STAGE SET FOR ANNUAL CAGE CLASSIC

Reds Smash Battleline By Assaults

SEUL, Korea, June 13 (UP)—Two reinforced Communist battalions smashed the Allied line in four places on the east central front today in a raging battle that followed the greatest artillery barrage of the Korean war.

"Capital Hill is very probably in enemy hands," an Eighth Army briefing officer said tonight, explaining that official reports from the flaming battlefront still are fragmentary.

The latest 2,500-man assault followed 12 previous futile Red attempts to win high ground along a 30-mile front strewn with "the bodies of Chinese infantrymen."

Eighth Army said the Communists fired 118,000 artillery and mortar shells in support of their troops' effort to gain strategic positions before the shooting is called off at Panmunjom.

The Eighth Army spokesman said the old record of 107,582 rounds was established over a 24-hour period.

Allied trenches and rugged slopes of the mountainous central front battleline were littered with Chinese dead.

Eighth Army headquarters estimated at least 8,000 Chinese swarmed recklessly against the U. S. 3rd Division on the Allied line. The heaviest assault was made on Outpost Harry, where the Americans had piled up Chinese bodies as temporary "sandbags."

A force of 3,000 Reds pushed the outpost in the face of heavy tank and mortar fire. The Communists had hauled up big eight-inch and 105 millimeter artillery to the front to meet the onslaught.

It was estimated the Chinese had suffered 2,100 casualties, not counting Friday night's dead, in trying to take Harry.

The enemy gained only one precarious foothold on the east central front—Capitol Hill. The 8th ROK Division was hit by 1,500 Red infantrymen in five separate battles.

The South Koreans lost part of Capitol Hill to Communist forces but repulsed a Red drive against Finger Ridge.

South Korea also stopped a Communist attempt to capture a Horse and a company-sized diversionary assault to the east.

Syng Rhee Wavers On His Stand

SEUL, Korea, June 13 (UP)—President Syng Rhee wavered today in his stand against an armistice with Communist forces in Korea.

Rhee said in reply to questions submitted by a Scandinavian war correspondent the immediate signing of a U. S.-Korean mutual security pact would make an armistice more acceptable.

"I need something concrete to show the people that our security has been guaranteed and that will help," Rhee's reply said.

But the aged South Korean leader said his people have "very little confidence" in President Eisenhower's promise to conclude the defense treaty after the armistice is reached with the Communists.

Acting Prime Minister Pyun Yung Tae announced after a three-hour and 30-minute meeting of the cabinet with Rhee that South Korea already has decided whether to oppose an armistice.

"Whether we carry out our decision depends on developments at the armistice talks," Pyun said.

Anti-armistice mobs got out of control both here and at Panmunjom, South Korea police arrested barbed wire barricades in front of the American Embassy at Panmunjom, where South Korean war veterans had staged an all-night sit-down strike.

Three columns of chanting Koreans swarmed on the foreign war correspondents' billets here, attacking the South Korean policemen who grabbed industry Minister Lee Chal Hyung's neck and asked him if he thought he was the "number one" man in the government. They did not molest Minister Without Portfolio, Park Hyun Sook, a woman, and after shouting anti-armistice slogans, permitted the two cabinet members to proceed.

Another screaming mob massed outside Rhee's mansion and demonstrated throughout the three-hour and 30-minute cabinet meeting.

Chang Ke Bong, Rhee's secretary read a message from the president to the demonstrators over a loud speaker, urging them to go home and warning them not to molest foreigners.

Defense Minister Shin Tae Young stood beside the loud speaker truck with tears running down his cheeks as he listened to the message. Shin then told the crowd he could not discuss the armistice crisis and the mob dispersed after shouting several slogans.

While tempers flared at Seoul and Panmunjom, American staff officers rushed toward agreement with the Communists in long sessions at Panmunjom.

The staff colonels worked on completion of a cease fire line as casualty lists grew longer as a result of bloody fighting for key hill positions along the central battlefront.

Acting Premier Pyun Yung Tae came out of the cabinet meeting here and told newsmen Rhee's reply to President Eisenhower's appeal for cooperation had not yet been dispatched.

"I said, however, it probably would follow lines of recent government statements against a truce," Rhee himself repeated his stand against an armistice dividing Korea when he told chanting Korean war veterans his government "has made it sufficiently plain that we cannot agree to the present cease fire negotiations."

In a written statement, Rhee assured the veterans he was "opposing an armistice in order to uphold the principles of national self-determination."

Earlier today Pyun hinted that Rhee might choose to follow a middle of the road policy which might permit conclusion of the truce and allow South Korea to renew the war later, if necessary.

