MAY, 1935

Number Two

THE COLLEGE

For the first time in the 11 years it has been in Stockton, the College of Pacific is now on a completely self-supporting basis. This statement, bringing cheer to the hundreds of loyal supporters of the college, was made at the annual meeting of the trustees by O. H. Ritter, comptroller of the college.

Five More Years

The college's present condition was brought about by a reorganization of financial affairs started in the summer of 1930, at the time Mr. Ritter was named comptroller.

In the intervening period, expenses were reduced approximately $100,000 a year through drastic reductions, eliminations and economies, the trustees were told, and as a result of this five year program, the college has been brought to the point where this year, for the first time, expenses are within current income.

"There is no reason to doubt," said Mr. Ritter, "that as far as we are concerned, we have struck bottom and are on the way up."

Education Unhurt

Yet, throughout the economy program, he declared, there has been practically no curtailment in the educational program. "This," he said, "is largely because the savings were accomplished in departments where the student drift was away from those courses. In other words, the elimination took place in departments where student support was not large enough to keep them on a reasonable basis."

During this economy period, moreover, the college made two important additions to its educational program. One was the addition of a junior college last year, which resulted in the addition of 70 students. As a two-year college this may mean an addition of 140 students annually if it continues as it is now.

New Departments

The other was the establishment of a department of business administration, leading to a degree of Bachelor of Arts. In establishing this department, Pacific offered undergraduate students courses hitherto mainly confined to graduate students in other colleges and universities throughout America.

Under the direction of Mr. Ritter, this department offered the first year 20 courses comprising detailed preparation for all the phases of modern business, from public finance and taxation, through advanced accounting procedure, to training in writing business letters and foundation in business law.

In its first year this department attracted 25 students. As a four-year department, therefore, it is possible it may mean an enrollment of 100 students a year.

Of striking interest were the comptroller's figures on the incomes of the college departments. Pacific, he said, has an "educational plant" with as varied departments as probably any educational institution in the United States.

Books Rival Athletes

The athletic department, he reported, has a gross income of $16,000 this year. Those who fear over emphasis of athletics in colleges might be interested in knowing that the college book store has an income of $10,000 a year. Both these departments, says the comptroller, are profitable parts of the college.

Two dormitories, one for men and the other for women, have an annual gross income of approximately $8000 each. Manor Hall, the student apartment house, does a $7000 annual business. The Little Theatre has a gross business of $4000 a year.

Pacific's infirmary, easily one of the most modern and up-to-date infirmaries of any educational institution in America, operates on a $6000 annual budget. The infirmary was a gift to the college of Mrs. C. M. Jackson of Stockton.

Dining Hall Leads

The dining hall on the campus does perhaps the largest business of any auxiliary department, approximately $37,000 annually.

Practically all these divisions of the college, says Mr. Ritter, have been brought to a profitable basis.

Of course, the big item of income is the educational one, income from students. This is approximately $150,000 a year. Endowment incomes, rentals, etc., bring $45,000 more.

Worth $1,585,000

As the college stands today, according to Mr. Ritter's report, it has a net worth of $1,585,000, clear and unencumbered.

Of this $627,000 represents endowment, $185,809, the campus; $703,000 the buildings, less depreciation, and $300,635, equipment, less depreciation.

TIGER SPORTS

Stagg Honored

Amos Alonzo Stagg, venerable College of the Pacific football coach, was recently honored when he was awarded the Silver Buffalo by the Boy Scouts of America at a meeting held in New York City. This award is the highest made by the Boy Scouts and it goes to men for outstanding contributions to the cause of youth. Other outstanding men receiving the award were: Booth Tarkington, famous author, Daniel Tobin, member of the National Boy Scout Executive Board, Calvin Derrick, educator and director of Bureau of Education and Parole for the Department of Instructions and Agencies of New Jersey, R. Tait McKenzie, pioneer member of the Philadelphia Scout Council, physician sculptor and creator of the Boy Scout statuette, and Fielding H. Yost, Director of Athletics at the University of Michigan.

"Sports Day"

Through the splendid co-operation of the Associated Students, the Physical Education department of the college, and Dean James Corson, "Sports Day" at Pacific held May 17, is to be made an annual affair. This was the second year that the event was held.

