Dear Mr. Meredith,

I hope you don't feel that I am presumptuous in writing this letter, since we are not acquainted.

However, I cannot refrain my admiration for you and your cause.

As a college graduate, (please pardon the pencil - my pen just ran out of ink), I know that the life of a student can be difficult. Therefore, in view of your additional problems, I realize that your life will be more trying than most of us can comprehend.

I just want you to know that there are many of us who are very proud of you and your courageous stand. Your actions are the highest form of patriotism, and in spite of those who thwart you, it is my belief that you reflect great honor upon our country.

If your situation becomes depressing, as it undoubtedly will, please try to remember that most of us are rooting for you, and have no doubts
about your inevitable success.

Good luck!

Respectfully,

Judith P. Cohen
