VICTORY! VICTORY!!

At first it was difficult to realize that the great war which for four years has torn the world in over, as far as fighting is concerned. Germany in surrendering has made this possible. While the fighting may be over, the war, is not ended until peace has been signed.

However we all rejoice over the victory and prospect of peace, this victory only making way for peace. The nations that started to rule the world is now in the wreckage of revolution and is experiencing what was forced upon poor old Russia through traitors. Let Germany's fate be what it will, she has more than earned all the punishment that will be inflicted upon her.

She faces this overthrow without a friend. The world will not soon forgive her for the criminal raid made against civilization. Her rulers have fled for safety and the red flag of anarchy floats over the land that once was to rule the world.

It now becomes the duty of America and the allied countries to check the growth of Bolshevism in Europe. These people, for centuries under the iron-hand-rule, will become drunken with their own power. It is to be hoped that the allies can quickly and without force bring about unity among the various peoples.

Civilization must be rebuilt and we should resolve to stand together lending our influence to the great work is done. Some more sacrifice will be required to accomplish this. Hundreds of thousands of our boys will be required for military service to accomplish this work. Meantime as we approach the Thanksgiving season let a prayer arise from every breast giving thanks to Him for this victory.

Y. M. C. A.—You Must Come Across
Talk of peace, war over and abdication of the Kaiser, has changed the expression on some of the September 12th faces about town.

Whatever you do, never be guided by the other fellow's conscience. He may not have any.

Probably McAdoo feels that his mission in inspecting railroad terminals before election was justified but who is there that would question his motive(?)

It is announced that Hoover is going to France soon to feed the starving in that country and in Belgium. Now comes the question as to who will issue the orders for cutting down the rations in public eating houses in this country without also ordering the price sheared.

"Me and God" is an expression often heard some months ago. William has not yet announced who dissolved the partnership.

The manner in which various newspapers apologized following the fake "war over" story leads one to interpret "U. P." United Press, as the "Unreliable Press." Foolishness is the frame of mind for April fool stories just now. Millionaire Scripps who owns the "U. P." and had his son exempted from military service now furnishes the country with a new chapter in the world's history.

How quick we forgive and forget after elections.

Friday is not so unlucky for Columbus discovered us on that day; the Pilgrims landed that day and it was also George Washington's birthday.

Whisky and gasoline have caused many an accident. Had the former been in the gasoline tank and the latter in the driver auto accidents would be less frequent.

The Prohibitionists and liquorists continue their argument over the use of liquor in the camps for the cure and prevention of the "flu." Meantime the doctors have compromised and use RUM in SCOTCH.

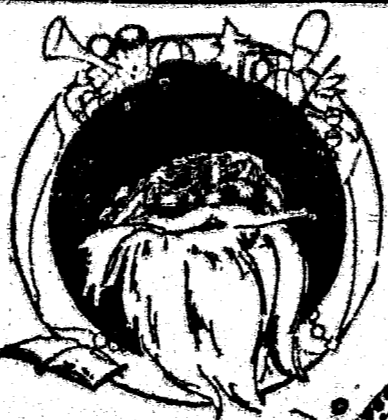

Few thought that Ford could enter the ranks of the Packard crowd in the Senate on the reputation of a tin lizzy.

Whenever Henry Ford wants to get even with the crowd of auto manufacturers that helped cause his defeat for senatorial seats he prices his automobiles one day and the next raise the pay of his employees. Many there are that wait for his decision.

Editor Johnson of Circleville, who is widely known for his dry tendencies and open enemy of Cox heads his last election article thus: "In spite of hell, high-water and Cincinnati, Ohio is dry by 15,000 or 20,000 votes."