The Freshman Class won first place, having the highest number of points with the Seniors running a close second. The Junior Class was third in the race and the Sophomores last.

Sports participated in included Tennis, Swimming, Boxing, Archery, Baseball, Track and Ping-Pong.

Boxing

For the first time in history the Black and Orange was worn in inter-collegiate boxing competition when Joey Oleata and Bob Hamilton represented Pacific at the Pacific Coast Inter-Collegiate Boxing Tournament at Sacramento on March 27-28. Oleata, middleweight, reached the semi-finals by taking a three-round decision over McAninich of U. C. L. A., but lost his bout in the semi-finals to Paiva of S. F. U. Hamilton, welterweight, was eliminated by Gomez, of S. F. U., who later went on to win the welter title in the tournament.

Bengal Huddle

The grand revival of the much-heralded Bengal Huddle was almost "rained-out." Rain started in the afternoon of the appointed day and continued so long that the scheduled events in the stadium had to be postponed. Nevertheless, prospective athletes and alumni had dinner in Anderson Hall and after several short talks from alumni and coaches, the entire group attended the Little Theatre production, "The Great Divide."

Block P

Eighteen men earned their letters and membership in Block P this year and were initiated on April 3rd. Most of them made their letters in football. The following men were initiated: B. Parsons, Pryor, Foster, Lapin, Oleata, Baer, Savage, Kipp, Ijams, Singleton, Hallberg, Lynch, Cortez, Eakes, Cechini, Coe, Childress, and Blanchard.

CURRENT HAPPENINGS

1935 Summer Session

Summer session for 1935 under the direction of Dr. G. A. Werner will offer courses in practically all of the departments. The session will last five weeks starting June 24th and ending July 26th. Classes will be held only in the morning.

There will be many social functions on the campus during the session. The Conservatory is planning several recitals, and the Little Theatre is producing three outstanding plays. The faculty will include three visiting instructors besides twenty-eight resident instructors.

Edith Knoles, former director of the Crandon Institute and Spanish teacher in Montevideo, South America, will teach classes in advanced Spanish and South American civilization.

The two other guest teachers will be Ivan Howard Linder, vice-principal of the Sacramento High School, who will be the instructor for education courses, and Perry Dilley, owner and producer of the Perry Dilley Puppet Theatre, San Francisco, who will offer courses in puppetry.

A tour to Mexico under the direction of Dr. Tully C. Knoles and Miss Lorraine Knoles has been planned. The party will leave Stockton on June 25th and will return July 21st. The tour has been planned primarily for students and teachers who desire to secure college credit toward credentials or degrees. However, it is not limited to those who register for courses; it is open to all who desire to take a trip to Mexico.

A tour to the Pacific Northwest has been planned under the direction of Dr. G. A. Werner and Professor Herbert Jonte. The trip will start on August 29th and will last for three weeks. Courses will be offered in history and geology. The party will probably travel by comfortable auto bus and will camp out enroute. Meals will be prepared in camp. The itinerary includes the Redwood Highway, Oregon Caves, Crater Lake, the volcanic region of Central Oregon, Columbia River Highway, Boonville Dam, Portland, Mt. Rainier, Seattle, Glacier National Park, Yellowstone, Snake River Canyon, and Lake Tahoe. A number of historical places will be visited, and if time allows a number of industrial plants will be inspected. The cost is one hundred dollars including the cost of four units of work which may be taken either in history or geology or both. The party will be limited to about twenty-five. Inquiries may be addressed to either Dr. Werner or Professor Jonte.

Annual "Alumni College"

Fifty-five graduates and friends returned to the Campus on Saturday, April 16th to attend the sessions of the second annual "Alumni College." Morning sessions included talks and discussions by Dr. Malcolm Eiselen on "The Father of the Yellow Press" and Professor Martha Pierce on "The Current Season in Plays." At the luncheon meeting Arthur Farey and the Phi Mu Alpha quartet entertained and a talk by President Knoles followed entitled "Recent Educational Trends Affecting Pacific."

