THE PARADOXISM IN ALL FIELDS OF KNOWLEDGE

It took me ten years to collect all these texts dealing with the paradoxism, since I came to America, reading more than one thousand envelopes stuffed with manuscripts.

They followed me at my address, often changed upon my job, in Phoenix and Tucson (Arizona) or in Gallup (New Mexico).

I tried to answer each letter sending information on the paradoxism and also paradoxist diplomas where it was the case.

Now I congratulate all these 100 writers who contributed to this anthology with poems, prose, dramas, essays, letters.

This is an international fan on the dimensions of the paradoxism, twenty years after its setting up.

Thanks to the widest spread reference publications, such as Literary Market Place, Poet's Place, Ulrich's Directory of Periodicals, Gale Group, EBSCO's Directory, Dustbooks, R.R. Bowker the paradoxism became well-known to the international literary community, especially to North America and Western Countries.

Working as a computer programmer and then as a software engineer for a large corporation like Honeywell, between 1990-1995, we the employees, circulated through e-mail the paradoxism in engineering. For example, look at these Top 20 Engineers' Terminologies from Bertolucci's "The Sheltering Sky":

1. A NUMBER OF DIFFERENT APPROACHES ARE BEING TRIED - We are still pissing in the wind.
2. EXTENSIVE REPORT IS BEING PREPARED ON A FRESH APPROACH TO THE PROBLEM - We just hired three kids fresh out of college.
3. CLOSE PROJECT COORDINATION - We know who to blame.
4. MAJOR TECHNOLOGICAL BREAKTHROUGH - It works OK, but looks very hi-tech.
5. CUSTOMER SATISFACTION IS DELIVERED ASSURED - We are so far behind schedule the customer is happy to get it delivered.
6. PRELIMINARY OPERATIONAL TESTS WERE INCONCLUSIVE -The dam thing blew up when we threw the switch.
7. TESTS RESULTS WERE EXTREMELY GRATIFYING - We are so surprised that the stupid thing works.
8. THE ENTIRE CONCEPT WILL HAVE TO BE ABANDONED - The only person who understood the thing quit.
9. IT IS IN THE PROCESS - It is so wrapped up in red tape that the situation is about hopeless.
10. WE WILL LOOK INTO IT- Forget it! We have enough problems for now.
11. PLEASE NOTE AND INITIAL - Let's spread the responsibility for the screw up.
12. GIVE US THE BENEFIT OF YOUR THINKING - We'll listen to what you have to say as long as it doesn't interfere with what we've already done.
13. GIVE US YOUR INTERPRETATION - I can't wait to hear this bull!
14. SEE ME or LET'S DISCUSS - Come into my office, I'm lonely.

15. ALL NEW - Parts not interchangeable with the previous design.
16. RUGGED -Too damn heavy to lift.
- 17.LIGHTWEIGHT- Lighter than RUGGED.
- 18.YEARS OF DEVELOPMENT-One finally worked.
- 19.ENERGY SAVING-Achieved when the power switch is off.
- 20.LOW MAINTENANCE-Impossible to fix it broken.

.....
 Champagne yes, philosophy no.

And now hear this Indian tale, more than 25 years old joke, that ends in a... mathematical formula!

Once upon a time, somewhere in North America, an Indian chief and his squaw had a son. Being the first child, it was born on the hide of an elk.

Eventually a second son was born, of the chief's next squaw, this time on the hide of a cougar.

When he was getting older, the chief got married a third time, with a very capricious squaw who also became pregnant. She insisted that her child could only be born of the hide of a hippopotamus. You can well imagine the great voyage of the indian chief, by pony, by canoe, walking and so on to Africa whence he returned in time with a hippopotamus hide. His third child, also a son, was then born on this hide.

The other two sons were jealous of the new child, and they set out to kill him. The mother fought so valiantly that she saved her son and died in the effort, having killed the two "would-be murderers". Since then, whenever his tale is told by the tribal elders, they point out that:

"THE SQUAW ON THE HIPPOPOTAMUS WAS EQUAL TO THE SONS OF THE SQUAWS ON THE OTHER TWO HIDES"

What do you think about the famous Murphy's Laws, very well moulded on the paradoxism in society? Or about the romanian prose writer Negruzzi (19th century) with his short story "Alexandru Lăpușneanu" ("If you don't want me, I want you!"), or the Italian humanist poet Petrarca (14th century) with his love antinomies, or the ancient Greek poets and playwrights (before Jesus Christ): Pindar, Homer, Sofocles, Euripides? There is, perhaps, no creator not having used at least an antithesis or a paradox in his or her work - because the paradoxes bring something of relish, of curiosity, of incitement.

