70, 147p, ac.

Size and type of farm, age and education of operator compared; distance from office of extension agent a factor; questionnaire used.

28. Watson, Curry Wathan, "Some Factors of Success in Farming in York County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '17, 51p, c.

Based on information obtained from a visit to every farm in Waco Township.

29. Webb, Billy Ray, "The Role of the County Extension Agent Chairman in Nebraska," PhD, UN, '69, 164p, ac.

Based on questionnaire; makes recommendations for improvement.

30. Wellman, Allen C., "The Effect of Resource Supply on Farm Organization in Southeast Nebraska," MS, UN, '65, 113p, acm.

This is part of a North Central Regional Study; recommends increasing size and more specialization of farms but does not consider price fluctuation.

31. Wiggins, Edward Ruger, "A Survey of Nebraska with Reference to the Use of the 30-60 Internal Combustion Tractor," MS, UN, '13, 140p, cmp.

Traces the development of agriculture in the state and examines future possibilities for use of the tractor in the various sections.

B. CONSERVATION AND IRRIGATION

32. Beller, Norman Dale, "Acreage Reserve Participation for Wheat in Nebraska," MS, UN, '59, 146p, acm.

Examines 1957-58 program and indicates it failed to attain stated goals; lowering price supports and increasing rate might have helped; program had most appeal to small and less specialized farmers.

33. Bourne, Walter Clinton, "A Conservation Survey of Saltillo Township, Lancaster County, Nebraska," MS, UN, '39, 66p, cm (fold)p(mount).

A study of the area generally, points out lack of concern regarding conservation and makes recommendations for improvement.

34. Cisney, Gordon Darrell, "Optimum Allocation of Resources for South Central Nebraska Irrigated and Non-Irrigated Farms," MS, UN, '65, 75p, acm.

Classifies farms in the area and indicates how they could be used most profitably.

35. DeKrey, Willard Warren, "Selecting a Water Distribution System for a Particular Farm in Central Nebraska," MA, UN, '54, 73p, ac.

Three types of irrigations systems—siphon tube, gated pipe, and sprinkler—studied from the standpoint of advantages and disadvantages of each.

36. Dyck, Diedrich, "Some Economic Aspects of Irrigation in the North Platte Valley," MA, UN, '55, 113p, a(fold)cm.

Part of an over-all study to help farmers solve their problems; shows how irrigation has altered farming procedures in Pathfinder Irrigation District.

37. Flynn, Richard Harris, "Farm Organization and Conservation Practices in the Syracuse Soil Conservation Area, Otoe County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '40, 83p, cmp.

A comparison of farming operations using soil conservation methods with those following conventional methods indicated no significant difference.

38. Hanson, Marlin Lewis, "Law and the Economics of Ground Water Mining in a Pump Irrigated Area of Nebraska," PhD, UN, '66, 295p, acm.

Based on random sampling of farmers in a six-township area of Hamilton County; indicates the type of crops that might be produced profitably with pump irrigation, kinds of fuel used, and the cost involved.

39. Hopt, Carl Erwin, "Ways to Increase Incomes on Pump Irrigated Farms in Central Nebraska," MA, UN, '56, 90p, acm.

Deals with Hamilton, York, and Polk Counties; points out that many were not making full use of their wells due to the lack of proper contour grading of their land, etc.

40. Johnson, Ralph Donald, "The Conservation Reserve Program in Nebraska, 1961," MS, UN, '61, 57p, cm.

This study of the practices of representative farmers throughout the state indicated the Program was accomplishing its objective; also, it was less expensive than a price support program.

41. Jones, Jesse Edmund, "The Federal Soil Conservation Districts Program in Nebraska," MA, UN, '48, 93p.

Traces the program in the state to 1948 but gives more attention to the movement in the United States as a whole.

42. Merickel, Charles R., "Changes in Farm Organization Resulting from Soil Conservation Practices in Washington County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '49, 35p, c.

This study indicates a balanced farm organization necessary to prevent a decline in income but this would require considerable readjustment.

43. Nelson, Ted Richard, "Capital Optima on Pump-Irrigated Farms in South Central Nebraska," MS, UN, '59, 90p, cm.

Deals with the best combination of crops and livestock for the greatest net return for pump irrigated farms.

44. Perry, Robert Ernest, "A Study of Irrigated Farm Organizations at Two Management Levels in South-Central Nebraska," MS, UN, '66, 111p, acm.

Comparison of cash-grain, hog, hog-grain, hog-beef, and beef farms.

45. Putnam, John W., "Economic Implications of Irrigation Development in the Blue River Basin, Nebraska," MS, UN, '64, 84p, a.

Data covered period 1948-1962 and based largely upon USDA reports.

46. Staley, Herman McLeod, "A Comparison of Production and Income between Cooperators and Non-cooperators with the Soil Conservation Service on Farms in Gage County Soil Conservation Area from 1935 to 1938," MA, UN, '40, 74p, cm.

An examination of the records of two hundred eighty-four farms indicated cooperators were getting most revenue.

47. Sutton, Philip Stanley, "A Great Plains Conservation Program as a Stabilizing Influence on Agriculture in the Nebraska Central-Loess Hills," MS, UN, '63, 67p, acm.

A study of two representative farms in each of five counties indicated the objectives of the Program were "well on the way to being met." This will provide more grassland and hence more livestock.

48. Thiemann, Otto Paul, "The Salt-Wahoo Watershed District, with Particular Emphasis on the Economic and Organizational Aspects," PhD, UN, '66, 383p, acm.

Based upon personal interviews, newspaper accounts, and files of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed District. Contains a history of floods in the area and traces the development of the flood control project.

C. CROPS AND LIVESTOCK

49. Allpress, Henry Alfred, "Acreage Shifts of Important Crops in Nebraska, 1920-1947," MA, UN, '49, 119p, acm.

Deals with corn, wheat, oats, barley, and alfalfa.

50. Austin, Milan Dayton, "Trends in acreage of Important Cultivated Crops in Nebraska, 1879-1934," MA, UN, '36, 151p, cm.

Concerned with factors that influence production; crops and livestock go in cycles.

51. Black, Ferdinand Franklin, "The Relationship of Corn Yields to Rainfall and Temperature Distribution in Southern Nebraska," MA, UN, '31, 132p, ac.

Based on official reports and covers years 1904-1928.

52. Brandt, Graydon William, "The Inheritance of Milk and Butterfat Production in the University of Nebraska Holstein-Friesian Cattle," MS, UN, '37, 498p, c(fold).

Utilizes records kept at the Experiment Station during academic year 1936-1937.

53. Bridges, Joseph Ollie, "A Study of Skin Folds on the Rambouillet Flock at the University of Nebraska," MS, UN, '32, 56p, cp.

A study of twenty-nine sheep indicated that density and fineness of wool seemed to go together.

54. Burleigh, David Robert, "Range Cattle Industry in Nebraska to 1890," MA, UN, '37, 132p, i.

Concentrates on early development and utilizes original sources.

55. Conrad, Elverne Clyde, "Effect of Time of Cutting on Yield and Botanical Composition on Prairie Hay in Southeastern Nebraska," PhD, A&MC of Texas, '53, 75p, c.

A study of the yield of prairie hay from a native meadow in Gage County over an eight year period, 1945-1952.

