GENERALS CALLED ON CARPET BY CLARK

Seen & Heard
Around
MURRAY

Notice the generals involved in the Koje Island disgrace are on the carpet before General Clark today.

Which reminds you of the fact that no matter how high up you get in the Army there is always somebody else higher.

Whether it's clay, ice cream or strawberries, it always seems to get all over the house.

Last night it was strawberries. Everybody wanted to help, cap them and did.

When the job was completed, it was difficult to tell whether the help was help or not.

Cups littered the floor from one end of the house to the other, and squashed strawberries adorned the floor, tables, etc.

We were reminded of the old adage of "stitch one drop two" or something to that effect, only in this case it was cap one eat two.

The berries will make good preserves and jelly if there are any left to make preserves and jelly with.

More earth moving on the North side of town. Bulldozers working at the clinic and one working at the big lot on North Fourth street.

Parking lot at the clinic and service station on North Fourth.

Looks like the root beer place across from Perry is about ready to open.

This date last year: The Supreme Court refused to review the perjury conviction of John Maragon in the "five percenters" investigation. And two sailors died when a navy seaplane tender collided with a coal ship and burned off Cape Henry, Virginia.

Quick Decision Expected On Steel Issue Before High Court

By United Press
The Supreme Court is expected to make a quick decision on the steel issue.

By quick it is meant a decision before the court recesses for the summer the beginning of next month. That would be fast action for the court on so weighty a subject as the constitutional powers of the president.

A court attaché believes it possible that a decision may come in the next week or two. But that in any event, the court will dispose of the case before it quits for the summer, even delaying its tentatively scheduled recess to do so.

As of today, the court was aiming for a June 2nd adjournment date. A quick decision will jibe with the wishes of all concerned, particularly the steel workers union.

The union lawyer appeared to the court for fast action on the ground that the steel workers—under the present setup—are sustaining great damages by inability to get higher wages or to strike.

The attorney told the court the present situation leaves the union in the hopeless position of having no one to bargain with.

It doesn't know whether the seizure is legal and the government is the employer or whether the seizure is illegal and the companies are the ones to do business with.

The union lawyer carefully avoided arguing before the court the constitutional issues involved. He said that is for the court to decide and it doesn't matter to the union which way it goes, so long as there is a clear-cut, quick decision.

For if the industry wins, the lawyer said the union immediately will try to make a deal with the companies, which apparently would revive the threat of a strike. If the government wins, the union will try to make a deal with the government.

There had been some speculation that the court might issue a quick decision and come through with its opinions later. Supreme Court Justice Jackson speaking for the union, argued against such a procedure. In warning the union not to expect a decision too quickly, Jackson said the opinions are a case where as important as the decision.

The chances are there will be more than one opinion issued, and possibly even more than one planning which individual justice, or groups of justices, voted a particular way.

A court attaché also belittled the possibility of a delay in issuing the clarifying opinions sometime after the decision is announced. The court seldom does this, and only because of some compelling reason to get the decision out before the opinions can be drafted.

Such was the case in a recent Supreme Court decision regarding Alabama primaries. But here the court was faced with a primary deadline which it could meet only by issuing its decision immediately, and letting the opinions wait until the justices had the time to write them.

No such deadline faces the justices in the steel case.

The court may take any one of a number of possible courses of action in the case.

From the questioning, the indications are the justices may go to the heart of the dispute—the power or lack of power of the president to seize the steel.

But the court doesn't necessarily have to rule on the constitutional issue. It could, if it wanted to, send the entire matter back to the lower courts for further consideration.

OPS Price Clinic Will Be Held In Paducah May 20

The second of a series of OPS price clinics to provide individual consultation to business in the Purchase area will be held Tuesday afternoon (May 20) at City Hall in Paducah. Walter L. Kolbrieger, Price-Executive of the Kentucky Office of Price Stabilization, announced.