What do you think about the paradoxes in mathematics and physics (called "exact" sciences!) that reasarchers could not solve?

The paradoxist texts have a meaning, encoded in multiple cases, the reader needs first to find the key of understanding therefore, no way to label them dadaist if he or she does not penetrate their significance. They are neither surrealist, because are not based on dreams or metaphysics, nor cubist, because are not focusing on geometrisation.

The paradoxism is the last avant-garde movement of the second millenium.

Besides its focus on oppositions wich are organically mixed in order not to be oppositions anymore, the paradoxism is based very much, as any avant-garde movement, on experiments and innovations. Also, the paradoxism tries connections between remote field of knowledge, and takes ideas against the hair in counter-sense, or re-interpret them upside down. That's why many times paradoxism is in good neighbourhood with the humor and the puzzle. “The paradoxism proposed to prove the possibility of generalizing the literary work to a “without limits” multiplicity (...), including for this heterogeneous elements” (Titu Popescu).

Readers, attempt to bring in literature, art, philosophy, even science assertions against the common belief, against the main stream. Explore the unexplorable! Do not go with the crowd. Encroach upon conventions and petrified knowledge and feelings. The common sense is trivial, try the uncommon sense. THINK DIFFERENT!

din naștere ea fiind ciuruită...
lichidul vâscos
 l-ați pierdut pe drum...
 când v-ați stabilit
 în oază!
n-ați mai existat.
De aceea;
când conjugați ori declinați
apelați la verbe
moarte în cărți
iar dacă verbu-i șters,
nu mai existați.
de fapt, nici n-ați fost

En France, désormais, nous serons deux
à connaître le piricossanoglais.
Enfin, un et demi...
Lui, qui habite au Nord-Ouest de la France,
le dernier à le parler,
et moi, qui le lis.
1 1/2...
Lorsque le poigne de l'horreur
commence à t'étrangler, s'échappent encore quelques mots
et leurs contraires.
Quand la main de l'infâme
s'efonce dans ta gorge
quelques signes entament la révolte, l'équation se brise
et la figure géométrique éclate à la gueule de l'endormi.
Lorsque l'horrible se croit vainqueur
le dernier mot se faufile encore:
(absolu - éternité - esprit) jusqu'à ce que ton ultime silence
hurle à jamais
et pulvérise
tout autre silence indifférent.

DESPRE PARADOXISM

Din capul locului trebuie să remarcăm că cel mai fertil și util teren al cunoașterii este cel al paradoxismului - <adevăruri șocante> care ne cutremură cu diverse grade de tărie pe "scara Richter". Orice adevăr nou care contrastează cu antrenamentul nostru intuiționist anterior, îl numim în general "paradox". Orice situație în care suntem surprinși de un astfel de contrast, o numim "paradoxală". Cu cât terenul cunoașterii noastre înaintează în spații de dimensiune superioară (izomorfe în esență cu un $IR^n, n > 4$), cu atât șocul noilor descoperiri este mai "delicat" și mai "puternic". Sensul lui "puternic" trece ușor, pe nesimțite, de la cotidian la subtilitatea armoniei christice care supune natura inferioară prin iubire pură.

Limbajul pe care-l folosim pentru descrierea unor astfel de subtilități, trebuie în mod necesar să evolueze în complexitate și nuanță, trecînd tot pe nesimțite în spațiul poetic al metaforelor. Nu este de mirare că cea mai paradoxală carte din lume este Biblia. Utilizînd limbajul simplu pentru descrierea unor adevăruri superioare, se ajunge (paradoxal) la contraste și contradicții la nivel formal. Iată un exemplu din multe altele: "Fiindcă atît de mult a iubit Dumnezeu lumea, că a dat pe singurul Lui Fiu, pentru că oricine crede în El, să nu piară, ci să aibă viața vecinică." (Ioan 3,16). Compară cu: "Nu iubiți lumea, nici lucrurile din lume. Dacă iubește cineva lumea, dragostea Tatălui nu este în el." (1 Ioan 2,15)

Pentru un spirit inferior, cele două citate de mai sus pot constitui un "puternic" motiv de a combate Biblia. Lumea de azi (ca și cea de ieri) este plină de "teologi" și "atei" aflați la începutul evoluției lor spirituale. Pentru un spirit superior (realmente superior), cele două citate de mai sus nu fac altceva decît să se completeze reciproc. "Cerule și pămîntul vor trece, dar cuvintele Mele nu vor trece nicidecum" - spunea Domnul Iisus (Matei 24,35). Ce sunt de fapt bietele noastre cuvinte?...!...

