INTRODUCTORY NOTE

THE Accountants' Index is a standard reference work published as a service to the accounting profession.

This seventh supplement to the Accountants' Index is a continuation of the preceding six volumes. The original Accountants' Index was published in 1920, and one supplement each four years has indexed the literature appearing in the period preceding its issue. The present supplement covers accounting literature in the English language during the period January 1, 1944, to December 31, 1947.

To find data on any subject of which the reader is in search he should look for the subject, the author or title as in an encyclopaedia.

Names of authors, subjects and titles are arranged in a single alphabet with information relating to publishers, place of publication, date and number of pages.

The addresses of publishers and periodicals will be found in the directory at the end of the volume.

Members of the American Institute of Accountants may borrow books, pamphlets and magazine articles. A non-member also may do so if he presents a written request from a member.
