Dear Mr. Lyons:

Several hundred years ago your wife thought it would be an amusing idea if I sent you a birthday message on July 15th. Inasmuch as I am just now coming across her letter, it is, of course, too late to send you birthday wishes. If "Happy Labor Day" means anything, help yourself to it.

I hope you've been enjoying our summer television series.

All good wishes to you and your thoughtful spouse.

Cordially,

STEVE ALLEN

Dear Mrs. Lyons:

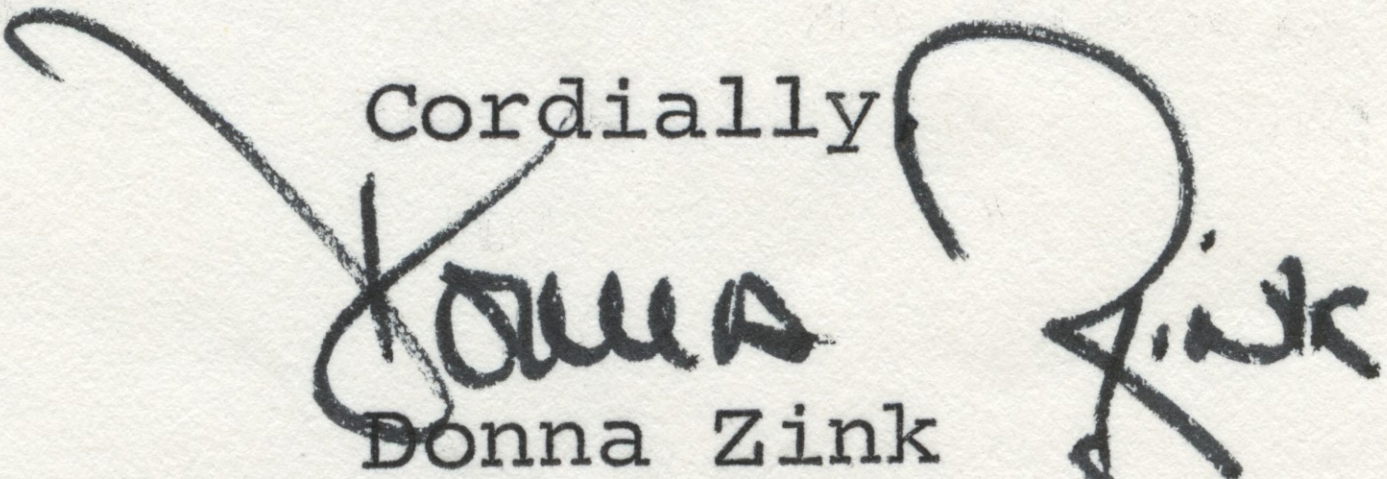

Your letter requesting a personal note from Mr. Allen addressed to your husband upon the occasion of his birthday, July 15th, was caught in an enormous sack of fan mail and has only just reached my desk. My sincere apologies.

Another delay is in store for you, unfortunately. Mr. Allen is at present enjoying a well deserved vacation and will not be back in our office until the middle of August, so the matter of the note to your husband will have to wait for his return.

There has never been a solution to the problem of the tons of mail that inundates our premises daily and it is even more so now that "The Steve Allen Comedy Hour" is being programmed for the summer.

Please bear with us...you will have an answer, I assure you, even if it starts out "Merry Christmas."

Cordially
