President's Message

Dear Fellow Alumni,

As a graduate of the Class of 64, my nursing career began in the operating room at Jefferson and continued in Texas and Southern California. I returned to the Philadelphia area in 1987, working in suburban hospitals (OR nursing of course). Reflecting on the many changes that occurred in my life, there is no doubt the education I received at Jefferson (3 year Diploma Program) sustained me.

On May 3rd when I assumed office from Sally Hindson Wagner, Class of 54, I felt anxious and overwhelmed thinking of the list of responsibilities. When I finished writing the 2nd Annual Giving letter, typing the minutes from the May meeting and now my President's Message, I replace the anxiety with feelings of gratitude for the encouragement and support Sally Wagner and Paula Levine have given me in beginning the process of learning my new responsibilities as President.

I am appealing to my fellow Alumni for your help and ACTIVE participation in assisting your peers with continuing the Alumni Association's many endeavors.

A way to realize these goals in 2008-2009, I believe, is to establish Satellite meeting groups throughout the country. Presently the central Pennsylvania Satellite group has luncheon meetings with guest speakers. Please contact the Alumni office for information regarding procedures for the formation of new Satellite groups. Programs of the Satellites can provide an educational stimulus for increased attendance, as well as an opportunity for our Alumni to share ideas and experiences. The Satellites will make for an exciting and interesting future for the Alumni, especially classmates who have moved to other states. Thus they will be able to be ACTIVE members!

I'm happy to have returned to my roots and look forward with pride to the challenge and growth for our Alumni Association as President.

Sincerely,

Jeanetta Capotosto Clark

Diploma Nursing School Uniforms Over the Years

Committee Reports

Social Committee

This year, May 3, 2008 marked the 75th Anniversary of our annual Jefferson Nurses' Alumni Association Luncheon. Members of the Jefferson Nurses Alumni gathered to celebrate yet another landmark in our legacy of celebrations. Traditionally, as in past years, the luncheon is held on the first Saturday in May.

One hundred and seventy alumni were in attendance, many traveling distances from over sixteen states.

We feel honored and impressed by the presence of our most senior members. This year as in all but one year, Olga Dygan Mitchell, '39 was in attendance and next year will be her 70th Anniversary. We are all looking forward to celebrating with her again next year. Eight members were in attendance from the years 1945, 1946, and 1947. To honor them they were presented with an orchid corsage. The class of 1948, celebrating their 60th Anniversary, was 20 strong. Three members of the class of 1953 attended to celebrate their 55th. We were all delighted to see the class of 1958 with 31 members enjoying their very special 50th Anniversary. Many felt that it could hardly be possible that so many years have gone by.

Thirteen members of the class of 1963 celebrated their 45th which included Dr. Mary Greenwood Schaal who conducted a tour for all at the new Dorrance Hamilton Building. The facility is quite impressive to say the least. We can all be proud of all that is going on in Nursing Education, especially at Jefferson. We are thankful to Mary Schaal for her outstanding contribution in Jefferson's endeavor for excellence. Thirty-five members of the class of the class of 1968 came to celebrate their 40th and eight members of the class of 1973 were here to celebrate their 35th.

Our most recent Anniversary class was the class of 1978 celebrating their 30th.

The morning started off with our annual membership meeting. It was followed with a social hour with lots of catching up to do. The lunch was very graciously handled by our catering manager, Chuck Mullin, and his very competent and attentive staff. The flowers were a great asset to the tables. Jeanette Plaster, '51 handled the details of ordering the flowers and we are impressed by her attention to detail.

Our retiring president, Sally Wagner, who faithfully served the Alumni for over 12 years, was presented with a traditional bouquet of Red Roses. We will miss Sally very much as President but we look forward to her continued support and assistance. She has been a wonderful President and friend to all.

We continue to be very fortunate to have the opportunity to be part of such an organization as our Alumni Association. The annual luncheon provides a social and professional opportunity to share some time with old and new friends. We look forward to seeing you at our next luncheon. We hope you can be with us.

Respectively submitted,
Jane Ryan Dietrich, '59
Social Chair

Relief Fund Committee

This past year, the "Jefferson Relief Fund" document guidelines for the disbursement of this fund by the Alumni Association were clarified with minor changes made. The Application # 1 was also updated and is included in this Bulletin. If criteria are met, Application # 2 will be sent for additional information. This year funds were granted to 1 applicant and we are waiting for application # 2 from a second applicant. Currently, no one is receiving monthly funds since this is not a retirement fund but was designed to help individuals who are in need of temporary help. As stated in Application # 1, pregnancy and its complications, cosmetic surgery (unless trauma related) and dental surgery are excluded. Anyone in need of temporary assistance is urged to complete the Application # 1. We would be pleased to assist our fellow alumni in any way possible, within the guidelines of the Fund's criteria.