56. Deal, Donald Bruce, "Sidewalk Farming in the Specialized Wheat Region of Nebraska," MA, UN, '67, 104p, acm.

Based on publications of the USDA and the Bureau of the Census; deals with Banner, Kimball, Cheyenne, Deuel, Keith, and Perkins Counties.

57. Dunlap, James V. Jr., "A Critical Evaluation of the Work Done at the Nebraska Station with the Utilization of Alfalfa Hay by Beef Cattle," MS, UN, '50, 18p.

An examination of the various experiments conducted and a recommendation for further study.

58. From, Melvin Dean, "Wheat in Dryland Cropping Systems, Southeastern Nebraska," MS, UN, '68, 95p, acm.

This study determines by linear programming the minimum resources necessary to provide a $5,000, $9,000, and $13,000 farm income with emphasis upon wheat production; based on a study of twenty-four farms in Butler, Lancaster, and Jefferson Counties.

59. Fry, Lucile E., "The Wheat Section of the AAA, 1933-1945 (With Special Reference to Kansas and Nebraska)," MA, UN, '47, 172p.

Uses historical approach and is written almost entirely from government publications.

60. Genereux, Douglas Gerald, "A Comparison of Variable Costs and Returns for Corn, Wheat and Soybeans in Southwestern Cass County, Nebraska," MS, UN, '68, 76p, acm.

Based upon information obtained from twenty farm operators; a minimum of wheat and a majority of the land in soybeans seemed to produce the highest return under existing conditions.

61. Gray, Denver David, "Farm Organization and Pasture Management Followed by Nebraska-Forage-Livestock Cooperators 1939-1940," MA, UN, '41, 85p, ac.

From reports submitted by farmers who participated in the "Nebraska Pasture Contest" in 1935.

62. Guest, Buddy Ross, "A Geographic Study of Alfalfa in Nebraska," MA, UN, '47, 110p, acm.

Examines areas where alfalfa grown and its effect upon the economy for the year 1946.

63. Johnson, Henry Theodore, "History of the Beet Sugar Industry in Nebraska," MA, UN, '34, 113p.

Deals with economic and social aspects of labor relations from beginning of the industry in 1880's.

64. McCuiston, Willis Lloyd, "The Inheritance of Restorer Factors in Two Lots of Nebraska 542437 Winter Wheat," PhD, OklaSU, '67.

65. Marple, Robert Paul, "The Transition Zone Between the Corn Belt and Hard Winter Wheat Belt," PhD, UN, '58, 262p, cmp.

Based on statistics obtained from regular census reports and Census of Agriculture covering period 1924 to 1954. Works out a method for studying areas in transition zones; establishes "core" areas.

66. Mather, Eugene, "Cattle Ranching in the Sand Hills of Nebraska," PhD, UWis, '51, 205p, ac.

A general treatment with primary emphasis upon the actual ranching operations.

67. Mumford, Mattie Ellen, "Geographic Phases of the Wheat Industry of Nebraska," MA, UN, '34, 145p, acm.

Traces industry from time of first settlers and accounts for concentration in certain sections of the state.

68. Raymond, Charles E., "Analysis of the Distribution of Western Nebraska Potatoes," MA, UN, '52, 84p, cm.

Based upon material provided by the potato dealers and shippers in the area; examines ways of reducing marketing costs.

69. Retzloff, Robert E. J., "An Analysis of Cost-Size Relationships, in Wheat Production, Nebraska Panhandle," MS, UN, '57, 127p, acm.

An examination of current practices and compares the cost of production on large with that on small farms.

70. Roseberry, Paul Eugene, "A Comparison of Net Returns from Various Livestock Systems for Southern Kimball County, Nebraska," MS, UN, '58, 72p, c.

Indicates greatest return in following order: purchase of calves in fall for summer grazing, raising calves for marketing as fat yearlings, raising and marketing fat lambs.

71. Schmieding, Arthur Clarence, "Geographic Patterns of Failure of Wheat and Corn in Nebraska, 1931-1952," MA, UN, '54, 131p, c.

Lists cause for crop failure and indicates areas where success and failure most likely to occur.

72. Sindt, Roger Paul, "Optimum Organization of Livestock Farms with Alternative Livestock Enterprises in the Panhandle, Southwest, and South-Central Nebraska," MS, UN, '68, 92p, acm.

Divides area into districts and analyzes one livestock farm in each district to determine best balance between livestock and crops.

73. Spear, Julia Matilda, "Geographic Phases of the Beef Cattle Industry of Nebraska," MA, UN, '30, 138p, cim.

A general survey of subject.

74. Stark, Jerrold Loy, "Regrassing Experiences of Selected Farm Operators in Central Nebraska," MA, UN, ['57], 82p, cm.

Based largely upon response of thirty farmers located in five different counties.

75. Whitney, Ramey Charles, "Agriculture in the Specialized Wheat Area of Nebraska," MA, UN, '36, 176p, acm.

A discussion of how good farmers operate in southwestern Nebraska.

76. Williams, David C., "Genetic Covariance Among Foundation Animals in the Fort Robinson Hereford Herd," MS, UN, '53, 42p, i(part fold).

The highest inbreeding and genetic covariance values were 0.2500 and 0.6699.

77. Winkelmann, Donald Lee, "Some Factors Affecting the Wheat Supply in Nebraska," MA, UN, '57, 84p, acm.

Information obtained from a questionnaire sent to five hundred farmers in the major wheat producing section of the state.

78. Young, Keith Kline, "Alternative Cropping Systems for the Central Loess Hills of Nebraska," MA, UN, '59, 88p, acim.

Based on random sample of 480-acre farms in area for period 1953-1954; concerned with increasing farm income and decreasing soil loss.

D. MARKETING AND FINANCING

79. Al-Araji, Ahmed, "Optimum Size and Location of Grain Elevators in Nebraska," MS, UN, '64, 94p, ac.

Information obtained from State of Nebraska reports, a study made by Michigan State Agriculture Experiment Station, and publications of the USDA. Indicates that grain production and storage capacity increasing, but the number of grain elevators is decreasing.

80. Anderson, Kenneth E., "Some Aspects of the Fluid Milk Industry of Nebraska," MA, UN, '51, 91p, acm.

Examines methods of distribution, quality of milk sold, type of containers used, chief areas of production and consumption, etc.

81. Aspelin, Arnold Lyle, "The Potential for Vegetable Canning in Nebraska: A Preliminary Analysis," PhD, UN, '65, 258p, acm.

Deals with south central and western Nebraska; some means of increasing production would have to be found before farmers should make change.

82. Auer, Ivan Herman, "An Analysis of the Effect of Price and Other Factors on Acreages of Winter Wheat Planted in Nebraska, 1931-1955," MA, UN, '58, 79p, acim.

Price most important factor.

83. Bennett, Richard, "The Fullerton Cooperative Creamery," MA, UN, '54, 67p, cim.

A discussion of the farm cooperative movement using the Fullerton organization as a typical farm cooperative.

84. Berger, Robert Lee, "The Effects on Nebraska Agriculture of the Tariff on Ten Selected Farm Products," MA, UN, '38, 179p, c.

Critical of benefits, only sugar and wool helped.

85. Biery, Freeman Elmer, "A Report and Analysis of the Marketing of Nebraska Certified Wheat Seed," MS, UN, '63, 87p, cm.

Deals with winter wheat south of the Platte; marketing procedures, price, and varieties considered; only one-third of the certified seed sold for that purpose.

A detailed study of the subject written from official records, newspaper reports, and personal interviews.