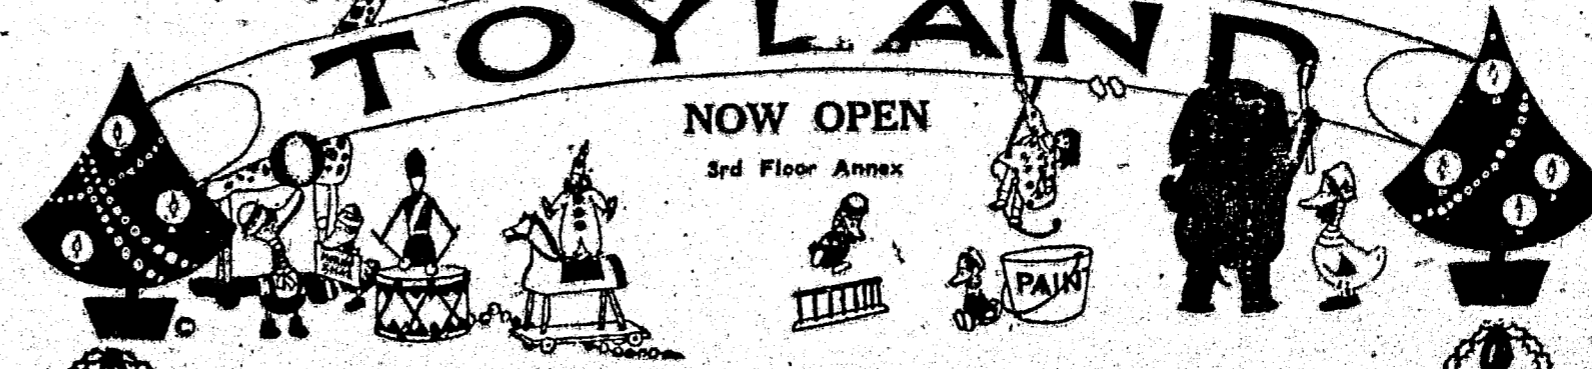

Those who have favored prohibition have realized that the state must provide additional revenues to offset the loss of liquor license funds. Doing away with several hundred state office jobs in connection with the license board, smaller police forces, will help reduce this shortage. All branches of the state government are top heavy with office force but none anymore so than our school system. Why not abolish the needless offices in county and state. Unless this done the Smith law will be repealed and the tax limit of 1.1-2 per cent thrown into the discard. Then its higher tax on higher valuation.

A Woman's Opinion.
"Colonels, generals and military men get looked up to considerably," says Mrs. Tom Thompson. "But any woman can tell you right off the giddle that it's easier to control a hundred men than it is one."—Kansas City Star.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY REV. F. E. FITZPATRICK, D. D., Chancellor of the United Bible Institute of Chicago.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 17

JACOB FLEEING FROM HIS ANGRY BROTHER.

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-22. GOLDEN TEXT—He hath no fault with us after our sin, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.—Psalm 136:10. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Genesis 27:1-28:22.

The motive which moved Rebekah to send Jacob away was a mixed one. She realized that Esau's anger was not against Jacob, even to the point where he was likely to kill him. She further knew that justice would have to be meted out to him, and thus she would be bereft of them both. Then, too, she realized that if Jacob remained in that land he would likely marry a heathen woman and thus defeat God's purpose regarding the covenant nation. This latter she pressed upon Isaac as a motive for sending him away.

I. Jacob's Flight (v. 10). He was fleeing from his outraged brother. His flight was necessary to save his life. He seems not to have gone the common road, so as to be less likely overcast by Esau, should he pursue him. Though forced march he reaches Bethel, a spot nearly fifty miles away, by nightfall.

II. Jacob's Vision (v. 11-17). Jacob's soul was peculiarly tested. He had to leave home and mother. On the way to Haran night overtook him, and he is obliged to sleep in a field with a stone for his pillow and the canopy of heaven for a covering. It was under such circumstances that the Lord gave him the wonderful vision at Bethel. Many times the rough experiences and severe trials of life help us on toward God. Luxury and heavenly visions do not usually go together. This kind illustration is John on Patmos; Stephen looking into heaven while being stoned; and John Bunyan in Bedford jail.

1. He saw a ladder reaching from earth to heaven (v. 12). This suggests a means of communication between earth and heaven, between man and God. It showed Jacob that the spirit of his aerial sin, there was a way to heaven for him. Jesus Christ is the ladder connecting earth and heaven for us (John 1:51; 14:6; Hebrews 10:19, 20). In the incarnation Jesus Christ descended to earth's lowest depth and made a way upon which human feet might climb to heaven. Fortunately, they who in the finest of earth's trials discern this ladder!

2. He saw angels of God upon the ladder (v. 12). They were ascending and descending upon this ladder. These angels were the divine helpers to render needed assistance along life's way. Though unseen, God's angels guide and protect us on our earthly pilgrimage. They ascend into the heaven with our needs, and descend unto us with God's reply. Christ is a real man, and so can identify himself with us; he is the very God, really divine, and so is able to lift us to God and secure our reconciliation with him.