In the afternoon, Dr. J. W. Harris reviewed a book of note written by a former Pacificite. Comptroller O. H. Ritter spoke on "The Contemporary Economic Situation", Professor Harold Jacoby on "The Menace of Underpopulation" and Dr. G. A. Werner on "Our Billion Dollar Defense." Harold Chastain, president of the Alumni Association, presided at the sessions. Many also attended the Little Theatre play that evening, "The Great Divide."

It is planned to have the third "Alumni College" next year at approximately the same time. Experience gained in conducting the last affair will probably be used to advantage next year. Watch for preliminary announcements.

Observatory Building

Construction has been started on the new observatory which will be located just north of Weber Hall on the college campus. The building will house the fine equipment owned by the college when at San Jose. It has never been set-up on the present campus.

The equipment includes a six-inch equatorial telescope, a four inch portable telescope with altitude and azimuth mounting, a transit and zenith telescope, sextants, all gifts of the Jacks-Goodalls. The six-inch telescope was manufactured by Alvin Clark and Sons, and is furnished with all necessary accessories, such as a driving clock, finely divided circles, filar micrometer. The transit and zenith, telescope, manufactured by Messrs. Fauth and Co., is of the pattern extensively used on the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. These instruments afford ample facilities for the study of practical astronomy.

Courses in elementary astronomy will be offered next year by the Physics Department. A part of the course in "Man and His World" which has been offered for the first time this year, will be devoted to astronomy. This new set-up will provide laboratory facilities for the courses mentioned above.

Teachers Placed

The following placements have been made this year to date: Mrs. Maude Byers, Santa Cruz County Music Superintendent; Cecil Disbrow, Daly City, Jefferson High School; Fern Bryant, Princeton Elementary School, Princeton; Vera Leischner, Justice Elementary School; Rae Null, El Dorado School, Placerville; Hester Busick, Avenal Elementary School, Avenal; Grace Olney, Knightsen Elementary School, Knightsen; Corinne LeBourveau, Siskiyou Union High School District; Alfred Sessions, Wasco Elementary Schools; Henry Schiffman, August School, Stockton; Golden Grimsley, Woods School, Woodbridge; Edith Knoles, Chaffey High School and Junior College; Ellice Schuler, Salida Grammar School, Salida; Elizabeth Lytel, Grizzly Bluff Grammar School, Grizzly Bluff; Althea Clark, Woods Elementary School, Woodbridge.

Death Valley Trip

The spring trip to Death Valley was a decided success. One hundred and forty-one people made the trip under the direction of Professor J. H. Jonte, head of the Geology Department; Professor Arthur Bawden, head of the Chemistry Department, and Dr. E. E. Stanford, head of the Biology Department. Many teachers from the Bay Region and Northern California availed themselves of the opportunity to study geology and chemical industries in the field. The trip was made according to schedule without a serious mishap.

California M. E. Conference

For the third consecutive year, the annual California Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will meet on the Campus during the dates of June 11th to June 17th inclusive. Several hundred people will be in attendance at the sessions and most of the physical equipment of the Campus will be utilized. The outstanding leader this year will be Bishop J. Ralph Magee of St. Paul.

Many people attending the conference plan to arrive here early so as to be present at Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises.

1935-36 A. S. C. P. Officers

Student Body Officers of the College of the Pacific elected for next year are: President, Max Childress, San Francisco; Vice-President, Alice Peterson; Treasurer, Nick Demakopoulos; and Secretary, Pauline Ramsey, Stockton. Those elected to the Executive Committee were Ed Simonson, Eugene Corrigan, Lawrence Belanger, James Bainbridge, Noel Schaffer.

Gift to Library

Approximately 2,000 volumes have recently been added to the college library as the result of a bequest by the Rev. J. J. Martin of Napa of the class of 1884 who recently passed away. Rev. Martin was an outstanding scholar and was especially interested in the classics and religion. Many worth-while books in these two fields particularly, as well as assorted ones in general fields were received. Such gifts as these are of inestimable worth and we are thankful for the fine spirit in which the bequest was made.

"Pacific Day"

"College of the Pacific Day" was celebrated at the regular Tuesday morning meeting of the Oakland Breakfast Club on May 16th at the Merritt Hotel. Mr. Charles H. J. Truman of the College Board of Trustees was chairman of the meeting. Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg was the main speaker and Melburn Matheny '34 led songs. Mr. Truman had as his guests approximately thirty graduates of Pacific who reside in the East Bay Area.