Nominating Committee Report

Looking into the future for the continued success of our Alumni Association, I encourage more of our members to become active participants in the affairs of the Association. Several members of the Board of Directors will have their terms expiring in 2009, so there may be further board member positions open at that time. In May 2008, our Association elected Eileen Ishuin MacMillan, ('76), as our new President-Elect, since Jeanetta Capostosto Clark, ('64) has assumed the role of President of the Alumni Association. In May of 2009, we will be electing new board members for expiring terms; would you please consider becoming a board member, and or/nominating other classmates to fill the positions on our alumni board?

Janet C. Hindson Recipient and Nominees

Recipient 2008

Patricia Horner, RN, BS, MSN, APRN

Tish has faithfully served Jefferson and the community for 35 years. During this time she has held various roles including staff RN, evening supervisor and now clinical specialist on 3E/NE. She is also chairperson of the Falls Prevention Resource Group.

Committed to nursing Excellence and Quality Care, Tish always puts patients and their families first. She is a patient advocate and proactive for the relief of pain and suffering. Her warm smile has put many patients and families at ease.

Tish has made a difference in our staff's advancement toward Clinical excellence. Her co-workers appreciate her positive manner. She is always willing to help the team and lend a hand, all with compassion, calmness and grace.

Another admirable asset is her dedication to advancing clinical knowledge and encouraging professional growth in her staff. She shares her wealth of knowledge in nursing procedures, medication and assessment skills and sets the bar high for standards of practice and professionalism. She instituted Wound Care Wednesday and piloted the Rapid Response Team program and hourly rounding. Tish also championed the Falls Fair in November and Patient Carnival in March.

In addition, Tish is working on several projects, helping us to move forward on the Magnet mission. She also was published in the August '07 issue of American Journal of Nursing. Her abstract for the Falls Conference in Clearwater, Florida was also accepted. She has clearly made a commitment to nursing.

Nominees

Rita M. Battaglini, RN, BSN, OCN

An oncology nurse at the Breast Care Center, Rita is admired as an outstanding nurse and a wonderful woman.

As a nurse in the challenging field of oncology, Rita oversees the needs of patients with breast cancer. Her warm smile and cheery personality mean so much to these women who are going through a difficult situation. Her patients can count on Rita to be there with them, whether it is to hold their hands or simply listen.

Rita always goes the extra mile not only for her patients, but also for the physicians and office staff. Rita is a special person and it takes someone like her to be an oncology nurse. Jefferson's Breast Care Center and its patients are fortunate to have her.

Mary Johnson, RN

Mary deserves recognition for her expertise in nursing and her dedication to the profession. She has held many positions including nursing supervisor, overseeing the staffing of the department and helping with vital daily activities. She is no stranger to the bedside.

Knowing the true meaning of the word "team", Mary brings her years of experience to her fellow nurses who rely on her knowledge, skills and friendly manner. She goes above and beyond for both her patients and fellow staff members. As part of the staff in NICU, she has cared for many patients, mostly those with neurological complications and illnesses. Currently, she is a member of the staff of the Intermediate SICU, caring for surgical and trauma patients. Mary frequently acts as charge nurse, responsible for the nursing assignments, facilitating the transfer of patients and caring for her own patients. In addition, Mary chairs the SICU's Professional Development Committee. This is part of Jefferson's Magnet initiative that is focused on the education and retention of staff.

Recipient's Acceptance Speech

Kay Miller, RN

For more than 30 years Kay Miller, RN, has been an outstanding professional and contributor to the Cardeza Hemophilia Center, their patients, families and medical staff.

Kay has demonstrated the effectiveness of professional autonomy, thereby affecting patient care, patient outcomes and the professional image of nursing.

As a professional nurse, Kay realizes there are dimensions to chronic illness. As a witness to treatment modalities over the years and their successes and failures, Kay is an invaluable resource to physicians and nurses alike.

Her greatest contribution, however, is her loyalty to her patients and their families. She is ever present as the advocate whether they are hospitalized, or in need of support in their daily life activities. This advocacy is often the difference that helps her patients manage their sometimes-unmanageable lives.

She is inspired by those she cares for, and is an inspiration to those who know her.

Margaret Mulcahy, RN

In her role as the nurse at Jefferson-Honickman Breast Imaging, Margie brings her expertise and compassion to an often stressful and emotional experience for patients. To patients and her colleagues, her character, professionalism, warmth, and sense of humor are evident. She is a diligent patient advocate, making sure that necessary studies and information are available, to ensure the best level of care. As the only clinical nurse in our department, she offers valued perspective. She is liked by all, and helps everyone – technologists, physicians, clerical staff – do what they do better.