3. He saw the Lord standing above the ladder (v. 13-17). To show Jacob that the ladder did not merely reach into space, the personal God appeared and talked with him. His message is filled with infinite grace. (1) He declared the God of Abraham and Isaac (v. 13), thus assuring Jacob that the same hand that guided his fathers was over him. (2) He renewed the covenant as to the land (v. 13). Though Jacob was now fleeing from the land, yet the covenant would not fall, for Jacob and his seed should possess it. (3) Assured him of a numerous seed (v. 14). They would spread abroad to the north, and south, and east, and west. (4) The divine presence with the wandering Jacob (v. 15). Though he had shined and was reaping what he had sown, yet God was with him.

III. Jacob's Vow (v. 18-22). God's gracious visitation provoked Jacob to make a vow. Each sight of God should cause us to renew our obligation to him. His vow included three things: (1) Dedication of himself to God (v. 18). This is the first thing to do. Our gifts are an abomination while the life is withheld from God. (2) Worship established (v. 18, 19). "This stone shall be God's house." Worship always follows dedication of one's self to God. There is personal communion between God and those who worship him. (3) Consecration of his substance, of his possessions (v. 22). Those who have fellowship with God recognize God's claim upon their possessions. God's grace should constrain us to give of our substance to him.

Meditation. Meditation is one way of handling our past history. Instead of a vague, unremembered, less than half-completed life of Jesus, we should meditate on, pass into the life of the Christian by an inseparable but real transference.—Rev. H. F. Liddon, D. D.

A Spiritual Relation. True spiritual relation is a spiritual relation. It is not a mere outward relation. It is a spiritual relation.

GIVEN MONTGOMERY FLAGG.

Your boy comes stumbling out of the battle-line—

He wants a place to rest, a place to get warm, a place to smoke and get a hot drink and hear somebody talk United States.

He sees a light ahead. It's a hut!

Do you think he cares whether that hut is run by the Knights of Columbus or the Y. M. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board or the Salvation Army? Not much! He knows what he wants and he knows that he'll get it—whatever uniform the folks inside happen to be wearing.

Your boy knows what real democracy means.

He's fighting to make it something bigger and better and finer than it ever was before. He's the world's greatest authority on democracy today. Take his word for it!

Keep the hut fires burning!

A hut is your fighter's home over there. It is his store, his theatre, his church, his school and his club.

It is the place where he writes your letters.

It is the place where he reads his books and magazines, where he and his friends get around a piano and sing or listen to a phonograph.

It is the place where all the movies are given, and the concerts and the minstrel shows and vaudeville. Often it is the only place within reach that is dry and light and warm and clean.

A hut may be a shed or tent or a fine old chateau or a hotel. Sometimes, at the front, it's just a battered little shack—the only building left standing in town.