The foreign forces now engaged in the UN action in Korean can, if they so wish, agree to any armistice and disengage themselves from Korea," Pyun said.

"On the other hand, I ask our Korean friends to understand that we Koreans cannot disengage ourselves from Korea. Both are students of the college and have received extensive dramatic training under the direction of Director Robertson.

The opening play will be the Broadway hit "Male Animal." It has enjoyed several revivals both in New York and Chicago, and is very timely since its plot deals with happenings on a college campus during a Red scare hunt.

The play was written by two of America's top collaborators, John Thurber and Elliott Nugent.

"The Village Theatre cast for the first four productions will be composed of members from the Murray State College dramatic department under the direction of William Robertson. Robertson received his professional experience with such stage and screen stars as Lillian Gish, Lawrence Tibbett, the late Guy Kibbee, Melvin Douglas, Ruth Hussey, and scores of other top ranking Broadway and Hollywood stars.

Village Theatre To Open Second Season At Dam

The Village Theatre will open its second season June 18 at Kentucky Dam Village State Park, Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward announced today.

The Village Theatre, started during the 1952 season on an experimental basis, proved so successful that it has been added as a regular park feature during the summer months.

Two local people having important roles in the cast are Dr. C. S. Lowry, head of Social Sciences Department of the college, and the Rev. Orval Austin, pastor of the College Presbyterian Church. Dr. Lowry has appeared in many of the college's dramatic productions, and last year played one of the leading roles in "Papa Is All" which was the opening production of the Village Theatre. Lowry's skill in creating his various roles makes him an outstanding hit with all audiences. The Rev. Austin has been a popular radio personality for a number of years, and has had considerable experience in the dramatic field.

Other local people to take part in the opening play will be Max Grogan, with Joe Miller as stage manager. Both are students of the college and have received extensive dramatic training under the direction of Director Robertson.

This Week's Balance Sheet In The Hot And Cold War

By PHIL NEWSOM
 United Press Foreign News Editor

The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

THE GOOD

1. United Nations and Communist negotiators signed an agreement guaranteeing that no war prisoner would be returned home against his will. The agreement knocked out the last major stumbling block in the way of a truce and an end to the shooting war in Korea. Staff officers then went to work, marking out a new cease fire line based on current, battle positions. Day to day progress was kept secret but obvious satisfaction of the negotiators led to the definite conclusion that, so far as they were concerned, a truce in the three-year old war was but a matter of days away.
2. Even before the death of Josef Stalin, the Russians were letting it be known that they would favor a four-power conference aimed at easing world tensions. The new Russian government under Premier Georgi Malenkov has been even more eager for such a meeting, an eagerness shared by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, but regarded coolly by the United States. This week the Russians made a series of conciliatory moves including an easing of restrictions in Austria, an agreement with the Protestant Evangelical Church in East Germany and a reported withdrawal of territorial and other demands on Turkey, including special rights in the Dardanelles.
3. One reason for the sudden easing of Russian world pressures might be internal difficulties of their own. This week the Communist Czech government, in an almost unprecedented broadcast, admitted there had been a violent reaction among Czech workers against devaluation of the Czech crown. Parts of Czechoslovakia were reported under martial law after 10 days of strikes and demonstrations.

THE BAD

1. Whether or not Allied and Red negotiators reached a Korean truce, South Korean President Syng Rhee wanted none of it. The 78-year old Rhee continued to demand unification of Korea as his price for ending the war and continuing to whip people up in government sponsored demonstrations demanding "unification or death." Rhee ignored a plea for cooperation from President Eisenhower, and at week's end there still was no assurance that Rhee would order his troops to keep on shooting.
2. Italy headed into a period of internal tension after Premier Alcide De Gasperi, unwavering friend of the West lost his greatest political fight. De Gasperi's coalition failed to win the 50.81 per cent of the vote in the Italian general election which would have given him unquestioned control of the Chamber of Deputies. Now he must dicker with the resurgent Monarchist who campaigned only on a demand for restoration of the Italian monarchy and who won 49 seats in the new chamber. The bitter De Gasperi said the Monarchist "deviations" had strengthened the hand of Communists.
3. In France, another premier-designate bit the dust. The French Assembly refused by one vote to accept Georges Bidault, foreign minister of the outgoing government and fifth man either to fail or to refuse the job of trying to form a new government. The present French government crisis unfolded as few others have the weakness of the French system. While France fiddles, the United States and Britain bury — with impatience. The three-power Bermuda waits on France.

Small But Fast

Jim Mitchell is small, but the 2,120 points in four years of high school will attest to the fact that he is fast, and accurate. Last year he scored 724 points in 30 games for an average of 24.1 per game.