Beyond her expertise, professionalism, leadership, and warm personality, what is most remarkable is her genuine concern and care for her patients. She reminds her colleagues that they should treat patients the way they would want to be treated. Margie is altruistic, allowing her loving care to reach beyond her patients and overflow into the hearts of her co-workers and colleagues.

Margie's energetic enthusiasm for her vocation and her dedication to patient care is unlimited.

Theresa O'Brien, RN, MSN, CCE

Terry has held various nursing positions at Jefferson during which time she pursued and completed a BSN, MSN and a certification as a childbirth educator. She has been a staff nurse on units including Postpartum, Labor and Delivery and Oral Surgery and has also served as nurse manager, nurse recruiter, clinical nursing instructor and clinical nurse specialist. Twice in her career, she earned the Star Employee Recognition Award.

Terry currently serves as both the manager of the Parent Education Program and the Women's Health Source. She continuously provides service excellence to patients and peers. Terry accomplishes a great deal in a compassionate, respectful and professional, yet sensitive manner that exemplifies the true "caring" model.

She has been successful in preceptoring, educating and mentoring both graduate and undergraduate nursing students, nursing staff and patients. Terry supports staff members' professional growth through continuing education and obtaining certifications.

Terry serves on numerous hospital and community committees. In all her roles, Terry has a positive impact on patient, staff, students, the community and other health care professionals.

I am thrilled and honored to receive the Janet Hindson Award. In fact, there is no higher honor that could have been given to me. First I would like to thank Liz-Guenther for writing such a beautiful letter for my nomination. I would like to thank Janet Hindson's sister, Sally. I'm sure you knew your sister better than anyone present today; you know how nursing was so important to Janet. In fact, nursing at Jefferson was Janet.

I would like to thank the nominating committee. Many on the committee I have known for many years, and I know, and I you truly understand Janet's commitment to nursing. I can't express how important it is to me that you think I hold and exemplify Janet's values.

I would also like to thank my family and friends. My husband, Ken, my three sons, Dan, Jeff and Steve, my new daughter, Carol, Dan's wife, and my friend since nursing school, Pat. They have listened to all my nursing stories, understood when I came home late, and encouraged me when I didn't think I could be a nurse one more day.

I would like everyone to know how fortunate I was to know Janet Hindson. She was my first Nursing Supervisor. In today's nursing environment, that fact may not be meaningful, but when I entered the Jefferson family, that fact was extremely important. In 1972 when I started at Jefferson, I was 21 years old. I had just moved out on my own. I had a wealth of knowledge that Villanova had bestowed on me, but I had little practical experience. But in less than two months of starting, I was the most experienced nurse on my unit. I was close to a panic state. But what sustained me was my nursing supervision staff. My head nurse was Katie Dugery, who is here today, and my supervisor was Janet Hindson. Without the two of them, I would not be here today. But more than that, they instilled in me values that have helped deal with nursing issues over the last 35 years. During all those years, whenever I was given a clinical or ethical dilemma I thought about how Janet or Katie would have handled the situation.

I had a forewarning that I may have to say a few words today. So I thought about how I could best convey what Janet meant and did for me. Before I go any further, let me tell you I could never call Janet Hindson, Janet. She was always Miss Hindson. I can still hear her saying, "Miss Maguire, did you polish your shoes today?" "Well, I certainly hope your cap is clean."

Since I was so young and inexperienced when I started here in 1972 (please don't calculate my age), I needed a mother/nurse just like her. Janet's nurturing side helped her fill that roll. Like all mothers, she had eyes in the back of her head. Every time I wasn't doing the perfect thing, she was there – "Miss Maguire, what are you doing?" But she was there when I needed support, my first code, my first death, and so many other firsts. For you see, all Jefferson nurses were her children. She exemplified the Caring Model Jefferson's nursing department has adopted. Janet was a woman ahead of her time.

To explain this better, I thought I should read you a letter I could write to Janet, oh, I'm sorry, Miss Hindson today.

Dear Miss Hindson,

You'll never guess what is happening today. I am receiving an award in your honor. Some people think I hold the same values you hammered into my head. I can't let a patient suffer in pain. Neither could you. There is always something we can do. I'm always encouraging the nurses on my unit to do better; go back to school, get certified, go to a conference. You always told me to be the best I could be. I always try to advocate for our patients; the unfortunate that don't have health insurance or those that can't speak for themselves. I try, but there seems to be more and more obstacles.