1613. Metcalf, Richard Warren, "An Analysis of the Investment Portfolio For Nebraska Fire and Casualty Insurance Companies from 1951 through 1957," MA, UN, '60, 175p, ac.

This indicates that government issues dominate the investment portfolio of all companies regardless of size, but less diversification by small companies than by large ones.

1614. Minick, John Brubaker, "Consumer Credit Insurance in Nebraska," PhD, USouthernCalif, '58.

1615. Roll, James Andrew, "Mortgage and Real Estate Investments of Nebraska's Domestic Life Insurance Companies, 1947-1956," MA, UN, '58, 199p, ac.

Indicates that the small companies held a proportionately larger number of mortgages while large companies specialized in bond investments.

1616. Ruden, Walter Louis, "Automobile Liability and Property Damage Insurance in Nebraska," MS, UN, '33, 83p, a.

Points out what the customer should look for in buying insurance and indicates some of the types of policies available.

1617. Starr, Gayle David, "The Federal Crop Insurance Program in Eastern Nebraska—Saunders County, a Case Study," MS, UN, '63, 88p, a.

Questionnaire and interview used. Only a small percentage of the farmers had taken advantage of the insurance and they were concerned about the large premiums in relation to the coverage provided.

13. IRRIGATION

1618. Anstey, Robert Lealand, "Settlement Patterns of the Pathfinder Irrigation District. A Study in Cultural Geography," MA, UN, '48, 162p, c.

A comparison of settlement in the irrigation district with that of nearby areas not irrigated. Settlement studied as to population density, size of farms, type of buildings, type of crops raised, etc.

1619. Bishop, William George, "Changes Wrought by Irrigation in the North Platte Valley," MA, UN, '09, 23p.

A general treatment of the development of irrigation in Cheyenne, Morrill, and Scotts Bluff counties.

1620. Brandhorst, Louis Carl, "An Analysis of Risks in Surface-Irrigated Agriculture: The Scotts Bluff and Morrill County Area of Nebraska," MA, UN, '65, 143p, ci.

This study indicates crop yields higher but production costs greater and other natural hazards not reduced; "relative data shows the stability of irrigated crop production to be more apparent than real."

1621. Carlson, Martin Euald, "The Development of Irrigation in Nebraska, 1854-1910: A descriptive Survey," PhD, UN, '63, 371p.

Deals with the movement more than individual projects. There were five stages—individualistic, corporate, district, state, and federal.

1622. Clute, Robert, "Pump Irrigation in Box Butte County, Nebraska," MA, UColo, '50, 148p, ci.

Deals with the various aspects including problems involved in this type of irrigation and the kinds of crops for which it is best suited.

1623. Dawson, John Addington, "The Demand for Irrigation Water in the Ainsworth Area of Nebraska," PhD, UChicago, '58.

1624. Douglas, Louis H., "The Development of Public Policies in Water use in the West, with Special Emphasis on the Missouri Basin," PhD, UN, '50, 377p, ac.

Traces growth in cooperation between state and national government. The tendency is toward total water utilization.

1625. Dow, Clarence Lorenzo, "The Upper North Platte Valley of Nebraska. A Geographical Interpretation," PhD, UN, '33, 421p, aci.

A detailed study of natural conditions and man-made changes. Indicates how man has adjusted to the natural environment in this region.

1626. Ellis, Frank Everett, "An Economic Analysis of Various Methods of Irrigating Sloping Land in Nebraska," MA, UN, '57, 69p, c.

A comparison of the various methods of irrigation used in sloping land with regard to cost of construction, problems of maintenance, loss of land, etc.

1627. Hamaker, Gene Edward, "Irrigation Pioneers: A History of the Tri-County Project to 1935," PhD, UN, '58, 949p, m.

Traces movement for irrigation in the area from 1913. Written primarily from public records.

1628. Hastings, Vaughn Stevens, "Water Rationing: The North Platte River," PhD, UChicago, '64.

1629. Jess, John M., "An Analysis of the Irrigation Use of the Ground-Water Resource in Seward County, Nebraska," MS, UN, '69, 54p, acp(part fold in pock).

Based on personal interviews and field investigations in 1968. Examined ground level before and after irrigation season; the amount of water used and the effects it had on corn and grain sorghum crops.

1630. Kolbo, Allen Dale, "The Farwell Unit: Preview of an Irrigation Development in Central Nebraska," MA, UN, '61, 69p, c.

An analysis of the anticipated benefits to be derived from this project.

1631. Nelson, Charles Edward, "Deep Well Irrigation in Hamilton County Nebraska: Resources, Development, Impact and Future," MS, OreSC, '61, 118p, ac.

Information secured from on-the-farm interviews. Points up need for wise use of both surface and ground water if supply to remain adequate.

1632. Parsons, Horace Fleet, "The Economic Limit of the Cost of Irrigation as Determined by the Experience of the Farmers' Irrigation District, Scottsbluff, Nebraska, and on Reclamation Projects Built in Nebraska by the United States Dept. of the Interior, Bureau of Reclamation," Professional Degree, UN, '30, 43p, m(fold)m(in pock).

This study was made by an individual who had been in charge of the Farmers' Irrigation District for ten years and is based upon records of the District.

1633. Scherer, Oliver Joseph, "A Study of the Relation of Precipitation to Ground Water Replenishment in Nebraska," MS, UN, '37, 32p, c(pock)m(pock).

Drouths of 1934 and 1936 did not greatly affect supply of ground water but did affect shallow wells.

1634. Vogel, Philip Eugene, "A Geographic Study of Some of the Effects of Irrigation in the Nebraska Bostwick Irrigation Project," PhD, UN, '60, 232p, ac.

Examines effects of irrigation upon population, farming, and general economic conditions.

1635. Weeth, Dorothy Wright, "A History of Irrigation in Scotts Bluff County, Nebraska," MA, ColoSCEd, '43, 75p, cm.

Treats irrigation in Scotts Bluff County as a typical irrigation project on the Great Plains.

1636. Wendell, Thurlan W., "A History of Irrigation in Western Nebraska," MA, UO, '59, 107p, cm.

Gives an over-all view of irrigation and reclamation in twenty-seven western Nebraska counties.

Court decisions used extensively.

14. LABOR

1638. Beebe, Russell Lowel, "History of Labor Organization and Legislation in Nebraska to 1918," MA, UN, '38, 130p, ac.

A general survey rather than a technical or legal analysis of the labor situation in the state.

1639. Callen, Ernest Glenn, "The Administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act of Nebraska," MA, UN, '21, 108p, c.

The act passed in 1913 was a good law but workmen needed to be informed of their rights; this was the main weakness.

1640. Callen, Ernest Glenn, "The Administration of Nebraska's Labor Laws," PhD, UN, '37, 80p, [printed].

Traces development of labor legislation in Nebraska.

1641. Cook, Neil Ronne, "Labor Productivity on Nebraska Farms," MS, UN, '61, 82p, cm.

Based on published reports by federal and state agencies for the years 1949, 1954, and 1959; indicates considerable variation between different sections of the state.

1642. Flies, Thelma M., "A comparative Study of the Female Clerical Labor Force Omaha, Nebraska 1931-1956," MA, UO, '58, 112p, ac.

More of the younger and older age groups employed by the 1950's than in previous years. Educational systems should take this into account and provide suitable training.

