Mr. James Meredith

Missisipi.

Dear friend: You are a valiantman.

Everyday we follow by the Spanish press the rum of the events.

(That you caused). We are proud of you. You are showing to the world that the colour is an accident and that the essence of the things and that the man is simply man as God is simply God.

We don't understand the white men do this. We think that the colour of the skin is as little important thing as being green or blue-eyed and we are sorry with you of that happens to you.

We should like to ask you:

"Meredith, come to Spain, here there, in the daily fight against the slight.

The truth is yours, you have, therefore, not only the right, but also the duty of showing it to the world with a word, that unfortunately don't want to learn it.

It is a hard mission, but you must accept it. We see with you that you do so. Your soul, your race have to thank you. To your pursuers... forgive them because they don't know what they do.

Cheer up! James. We although cannot physically do anything for you. Want to tell you that we are your friends and that from this corner of Europa, are with you. We don't know how to express with words all what we should like to tell you, but don't forget that a representation of the white race, is with you now and always.

We would like you to come to Spain and avoid the daily fights and slights against you.

The truth is that you have the right and also the duty to show the world, that unfortunately don't want to learn that you belong. It is a hard mission, but you must accept it. We are with you. Your son, and your race will thank you. "To your pursuers...forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Cheer up James! Although we cannot help you physically, we want you to know that you have friends in this corner of Europe. We cannot express in words all that we would like to say, but don't forget that a representation of the white race is with you now and always.