But enough of the problems, let me fill you in on the gossip. Remember the new graduate, Mary Ann McGinley. She is now the VP of Patient Services. I guess we oriented her well! And then how about Heidi Purvis, she is my Nurse Manager on 3E/NE. Katie is retired, but I'm lucky enough to occasionally see her. And then there are so many that are still working here that have encouraged their children to become nurses and work here. In fact, I am one of those. My son, Steven, will start working on 5NE in June. I am thrilled and proud. But in a way, he is the next generation of your legacy.

As I see so many nurses in the audience, I see so many people who have helped me become the professional nurse I am today. Many people believe my values are like yours. I hope they are right. Please remember, you are and have always been my ideal. Please continue to guide all the new nurses, especially my son.

With all my love,

Patricia Maguire Horner

The Janet C. Hindson Award

Ode to Sally

For the last twelve years, Sally served us well,
How she does it? We can't tell.
What a gem from the "Class of '54"
She is full of knowledge plus Jefferson lore.
The operation, foundation and heritage of the
The Alumni Association handled with love.
The constitution, the by-laws and of course the computer,
What a challenge for this Jersey commuter.
A tireless worker, with her husband John.
They must get up at the crack of dawn.
To drive to Philly, from down the shore.
It certainly for them was never a chore.
To the Edison Building on the seventh floor,
Together they work even more.
The torch she has carried and carried so well
Does 1895 ring a bell?
That's when our Association had its start.
And Sally our President has had a big part.
Now her role is going to change
But Sally will never be out of range.
Her leadership style never impeded.
She plans her meetings and gets the work done.

She relies on input from everyone.
The attendance, the minutes, the treasurer's report,
The scholarships, Relief Fund, how she holds up the fort!
Writing, and signing and writing again,
The ink must run dry from her trusty old pen,
Over 600 "Thank You" cards a year
Sally still smiles from ear to ear.
Then there's the Bulletin published each year
With a message from Sally loud and clear.
About the Relief Trust Fund and Scholarships too
And news about each and everyone of you.
She shares the office coordinator's hat
With Paula, and she is great with that.
They will send flowers, if you let them know
That you turned 80, cause it doesn't show.
Now as this Ode must come to an end
May I say to Sally, a nurse and a friend.
A great big thank you from all of us
We just had to make a great, big fuss.
You're a hard act to follow but we'll do our share
To keep our Association alive, 'cause we all care.

Sally's Appreciation

What an honor to be shown appreciation for what I thoroughly enjoyed doing and it was a privilege to be the President of this outstanding Alumni Association.

The framework and foundation that was established, adhered to, and improved upon as the challenges arose through the many years of existence, were my guidelines in making decisions that epitomized the Philosophy and Heritage as established in 1895.

Thank you for your many Accolades, my Diamond Bracelet, which I shall proudly wear at all the Alumni functions, and the beautiful Red Roses, which was the symbol that the Nurses' Alumni Association gave each of us as we were launched on our Professional Careers.

Sincerely,

Sarah (Sally) Hindson Wagner

News About and From Our Graduates

Miss Anna Kuba, Class of 1945

A 1945 graduate of the Diploma Nursing Program at Jefferson, Miss Anna Kuba recalls that things were much different when she was a student. "There were very few private rooms – it was mostly big wards that were staffed by usually one nurse, and lots of students and volunteers. An appendectomy patient would be hospitalized for two weeks! We worked 10-12 hour days and had only two half-days off each week."

After graduation, Miss Kuba became a nursing instructor in the Jefferson School of Nursing, where she remained until 1954. During that time, she earned her BS and Master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. Then came stints as a nursing instructor at Penn and at Boston University followed by positions with the National League for Nursing, the American Nurses Association, and the North Carolina Board of Nursing as an Executive Director.

Fifteen years ago, Miss Kuba sat down with her lawyer to decide which type of Trust arrangement would be the most advantageous for her and for Jefferson – where she wanted to support nursing education. A Charitable Remainder Trust was the answer – a strategy that would provide a steady income for her during her retirement years, yet, upon her death when the Trust expires, Jefferson's Nursing Education Program would receive a large contribution.

Very active in her retirement, Miss Kuba has traveled the world – Europe, Africa, the Far East, and her favorite, Australia. Fortunately, Miss Kuba's heart is still with Jefferson. We thank Miss Anna Kuba for her thoughtful planning.

JEANNE NULL
Prospect Park, Pa.

If you feel a draft or see a flash of pink whiz by, you'll know it's "Miss Perpetual Motion" executing her duties with zest, vim, and vitality. Jeanne who is always on the go, is right on deck when a good time is to be had. With her cheerful laughter and her happy-go lucky nature this petite, talkative little lass creates a jovial atmosphere.

Jeanne Null was born at Jefferson Hospital. Little did she or her family know at the time that Jeanne would graduate from Jefferson Hospital's Diploma School of Nursing in the Class of 1946 after having graduated from Eddystone High School in 1943, or that two of her three children would also be born at Jefferson.