1643. Greenwood, Hans Peter, "Some Aspects of the Labor Market of Nebraska," MA, UN, '41, 98p, c.

Analyzes existing conditions and predicts future trends; compiled from official reports—national and state.

1644. Hughes, Gwendolyn, "The Trade Union Apprentice in Lincoln: His Relation to School and Industry," MA, UN, '17, 211p, ac.

An examination of the rules dealing with apprentices. The rules followed in Lincoln seem to be little different from those elsewhere; the trades draw from those who quit school early; the better educated want white collar jobs.

1645. Krueger, John F., "Unsolved Problems of Nebraska Labor Legislation," PhD, UN, '14, 156p, c.

Laws passed largely ignored and the state records in deplorable condition. Deals with various laws affecting labor such as convict and child labor.

1646. Parsons, Patricia Lou, "Organized Labor in Nebraska During World War II," MA, UN, '50, 79p, am.

Has a brief summary of the labor movement in Nebraska but deals mainly with the growth of labor organizations and resultant problems during the War.

1647. Peters, William C., "A Comparative Analysis of Selected Nebraska Labor Statistics Pertinent to Public and Private Employers and Employees," PhD, UN, '70, 175p, c.

1648. Torrence, William D., "A Case Study of Industrial Relations: The Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company and Communication Workers of America, Local 7470," PhD, UN, '62, 203p, ac.

Based on confidential files of both union and company, personal interviews, hearing reports, and company publications.

1649. Zoubek, James Edward, "An Analysis of the Unemployment Compensation Law in the State of Nebraska 1937-1948," MA, UN, '49, 113p, cm.

An examination of the law during the first nine years of operation indicates it worked satisfactorily; there was some change and liberalizing during the period.

15. LAND

1650. Caylor, John Arnett, "The Disposition of the Public Domain in Pierce County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '51, 72p, cm.

Plat books of the Regional Land Office of the United States General Land Office used. This indicates that most of the good land fell into the hands of speculators rather than actual settlers.

1651. Emmons, David M., "The Boomers Frontier: Land Promotion and the Settlement of the Central Plains, 1854-1893," PhD, UColo, '69.

1652. Evans, Evan Karl, "An Analytical Study of Land Transfers to Private Ownership in Johnson County, Nebraska," MA, UN, '50, 44p, acm.

Prepared from original entries in the tract books of the Regional Land Office.

1653. Farmer, Floyd Merle, "Land Boom of Southwest Nebraska, 1880-1890," MA, UN, '36, 99p, cm.

Takes up fraud perpetrated on unsuspecting settlers, the organization of towns, etc.

1654. Hinshaw, Hubert Henry, "The Legislative Policy of Nebraska Concerning the Use of Public Lands," MA, UN, '38, 131p.

Indicates state has been more interested in financial return from the public lands than in the best possible land-use.

1655. Horton, Agnes, "Federal Land Grants Relating to Higher Education in Nebraska: Their Acquisition and Disposition," EdD, UDenver, '56, 259p, ac.

Deals with land location, name of purchaser, amount, and various acts under which land was sold.

1656. Kenny, Norris Gage, "The Public Land Policies of the State of Nebraska," MA, UN, '29, 247p, acm.

Traces disposition of public land under various federal acts. While special emphasis on Nebraska, other states also considered. Deals with the leasing systems, also.

1657. Mortenson, Albert Harold, "Disposition of Lands Granted by the United States to Nebraska for a State University," MA, UN, '50, 47p, acm.

Traces the disposition of eighty-five per cent of the original university land grant. Survey maps of each county in which university land located is included.

1658. Sheldon, Addison Erwin, Land Systems and Land Policies in Nebraska. A History of Nebraska Land Public Domain and Private Property: Its Titles, Transfers, Ownership, Legislation, Administration, Prices, Values, Production, Uses, Social Changes, Comparisons. From the Aboriginal Period to 1936. Publications of the Nebraska State Historical Society, Vol. XXII. A revised and printed version of a PhD dissertation, ColumbiaU, '18.

1659. Snipes, Le Roy Francis, "Land Use Planning in Northwest Nebraska," MA, UN, '36, 81p, aci.

Deals with parts of Sioux, Dawes, and Sheridan counties. Some of this land poorly utilized; part of the land upon which grain is produced should be for grazing and the government should buy some of the land in the area and resettle the residents.

1660. Spencer, Morris Nelson, "The Union Pacific's Utilization of Its Land Grant with Emphasis on Its Colonization Program," PhD, UN, '50, 424p, acim.

A full discussion of the various devices used by the railroad to dispose of its land with emphasis upon the contribution made by this program to the settlement of Nebraska.

1661. Springer, William J., "Alienation of the Public Domain in Stanton County, Nebraska," EdMA, WayneSC, '66, 91p, acim(part fold in pock).

In Stanton County the Homestead and Timber Culture Acts did not provide the amount of free land generally assumed; eighty per cent was not free and had to be purchased. Used records of the U.S. General Land Office.

1662. Stone, James A., "Disposition of the Public Domain in Wayne County, Nebraska, 1868-1893," MA, UN, '52, 73p, ac.

An attempt to trace the transfer of all the land indicating method used and holdings of individual residents. Most of this land was acquired in large tracts rather than under the Homestead or Timber Culture Acts.

16. LANGUAGE & LITERATURE

1663. Adams, Hazel Marie, "The Origins of Willa Cather's Novels," MA, UTex, '36, 139p.

1664. Adams, Robert Monroe, "A Study of the Sensitive Characters in Five Novels by Willa Cather," MA, AuburnU, '61, 107p.

Miss Cather tended to romanticize the pioneer period. This study traces the lives of her sensitive characters in O Pioneers!, My Antonia, The Song of the Lark, A Lost Lady, and One of Ours in their struggle with what is usually termed progress.

1665. Adams, Theodore S., "Six Novels of Willa Cather: A Thematic Study," PhD, OhioSU, '61.

1666. Albert, Evelyn Kristjana, "The 'Last Frontier' as portrayed in American Fiction from 1890 to 1930," MA, DePaulU, '43, 146p.

This deals with authors from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Utah, Idaho, and Wyoming; one chapter devoted to Willa Cather and Bess Streeter Aldrich.

1667. Allen, Ann Munkres, "A Study of the Influence Exerted by the 1920's on the works of Willa Cather, Zona Gale, and Edna St. Vincent Millay," MA, PacificU, '67, 62p.

An examination of contemporary literary criticism, how each author adjusted to her times, and the relevance of their works to the 1960's. All three had much in common—middle class background, style, and subject matter; Cather withdrew from the world about her, Gale offered a solution to the problem, while Millay embraced it.

1668. Aly, Lucile Folsie, "John G. Neihardt as Speaker and Reader," PhD, UMo, '59.

1669. Amberg, John Bernard, "Forethoughts and Eventualities: A Study of Willa Cather's Literary Code," MA, LoyolaU, '39, 128p, a.

A study of the author's literary principles and how she related them to her novels.

1670. Andersen, Gladys Marie, "Willa Cather's Characters," MA, UN, '55, 129p.

Deals with characters and characterizations found in six of her novels and six of her short stories.

1671. Anderson, Eva Greenslit, "Background of Willa Cather's Novels," MA, UWash, '26, 60p.

1672. Ankenbrand, Hazel Hall, "Willa Cather, Interpreter of the American Scene," EdM, TempleU, '36, 125p.

Miss Cather pictured American life as seen through the everyday life of her characters who were in reality the polyglot people with whom she had come in contact in real life. While her treatment was sympathetic, she included the harsh realities also.

