

Sydney eScholarship Repository

SYDNEY ESCHOLARSHIP LIBRARY UNIVERSITY HOME

You are here: The Sydney eScholarship Repository / Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences / Department of Sociology and Social Policy / Theorising Indigenous Sociology: Australian Perspectives

Search

 Advanced Search

Browse

HomeCommunities & CollectionsTitlesAuthorsSubjectsBy Date

Login

Receive email updatesMy Sydney eScholarship

authorized users

Edit Profile

About

HelpAbout Sydney eScholarship

THEORISING INDIGENOUS SOCIOLOGY: AUSTRALIAN PERSPECTIVES : [6]

Collection home page

In:

Search for or browse

Subscribe to this collection to receive daily e-mail notification of new additions

Theorising Indigenous Sociology: Australian perspectives, edited by Deirdre Howard-Wagner, Daphne Habibis and Theresa Petray

ISBN: 978-1-74210-302-0

Indigenous social issues are a topic of regular media interest, but there is scope for much work to be done by Australian sociologists to provide new ways of understanding these issues. The contested terrain of the field, the need for new concepts and frameworks, debates about the possibilities for an Indigenous sociology, and the call for a specifically Australian approach, are some of the challenges and dilemmas for the field. A growing, but small group of Australian sociologists are responding to these dilemmas through a range of interesting and innovative theoretical approaches. To provide an opportunity to explore these developments and to encourage greater collaboration with other researchers in the field a two-day workshop was co-hosted by the Australian Sociological Association (TASA) Sociology of Indigenous Issues Thematic Group and the Department of Sociology and Social Policy at the University of Sydney. The workshop organisers were Dr Deirdre Howard-Wagner (University of Sydney), Dr Daphne Habibis (University of Tasmania) and Dr Theresa Petray (James Cook University). This double blind refereed edited workshop collection consists of six 3000 word full papers from the 18 papers presented at a two-day workshop held at the University of Sydney on Thursday 19 July and Friday 20 July 2012.

To see a titles list click here.

Papers from the workshop proceedings should be referenced as: (Author(s)-of-paper). 2012. (Title-of-paper). In Deirdre Howard-Wagner, Daphne Habibis and Theresa Petray (eds.), Theorising Indigenous Sociology: Australian Perspectives Workshop Proceedings, (website and date accessed). Note that there is no overall page numbering system for the proceedings as a whole: page numbering begins at 1 in each paper.

The University of Sydney claims copyright ownership of all information stored on this site, unless expressly stated otherwise.

RECENT SUBMISSIONS

Conditionality, Recognition and Indigenous Housing Policy in AustraliaChildren of a dying race: the development story and governing through raceCan Theory Disempower? Making Space for Agency in Theories of Indigenous IssuesAboriginal Professionals: Work, Class, CultureUsing theory to 'speak back' to neoliberal performativity: the Northern Territory intervention and the inventing of a neoliberal subject as a case in point

RSS Feeds

 1.0  2.0

© 2002-09 The University of Sydney. Last updated: 4 February 2013

ABN:15 211 513 464. CRICOS number: 00026A. Phone: +61 2 9351 2222.

Authorised by: University Librarian

Contact the University | Disclaimer | Privacy | Accessibility | feedback