Jeanne Null married Thomas J. Collevchio in 1949. They were married for 52 years before he passed away in 2001. During their lives together they had three children and four grandchildren. They especially enjoyed treating their grandchildren to a summer vacation in Ocean City, New Jersey, a family tradition uninterrupted for nearly 30 years.

After graduation from Jefferson's School of Nursing, Jeanne started her nursing career at Jeff and remained employed in a variety of nursing positions for most of her life, only retiring in 2004. Of all Jeanne's positions, Jeanne felt most gratified by her private duty experiences involving hospice care, and her school nurse assignments assisting children with special needs.

One of her favorite stories involved the "Jeff cap" which she always wore with her uniform. While working per diem on a busy hospital floor, she was always mistaken as "the one in charge wearing the cap". Eventually a formal request was made by someone who really was in charge, and Jeanne had to reluctantly leave her cap at home for good.

Jeanne Null Collevchio treasured as her life-long friend, her classmate, Betty Yost Zehner. Jeanne's message for her 50th Anniversary Class Bulletin was, "Graduating from Jefferson was probably the best thing I've ever done and it has brought me the most pleasures and rewards."

Jeanne Null Collevchio passed away on May 31, 2008. She is deeply loved and is missed by her family.

Dorthea Richter Lewis, Class of 1938

DOROTHEA M. RICHTER

Dover, Del.

"Dotty"

It isn't only men who prefer blondes. The women do too, when it comes to Dotty. Her sense of responsibility and good housekeeping make her a desirable nurse.

The News Journal GARY EMMER
Dorthea Lewis is presented with an encased American flag Wednesday by a member of the Dover 193 color guard. As a 25-year-old lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps during World War II, Lewis was awarded the Bronze Star for valor.

92-year-old was leader of the Normandy Nightingales

Dorothea (Dorothy) Richter Lewis, now 92, became a bona fide American military hero at age 25.

When she began her career path, joining the army wasn't part of the plan. She trained as a nurse at Philadelphia's Jefferson Hospital and worked there, at Duke University Hospital and as a private-duty nurse before taking preliminary steps to become an airline hostess.

But instead, she joined the Army. Her Bronze Star medal recognizes courage and meritorious service.

On Wednesday, Richter – who's now Dorothy Lewis by way of her 1947 marriage to Maurice Lewis – was honored by an admiring crowd of about 80 convened by officials of the Air Mobility Command Museum at Dover Air Force Base and swelled by fellow residents of Cadbury at Lewes, a retirement community.

"I'm really speechless," said Lewis, who according to son Maurice Lewis had fretted all week about being the center of attention at Wednesday's ceremony.

"It's quite an honor to be here. All these people are friends of mine. It's just unbelievable," she said.

The Lewes native was leader of the Normandy Nightingales, a group of 18 nurses who – with shells bursting all around and bullets whizzing by – treated wounded Allied soldiers on France's Omaha Beach beginning four days after June 6, 1944, Normandy invasion.

For most visitors, Wednesday's event offered a first opportunity to view a museum exhibit that features a mannequin wearing Lewis' form-fitting uniform from the time and a photo of Lewis getting out of a troop carrier after arriving at Omaha Beach aboard the William N. Pendleton, A U.S. Merchant Marine freighter. She was accompanied by Frances Slinger, who was killed by mortar in October 1944 and thus became the only Nightingale to be lost in the war.

"Some of our men still were strung up in trees," 87-year-old Mae A. "Monti" Bowen, a native of Winsocket, R.I., who was with Lewis at Omaha Beach, recalled for reporters after the ceremony. "We were being strafed by planes. You just had to take everything as it came along."

A third Army nurse – 86-year-old Grace McDonnell, a Raleigh, N.C., native who like Bowen now lives at the Westminster assisted-living complex in north Dover – didn't know Lewis. While Lewis and Bowen were at Omaha Beach,

McDonnell said, she remained at a 1,400-bed hospital in England that treated troops ferried to the facility from various battlefronts.

"It was a very important time in our lives," McDonnell said.

The lectern for speakers at the ceremony was located under the nose of the "Turf & Sport Special", a C-47A Sky-train cargo plane that saw its first action in the D-Day invasion.

It was delivered in April 1944 to the 61st Trooper Carrier Squadron in Saltby, England, and was named by its first pilot, Tech. Sgt. Wingfield E. "Bing" Wood, for his favorite sports magazine.

Hank Baker, master of ceremonies, said Lewis was intimately acquainted with the plane and at one point was slated to arrive at Omaha Beach in a glider towed by the aircraft.