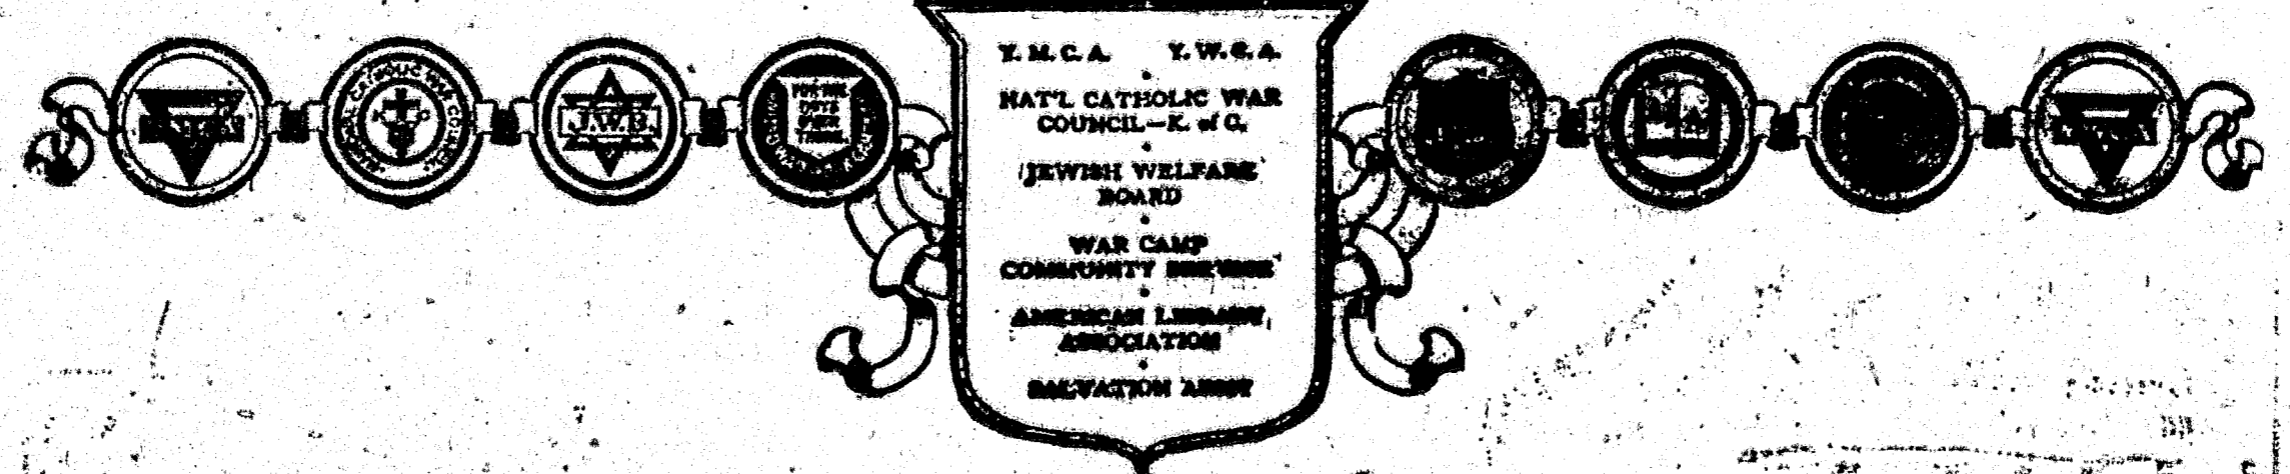

On the fighting line, it's just a board laid across two boxes with a sign nailed to a tree.

The sign doesn't matter—it's what the hut gives your fighter.

Back up these seven organizations without thought of race or creed, because your boy knows that he is always welcome everywhere, and he needs them all.

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before! The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000. By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved. Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their: 3600 Recreation Buildings, 1000 Miles of Movie Film, 100 Leading Stage Stars, 2000 Athletic Directors, 2500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books, 85 Hostess Houses, 15,000 Big-brother "secretaries", Millions of dollars of home comforts. When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comforts of these seven organizations every step of the way from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul! You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs. Now give to maintain the Morale that is winning the war!

THE TARBOX LUMBER CO.

WALLACE C. ANDERSON.

On Friday, Nov. 8th, a goodly number of the friends and relatives gathered in the 2nd U. P. church of Xenia to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of Wallace C. Anderson, who, while in the service of his country, met his death in the waters of Pensacola Bay, Oct. 30th. The services were in charge of his pastor, Rev. J. E. McMichael, who was assisted by Dr. J. G. Carson, who for some 30 years had been the family pastor, and Dr. W. R. McChesney, who as President of Cedarville College had been in close touch with the young man during his student days. After prayer by Rev. McMichael, a quartette of the church and the reading of the Scripture lesson by Dr. Carson, Rev. McMichael spoke, basing his remarks on Mark 14:4 "Why was this waste of the ointment made?" After setting forth the circumstances under which the question was first asked, he found a close analogy between the critical Judas and the self-centered man who, in the face of the tragic happenings of the today, asks "Why should I make any sacrifice? Why should I waste myself? Never rising above the interests of the moment, and dying upon the battlefields make no appeal to such an one. Others who ask the same question as to waste are the unimaginative economists, the rank materialists who can see nothing beyond that which has a commercial value. None can deny in these days there is a fearful waste of men and money and material that will leave the world the poorer for generations to come, but the trouble with the coldly calculating man is that he is blind to anything beyond money. In this very less of material things there is a gain of sacrifice that is beyond arithmetical computation. Back of this expenditure is a principle, an ideal and it is for that that men like Wallace Anderson are pouring their lives. That principle was in the heart and that ideal before the eyes of Wallace Anderson. A year ago he had heard the call of bleeding humanity and since then the one that of his life had been to enlist in some branch of the service that he might help to make the world safe for democracy. But to him it was more than the call of humanity, more than the cause of democracy, it was the cause of the kingdom of righteousness and the kingdom of God. His life, then, he has poured out as an offering to God, but not for burial as did Mary, but to enjoin Him for His kingdom as King of kings over the nations of earth. His life thus poured out was not as wasted ointment, but the act has been accepted by his Master with the commendation "He has wrought a good work for Me!" Jesus never uses the word "waste" in connection with anything that He has seen done in His kingdom, but that which the world regards as wasted He accepts in the same fine spirit in which it was given and places to the eternal profit of the giver. So today we think of the life that has been poured forth and among the nations of earth, in Cedarville, amongst his friends in Colorado and at Cooper and there in the camp at Pensacola, the memory of it steals with a sweet fragrance over us and we say with the singer of old "His name, his influence, is as ointment poured forth!"