1673. Archer, Jack Henry, "Willa Cather and Two Cultures," MA, UTex, '66, 57p.

In her early works Miss Cather dealt with the culture of the American and the immigrant on the prairie frontier; in her later works she examined Catholic culture.

1674. Arnold, Marilyn, "Self-Division and Self-Unity in the Novels of Willa Cather," PhD, UWis, '68.

1675. Austin, Sr. Mary, "The Function of Music in Selected Short Stories of Willa Cather," MA, BostonC, '60, 67p.

A Study of four short stories and two novels—Song of the Lark and Lucy Gayheart.

A comprehensive treatment utilizing collections of unpublished correspondence.

1677. Baker, Evelyn, "Willa Cather's Use of Her Early Fiction in Her Later Novels," MA, DukeU, '50, 88p.

A brief survey of Cather's short stories and a comparison of themes found in these with the themes that appeared later in her novels.

1678. Ballard, Doris, "Identification of Actual Characters and Settings in the Nebraska Novels of Willa Cather," MA, USouthern Calif, '38, 83p, cim.

An examination of the settings and characters depicted by the author indicates a very close similarity to persons and places with which she was acquainted in Webster County, Nebraska.

1679. Barber, Veva Alberta, "Nebraska in the Fiction of Willa Cather," MA, DukeU, '40, 125p.

Stresses use of locality by Cather in her novels.

1680. Barnes, Marian, "An Evaluation of the Novels of Mari Sandoz," MA, SDSU, '68, 61p.

The author's novels are evaluated on the basis of plot, character, theme, and unity. Only Miss Morissa meets all the criterion of a successful novel.

1681. Barrett, Albert E., Jr., "The Three Literary Phases in the Works of Willa Cather: Idealism, Disillusionment and Return as Exemplified in Three of Her Novels," MA, NiagaraU, '63, 84p.

My Antonia, A Lost Lady, and Death Comes for the Archbishop are studied in relation to the three phases, each typifying one of these.

1682. Bash, James Richard, "Willa Cather: A Study in Primitivism," PhD, UIll, '54.

1683. Beachel, Esther Kathryn, "The Influence of the Heath in Hardy's Novels and of the Prairie in Cather's Novels: A Comparison," MS, KanSCA&ApSci, '38, 73p.

The influence of the prairie was very significant in Cather's novels.

1684. Becker, Gloria Francine, "Willa Cather: A Melancholy View of Man's Fate," MA, BrownU, '60, 60p.

Emphasizes author's awareness of the tragedy which is so much a part of life.

1685. Bendoski, Lawrence, "The Theme of Cultural Values in the Novels of Willa Cather," MA, FresnoSC, '60, 99p.

This study involving seven of Cather's novels seeks to delineate and classify minor themes that "illuminate" the major theme.

1686. Boles, Sr. Mary Sebastian, "The Gradual Change in the Writings of Willa Cather," MA, VillanovaU, '35, 49p.

Miss Cather's writings became fuller and more rounded as time went by.

1687. Borrello, Alfred, "The Development of Death Comes For the Archbishop," MA, NYU, '56, 69p, a.

Explains this novel in terms of the author's experience and background.

1688. Boyle, Patricia, "An Analysis of Willa Cather's Unpublished Short Stories," MA, UToronto, '57, 162p.

The writer has examined all but four of Cather's unpublished short stories and concludes that none contain much of literary value. The stories do, however, reflect evidences of experimentation and artistic growth.

1689. Bradley, Eleanor M., "The Analysis of Character in Willa Cather's Novels," MA, BostonU, '41, 116p.

Divides characters into five categories—adventurers, artists, sophisticates, juveniles, and the religious.

1690. Brown, Ann Elizabeth, "A Comparison-Contrast Study of the Land as Force in Willa Cather's O Pioneers! and Ellen Glasgow's Barren Ground," MA, BowlingGreenSU, '63, 49p.

Emphasizes similarity not only of the novels but of the writers themselves—including background, time in their career when the two novels were written, love of the land, etc.

1691. Bulpitt, Mildred Bernice, "Willa Cather's Use of Mid-Western Frontier Materials," MA, SCWash, '50, 68p.

Author was not a local colorist but used Mid-western materials for background.

1692. Burns, Sr. Mary Jean, "An Analysis of Life Values in the Novels of Willa Cather," MA, VillanovaC, '45, 64p.

Miss Cather does not present a case study in sociology; she is not interested in the class struggle; she is not an economic determinist; she is interested in the individual, the average man.

1693. Burrow, Evelyn, "Willa Cather's Use of Sources in Death Comes for the Archbishop," MA, UTex, '40.

1694. Calhoun, Ruth H., "Willa Cather and a Technologically Oriented, Urbanized America: Encounter and Retreat," MA, Tex A&MU, '68, 142p.

Points out that Cather rejected the mechanization and materialism of her day and turned to the past as a means of escape.

1695. Carroll, Sr. Mary Mauricita, "Willa Cather: A Critical Study of The Professor's House," MA, UNotreDame, '57.

1696. Carson, Cynthia, "Willa Cather's Short Stories," MA, CornellU, '55, 30p.

1767. Hueter, Betty, "Gaudy Extravaganza: Willa Cather's Western Trilogy," MA, BostonU, '49, 109p.

An attempt to evaluate the true worth of Cather's novels; special emphasis placed upon O Pioneers!, The Song of the Lark, and My Antonia.

1768. Hughes, Eugene E., "The Pioneer and the Artist: Two Approaches to Creativity in the Fiction of Willa Cather," MA, UOkla, '60, 97p.

Miss Cather concerned mainly with the creative individual—one in conflict with his environment. This characteristic embodied in the pioneer and the artist.

1769. Hughes, Sr. M. Mildred, "Artistry and Development in Willa Cather's Characterization of Women," [MA], UDetroit, '33.

1770. Hursey, Roberta Lee, "Willa Cather's European Immigrants: The Conflict of Old and New World Values," MA, Tex A&MU, '66, 133p.

An examination of Cather's immigrant characters indicated that she provided an accurate portrayal with minor exceptions.

1771. Infanger, Harold, "The Crippling Thralldom of Nostalgia in Two Nebraska Novels by Wright Morris," EdMS, Chadron SC, '69, 62p.

Examines way in which author came to terms with the past in The Home Place and The World in the Attic.

1772. Ingels, Katie Jane, "John G. Neihardt's Fidelity to History in A Cycle of the West," MA, UColo, '61, 87p.

This study indicates that the material in the author's five Songs is historically accurate; where historical accounts differed, Neihardt used the one that best suited his purpose.

1773. Iverson, Marguerite, "Willa Cather's Interest in the Southwest," MA, TexWesternCUTex, '49, 86p.

The West and the Southwest provided author with a heritage not present in her own Midwest.

1774. Jackson, Imogene, "Idealism Versus Materialism as Exemplified by Willa Cather's Masculine Characters," MA, UMiss, '51, 94p.

Throughout her works Cather rejects materialism and displays her sympathy for idealism; her masculine characters have ideals—some are pitted against a hostile environment, others against inner conflicts, but all come out stronger by having tried.

1775. Jamison, Ruth, "The Literary Principles of Willa Cather," MA, UOkla, '49, 127p, a.

Miss Cather did not use character and story to support some sociological or psychological thesis; her literary principle was "to represent life."