Mitchell is from Madisonville, Kentucky, and he will on the Rebel squad tonight.

North-South Squads Ready For Encounter Here Tonight

The stage is set for the fifth annual North-South Cage Classic and both teams are ready for the event which will be held tonight at 8:00 p.m.

The game will be played in the Carr Health-Building where all of the past games have been played.

Teams have been working all this week under the tutelage of William "Bill" Shay and Art Thomas for the North squad and Johnny Altobello and Lawrence McGinnis for the South.

The colorful pre-game ceremony will be held beginning at 8:00 p.m. Ray McField will announce the colorful ceremony and Judy Peebles of Paducah will be at the organ.

Local fans will recall her rendition of state songs in previous encounters of the two teams. As the name of each player is called and he is introduced to the crowd, Miss Peebles instantly plays the state song of the player.

Robert Baar, popular professor in the Music Department of Murray State College will be the soloist for the evening.

Following the game the High School All American team will be announced by Chuck Taylor, internationally known cage expert who has attended all of the previous games.

Taylor picked the All-American team at the first North-South game in 1949, and he has continued it each year. Taylor will also name the top high school player of the nation, who is designated "Mr. Basketball."

Mason Copie was the first "Mr. Basketball" in 1949, with Gale Rose, Tom Gola, and Bruce Brothers receiving the honors in subsequent years.

Past North-South stars have entered in foibles, over the nation to spark their teams to championships.

Joe Riechy and Hal Christensen of the 1949 team enrolled in Brigham Young and Connie Rea at Centenary.

Gale Rose went to Kentucky from the 1950 squad, with Paluzzi at Holy Cross, Pettit at L.S.U., Rosenthal at Notre Dame and Hooper at Missouri.

In the 1951 squad Tom Gola went to LaSalle, Parsons to Washington, Merrill to Minnesota, Red Clark to L.S.U., and Wilfang to Missouri.

Bruce Brothers of the 1952 squad left Illinois. Jerry Bird entered Kentucky. Freeman, Ohio State, Howie Crittenden, Murray State and Tommy Heinsohn to Holy Cross.

Cope and Glocke of the 1949 squad are in the armed forces. Announcement of the All-American squad and "Mr. Basketball" will follow the game.

The South is looking for a victory after only one win in the past four years. The Rebel squad won the first game, but have lost the three others.

The game has been playing to a full house each year, and hundreds are turned away because of lack of space.

It is hoped that the gym will be enlarged in time for the next game.

James M. Lassiter is general chairman of the North-South Cage Classic, with Roy Stewart vice-chairman.

Seventy-four persons comprise the full commission including the Commissioners and the various committees that handle the many phases of the event.

The finance committee under E. F. Settle is responsible for financing the growing project. Marvin Wrother is chairman of the radio communications system used at the huge Elk City oil field brought dozens of trucks speeding in the Daniels' farm. Some 200 men worked to reach her in time.

W. B. Bedwell Dies Friday

W. B. "Boyd" Bedwell, age 79, passed away yesterday morning at 8:30 a.m. at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bill Neal on Alma Route 1. Death was due to paralysis and complications, it was reported.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. B. L. Grooms of Cottage Grove, Tenn., Mrs. Ira Tarlington, also of Cottage Grove, Mrs. Bill Neal Alma Route 1, and Mrs. Hargy Hopkins of Benlow five miles Lubie of Mayfield, Ocus of Benton, Toscoe of Hardin, Parvin of Garden City, Mich., and Cauter of Centerville, Mich. — one sister, Mrs. Lily Maflis of Mayfield; and one brother, Delmus of Paris, Tenn. He had thirty grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

He was a member of the Coldwater Baptist Church and the W.O.W. The funeral will be held at the West Fork Baptist Church with burial in the West Fork Cemetery.

The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Kentucky Hope

The South Squad is hoping for some good work from Earl Adkins of Ashland in the game Saturday. The 6'3" guard is a master at almost all types of shots and is a defensive rebounder of outstanding ability.

Kelvo The Great To Be Here Today

"Kelvo" the Kelvinator man will be at the Riley No. Two Store today according to Mr. Percy Jones, manager of the concern. Kelvo will test your credulity as he stands in the window.

If anyone can make Kelvo smile he will be rewarded with a Kelvinator appliance of his choice, free.

Mr. Percy Jones invites the people of Murray to come by his store on North Third street to see Kelvo today.

Kelvo will be at the store between the hours of 2:00-3:00, 4:00-5:00, and 7:00-8:00.