Dr. G. Carson using Romans 14:7-8 as a basis for his remarks said Christian's life was the fact that he belonged to Christ, that to him it mattered not whether it be life or death, whatever was pleasing to his Master would be well with him. Wallace C. Anderson had dedicated his life to Jesus Christ and he to him the war appeared as a field in which he might serve his Lord. With the thought of belonging to God, he had done the uniform of his country and had given his life not merely to his country, but to the cause of righteousness and of God. Tears there may be as we know that he will no longer be with us here, but the sorrow is mingled with gladness as we praise God who hath given him the victory thru our Lord Jesus Christ. Dr. McChesney after touching upon the intimate association he had had with Wallace Anderson and paying a high and deserved tribute to the young man's character, recalled the words of God to the aged Moses at Mt. Nebo "Go up— and die!" Moses with his heart set upon leaving Israel into his promised Canaan was only permitted to view the land from a far-off mountain top and then he died. So Wallace Anderson with his high hopes and ideals was not to see them realized, dying just as humanity was about to enter the Promised Land of peace. Yet today, having died in Christ and for Christ's cause, his rejoicing in Heaven was that by his death he had helped to bring peace upon the earth and to usher in the reign of his Lord, the Prince of Peace. At the cemetery after a brief prayer and the benediction by Dr. Joseph Kyle, a guard of honor from the cadets of the O. S. & S. O. Home fired a salute over the grave and a most impressive services was brot to a close as the bugler sounded "Taps".

Most Widely Read Farm Publications in the United States give the Facts on Startling Live Stock Development

"Passed by the Capital Issues Committee as not incompatible with the national interests, but without approval of legality, validity, worth or security. Opinion No. A-434."

"The Country Gentleman" is one of the most widely read farming publications in the United States. It is published by The Curtis Publishing Co., who also publish "The Saturday Evening Post" and "The Ladies' Home Journal," and no one doubts the reliability of this, the greatest publishing house in America.

In "The Country Gentleman" of October 19th, October 26th and November 2d there appeared articles under the head, "THE SOUTH AS THE COMING STOCK LAND OF AMERICA." The thoughtful reader will realize that a revolution has come in live stock production. Here are a few extracts from "The Country Gentleman":

The South "The South is fairly galloping into the meat business. It is running ahead of its production quota and passing all cattle expectations. As a result, when Europe subsides to peace and undertakes to satisfy that meat appetite with which mess call has branded millions of peasants, the South will not bid against them for every mouthful of animal flesh. Indeed, the South expects to sell them meat, thus fulfilling its natural destiny to become the greatest cheap-meat region in the United States.

"In another article I should like to say something more specific about the South's cattle opportunities, for Dixie is the best hope of home-grown meat for the United States. Cattle fit into all its important problems, and are the solution of most of them, and the South is well aware of it. It is grasping its opportunities rapidly, eagerly.

Nineteen Killing Plants "Those who want the calmest and most exacting sort of proof of this can find it in the fact that the South is being dotted with killing plants by the packers.

"There are nineteen killing plants in the South under Government inspection. On some of these the hammers are still beating. None are old. That is what the packers think of the South.

"For a moment let's look at sandy, sunny Florida, with its abundance of water and its cheap lands. Despite the fact that the oldest city in the United States is located there, it is still part of the frontier, as regards opportunity. Indeed, George M. Rommel, chief of the Animal Husbandry Division of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, DECLARES NO OTHER STATE HAS SUCH CATTLE CHANCES.

It has more natural advantages than any other state in the United States. Florida has no screw worms, no ear ticks and no coyotes.

Natural Swine "The South, which surprised the North and West last summer with its record-price steers, also has Country hogs. A bunch of Northern swine breeders made this discovery only this year.

"They learned, for instance, that the South is a natural swine country which can produce pork very cheaply because it has the pasture, the feed and the right type of animals.

The Southern Ruralist W. L. Glesner, Field Representative of Atlanta, Ga., says: "While visiting the Florida State Fair at Jacksonville I was struck by the sign over Clay County's exhibit: 'Where big things are being done by big men in a big way with big results.' for I had a few days before I seen some of the big things being done in that county.