1801. McCausland, Irma, "The Influence of the Western Country and Town on the Philosophies of the Major Characters in the Novels and Stories of Willa Cather," MA, WhittierC, '51, 76p.

The characters in the author's novels reflect the optimism of the country and the pessimism of the town.

1802. McGinnes, Jeannette Hatter, "Treatment of Religion in the Novels of Willa Cather," MA, BaylorU, '65, 123p.

1803. McGrath, Sr. Mary Janetta, "A Critical Interpretation of the Catholic Material in Three of Willa Cather's Novels," MA, DePaulU, '42, 139p.

Based upon My Antonia, Death Comes for the Archbishop, and Shadows on the Rock; contains extensive bibliography; author demonstrates a wide and sympathetic understanding of the Catholic religion and its people.

1804. McKechnie, Marion Anne, "Willa Cather's Theories of Art: In Theory and Practice," MA, UToronto, '52, 107p.

Examines the ideas of Cather regarding literature and then applies these criteria to her works using six representative novels; this study indicates she did not always meet the standards she had set.

1805. McKenna, John F., "Willa Cather: Perspectives in Art," MA, DuquesneU, '65, 77p.

A synthesis of Cather's artistic and aesthetic principles as reflected in her works and how these principles affected the artistry of the author herself.

1806. McMahan, Sr. Mary Hildegard, "Willa Cather's Idealized Frontier Women and Culture Decline," MA, UPortland, '55, 74p.

Based upon The Song of the Lark, My Antonia, A Lost Lady, and The Professor's House. Cather used the highest achievements of men of the past as a measure of her ideals; she deplored the shoddy commercialism that replaced the frontier virtues.

1807. McQuarie, Eugenia, "The Sense of Form in the Novels of Willa Cather," MA, OklaA&MC, '47, 29p.

An examination of four novels—Alexander's Bridge, Death Comes for the Archbishop, My Antonia, and The Professor's House. An attempt to show that the author's critics were unfair.

1808. Maguire, John Thomas, "Place-Spirit in the Works of Willa Sibert Cather," MA, UIdaho, '48, 66p.

Deals with the relationship of man to his natural environment and the effect of environment upon man in his search for identity.

1809. Mahaney, Jeanne Rollins, "Obscure Destiny in the Novels of Willa Cather," MA, SouthernMethodistU, '51, 85p.

"The theme running through her novels is the concentrated interest in the destiny of obscure people." She rarely makes direct reference to contemporary civilization but her dislike for progress is obvious.

1810. Marsh, Marion Elizabeth, "A Critical Study of Willa Cather's Novels," MA, UN, '31, 190p.

An examination of the characteristics of Miss Cather's novels based upon an examination of One of Ours, My Antonia, The Song of the Lark, and Death Comes for the Archbishop.

1811. Marsh, Marilyn Miller, "Willa Cather and Eugene O'Neill: A Bond of Tragedy," MA, UO, '65, 191p.

While these writers were opposites in many ways there was a similarity in their writings.

1812. Martin, Joan Foley, "Qualities in Willa Cather's Admirable Characters," MA, SouthernIllU, '60, 177p.

Certain basic qualities reappear in one character after another; these are the qualities which the author admires—"human fidelity, intellectual passion, humane nature, determination, and vitality."

NEBRASKA HISTORY IN GRADUATE THESES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA-OMAHA

Compiled by RAYMOND WILSON

The following is a selective bibliography of theses concerning Nebraska history written at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (formerly the Municipal University of Omaha, 1931-1968; the University of Omaha, 1908-1931). Titles are followed by the date granted and a brief annotation:

NEGROES

Kerns, James Harvey, "Industrial and Business Life of Negroes in Omaha" (1932)

A sociological study containing valuable figures concerning the number of blacks in certain occupations. The census of 1930 revealed that 11,123 blacks resided in Omaha. The author presents an early history of blacks in Omaha and discusses such topics as wages, opportunities, conditions, and black establishments in Omaha. He concluded that the conditions of work and opportunities help shape black's health, educational, housing, and crime conditions.

Knapple, Francis Y., "The Negro High School Student—A Study of the Negro Student in Omaha Central High School, 1935-1941" (1942)

The author employed questionnaires, interviews, and school records in a study of black's curricular and extracurricular activities. Some of the conclusions arrived at were that blacks were involved in fewer activities; had a low attendance rate; and received lower grades than the white students.

Taylor, Marion M., "A Survey of Employer Attitudes Toward the Employment of Qualified Negroes in White Collar Positions in Omaha" (1954)

A study of Omaha business firms and employment agencies and their hiring practices concerning blacks for employment other than menial. The author believed that although blacks in white collar positions were strongly discriminated against and received lower wages, the situation was gradually improving.

MEDICAL

Johnson, Jacqueline, "A History of Health and Safety Conditions in the Omaha Public Schools from 1872 to 1908" (1968)

An interesting study which considers such problems of health and safety as heating, ventilation, contagious diseases, and fire prevention in the Omaha Public Schools. Credit was given to the progressive school boards and to the city health department for solving some of these health and safety problems.

Pawloski, Jeanne Lunger, "History of the Nebraska State Nurses Association" (1955)

A history of the nursing profession in Nebraska. The Nebraska State Nurses Association governs the licensing and registration of Nebraska nurses for qualification. A bibliography is included.

Seeley, Mary, "The History of the Omaha-Douglas County Medical Society" (1969)

The author presents a detailed history of the Omaha-Douglas County Medical Society from 1890 to 1962. Information concerning the Medical Society's members and their contributions to welfare and health services. Such contributions included the securing of sanitary codes—groceries and milk, establishing blood donor centers, and having immunization programs. Early physician organizations in Nebraska are also discussed.

Woods, Darrell Milton, "A History of the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association" (1955)

Considers good health promotion essential for the control of tuberculosis. The historical background of the eradication movement of tuberculosis, not only in Nebraska but in the entire United States, is presented. The association was organized in 1907.

NEBRASKA COMMUNITIES

Kearns, Edward F., "History of Papillion, Nebraska" (1962)

This work concerns the early history, cultural aspects, and the community development of Papillion. The railroad was responsible for the town's boom. National topics are also presented in relation to Papillion's growth.

Miles, Marian G., "The Founding of Florence, Nebraska, 1854-1860" (1970)

A study of the founding (twice) of Florence, Nebraska. Originally called Winter Quarters and founded by the Mormons in 1846, it was abandoned in 1848. Florence was founded again in 1854. Such areas as the industry, religion, and early leaders are discussed.

Mutz, Dorothy Ruth, "Benson, a Residential Suburban Community" (1935)

An investigation of sociological patterns in Benson. Includes the history of Benson and relevant material about political, religious, educational, and economical developments.

Schauer, Norma Launt, "A History of Oakdale, Nebraska" (1962)

Concerns the Northeastern Nebraska community of Oakdale located in Antelope County. This agricultural community was incorporated in 1881. Its struggles of early settlement, achievements, and growth are presented. The railroad dominated Oakdale's development. Illustrations and bibliography.

Schnier, Donald, "A History of Bancroft, Nebraska" (1967)

The home of John G. Neihardt is studied in detail in this work. All facets of the development of Bancroft are discussed. An extensive study with helpful illustrations and a bibliography.