Peace Demonstration

College of Pacific students, faculty members, and administration participated in a peace demonstration held on the campus, April 5th, in the Pacific Little Outdoor Theatre. Talks by President Tully C. Knoles, several Stockton business men and students were heard proclaiming against the injustices of war.

The National Council of Methodist Youth, The Interseminary Movement, The National Student League, The Student League for Industrial Democracy, and the American Youth Congress are the groups which united in calling a national demonstration. They called upon the progressive and liberal forces on the American campus to take a definite stand against war.

LITTLE THEATRE

"Sister Beatrice"

The 80th major production of Pacific Little Theatre in Stockton will be an outstanding feature of the Commencement season. Built two summers past by patrons of dramatics at Pacific, the beautiful Outdoor theatre will be the setting for one performance Saturday night, June 8th, of Materlinck's "Sister Beatrice". It was the theme of this beautiful play, which Max Rhinehardt used for his famous production "The Miracle" several years past. "Sister Beatrice" will undoubtedly be Pacific Little Theatre's greatest spectacle.

Principal roles will be played by Bonnie Finkbohner of Stockton, Ed Lyon of Healdsburg, and Adelene Young of Sacramento. Although seats will be available at the time of performance, mail orders are now acceptable. The regular Little Theatre price scale will be in effect—$1.00, 75c, and 50c. The production is extra and in addition to the regular 1934-35 season of six plays and the annual season tickets will not be honored. Holders of the three year outdoor subscription tickets are of course entitled to admission by these tickets. A better choice of seats is available by ordering early.

Second Annual Pacific Summer Theatre

With the development of the new Outdoor Theatre, in addition to the excellent stage and equipment of Pacific Auditorium, the Annual Summer Theatre has quickly come to be one of the best known features of the Pacific Summer Session, and proved with its inception a year ago, to be the outstanding Summer Theatre experiment in California.

DeMarcus Brown heads the Summer Theatre staff for 1935. His wide experience in 11 years of producing attracts a large group of preparatory students, undergraduates, graduates and teachers, who work together virtually as a stock company, to produce the summer play bill. Under Mr. Brown, courses will be offered in applied drama, Scene Construction and painting, Stage Lighting, and general problems of production.

From his famous Puppet Theatre in San Francisco, Perry Dilley comes again to teach the art of puppet making and to present one of his own productions. His work last year was one of the most intriguing activities of the Summer Theatre and brings a new branch of theatre arts to Pacific drama students.

Assisting Mr. Brown in direction and class procedure will be Arthur Farey, Pacific Little Theatre business manager. Edgar Jacobs, Pacific alumnus, comes from Los Angeles to join the Summer Theatre staff as stage manager. His experience in stage management and scene construction will bring valuable technical information to students.

The opening performance of the season, under the stars, will be A. A. Milne's charming comedy "The Romantic Age". Tuesday, July 2, is the date. The three events to follow will be staged on successive Thursday nights, July 11, 18, and 25. They include "Detour" by one of America's most popular playwrights, Owen Davis; Perry Dilley's Puppet Theatre; and a brilliant costume production, "The Fan", by Goldoni.

Alumna Organizes Summer Theatre Stock Company

Alumni and friends of the College of Pacific will be proud to know that California's first summer stock company, The Pinon Players, has been organized and will be directed by a graduate of Pacific, Miss Harriet M. Smith. Miss Smith's company will be located at Carmel where they will present a play under her direction every week-end throughout the summer at the Carmel Playhouse.

Her company, The Pinon Players, will be composed of younger actors and technicians from both this vicinity and the east. Students of Pacific who will be seen in Miss Smith's productions are Franklin Wilbur, Adelene Read, Bonnie Finkbohner, and Sylvia Zeff, all well known to College Theatre patrons. Coming out from the east to assist her in the direction of the company, Miss Smith has a number of more experienced actors, a business manager, a scene designer, and an experienced technician. All of the eastern members of Miss Smith's company have had previous experience in summer theatre work.