Neîncetat va trebui să ne luptăm cu dimensiunile spațiilor superioare, cucerindu-le treptat cu multă răbdare.

Nu putem rămîne deci la 'starea Wittgenstein': "whereof one cannot speak, thereof one must be silent". Și-atfel, metafizica își extinde drumul ei paradoxal și "discutabil" pe tărîmul spațiilor superioare. "By recognizing the diversity of the functions of language, Wittgenstein inevitably altered the task of philosophy" - spune Samuel Stumpf.

Un om

Un om trist privește
Pe fereastră, departe
Un om departe este,
Dincolo de o fereastră.
Omul departe este
Și departe și este
Privire fără privit.

Un om încolăcit
În jurul axei sale,
În jurul privirii sale
Care nu poate depăși
Fereastra ferestrei
Spre afară.
Și nu se poate depăși
Și nu se poate.

(În același timp
Și în același spațiu
Femeia stă cu coatele
Pe marginea lumii
Și stabilește războaie și pace.)

Singurătatea arcului

Într-o dimineață mai înspre seară stelele străluceau/păleau și nu se vedeau și eu am pierdut buletinul de identitate. Pomii se aruncau în brațele mele și ploua și nu. Era o despărțire, era o rupere în mine, pe lângă tine, departe.

Înfrunziseră pomii și cădeau frunzele. Frumos, dar nu știa nimeni.

Erau doar zvonuri. Toți și toate vorbeau în același timp în același spațiu, într-un punct de sosire. Și încercam să fac gimnastică într-un punct. N-aveam nici o dimensiune.

Cineva mi-a atras atenția.

Mergeam în echilibru pe dunga dintre timp și spațiu.

Atunci s-a prezentat la mine un personaj fără nici o însușire și mi-a cerut cheile de la apartament. Parcă ar fi fost trimis de cineva și acum el își îndeplinea o obligație de serviciu.

Înțelegeți, fără nici o însușire. Fără chelie, fără să pară bun sau rău, fără însușirea de a nu avea o însușire. Se gândea la mine cu lama.

Shades the Sun.

CÂNTEC DE BĂTUT ROBOTUL

Pentru a ieftini benzina
vom scumpi apa;
pe cea caldă o vom lăsa așa: rece.
Vom introduce bunul simț
prin lege,
îl vom păzi cu armata și,
delatori ai timpului,
vom călări pe multe cărți publicate
pe hîrtie mai scumpă decît poezia mințindu-ne că pacea
tîrîie după ea premiul pentru pace.
Hoțul de cumpărător vrea prea mult spunînd că munca nu poate supraviețui fără el.
Minuni peste noapte nu vor fi,
dar se deschid expoziții
de minuni făcute peste zi.
Opoziția iubește puterea, scriu ziarele,
și cîmpurile rămîn neînsămîntate.
Neînsămîntate, de cine?!
În Europa vom aluneca într-o zi,
vor trece ani;
căzută pe jos,
cea mai bună făină se face gunoi.
Ironia scurtează coada la lapte,
nu bogăția noastră de idei,
iar femeia e exploatată
cu bucăți din ce în ce mai mici; de zahăr.
Și se gestionează munca de la om la om;
dacă mergem departe, departe ajungem.

Borl & Theg came along
Theg felt hunger
Theg cooked words in the kettle
until he ate them
and
they became him
nothing mattered
Borl watched Theg eat
Borl invented the idea of love
then Borl loved Theg,
a grammar of love
began there
nothing mattered
Theg hid in a forest
Theg felt a hunger
but not for Borl
Theg gathered the words
the ideas
he buried them
there was a sadness
there was nothing more to do.

PARADOXALIST MANEFESTO #34

An apple's better sweet than round;
a rattle's silent till shaken.
Lets go to the hodge-podge
outside the aisles of rhetoric.
Damn cans of consistency,
shrink-packs of logic.
Let's break the print and cellophane with our melliflous tendrils and stones.