Several scores of restaurant and tavern operators in the area who filed inadequate or incorrect reports with OPS have been notified to attend the meeting. Kolbrieger said. "Our business analysis will be on hand to help these operators complete the forms and bring their operations into compliance and thus save them the trouble of writing or visiting the OPS office in Louisville," the OPS official explained.

The hours of the clinic are from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Any businessman who has a problem in connection with OPS regulations was urged to be there. No appointment is required, no speeches will be made; information and instructions will be imparted individually. Kolbrieger emphasized.

The business analysts who will represent OPS at the clinic are Charles W. Gowin, Gilson E. Hart and James C. Rankin.

Buddy Poppies To Be Sold Saturday

Thirty-one years ago the Veterans of Foreign Wars "inspired" zeal to honor the dead by helping the living, involved a plan of selling one day each year to conduct a sale of Buddy Poppies which are made by disabled and hospitalized veterans, according to Mrs. Groover Parker, head of the local Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW.

All proceeds are to be used to help needy veterans and their dependents. The proceeds help provide homes for the wives and orphans of those who gave their lives—their time to devote 40 thoughts of those in less fortunate positions. But the VFW Posts and Auxiliaries don't want to forget nor do we want others to forget those veterans who proved their patriotism on the field of battle and those who are now paying with their health.

This is why the VFW sponsors the Memorial Day Buddy Poppy Sale. This is to give everyone an opportunity to "Honor The Dead By Helping The Living." Mrs. Parker says, "Wear a Buddy Poppy May 24 and renew your pledge of honor to those who gave so much."

Fulton Still Full Game Ahead After Downing Jackson

The Fulton Lookouts are holding a full game lead in the Kitty League today after downing the Jackson Generals 7 to 3 last night.

Hopkinsville climbed back into a tie for second place by defeating the Madisonville Miners, 5 to 4, and the Mayfield Clothiers won their first game of the season, 7 to 5, over Union City.

Ed Wilson was credited as the winning pitcher in the Fulton-Korean war veterans for a free education and payments for houses.

The house veterans committee has approved, subject to another vote, most of a free education plan for vets. Under the plan, a Korean war veteran would draw a monthly check of $110 if single, $150 if he has dependents. He would make his own tuition payments and could keep whatever was left over.

PLANTING IN PROGRESS OVER THE COMMONWEALTH

LOUISVILLE, May 14 (UP)—The United States Bureau of Agriculture reports that about half of Kentucky's corn crop has been planted while 80 per cent of barley and rye crops are already headed.

The bureau says about 40 per cent of tobacco plants in Kentucky are now two to four inches tall. Some tobacco growers have reported their plants will be ready to set next week.

Kentucky farm gardens are well advanced and strawberry picking is under way in the western and southern commercial growing sections of the state.

WESTERN UNION OFFICE TO BE OPEN THURSDAY

Robert King, manager of the local Western Union office, announced today that the office would be reopened on Thursday morning at eight o'clock.

The office has been closed for the past month due to the strike by the operators.

Army Worms Hit County

Army worms are invading Calloway County according to S. V. Foy, county agent. The worms are apparently more plentiful in the Lynn Grove area, he said, but can be found all over the county.

Groying is in progress over much of the county he said, with about four to five hundred acres being sprayed.

One half gallon Toxiphene to be used per acre. It is also used with a great efficiency.

The worms seem to be after Fescue for the most part, and Foy warned growers of Fescue to inspect their pasture or seed crop very closely so that the worms can be found before they do great damage.

Most spraying is being done with a boom spray on a tractor.

Farmers Can Ask For Checkoff Of Tobacco Acreage

A recent release from the state PMA committee states that if the farm operator requests a checkoff of an acreage determination which he believes to be in error, he may do so upon depositing $5.00 or the estimated cost as determined by the county committee, whichever is larger, with the Treasurer of the county PMA committee. The county committee will then have the acreage re-measured. The deposit will be returned to the farmer only if the acreage is found to be within the acreage allotment. No deposit is subject to refund if the acreage is found to be in excess of the allotment. All deposits for checkoffs and all refunds made shall be accounted for as county committee funds in accordance with current instructions for handling collections and refunds by county committees.

