Dear Mr. Meredith:

Why are you trying to enter another school before you finish the six hours you have to graduate from the college you have been attending?

You will do yourself more good by graduating from that college.

Take pride in the colored schools and see that they get equal educational facilities as the white schools. You have some fine schools now and your people could have more if they band together to get them. The more and better schools you have, the more and better teachers and professors your people would be needed.

All of our schools are overcrowded which means we need more schools, so I again want to suggest the point of you putting on a crusade for more and better colored schools. Show the people of this country and other countries what your people can do in the southern states, also throughout the other states.

If you have accepted Christ as your Saviour, pray to him for guidance in what you should do. I will pray for you.

Yours truly,
Mrs. J. E. Hollander