Simmons, Jerold L., "The New Deal in Dawson County, Nebraska" (1967)

The New Deal impact on Dawson County farmers and their revulsion towards Roosevelt by 1940. Contains an early history of the County. Valuable for New Deal and Roosevelt impact in Nebraska.

Thorndike, David M., "A Geography of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed" (1968)

A geographical study of flood control projects and their impact on the land use practices, economy of the region, and the population. Concerns the Southwestern Lancaster County area. Useful tables and figures.

Wendell, Thurlan W., "A History of Irrigation in Western Nebraska" (1959)

Several federally supported irrigation projects of twenty-seven western counties in Nebraska are discussed. Contains maps, charts, and very good bibliography.

Williams, Aileen Lowson, "A History of Syracuse, Nebraska" (1958)

A well-written account of a small agricultural community in Southeastern Nebraska. Helpful maps and a very good bibliography.

Wurdeman, Frieda M., "A History of Blair, Nebraska, 1869-1920" (1964)

The author presents a well-rounded account of the founding, growth, activities, and problems of Blair, located in Eastern Nebraska. Many helpful appendices and illustrations.

NEBRASKA PRESS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC ISSUES

- Dalstrom, Harl Adams, "The Midwestern Press and American Neutrality: A Study of the Editorial Attitudes of Three Omaha Newspapers Toward the European War, 1914-1917" (1959)

The Omaha World-Herald, the Omaha Bee, and the Omaha Daily News are the newspapers used in this study. A brief history of each paper is included. Traces editorial reactions from the assassination of Sarajevo on June 29, 1914 to the United States declaration of war on April 7, 1917. Some of the conclusions drawn by the author are that Midwesterners were aware of European events; they generally espoused neutrality for the United States until declaration of war; and the Midwest was not the den of staunch isolationism.

- Eaton, Phebe Anderson, "Editorially Speaking: The Omaha World-Herald on International Issues, September 1, 1939, to December 7, 1941" (1959)

Opinions of the editorial staff of the World-Herald concerning Japanese, German, and our future allies' activities preceding Pearl Harbor. A study showing the change from isolationism to internationalism.

- Geffert, Beverly K., "Omaha Press Reaction to the Versailles Verdict: A Study Using Three Omaha Newspapers January, 1919-March, 1920" (1966)

A very interesting study. The author concluded that the Daily Bee represented the Republican view—the treaty did not protect American security and freedom. The World-Herald represented the Democratic view and defended the treaty. The Daily News, which was politically independent, generally favored the treaty and wanted a national referendum held.

- Jacob, Roger J., "A Study of the Editorial Attitude of the Omaha World-Herald Toward the Cuban Crisis, 1895-1898" (1967)

An exploration of the conditions in Cuba reported by the Herald prior to the American declaration of war in April, 1898. Although the Herald was sympathetic towards the Cubans, Gilbert Hitchcock, the editor, was not as chauvinistic in his editorials as were Hearst and Pulitzer in articles which appeared in the New York Journal and the New York World.

- Jones, Ira O., "A Study of the Editorial Policy of the Omaha Bee-News and the Omaha World-Herald with Regard to Social Problems" (1937)

Social problems such as sickness, bad housing, unemployment, and vice are considered. The study is limited to 1936. The author believed the editors were aware of these social problems but provided few answers or solutions in their editorials.

- Nelson, Arvid E., Jr., "The Formation and Early History of the

Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben as Shown by Omaha Newspapers
(1962)

The founding and early history of this civic organization. The Ancient Order of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben was established in 1895 to provide entertainment for Nebraskans. Idea that it brings people together and promotes trade in the city. People tend to forget about their troubles and problems for awhile and enjoy themselves at these programs.

Ohrvall, Charles W., "The Domestic Program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Administration as Viewed in the Editorials of the Lincoln (Nebraska) Star" (1966)

The biased writings of James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star. He explained and defended the New Deal programs which directly affected Nebraska. The Lincoln Star was the staunchest supporter of the New Deal in Nebraska.

Schmidt, William F., "Municipal Reform in Omaha from 1906 To 1914 as Seen Through the Eyes of the Omaha Press" (1963)

Considers such progressive topics as public ownership of water works; home rule; commission form of government; and city ownership of gas plant. The Omaha press, in most instances, supported these municipal reforms.

Zajicek, Leonard J., "American Partiality in World War One During 1914-1917 as Reflected Through a Critical Study of Editorial Cartoons Appearing in Selected American, British and German Publications" (1968)

Many of the cartoons are from Nebraska newspapers. These cartoons reflected the opinions of the editors. The author concluded that American cartoonists declared war on Germany after the sinking of the Lusitania. The dominating cartoon was the submarine cartoon. Extensive bibliography and excellent reproductions of cartoons.

POLITICAL, ECONOMICAL, SOCIAL

Barbe, Lucille, "A History of the Boyd Opera House in Omaha, Nebraska (1881-1889)" (1963)

A highly interesting work. Such topics as the types of entertainment, uses of the theater, and reactions to the performers and activities are presented. The Omaha Daily Bee was generally more favorable towards the opera house than the other newspapers. A fire destroyed the opera house on October 2, 1889. An extensive appendices is provided. Valuable for researchers studying cultural aspects of development.

Bitzes, John G., "The Anti-Greek Riot of 1909—South Omaha" (1964)

In 1909 an estimated two to three thousand Greeks lived in South Omaha. By 1910 the census revealed that only 486 remained. The Greeks were blamed for the death of an Omaha policeman on February 20, 1909. On February 21 mobs swarmed into the Greek sector and caused havoc amounting to $161,498.50 in damage claims. The author concluded that besides showing anti-foreign sentiments, this riot spurred other demonstrations.

Burnett, Evelyn Clark, "The Cheese Industry in Nebraska" (1970)

Considers the importance of cheese and its impact on the dairying industry in Nebraska. Contains useful tables, figures, and appendices.

Campen, Lillian Henderson, "The Early History of the University of Omaha" (1951)

The development of the University of Omaha from 1908 to 1931. High praise given to Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins, the prime individual responsible for its development. Considers student activities, early faculty and curriculum, and financial problems.

Carson, Nan Viergutz, "Thomas Barnes Cuming, Jr., and the Location of Nebraska's Territorial Capitol" (1961)

Cuming, born in 1827, held such offices as territorial secretary and territorial governor. A study exploring his efforts in locating Omaha as the territorial capitol. Contains information on territorial legislature. Cuming died in 1858. Provides a good bibliography.

Christie, Robert H., "A History of the Telephone in the Midwest" (1954)

A study of the development of telephone companies, practices, equipment, and procedures in the Midwest. An early history of Northwestern Bell is included. Telephones appeared in the Great Plains area in the 1870's and 1880's but were impractical.

Dice, Harry Edward, "The History of the Omaha Fire Department, 1860-1960" (1965)

Traces Omaha fire departments from early volunteers to modern day. Contains information concerning equipment, hazards faced by firemen, and financial matters. Several major fires in Omaha's history are included. Good illustrations, appendices, and bibliography.

Fisher, Joe A., "The Liquor Question in Nebraska, 1880-1890" (1952)

Presents the bitter warfare between the businessmen involved in the liquor industry and the prohibitionists. Pro and con arguments of each side presented. Good coverage by newspapers included. Nebraskans voted to keep "wet" in 1890 by over 50,000 votes.