After joining the Army, Lewis was stationed at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington before she was sent to Puerto Rico.

After the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, she was transferred to Fort Bragg in Fayetteville, N.C., where she was commissioned as a first lieutenant and joined the 45th Field Hospital Unit of the Army Nurse Corp.

From there, she went to England to help set up a hospital in anticipation of the invasion of Normandy. More than 15,000 Allied soldiers were killed or wounded in the invasion and the offensive that followed, which are credited with helping bring World War II to an end a year later.

And Lewis, Bowen and McDonnell can claim a share of the credit for the Allied victory.

"She was a hero in the war, and she's been a hero in our family for all our lives," Maurice Lewis Lewis said of his mother, who left the Army in 1947 and soon gave up nursing to help tend the family's peach and apple orchards.

According to McDonnell, only three of the 18 Nightingales still are living, and Baker called it providential that two of them live in Delaware. Lt. Col. Marcia Potter, chief nurse for the 436th Medical Group at DAFB, agreed.

"I stand here, and I'm just speechless to read of your accomplishments and your awesome courage," Potter said.

Interview with a Nurse

Interview with a Nurse: Education and Experience Count

Jean McCoy Parchebel, Class of 1952 was a participant in the following interview conducted on the Internet by Nursing Schools.Org in early 2007.

Q: What drew you to nursing? Were other members of your family nurse and doctors?

Jean Pachelbel: When I was six years old, I was a patient in a hospital for a tonsillectomy. The nurse who prepared me for surgery came into my room to give me a pre-operative injection. She stood beside me and made sure there were no air bubbles in it. The needle was just above my head. It had a barb hook on the end that probably looked larger to me than it actually was. She put that barb against the skin of my buttock and pushed while telling me, "This won't hurt." When she left the room, I told my mother that I was going to be a nurse when I grew up because I knew I could do a better job than that! There were no other family members who were in the medical professions. My mother wanted to be a nurse, but she had an aunt who was a nurse who discouraged her. That was in the 1930's when nurses worked twelve hour shifts, six days a week. Aunt Jesse paid my mother's tuition to become a teacher.

Q: What was school like? Did you start out studying toward an RN, or did you want to specialize?

JP: Going to school was an adventure because I left a town of 1,000 population, rode for 8 hours and 250 miles on the train to Philadelphia where they had streetcars and subways. We had doctors who did most of our lectures and were experts in their fields. I knew when I started that my first goal was my RN. My long term goal was to specialize in Pediatrics - I raised four children of my own.

Q: At your first job after school, was it anything like you expected? What was your first job?

JP: My first job after graduation was private duty nursing. It was like a deep breath after the heavy scheduling and studying. I was scolded by the director of nursing. "We need good nurses like you at the bedside." I told her that I needed a chance to practice all that I had learned. I must say that I was attracted to private duty because I could make the top dollar being offered at the time, $12.00 per day. To put that into perspective, in 1952 my room mate and I shared the $75.00 rent each month for our furnished apartment.

Q: How did you manage your work schedule and your real life? Did you find it hard to balance everything?

JP: Managing to keep a balance between my work and the rest of my life was not hard. It did take some arranging after I started a family, but nurses were in demand in the job market and most hospitals allowed a flexible schedule.

Q: How did the more experienced nurses treat you and other new nurses?

JP: Most of the older nurses took us new nurses under their wing and gave us plenty of chances to grow. They remembered how it felt when they started.

Q: Did it get easier to work with patients as you went along?

JP: It did get easier to work with patients as I got more experience. Each case provided another chapter in my knowledge base. As I tried to teach my patients good health practices, they taught me about cultural differences. I learned to respect those differences.

Q: What was your favorite nursing task?

JP: Teaching a patient to understand their disease, to relax their fear, and to see them getting well was a favorite nursing task.

Q: What was your least favorite?

JP: The hardest part was to watch a child die. The pain of the loss seemed harder to deal with.

Q: If you knew then, what you know now, what would you tell yourself?

JP: If I knew then what I know now, I would tell myself, "Good choice!" I had a job for over 50 years that I did not always like, but I always loved it. I learned so much about myself while I learned about taking care of others. It made me a better wife, mother and person. At one point in my career I thought I wanted to be a doctor. Now I know that being a nurse allowed me to be much closer to the people in my care. Although nurses make much better pay now for their work, there are other rewards.

Sharing some "Thank You" quotes from our Birthday Flowers/Cards graduates.