Concessions Given PW's Being Used As Communist Propaganda

By United Press
Two American Generals were called on the carpet for nearly an hour today to explain their roles in last week's Koje prison camp mutiny.

Brigadier Generals Francis Dodd and Charles Colson, flew to Tokyo at the urgent summons of General Mark Clark. It is believed the new allied far east commander asked Dodd how he happened to let the prisoners capture him—and that he asked Colson why he made embarrassing concessions to the Reds to gain Dodd's release.

Dodd was commander of the notorious prison camp off Korea until six days ago when he was yanked inside a compound and made prisoner. Colson, who took over the command, was fired from it yesterday after getting the Reds to free Dodd by making several written agreements that have both angered and embarrassed the American high command.

Pentagon brass is miffed over the wording of the agreements more than anything else. And there are strong hints in both Washington and Tokyo that they will not be honored.

For one thing, Colson promised to end what he called the "foreboding screening" of Communist prisoners—something which the UN has denied it ever used. For another thing, Colson promised they would be treated "humanely" in the future—thus implying their treatment so far has not been humane.

Colson also admitted there have been what he called "instances of bloodshed" in the Koje camp. The Eighth Army doesn't know what he meant by this—unless it was a reference to the two recent prisoner riots in which 91 prisoners, including an American soldier, were killed.

All of this is playing into the hands of the Communist propaganda experts. "The Reds" were charged today that the UN has "openly admitted" the inhumane treatment of the POW's, including forcible screening.

The UN had a good answer to that. "An answer the Reds ignored," Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, the top allied negotiator, offered again to let the Reds take part in a joint screening of the prisoners and see for themselves just how many POW's want to go back to Communism after a truce.

According to the UN, 150,000-175,000 prisoners and civilians internees it holds have refused to go back. The enemy, for its part, maintains that all prisoners should be returned, in line with the Geneva rules of warfare.

This is the issue that has brought the Panmunjom talks to a standstill.

Joy says the Reds no longer are interested in reaching an agreement, which they could do by accepting the allied demands for voluntary repatriation. He says they want only to propagandize and see for themselves just how many POW's want to go back to Communism after a truce.

New Approach Is Taken On Oil Problem

By United Press
The wage stabilization board is taking a new approach to the oil dispute.

Yesterday, unenthusiastic representatives of 75 oil companies and 22 striking unions met with board officials in Washington, at the request of the board's Chairman Nathan Feinsinger and indicated that he hoped the meeting could pave the way to an agreement ending the 15-day-old walkout.

But, after a five-minute talk, Feinsinger adjourned the meeting on the grounds that more progress might be made in direct negotiations between the unions and the industry. A big block, Feinsinger said, is some kind of a "wage pattern."

That could come from board decisions on six contracts that already have been negotiated with smaller companies. Today, the wage board is going to work on those agreements with the aim of developing a pattern that might be followed for a national settlement.

The union originally demanded 25 cents an hour in wage increases. The agreements now before the board for approval range from 13 to 18 cents.

Unless some agreement is forthcoming soon, it is expected that the wage board will turn over the dispute to President Truman Mr. Truman is reported considering use of the Taft-Hartley law.

The strike has cut down petroleum supplies, reducing gas and oil seriously in 17 midwestern states. The shortages may be intensified tonight, at least in Denver, Colorado. Thirty one pipeline employees have served notice they plan to walk out at midnight. If they do, the shutdown would cut off 50 per cent of Denver's daily supply of gasoline.

To combat this and other shortages, interior secretary Oscar Chapman has set up fact-finding committees in the 17 midwestern states affected. The move is a possible first step toward rationing. If necessary, committees can be empowered to ration gas and oil.