Flies, Thelma M., "A Comparative Study of the Female Clerical Labor Force Omaha, Nebraska 1931-1956" (1958)

Interesting information on occupational patterns and changes concerning women's clerical labor force in Omaha. Some conclusions were that there was an increase of women employed, an increase of married women employed, and several shifts in occupations. Useful charts and tables provided.

Freeland, John Harrison, "The History of Professional Baseball in Omaha" (1964)

A study of Omaha franchises and teams from 1879 to 1962. An Omaha team won its first pennant in organized baseball in 1889. Teams constantly plagued by financial problems.

Gammon, Loren A., "The National Election of 1924 and Nebraska" (1948)

An extensive work concerning the national problems and the election in Nebraska. An analysis is presented on the election results. Contains good maps and charts.

Hartman, Cecil L., "The National Election of 1912 in Nebraska" (1940)

Considers primaries, national conventions, campaigns, and election results. The Nebraska Republicans were more divided than the Nebraska Democrats. This was the first time that popular chosen delegates went to the national conventions. Previously, state conventions, dominated by local bosses, selected the candidates. A helpful appendix is provided.

Jahnke, Shirley A., "Some Aspects of the Bread Industry in Omaha (1972)

Investigates the input/output aspects of the bread industry in Nebraska. The author stresses the importance of bread to mankind. Valuable maps, charts, and appendices are included.

Kalisch, Philip Arthur, "The Early History of the Omaha Public Library" (1964)

The author presents the development of libraries in Nebraska. The first library was established in 1856-1857. The need for free reading material for people is stressed. Contains impressive appendices and bibliography.

Lubman, Hyman, "A History of the Nebraska Winnebago Indians with Special Emphasis on Education" (1962)

Explores the history of the tribe. This work does not include the effects of education on Winnebago Indians in Wisconsin. The author cited the need for more trade school training. Helpful tables and figures provided.

Muir, Harold T., "The Formation and Adoption of the 1956 Omaha Home Rule Charter 1954-1956" (1969)

A detailed study examining step by step the delegates, public hearings, drafts, and attitudes for and against adoption. Early Omaha charters are discussed. Contains an extensive bibliography.

Pennock, Martin H., "The Formation of the Omaha Public Power District" (1971)

A well-written account tracing the development of electric power plants in Omaha. Considers judicial problems and public opinion in relation to the take over of the Nebraska Power Company by the Omaha Public Power District on December 2, 1946.

Price, David, "The Public Life of Elmer S. Dundy 1857-1896" (1971)

Major focus on railroad and Indian problems. Dundy, a partisan judge, held steadfast beliefs and was a controversial figure. A useful appendix and an extensive bibliography provided.

Sharp, Walter Charles, "Fort Omaha and the Winning of the West" (1967)

The author discusses the reasons why Fort Omaha was established in 1868; the buildings and facilities on the post; and interesting information of the troopers. Very good illustrations and an extensive bibliography included.

Spittgerber, Fredric L., "The Independent Candidacy of George Norris in the 1936 Nebraska Senatorial Contest" (1963)

A detailed study of the activities of Robert Simmons, Terry Carpenter, and George Norris in their quest for the office of senator. Background on Nebraska politics and economics during 1930 to 1935 is provided.

Thavenet, Dennis, "A History of Omaha Public Transportation" (1960)

The development of horse, cable, trolley, and bus transportation is treated in this work. The author considers such areas as the impact of transportation on the region, the competition of lines, and early leaders. Contains a good bibliography.

Valdrighi, Carol A., "Agricultural Credit in Nebraska During the Depression of 1920-1923" (1969)

The credit needs of the farmer and the responses by commercial and governmental agencies are presented. The author believed that agricultural credit legislation of the 1920's was not great, but it was a beginning. Contains helpful tables and illustrations plus an extensive bibliography.

Walker, Samuel Emlen, "Populism and Industrialism: The Ideology of the Official Organ of the Nebraska Populist Movement" (1970)

The populist response to industrialism as reflected in the Alliance, official organ of the Populist Movement. The author acknowledges the bias slant of this newspaper. He also provides an extensive survey of the literature concerning populism and industrialism.

White, Charles Evans, "Social Legislation in Nebraska" (1931)

A study of social legislation from territorial days to 1927. The author treats such areas as public welfare, child welfare, public safety, and pensioners. He believed that the development of social legislation in Nebraska kept pace with the national progress of social legislation.

Wilson, Raymond, "The Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, 1900-1920" (1972)

A history of the state board from 1858 to 1920 with emphasis on the 1900 to 1920 period. A study based largely on the board's minutes and farm newspapers. Contains information on state fairs and the development of agriculture in Nebraska.

Zika, Irene S., "Some Aspects of Territorial and State Legislative Control of the Municipal Government of Omaha (1857-1875)" (1946)

Explores the control of the city of Omaha by territorial and state Legislatures. The most "pernicious" legislation governing Omaha was passed between 1866-1871. In general, however, the author believed that the city charters enabled local city officials to exert significant authority.

RELIGION

Gendler, Carol, "The Jews of Omaha: The First Sixty Years" (1968)

Besides offering a general history of the American Jew, this study focuses on the Jews of Omaha from 1855 to 1915. Their customs, practices, business establishments, and church activities are presented.

Heck, Mary E., "Eighty Years of Service: A History of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Omaha, Nebraska 1891-1971" (1972)

An extensive study based on the minutes of this seminary which trained ministers for the Midwest. The author discussed such topics as the seminary's curriculum, faculty, and financial problems.

Kuhlman, Paul, "A Brief History of the Mennonites in Nebraska" (1953)

This work contains the early history of the Mennonites in Europe and in the United States. Mennonites from Russia, Prussia, and the eastern United States migrated to Nebraska. Such topics as their ways of living, beliefs, and church government are presented.

Robbins, James M., "A History of the Episcopal Church in Omaha from 1856 to 1964" (1965)

A comprehensive study of the Episcopal Church in Omaha based on the minutes of vestry meetings. An early history of the Episcopal Church in the United States is included. The first Omaha congregation was established in 1856. Contains appendices and bibliography.

WILLA CATHER

Daly, Daniel J., "The Cycle of the Seasons in Selected Works of Willa Cather" (1969)

Explores the significance of seasonal imagery in Willa Cather's works. Some of the works studied are O Pioneers, My Antonia, and "Autumn Melody." Summer, for example, suggests life, vibrancy, and a youth growing up.

Marsh, Marilyn Miller, "Willa Cather and Eugene O'Neill: A Bond of Tragedy" (1965)

The author contended that the works of Cather and O'Neill, although on the surface poles apart, are in actuality very similar in their content. Both were sympathetic with their characters. One embraced traditionalism; the other modernism.

Ward, Michael Harold, "The Growth and Decline of the Pioneer Spirit in the Nebraska Novels of Willa Cather" (1968)

The theme that mechanization and modernization caused the pioneer to lose his spirit and beliefs. Her four "Nebraska novels" O Pioneers, My Antonia, One of Ours, and A Lost Lady are employed for this study. Contains background material on Willa Cather.

NEBRASKA HISTORY IN GRADUATE THESES

Compiled by BETTY LOUDON, Editorial Assistant

Thesis and dissertation topics relating to Nebraska or Great Plains history and politics are listed periodically in Nebraska History. Previous listings appeared in the 1971 Winter Issue and the 1973 Spring Issue. The bibliography is a continuing project of the Nebraska State Historical Society and is designed to make researchers aware of available unpublished sources. Twenty-six universities and colleges in the Midwest were contacted.