North-South Star

Joe Todd plays on the Southern Squad.

County Lady Dies Friday

Mrs. Ida Harrison, age 72, passed away yesterday from complications following an illness of two years. Her death came at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. S. Grogan, of Murray Route 3.

She was the wife of the late John Harrison.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Grogan, and Mrs. Willard Watkins of Hardin Route 1, three brothers, Allen, Westford of Des-arc, Ark., Urban Westford of New Concord, and Claude of Lynn Grove.

She had two grandsons, Wendell Gene Watkins and Errol Wade Watkins; one great granddaughter, Sherrill Jean Watkins; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held in the Olive Methodist Church where the funeral will be held tomorrow at 2:30. Rev. Leslie Lee will officiate. Burial will be in the Olive cemetery. The body will be at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Watkins.

The Max H. Churchill Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Fish And Fishermen At Near Standstill

The State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources said today that the heat has affected both Kentucky fish and fishermen.

Very few anglers are fishing anywhere in the state, and those diehards haven't been able to boast about their luck.

Lake fishing is said to be almost at a standstill except at Lake Cumberland, where the bass have started to jump. Shad are schooling near the surface at Lake Cumberland, and the black bass are in hot pursuit.

Yanks Should Take Pennant By 15 Games Says Dimaggio

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK June 13 (UP)—Joe Dimaggio says his old Yankee team mates should win the pennant by 15 games, but the way they're going they might even top the record margin of 1942 for the American League set by the Bronx Bombers in its rookie year of 1903.

"They were 7 1/2 in front today, rolling relentlessly in a 15-game winning streak, the latest of which was a 4-2 victory over the alleged contenders from Cleveland Friday night. That 'come from behind' triumph over the runner-up Indians made it four in a row the Yankees have won from them without defeat.

Their first place margin, widest they ever have enjoyed in their five years under Manager Casey Stengel, was established with the season-not even a third completed. Should they continue to dominate the league at their present pace, they could finish better than 20 in front, exceeding even Dimaggio's optimistic prediction.

With Cleveland in front 1-0 on Dale Mitchell's fifth inning homer, the Yankees poured over three runs in the seventh on singles by Yogi Berra, Gene Woodling, Gil McDougal and Don Boltweg and a law's badge upon his vest, and once - only once - that Manning had failed. Now how had that set with Flint? There'd been no stigma in his failure. Flint Manning had built himself into a legend, and afterwards people had proudly pointed to his one defeat as proof that the legend was human. They'd remembered that Flint Manning had cut his gear in the Kansas trail towns and known Miles City in its roaring days, and they'd been pleased as Punch that he'd brought his trade to the Bootjack and taken the sheriff's badge. They'd read you off the names of the rustlers and holdups, and killers he'd stowed away in stony lonesome. But Cole Manning had no such glorious record to back him if he didn't succeed.

No, he was merely a man who was supposed to live up to another's reputation. Tom Flowers was expecting him to fail. So were the newspapers that had jeered at his appointment and even cartoons showing him sitting full-grown on his father's knee like some silly ventriloquist's dummy. Just remembering what those newspapers had said was enough to draw his face tight as he sat contemplating the task ahead. Chasing a shadow, that's what the job amounted to. Maybe if he cocked his ears hard he could catch the ghostly hoofbeats of a man who'd ridden at moonrise on a night twenty-four years gone. But when he listened, he heard only the sighing of the wind in the pine tops, the cawing of crows, and a distant stirring in the brush that might be a black bear lumbering along.

Astride his sorrel mare he dropped steadily downward and wheeled lower till he had to tip his sombrero against it, he was content to idle here, looking down on the land where he'd been born and spent his early years. This was an edge to a hanger that was not of the belly. This was like a homecoming, yet it was more significant than that. He wore a badge, and here he would be tested to prove whether he were worthy of that badge. Senator Flowers, who'd yanked the strings and got things fixed up pronto, had made that plain without saying so. There was a trail twenty-four years old that had to be found. His job was to cut aign in the manner of Flint Manning. Manning... There was a name to conjure with, and it was no name, too. Once another Manning had ridden this basin with the

Patton-Ray Engagement

Miss Latetia Zann Patton

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Patton of Murray announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Latetia Zann Patton, to Mr. Lexie Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Ray of Bonne Terre, Mo. Miss Patton is a graduate of Murray High School and is now a junior at Murray State College where she is majoring in commerce. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha social sorority. Mr. Ray was an honor graduate of Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., with a major in Bible. He was graduated from Murray State College in June. The wedding will take place Sunday, July 19, at three o'clock in the afternoon at the Murray Church of Christ. All friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Engagement Of Miss Zann Patton And Lexie Ray Announced At Lawn Party Last Night

Mrs. Earl Douglas entertained with an announcement party for Miss Zann Patton whose wedding to Mr. Lexie Ray will be performed on July 17 at the Murray Church of Christ. The lawn party was held on Friday evening from six to half-past seven o'clock.

