Ridiculous Situation

Every time we hear of additional proof of federal government stupidity we think the limit has been reached. That is certainly our reaction to the announcement that more than 20 per cent of the government's employees in the District of Columbia are delinquent in their income taxes.

Reports state the internal revenue service is trying to collect from 25,000 federal employees in Washington who have defaulted on the 1952 income taxes. How in the world could this happen? Employees in private industry can't default. The government has seen to it that the employee doesn't get a chance to default because he never sees that portion of his wages, or salary, that goes to Uncle Sam. His employer is guilty of a felony if he pays it to the employees instead of turning it in to the nearest Federal Reserve Bank.

The department can't wait until the end of the quarter to get the employees' tax. The employer must turn it in at the end of the month. Which means the government collects taxes, also interest for eleven months, on every dime deducted from a pay envelope.

One wonders how a gigantic organization like the federal government can exist when it fails to deduct taxes from the salaries of its own employees. It does so only by collecting about twice as much from wage earners and alarmed employees in private enterprise as it would have otherwise.

Last year when we heard so much about "the mess in Washington" we don't know the half of it. Now that it is being so rapidly cleaned up we hear even more containing than we did then because the chiselers are making such a loud noise. Also most of them have relatives, ends and neighbors who hate to see them so rudely separated from the public benefits that have sustained them so long.

If we feel inclined to sympathize with a federal employee who is inconvenienced because he has to pay last year's income taxes we might remind ourselves that ours were paid without us even experiencing the pleasure of spending the currency in our fingers.

If 20 per cent of all the taxpayers were delinquent in their income taxes the budget would be twelve billion more out of balance than it is. In other words the government would have collected forty-eight billions last year instead of more than sixty billions.

Murderers Could Die Together

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23 (AP)—Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Heady could die together in Missouri's gas chamber.

The confessed kidnap-slayers of six-year-old Bobby Greenhouse, who demanded and got a record $500,000 ransom, were in custody here, awaiting formal grand jury indictment for violation of the Lindbergh kidnap law. After the indictment is returned they will go to trial.

A death sentence would result in their transfer to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City for execution in the manner prescribed by the laws of the place within which a sentence is imposed.

The federal government uses local facilities for its executions under provisions of the U.S. Code, title 18, section 3566.

The potassium cyanide pellets of the gas chamber are swift. Death comes in two to three minutes, though it requires about 45 minutes before two physicians make the official death pronouncement.

Hall and Mrs. Heady die in Missouri, the exit of the man who wanted only easy money and the woman who would rather be dead than poor, will be made in drab baskets.

If nobody claims the body of an executed prisoner at Jefferson City it is shipped to St. Louis for use by medical students.

BOY SCOUTS SYMBOLIZE FREEDOM, OPPORTUNITY
"My interest in Scouting is of long standing. The Boy Scouts of America symbolize freedom and opportunity, and it is the duty of every citizen to join the program designed to train our youth in citizenship, duty to God and country, and duty to themselves.

Let us not forget that our Boy Scouts develop the qualities of manhood that will insure government of the people, by the people and for the people. We must stand behind them in their endeavors!"

Lawrence W. Wetherby, Governor Commonwealth of Kentucky, Frankfort, Kentucky.

SCOUTING TEACHES ONE TO GET ALONG WITH HIS FELLOW MAN

The Boy Scouts of America are conducting their annual campaign for operating funds. Everyone wants to help expand this outstanding youth program.

Porter Sims, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, says, "It's not only a privilege but a decided pleasure for me to give my endorsement to the Boy Scouts of America. I say this because the Boy Scouts teach a youth to get along with his fellows; to love people and to respect the rights and feelings of others; that to be loved and respected by people is more to be desired than great learning, than riches or high achievement. The organization teaches boys self-reliance, integrity, and to play the game of life in a fair and manly manner; to lose with a smile and not to sulk or to be too greatly depressed at a defeat."

Help the Boy Scouts in your community with your support, now.

State Oil Production Record Set Last Year

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's oil production for 1952 reached an all-time high of 11,179,933 barrels—571,121 barrels above 1951, the previous high year, it was disclosed today by A. D. Sisk, Chief of the State Department of Mines and Minerals.

Increase was principally due to increased drilling in the Western and South-Central portions of the State, with water-flood projects in both Eastern and Western Kentucky accounting for part of the increase.

The Western Kentucky field was the most active section, according to Sisk, accounting for a majority of the new discoveries and approximately 80 per cent of the total oil production. This section accounted for 1,139 wells drilled, compared with 1,060 for the preceding year.

Eastern Kentucky developments were limited principally to further extensions of the Big Sandy gas field, and a small oil pool was discovered in Greenup County, while the South-Central area, principally because of the Monroe County development, accounted for increased production of approximately 150,000 barrels.

Western Kentucky produced 270,770,000 cubic feet of natural gas while the Eastern Kentucky field accounted for open-field development of 147,772,000 cubic feet.