Thank you for the beautiful bouquet of flowers. I admire our fine and active alumni who are most thoughtful. Elizabeth Priscock, '47

"A picture is worth a thousand words", or so the saying goes. In this case the picture doesn't quite reflect the vibrancy and happiness of these flowers for me. Sara K. Little, '38

What a lovely gesture of kindness. I have so many memories of my years at Jefferson; memories of my "probie" years; learning new skills; the challenge of lifelong nursing profession and the friendships of so many wonderful classmates. Dorothy Trachen, '46

Memories

Jean Pachelbel grew up in Pennsylvania, went to nursing school at Thomas Jefferson Medical School, and met and married a traveling salesman. Their careers could not have meshed better; they moved nine times in their first twenty-five years of marriage. Wherever they lived, she could go to work as a nurse immediately. She gained experience in all areas of bedside nursing, out patient care, and loved working in teaching hospitals. All those years of experience got her ready for the last 18 years of her career: doing telephone advice. She had a blast talking to 85 to 100 patients a day yet it also often presented a challenge. As much as she loved problem solving, one of the greatest lessons she had to learn was that she could not solve ALL the problems.

Permission to publish was granted by Jean McCoy Pachelbel, Class of 1952.

Jean was looking forward to reading her interview in the 2008 Bulletin. It saddens me to announce that Jean passed away on November 28, 2007

Life is fortified by many friendships, to love and be loved is the greatest happiness of existence.

Memoirs; A Political Incident 1967

Alaska to the Caribbean, that's where my career path led me. In 1962 I became an employee of the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), the regional office for the Americas of the World Health Organization (WHO). As such, I was based in Port of Spain, Trinidad, but assigned as Nurse Adviser to the governments of Trinidad and Tobago, British Guiana and Surinam. When my year's contract was completed I returned to Pennsylvania and enrolled at the Graduate School of Public Health, University of Pittsburgh from which, in 1964, I obtained my Masters of Public Health Degree.

The desire to travel and work with people of other cultures still fascinated me so in 1965, having signed a two year contract with PAHO/WHO I was once again working in the Caribbean area, this time in Central America. Nine months were spent in Nicaragua and the remaining time in Costa Rica. It was while I was living in San Jose, Costa Rica but on a trip to Managua, Nicaragua that the following incident occurred.

It was Sunday, January 22, 1967 the day I returned to Managua to participate in a nursing seminar planned for the public health nurses of Central America. The week long seminar was to begin the next day, headed by Julia Randall, an American Nursing Consultant. In addition there were PAHO/WHO consultants from Guatemala (Agnes), Salvador, Honduras, Colombia, as well as myself and two WHO short term consultants, American nuns, Sisters Mary Martha Meyer and Jeanne Teresa Deinan who had been working in Peru for the past four years. All of us were booked in the Gran Hotel which faced the Parque Central, in downtown Managua. About 5 pm that Sunday, Agnes and I, whose rooms were on the third floor, joined the rest of the group in Julia's room on the fourth floor for the final pre-seminar conference. As we were terminating the meeting we heard noise outside, similar to fireworks. Then we realized that this was the last week-end before the national election in Nicaragua and a political rally was probably taking place. Dr. Fernando Aguero, an ophthalmologist, was running for the presidency against the formidable candidate, General Anastasio Somoza, (The Somoza Dynasty had been in power, in Nicaragua for some 35 years.) It was said that General Somoza had forbidden any fireworks display during the campaign since it could be extremely difficult to distinguish from gunfire. We no sooner got to thinking about this when our door was opened and three men stood there, one holding a rifle. They asked us who we were, and what we were doing there, and if we had any arms. They accepted our answers but forbade us to leave our room. Before they left us however, one fellow looked at the two nuns wearing their shortened white habits, and asked, "Que estan Ustedes, medias monjas? (What are you, half nuns?) He had never seen nuns with street length habits before. His question was one of the bright spots for us that long night.

As soon as the fellows were gone, the two nuns, whose rooms were just two doors away, ran over to get their passports and suitcases. Nelly's room adjoined Julia's so Nelly had access to her documents and Isabel had her passport with her, only Agnes and I were left without ours. Those who had their money and passports put them in their girdles and bras. By this time we scurried to lock the door, put out all the lights and close the curtains but we took turns peeking out to see what was happening in the plaza below. We could see people running in all directions, hiding between cars, in doorways or wherever they could find shelter. We saw a car go up in flames near the Palacio Nacional, the seat of the government, and every once in awhile someone would throw a Molotov Cocktail and the thing would blaze anew. We tried using the phone but as expected the lines were dead. We began to settle for a long siege, putting the mattresses on the floor, pushing a bed and chairs against the door, filling the tub with water, and taking into account what bits of food any of us had in our possession. We had no idea exactly what time it was as darkness wore on. From time to time shots came through our window which sent us flying to the floor in all positions, putting pillows, blankets, and mattresses on top of us for protection. At one time a group of Aguero men knocked at our door, and though we refused to open it at first, we finally relented. They took another census of us and then two of the men escorted Agnes and me to our rooms so we could get our passports. It was then we saw the extent of this "little war" as one fellow called it, for the halls and stairways were crowded with Nicaraguans and we had to crouch down, climb over them and make a run for it to reach our rooms. We later learned that when the shooting began earlier that day, people stormed into the hotel seeking whatever protection they could, including Dr. Aguero himself. The Hotel became the center of the conflict with most of Dr. Aguero's supporters inside, and General Somoza's National Guard outside, with snipers on rooftops and army tanks, and armed Guardsmen surrounding the hotel in the plaza below. Sporadically throughout the night we heard the sound of gunfire and once there was a tremendous blast which filled our room with smoke and left a big hole in the wall, in the corner, about two and a half feet above the place where I was crouching. Needless to say it was a terrifying night, never knowing from one second to the next what was happening or if I'd be alive to tell the tale. When daylight came and we saw the damage that had been done, we realized how lucky we really were.

