INTRODUCTION

The ACM Conference on Recommender Systems (RecSys) is the premier annual event on research and applications of recommendation technologies. This adjunct proceedings bundle the descriptions of late-breaking results contributions that are presented in RecSys 2019 (<https://recsys.acm.org/recsys19/>). 42 papers were submitted to this track, with 13 of them accepted after peer-reviewing. The accepted contributions present late-breaking research results and speculative or innovative work in progress. We are grateful to the reviewers for their support. We thank all authors who submitted articles to this late-breaking results track.
