Dear Mr Meredith,

May I introduce me?

I am a boy of nineteen years old and my name is Jan Loots. Today I read in our newspaper that you are admitted to the university of Oxford, and therefore dear sir mine congratulations! Here in Holland we have fortunate not race-hated.

I find it terrible what the American students and people do to you.

Here in Holland, everybody is even, or he is black or white. I wish you and your wife much forness, and I wish you good luck with your study. Hoping that you will write me back, so that I know that you have receive my letter, I remain for today:

brother,

master

J. Loots.