QUESTION:
What is your formula for removing warts?
ANSWERS:
Mrs. Lela Miller: I have heard if you tie a silk thread around a wart, loosely the first day and every day tighten it just a little, that it will come off. I don't know if it will work or not. I never tried it.
Mrs. Raymond Workman: Vinegar took one off for my daughter. We tied a cloth around it and kept it dampened with vinegar; it turned kind of black and then disappeared.
Mrs. John Cavitt: The only thing I've ever heard of to tie a black string around them, and I wouldn't say that's a sure cure, because I've never had any, so I never tried it.
Mrs. Edgar Woodall: I had one a long time ago and my cousin rubbed it till I thought it would burn me up, then he told me to forget about it, so in a few days I thought about it and looked and it was gone, and it's never come back.
Mrs. Peter Kuhn: When you get up the first thing in the morning will be used to send Tommy Dorsey and Ruth Rowland to the Egyptian Music Camp at Duquoin, Ill., in June.

Bill Henry Of The Red Sox Is Making Tough Job Look Easy

By United Press
Major league competition is tough but a rookie Boston Red Sox pitcher is making it look easy.

And adds McKechnie—the sage behind the Red Sox pitching program—"We didn't make Henry a pitcher. He had the stuff when he came to us. You can't teach a fellow how to throw a ball hard."

IT MIGHT BE—that this week third, to first, to short has pointed up the fact that Red really can play anywhere.

Six Days Labor

The Sunday School lesson last Sunday was on the fourth commandment. It is amazing that most folks consider this commandment dealing only with the matter of observing the Sabbath.

The commandment says: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy," but it adds in the next verse: "Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work."

It elaborates on the second part of the commandment by reminding us that God made the heavens and earth, and all that is in them, in six days and that He rested on the seventh day.

The commandment says nothing about a forty hour week, but it does command us to work six days.

Those who conceived the idea of working five days a week, instead of six, and increased our leisure to include a half holiday on Wednesday, may have thought Sunday School and Church attendance would be increased if folks could wake up early Sunday morning refreshed from a full day of rest. This didn't work out.

Instead of increasing attendance at services on Sunday the Saturday probably decreases it. When men worked hard in the field six days a week they felt more like going to church than they do after a day of fighting or playing golf.

We believe there is a penalty for violation of any of the ten commandments, and the second part of the fourth commandment is no exception.

Work is not a curse to the human race. Six days of labor is good for us. If it were not God would not have commanded us to perform it as a regular practice.

Top League Teams Gain Ground In Games Played On Tuesday

By United Press
The top two teams in each league gained ground on the other first division clubs yesterday as the major leagues played a heavy slate of night games.

In the American League Cleveland stayed two games in front with a 10-6 win over New York while runner-up Washington kept pace by downing Detroit, 4-3.

In the National League the New York Giants maintained one game margin over Brooklyn by beating Cincinnati, 7-1, after the Dodgers won an afternoon game with St. Louis, 11-8.

The wanted Yankee pitching bowed down but the Indians rallied to take the 10-6 decision over the world champions Larry Doby, Dale Mitchell and Ray Boone homered for Cleveland and Gil McKechnie hit one for the Yanks.

Lefty Bobby Shantz' five hit pitching and gash base hitting paved the way for Philadelphia's Phil Maffei to drive in the winning run in the fourth inning and doubled to score another in the ninth.

Washington scored two unearned runs on two Detroit errors to down the Tigers, 4-3, and give Right-hander Connie Marrero the win. Martin Stuart—who matched Marrero's five-hit pitching—was the loser.

Minnie Minoso drove in four runs with a home, single and out-batter as he pitched the fifth complete game. The Sox took a 3-1 lead in the first inning, gets the win.

Getting back to the National League, Lefty Curt Simmons showed that his "tired" shoulder was completely rested by pitching Philadelphia to a 6-nothing win over Chicago. Simmons, who is back in the league after 18 months military service, allowed only two hits—singles by Bob Ramazotti and Frank Baumholtz—and struck out 12 to win his second game.