Miss Tarry Honors Bride-elect With Shower Thursday

Miss Marlene Swann, who will be married to Rufus Hourigan on Sunday at the First Baptist Church, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower on Thursday evening at seven-thirty o'clock. The shower was given by Miss Margaret Ann Tarry at the home of her aunts, Misses Laurine and Hazel Tarry, on South Twelfth Street. Beautiful arrangements of roses and larkspur were used at vantage-points throughout the house. One special arrangement held a miniature bride statuette in the center of the bouquet. A treasure hunt was the way in which the gifts were presented to the honoree. Cards were placed at various places and the last card told the "hiding place of the gifts. Miss Swann chose to wear for the shower a trowsseur frock of white and brown checked organdy. She was presented a corsage of white gladioli by the hostess. A party plate was served to the eighteen persons present. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark of Seattle, Wash., are visiting his parents, his brother, Kenneth, and her sister, Mrs. Wildie Ellis and family. A. C. Burnett of Cadiz is the guest of his sister, Mrs. H. H. Ray, South Ninth Street.

HALL HOOD
Announces as Candidate for Office of County Judge
In Democratic Primary August 1, 1953

Space will hardly permit me to make an accounting of my stewardship as County Judge for the last three years, but within the limited space available may I be permitted to make a report to you.

Stewardship requires the individual to use his time, abilities, experience, vision and ideals in promoting and advancing the trust bestowed upon him. I have endeavored to keep these obligations in mind and conduct myself accordingly. I have devoted much of my attention to developing a comprehensive road program in the county, and we have accomplished a great deal toward that end. When the present Court came into office, we had no adequate road machinery with which to do road work. We have been able to buy for the county, crawler tractors, bulldozers, graders, shovel and ditcher, and place in the district tractor blade graders, in all, counting replacements, a total of approximately $26,000.

By entering into rather favorable contractual agreements with the State Highway Department, we have been able to collect in rentals from the state almost enough to pay for the machinery, and we now have, in our fourth year in office, all of the above machinery in use. I have devoted almost all my attention to farm to market roads and to obtaining from the state construction of bridges that the county could not under any circumstances construct. I have also devoted much attention and time, contact and consultation with the State Highway Department, seeking to obtain new state roads for the county, and that program is now in full swing with two new roads already surveyed, and three or more planned for the immediate future. I would like to say more about the road program, and probably will at a later date.

The courthouse was finished in 1913, and for forty years there was no driveway into the courthouse for the delivery of coal into the basement or for any other purpose. One of the first things I did was have a driveway constructed. There had never been a walkway away from the outside walk to the gentlemen's rest room. I had such a walkway constructed. The courtyard was badly in need of maintenance, and with the cooperation of the Fiscal Court and Jailor, the yard has been put in very fine condition. It is my dream, when and if funds are available, to move the jail from the third floor to the basement room under the vicinity of the Sheriff's office. The basement can be excavated here with no great difficulty and the jail moved there. The jail, probably should never have been placed on the third floor. The fire hazard is too great and the difficulty of caring for prisoners is too great. The court-house is needing redecoration, and has needed it ever since I have been in office, but I have been firmly of the opinion that the roads and bridges needed to have the benefit of all available money rather than spending the money at this time on the courthouse. My own office is badly in need of repair, and has been all the time, but I would rather use my office in its dingy condition and build one more bridge than paint the office and do without the bridge.

The wiring in the courthouse had rotted out, so the experts said, and we rewired the court house at a cost of more than $1,000. This was necessary and required by the Fire Marshal's office at Frankfort. As County Judge, I have been, and am, Judge of the Juvenile Court, the sole and only person having exclusive jurisdiction of juvenile delinquents, and I have approached this problem with the seasoned background of father of four children and grandfather of eight grandchildren, and the problem of the youth has always been treated with the greatest of sympathy and understanding by me. Your County Judge presides over four courts, County Court, Quarterly Court, Juvenile Court and Fiscal Court. I have at all times attempted to approach all judicial matters with a free and open mind, and avail myself of the knowledge and experience in the law gained by college training and experience over many, many years. I shall appreciate your vote, and whomever to me, I shall feel it expresses your confidence in me and your faith in my purpose to do justice and deal fairly in all matters that come before me.

Sincerely,
R. Hall Hood
