Head Quarters, Harris' Brigade Near Orange C, N. Va. April

My Dear Father;
Yours of the 1st March, reached me to-day, your letter from Macon, I received some days since, and the one sent by Adj't Peck, came safely to hand last week, also the money and articles sent by him, all of which are very acceptable, Do not send the hat until you have a good opportunity, my other will do until June or July;

We are expecting daily to receive marching orders, all superfluous baggage has been sent to the rear, and Happs have been prepared of Fauquier & Culpeper Counties, for General Lee's express use, it is thought by some however that we will fall back to the vicinity of Richmond, or rather to Hanover Junction, Grant has assumed command of the Army of the Potomac, and will probably advance upon Richmond by two or three different routes.

One, up the Peninsula, under Burnside and Butter, the main Army crossing the Rappahannock between here and Fredericksburg, while a third column will advance down the valley under Milroy and Sigel; Longstreet is reported to be on his way up here, he can keep that column in check, We can manage Grant here, and Beauregard will probably come up from Charleston, and meet Mr Burnside as he reaches Richmond, I have no fears as to the result of the Campaign, and I am of opinion that our success this summer will put an end to the war, it will probably linger through the Fall, but if we give Grant a crushing blow, they can never organize another Army, it is only by the most strenuous efforts that they can now get together a large Army; their whole force in Virginia now, is not near so many as McClellan had on the Peninsula in the summer of '62, our army it is true is not so large either, as it was then, but with the addition of Beauregard and Longstreet, it will be, I think sufficiently powerful to whip back any force, the enemy can bring against us, Our Army never was in better condition or spirits, and more determined to battle for their rights, trusting in the God of Battles and in the Righteousness of our cause, It is not the boastful confidence in our own strength, which we had in the Pennsylvania campaign, but a calm trustfulness in our ability, through the blessing of God, to put at naught, the wicked plans of the enemy for our destruction.

Yesterday I heard the Rev. Mr. Nelson from Harrow, preach at the Episcopal Church in Orange. I spoke to him after service, he knows Dr. Robt. Nelson, and others of our family, although he belongs to another branch I believe.

The weather has been extremely bad here for the past two weeks and your mail may be delayed some by the mud and high water, but a week hence will find us moving I expect.

I received a letter from Kinkob 9th a few days ago, he tells me, he is to be married the 27th of this month.

Love to all Friends,

Your affectionate son
W. C. Nelson,