White Mays and Bob Elliott also homered for the winners while Ted Kluszewski hit one for the Reds. Larry Jansen gets his third win with a nine-inning effort and starter Norm Wetherbee is the loser.

In the only afternoon game in the major leagues the Brooklyn Dodgers outbatted St. Louis, 14-8. Ben Wade gets the win in relief of Starter Prommer Roe and Joe Proskocnik leads six Cardinals batters to the loss. Five homers in the game were by Stan Musial and one by Larry Mize of St. Louis and one each by Gil Hodges and Pitcher Wade for Brooklyn.

Tax Experts On Job

The announcement by Dr. Jean U. Korce of New York that his experiments in developing a tobacco substitute from sugar manufacturing waste found Representative Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina ready with a plan to tax it.

Doughton is not only chairman of the Ways and Means committee of the House, but he is also the outstanding champion of the American tobacco growers, and he has no intention of seeing a synthetic product replace tobacco if the power to tax will keep it off the market.

The tax on tobacco is bringing in a billion and a half dollars to the United States treasury, mostly from the eight cent tax on a package of cigarettes. The laboratory tests on sugar cane waste were made in an effort primarily to offer the public a substitute for tobacco, minus this heavy tax.

It took many years to place margarine on the market in an attractive color and package, and only then after it assumed an undue tax burden. Maybe our grandchildren will enjoy smoking something that tastes like tobacco without its harmful effects, but our guess is that they will pay a mighty heavy tax in order to do it.

We can't think of many things we had rather not do than to enter competition with the tobacco industry.

Use Of Electric Energy Rises In TVA Service Area

ROCKVILLE, Tenn., May 14.—Electric energy consumption during the TVA power service area during the calendar year 1951 was 18 percent greater than in 1950. Substantial increases in use were made by all classes of consumers.

Energy consumption by industrial consumers amounted to almost 14 billion kilowatt-hours, an increase of more than 2 billion kwh over the calendar year 1950. With the exception of the war year 1942, this is the greatest annual increase in industrial use of power experienced in the Tennessee Valley area.

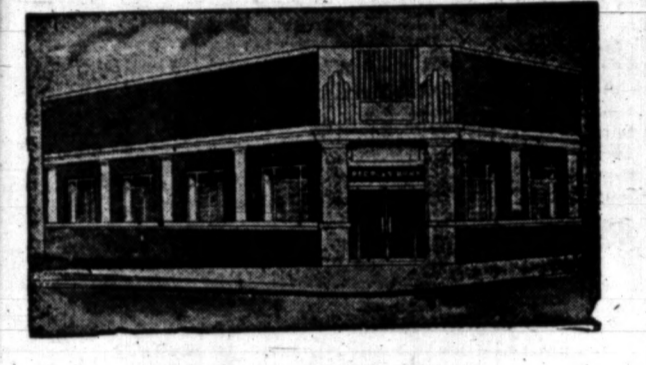

Sales to directly served industrial customers increased by almost two billion kilowatt-hours, much of it brought about by sharply increased sales to federal agencies (including the Atomic Energy Commission).

Sales by municipalities and cooperatives to industrial customers increased by almost half a billion kilowatt-hours, the greatest annual increase yet recorded. Consumption by the larger distributor-served industrial customers was at a higher level at the beginning of 1951 than in 1950 and remained fairly constant throughout the year. Use by the smaller distributor-served industrial customers continued to show a steady growth.

NOAH AND FLOOD STORY PLEASES LITTLE ONES

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The story of Noah and the flood is probably the best-known biblical story among children of pre-school age, Dr. Ralph D. Heim of the Lutheran Theological Seminary believes.

He added that Sunday School children are more familiar with the Book of Matthew than any book in the Bible and that the Book of Exodus is used more by Sunday School teachers than any other book in the Old Testament.