About 7 a.m. Monday morning another group of men knocked on our door and said we had to join the other foreigners in a room on the second floor. We found 70 to 80 foreigners, mostly North Americans, sharing an average sized hotel room. The room did have an outside patio however where, when there was a lull in the shooting, people migrated to stretch and get some fresh air. Eventually someone of the "party" came around with a huge tray of deviled eggs so most of us had at least a half of one. The Sisters had two cups in their handbags and when two thermoses of coffee appeared, the coffee was poured and everyone had a sip, sharing the cups as though it was the most natural thing in the world to do. Then the firing began again and everyone scooted for cover in a space hardly big enough for a quarter of people there. When in desperation someone said somebody had to get out and talk to the US officials or we'd all be killed, Sister Mary Arthur and Sister Jeanne Therese volunteered. Using a sheet as a flag of truce, and accompanied by Bill Gaudet, a New Orleans editor, they left the hotel and were taken to the US Embassy. Earlier attempts by church officials to settle differences between the two political parties failed and though the US Embassy people were trying to bring an end to this bloody uprising, no one actually knew what was going on inside the hotel, how many were Americans, foreigners, or Nicaraguans or, how many were dead or wounded. (First reports were that some 21 people were killed and over 100 were wounded.)

A truce was finally agreed upon Monday afternoon about 3 but the shooting continued till the last minute. One of the terms of the truce was that the Nicaraguan people would be allowed to leave the hotel before any of the foreigners. It was felt, and rightly so, that should all the foreigners, some 125 or more, exit first, the Samozas group would lay siege on the remaining Nationals, the opposition party. We watched from the hotel balcony as all the poor Nicaraguans were frisked, their arms confiscated, and then directed to buses waiting to take them to their villages. The exodus of the Nationals took about three hours and during all these proceedings the American flag was flying on the veranda of the hotel and several of our military consultants, out of uniform, kept things going. Two of our diplomatic cars were parked directly in front of the hotel, and as people exited, and much to the surprise of everyone, Dr. Aguero, on his own initiative, went into one of the US cars. Then the exodus of the foreigners began. As we all lined up ready to be frisked too, I spied one of the soldiers doing the frisking wearing a caduceus on his lapel. I went up to him and asked, "Es medico?" (Are you a doctor?) and he replied, "Si." Then I smiled and said, "Soy enfermera." (I'm a nurse.) and with that he just waved me on. Though there were representatives from various embassies waiting to assist their citizens, the nurses in my groups and some other foreigners too, commented they wanted to go with the Americans. Our embassy had all its official and non-official cars lined up in front of the hotel. Like in a funeral cortege, as we exited the hotel we were ushered into a car and slowly driven to the Embassy. By then it was after 10 p.m. but the staff there had coffee and soft drinks ready for us. They apologized that they had no food to give us, but that we were being assigned to various families who would have dinner ready. They also made arrangements to notify our families to tell them we were OK. Three of us were assigned to the home of the Administrator of the Embassy and remained there until Wednesday the 25th when we all got flights out of Managua. Needless to say there was no nursing seminar that week in Managua.

During this bloody uprising in Nicaragua we never saw nor heard from the US Ambassador. In contrast, our hats went off to all the U.S. Embassy staff and families who did so much to bring about a truce, who organized so expertly and supervised the exodus from the Gran Hotel and provided for all our needs while we remained in Managua.

I was prouder than ever to be an American.

This experience more than ever exemplified how blest I felt to be an American.

Life in the USA is really a gift for which we should thank God daily. In spite of all that occurred in Managua that January week-end 1967, I wouldn't exchange my experiences living in various parts of the world for anything. The places I've seen and wonderful people I've met overshadow everything.
