

10-13-1962

Soldiers and Co-eds Do The Twist The Hard Way in Oxford, On Gravel

Memphis Press-Scimitar

Follow this and additional works at: https://egrove.olemiss.edu/citizens_clip

Part of the United States History Commons

Recommended Citation

Memphis Press-Scimitar, "Soldiers and Co-eds Do The Twist The Hard Way in Oxford, On Gravel" (1962). Clippings. 31.
https://egrove.olemiss.edu/citizens_clip/31

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Citizens' Council Collection at eGrove. It has been accepted for inclusion in Clippings by an authorized administrator of eGrove. For more information, please contact egrove@olemiss.edu.

Soldiers and Co-eds Do The Twist The Hard Way in Oxford—On Gravel

By CLARK PORTEOUS, Press-Scimitar Staff Writer

OXFORD.—Sidelights on the Ole Miss desegregation story:

Steve and Angelo's is a restaurant near the airport. It has been feeding 600 to 700 soldiers a day, many from the airport and nearby, who tired of C rations and spend their own money to get a good meal. The restaurant has been closing early, sold out and the personnel worn out from the big business.

Last night, about 8, the restaurant was closed, tho some diners were inside finishing their meals. A group of young soldiers made friends with some co-eds and began doing the Twist—on the gravel drive-in parking space of the restaurant.

* * *

A group of Air Force ROTC students volunteered to clean up Circle Park and other areas where street light globes were broken in the rioting. The streets and big debris had been removed, but the students did the final policing of the grounds yesterday because they wanted to.

* * *

Fiore is a tall blond Italian from Turin. He has been in the United States four years as correspondent for The Tempo Rome, a paper with a circulation of about 250,000. Now in Oxford, covering the Meredith story, he decided to see the great Mississippi River. So he called a taxicab, drove from Oxford to the new bridge crossing to Helena, Ark.

"Cost 40 bucks," he said.

* * *

The "Freedom Train" (or perhaps "free train") that Gov. Ross Barnett had planned to run over the old IC main line, now a freight line, to Jackson for the Ole Miss student body tomorrow has now become a fleet of buses. The Governor still intends to pick up the transportation tab for getting the students to the transferred homecoming game between Houston and Ole Miss, at Memorial Stadium in Jackson.

* * *

Ole Miss has a faculty of 280, with about 200 of them eligible for membership in the University of Mississippi Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Thirty-eight members of the chapter have signed a resolution protesting attempts to blame the U. S. marshals for the rioting on the campus Saturday night.

Nine faculty members who are not members of the AAUP also signed. The resolution said obvious errors in judgment were made by those in authority on the campus but that marshals were not totally to blame. "We have evidence that the attempt of men in prominent positions to place all the blame for the riot on the U. S. marshals is not only unfair and reprehensible but is almost completely false," the resolution said. "We encourage an investigation by the proper authorities. Some news media in Mississippi have entertained irresponsible and second-hand stories in distortion of the facts and have thereby helped provoke a general state of confusion, alarm and misdirected wrath . . ."

Chapter members who had signed by yesterday afternoon:

- BARTON MILLIGAN, associate professor of chemistry, chapter president.
- RUSSELL H. BARRETT, professor of political science, chapter secretary.
- RICHARD S. STEWART, assistant professor of ancient history.
- JAMES W. SILVER, professor of history.
- SAMUEL F. CLARK, professor of chemistry and chairman of department of chemistry.
- WILLIAM H. WILLIS, chairman, department of classics.
- EVANS HARRINGTON, assistant professor of English.
- TOM J. TRUSS JR., associate professor of English, chapter vice president.
- CARL ALTEE, associate professor of music.
- WILLIAM E. STRICKLAND, chairman, department of modern languages.
- THEODORE I. BIEBER, professor of chemistry.
- WILLIAM C. HERNDON, assistant professor of chemistry.
- DWIGHT VAN DE VATE JR., associate professor of philosophy.
- LUCY C. BURNBULL, assistant professor of classical archeology.
- RUSSELL W. MAATMAN, associate professor of chemistry.
- KARL MORRISON, professor of economics and marketing.
- ROBERT L. RANDS, professor of anthropology.
- HARLEY F. GARRETT, professor of education.
- J. H. BRUENING, assistant professor of sociology.

L. E. NOBEL JR., associate professor of political science.

P. A. D. DEMAINE, professor of chemistry.

WILLIAM J. WALLACE, assistant professor of chemistry.

GEORGE VAUGHAN, professor of chemistry.

EDWARD H. HOBBS, chairman, department of research in business and government and professor of political science.

DONALD S. VAUGHAN, acting associate professor of political science and assistant director of bureau of governmental research.

PAUL G. HAHN, associate professor of anthropology.

RICHARD W. JOSLIN, assistant professor of art.

GEORGE R. KARCIU, assistant professor of art.

PARKS GRANT, professor of music.

HAL L. BALLEW, associate professor of modern languages.

JULIEN R. TATUM, professor of sociology and anthropology.

JOHN KOZY JR., assistant professor of philosophy.

JAMES E. SAVAGE, professor of English.

HECTOR CURRIE, professor of law.

C. N. FORTENBERRY, professor of political science.

DONALD G. RHODES, instructor of political science.

R. J. FARLEY, professor of law.

EVELYN LEE WAY, professor of Latin.

Non-member signers:

MRS. MILDRED S. TOPP, assistant professor of English.

MRS. MILDRED M. HARRISON, acting assistant professor of psychology.

ROSCOE CROSS, professor of law.

TOM W. STALLWORTH, professor of civil engineering.

BENJAMIN I. HARRISON, professor of modern languages.

ROBERT K. RUSHING, assistant dean and associate professor of law.

JOHN B. WOLFE, professor and chairman of psychology department.

JOHN H. FOX JR., professor of law.

H. B. HOWERTON, professor emeritus of political science.

Commercial Appeal
October 13, 1962

SATURDAY MORNIN

Ole Miss Dean Asks Expulsion

Official Of Law School Says
Jeerers, Rioters Should Be Kicked Out

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12. — (UPI)— The dean of the University of Mississippi Law School has called for expulsion of Ole Miss students who continue to jeer and taunt James Meredith.

Robert J. Farley, at a meeting of the Missouri Bar Association, said students who were active in the riots at the university Sept. 30-31 should also be expelled.

The action has been recommended by the Mississippi Law School faculty in a memorandum to the university administration, Dean Farley said.

"The big thing that will hurt Mississippians is that they failed in their responsibility to control their own situation," he said. "We failed to maintain order and the Federal Government had to intervene."

"I was in law school with Gov. Ross Barnett and I know him as a close personal friend. He is a very kind-hearted man with good intentions but he has let himself become dominated by the White Citizen's Councils," Dean Farley said.

He said Governor Barnett thought "a mild degree of violence and a threat of more" would be sufficient to keep Meredith from enrolling in the all-white university.

"The Governor did not want a real riot," he said.

"It boiled down to an issue of whether we were to support the United States Government or Governor Barnett. It was loyalty versus disloyalty."

He said few members of the faculty really wanted Meredith to enroll. "But at the same time we all knew he had a perfect right to enroll."