"I was impressed with the Walkill Farm as being the most practical demonstration of the possibilities of the live stock industry in the South that I have seen. There is nothing fancy or fussy about this farm—everything is plain and practical, business-like. It shows not only what can be done with wealth, but it contains many lessons of what can be done with small means, for everything is utilized."

The Farm and Live Stock Record, Jacksonville, Fla., Recognizes Epoch-Making Operations in the state of Florida.

"On November 5, 1916, Walkill was practically 14,000 acres of wild land. Beginning on that day were the first of the epoch-making operations which are making DOLLINGS and Walkill a popular topic for conversation in the state of Florida.

"Had I not been told better, I should have thought there must have been at least three or four years of activity responsible for the improvements which were visible.

"Here, a little more than a year after the commencement of things, there were more than a thousand head of cattle grazing on the Walkill pastures.

"Hundreds of sleek hogs were visible in the fields.

"Substantial buildings and silos, such as one ordinarily associates with several years of successful farming, reared their outlines against the sky everywhere."

Taken from The Florida Grower, Tampa, Fla. "Yes, DOLLINGS hires brains. But not for and with money alone. He fully appreciates the importance of the personal equation and so well understands that men's best work is done only when their heart interest is enlisted. So he ties men to him and to his enterprises with bonds that endure because they are founded on mutual respect, harmony of interest and fairness of participation alike in opportunity to serve and assurance of profit.

"Can do." Unconsciously using the spirit of the favorite expression of my old Chinese friend, Colonel DOLLINGS some years ago indicated to his intimates that he had decided to undertake the solution of the problem of increasing meat production at lower costs than then prevailed.

"Those who were in his confidence know that this determination in no sense was based on snap judgment. On the contrary, it was the result of most careful study and of thorough investigation. Colonel DOLLINGS had secured the opinions of many experts, had checked and counter-checked these, and retained as the foundation of his effort those in which he had found absolute agreement.

Success in a Great Undertaking "Then he began to do things. Not with a blare of trumpets nor an outbreak of publicity, but silently and swiftly. As a matter of fact, his indifference to newspaper notoriety has been the despair of more than one reporter who saw in Colonel DOLLINGS activities 'copy' of a most excellent character.

"A proposition of such vast importance and great magnitude as this latest undertaking of Colonel DOLLINGS isn't handled in an hour. But never was there a moment's time lost. The preliminary progress may have seemed slow to casual observers, but those 'in the know' saw that it was surprisingly swift.

"And as the finished demonstration became a visible entity men wondered that so much could have been performed in such a short period. For the essential thing has been accomplished. The way had been made clear for all and sundry to follow. 'Can do' had become 'it is done.'"

Final Offering of the Walkill Stock Farm 7% Full Participating Preferred Stock

The full Participating feature of The Walkill Stock Farm Preferred Stock gives the holder the opportunity to share in the profits of this remarkable development. Provision is made that after 7% is paid on the Preferred Stock and 7% on the Common Stock, then excess dividends shall be divided equally between the Preferred and Common stockholders. An earning of only $3.00 per acre will pay both the Preferred and Common stock dividends. With the advantages of a long pasture season, heavy forage crops, plenty of labor and ideal market conditions, we feel sure that the profits will far exceed $3.00 per acre.

The management of the Walkill Farm will appeal to Ohio investors. H. B. Minium, one of the Executives, was for nineteen years with Armour & Co., and for eleven years the Manager of all the Armour interests in Florida. J. L. Young, of Circleville, Ohio, one of the most successful farmers in that prosperous county, has charge of the crop production. Sol Miller, of Columbus, Ohio, and known to Duroc Hog Breeders throughout the country, has charge of the Hog Department. Fred Brown, of Circleville, Ohio, has charge of the Sheep Department.

The Walkill Farm consists of 14,000 acres, crossed by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, with two Shipping Stations on the Farm, and these Shipping Stations are only thirty miles from the big Armour Packing Plant at Jacksonville, Fla. There are over eighty miles of Hog-Tight Wire Fence on the Farm.

THIS IS THE FINAL OFFERING—Three-fourths of the Preferred Stock issued has been absorbed by Ohio farmers and business men. It is a safe investment because it is backed by Land, Cattle, Hogs and Sheep. It is a profitable investment because it carries a stipulated dividend easily earned and provides for a further share of the profits. This final announcement will result in the rapid sale of the remainder of the Preferred Stock. If you are interested, do not delay in communicating with us.