Dr. Heim, who teaches Christian education and the English Bible in the Gettysburg, Pa., seminary, made his comments during a conference here in which he urged that teachers "find more suitable lesson materials for particular age groups."

DOG'S WAGGING TAIL ENDS COURT CASE

DALLAS, Texas (UP)—Like Solomon, Justice of the Peace Bill Richburg had a decision to make that he didn't have a law to fit. The devotion of a dog for his master made up his mind.

Sam, a foxhound, was on the witness stand, the principal character in a custody suit, George Kelly and D. Gary both, claimed the dog.

Kelly said he lost the hound on a hunting trip. Gary said he bought the dog for $25 from someone else, but would give him up if rightful ownership could be proven.

When Kelly walked into the courtroom, Sam, who had shown little interest in the case, perked up. His long, black tail started wagging.

"It's your dog, George," the judge said.

DISCOVERS BRICK MINE IN HIS FRONT YARD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A fitting benediction in his own front yard brought 80-year-old Tony Battalia out of retirement.

Battalia grieved his life of leisure "to business" brick-making.

Battalia was leveling out his yard when he struck a brick. He kept digging and presently had uncovered over 3,000.

Battalia isn't sure whether it's an old brick wall. He thinks his lot once was the site of a brickyard.

Anyway, common bricks bring $3 a thousand.

WRITER SAYS SHOULD NOT RETIRE AT 65

FORBES—Surgeon General Dr. Thomas Parran, writing in Collier's weekly, says workers should not be compelled to retire at 65.

He says there is no justification for any arbitrary age for retirement since some individuals are old long before 65 and many still in excellent working condition at that age.

Homemakers in Barren county estimated they saved at least $487 by making garments at home.

The present Kentucky constitution was adopted in 1891.

REVENUE BOND FOUND USEFUL TO CITIES

CHICAGO (UP)—Revenue bonds are becoming more important in financing needed city improvements, a survey shows.

The Municipal Finance Officers Association said that in 1951 revenue bonds accounted for about 20 per cent of all municipal bond sales. Such sales totaled nearly $3,200,000,000.

The trend toward revenue bonds is apt to continue since a number of states took legislative action to extend authority to use revenue bonds for purposes not previously sanctioned," the association said.

"Use of revenue bonds for sewage plants and facilities was authorized in Florida, Illinois, Kansas, and Pennsylvania."

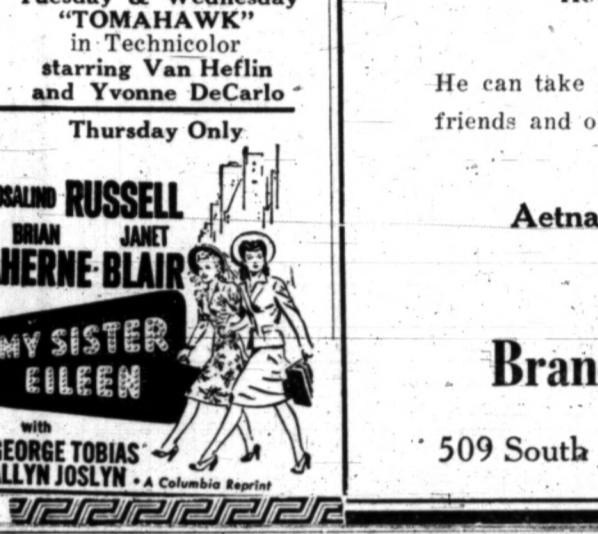

Such bonds also may be issued for airports in Indiana, auditoriums in South Dakota, toll bridges in Illinois and Tennessee and for construction of industrial plants leased to manufacturers in Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky and Tennessee, the association said.

Soup Is Becoming Basic Need For Everyday Cooking

Soup, like salt and pepper is rapidly becoming a basic cooking need.

These days, soups are used for adding flavor to so-called "everyday" dishes, for extending foods, and for using up leftovers.

To help the home-maker, one soup canner (Campbell's) has had its test kitchen work out 114 recipes, just published in a booklet called "Cooking With Soup."

