Dear Mr Muir,

I am spending a week in the city with my roommate at school, a true Scotch woman, Miss McFutyr, and should like to bring her with me to call upon you some day at your home, providing you are not too busy to receive visitors.

We have been in Los Angeles and spent some days in the Hooker home with Ellie Mosgrove, and together we talked over trails past and future. We were greatly amused at the Judge's article in Sunset. He did give you credit for being of the party but the chief figure of course was his Goldship.

Donald and I are going home to the Mississippi valley for our summer vacation so we shall have none of the glories of the summer past, for which I am more so indebted to you, but we hope to view the wonders of the Yellowstone Park en route.

I shall be very glad of an opportunity of seeing you once more but if a call would
