

Appropriateness of Western-Style HRM practices to emerging countries, a case study of Bangladesh

ABSTRACT

This paper outlines its significance to the both academic and practice arena. The main question, therefore, underpinning this paper and research inform it is: • How appropriate the Western-Style HRM practices to the emerging countries specifically in Bangladesh.