Take for example that starchy, corned beef hash. You can combine it with tomato soup and produce a tasty main dish casserole.

To serve four, you will need one sliced onion, a couple of tablespoons of butter or margarine, one 16-ounce can of corned beef hash, one can of tomato soup, and one fourth cup of buttered bread crumbs.

First, cook the onion until it's tender in the butter. Brown the corned beef hash in one small piece of hot oil or in a one-ounce can of oil. Now, pour over it, one-half of the soup. Add the onion slices and the rest of the hash and soup. Sprinkle the top with buttered bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 minutes.

Doctor Flagstone Walk Or Terrace For The Summer

If you're proud of your flagstone walk or terrace last summer but find it kicked around a little by frost, here are some hints on how to doctor them up.

Lift the stones out and add more sand or gravel. Leave an inverted V-shape between the stones. Then put a dry cement in the V. Sweep off any excess cement and let a fine spray of water fall over the area. The dry mix will soak up the water and several days later you'll find the cement hardened and the stones locked in place.

500th Air Mission

IT'S QUITE A score that Capt. William H. Gutches, of Wallington, N.J., chalks up as he lands at a Korean airfield with 500 missions completed. At the end of World War II, his total was 425. After his 50th mission in Korea he was slated for rotation. He wanted to make it an even 75. Here, Gutches stands grinning in the cockpit of his RB-26 as he achieves his goal.

If one of your grass growing problems was how to get it to survive on a slope, Krilium will solve your headaches there too. The Krilium will form a plastic film that will let water get through yet keep the topsoil in place. ## New Vest Is Saving Lives In Korea

The army's new 12-layer nylon vest is saving many lives in Korea by stopping shrapnel wounds in the torso.

The vest, of course, will not stop a rifle or machine gun bullet, but infantrymen fear shrapnel wounds because they are so much harder to heal and often cause permanent injury.

So, the nylon vest, by stopping a large percentage of the shrapnel wounds, not only saves lives but is a great morale builder. It makes troops much more willing to go out on dangerous missions. The nylon anti-shrapnel vest has been in use in Korea since February and since that time not a single soldier wearing the vest has suffered a shrapnel wound in a vital spot. Soldiers returning from raids sometimes find several outer layers of the vest ripped, by shrapnel that would have inflicted a terrible wound against ordinary clothing.

Actor Jaeckel Thankful He Is Out Of Army And A Civilian

By United Press Actor Richard Jaeckel finally has been released from the armies of Hollywood and he's thankful to be a civilian again.

Richard is the good-looking blonde boy who made such a hit in "Guadalcanal Diary." He'd been just a mail-room boy at 20th Century Fox Studio that picture was a break in a million—but after that he was typed as a guy in uniform.

Richard played in so many war movies he got to know about every branch of service, even if it was only on celluloid. He was cast in movies about the Air Force, the Navy, the submarine fighters. He acted in pictures like "Battle-ground" and "Jungle Patrol." And he's usually—was the nice young boy who cracks up in his first battle, is scared to death and always gets killed in the sixth reel.

By the time Richard got around to the real service, it seemed tame compared to his movie roles. But then, as he explains it in real life he was in the Merchant Marine so he didn't see much action. After his stretch in the service Jaeckel went back into uniform in Hollywood again for more war movies. Now at last he's gotten a chance to try another kind of acting. He won a prize role of a broadway hit, "Come Back, Little Sheba."

This Hal Wallis production for Paramount was sneak-previewed last weekend and the rumors around movieland are that Shirley Booth emerges as a great new star in the picture—and that everyone in the picture, including Jaeckel, are cinches to be nominated for next year's academy awards. Jaeckel also acted—still in uniform—with Helen Hayes in "My Son John." And he confesses that Miss Hayes and Miss Booth— "She hadn't as much temperament as the crop at the studio gate," he says. "I felt ashamed at the way I'd acted as a young, punk beginner."