* * *

Ignorance of the tradition is ignorance.
Following the tradition
is following.
Knowing the tradition
and working against it is the tradition.

* * *

Dead's consistant;
alive's to blame.
Take foolish, hermetic,
trivial for a trip.
Dead's consistant;
take trivial, hermetic.

Untitled 1:

not always was it what it was
it just never wasn't what it wasn't except when it was what it wasn't wasn't that really what it was or was it always what it wasn't?
what was the thing I speak of?
first off, what wasn't it?
what is wasn't gives us clues as to what it was what it was when it wasn't is really what it was so when it wasn't, it was except when it really wasn't in which case it actually was but what it was when it wasn't wasn't what it was so it never was and it never wasn't it was the wasn't and wasn't the was it was what it wasn't,
in which case it never was and never wasn't but was it wasn't, or wasn't is was so wasn't it always what is was?

A.M.O.A.

We are writing you this in strict confidence, and hope you will honor the vulnerability of our situation if you were to decide to disclose this anyone. We'll get right to it by telling you our membership card, which is printed: Affiliated Moderates Of America really stands for Affiliated Mediocrities Of America. Our secret handshake is the regular, confident one followed quickly by three light pats on the right shoulder, as though it were an afterthought. The purpose of A.M.O.A. - and this you'll appreciate soon - is to forget the pretense that we are something special, that we have some talent or skill which thousands (or millions) of other common, ordinary human beings do not have. We are, in fact, mediocrities. And in our meetings all false facade, and disguise, dissipates. We let go. We relax. We blessedly become what we really are: ordinary folks. For a few precious hours each month we are free of the tension of pretending to be that which, clearly, we are not. This has a restorative quality that A.M.O.A. gives to people like you, and people like us. You may find it surprising how many professional persons are longstanding members of A.M.O.A. - doctors, lawyers, college professors and such. And all of us tell the same sad story in one manner or another; how we were pressured by status, or necessity; into becoming a someone! You know, maybe two hundred years ago some of us might have become swashbuckling son-of-guns! But now, in this world, we have to do what we have to do. So we keep up a front; we send our children to the best schools; we socialize with the right crowd... but here is the difference: we are always honest with ourselves at A.M.O.A. We know we are ordinary, simple people. We know we are mediocrities. And it is this very knowledge that gives us the inner contentment we wouldn't exchange for all the tea in China. Yes, again we repeat we are happy as plain mediocrities, and we hope Bill, that you will join us in our worm camaraderie; because, Bill, you know, we know, who you are... you are (and there is no greater compliment) like the sun's sunshine shining on a common, ordinary day! Bill, please do not be disturbed by a soon-to-be slow crumbling of this letter and envelope into common, ordinary household dust. We only do this for your protection. And another thing, Bill - if you should decide not to join us at A.M.O.A... how could a simple persons like ourselves know for sure whether the same fate of shame and embarrassment suffered by poor ol' Jim Thomson - the ruin of his Dental Practice, it drove him out of town with his head hung low, and his tail between his legs - might not happen to somebody else? We'll see you, Bill, this coming Monday, 7:00 P.M., sharp.

Dear “Paradoxism” journal and Paradoxism Association,

Finding inovative, original works is an arduous task for a member of our culture. People are presented with what others think they should like. Friday night'd executives are making sure people are “Happy meal'd” without straws and stay closed minded; they feel that people are shallow and that they do not want to think for themselves. People obviously do have the capacity to think for themselves and cultivate and keep an open mind, but in order to do this they need to be presented with ideas and works from outside the mainstream and controlling empires. When I finished this book¹, certain mainstream publishers declined to publish it, many said that people would not want to read it because “people don't want to think for themselves”. I then heard about your smashing press and the respect and vision you have to new literature. I am thoroughly convinced that this is a press that doesn't cater to puting out generic, predictable books. I am very interested in your press and the quality work it aims to put out. I could hardly care about money in regards to literature and other arts.

Scrisoare către Mama
Letter to my Mother
Lettre à ma Mère

O, Mamă, mă simt copleșit de dor et j'espère que tu ne m'aime plus encore more than you did before the time I was forced to be born

O, Mamă, mă simt tulburat, sunt doar tânăr.
since I have thought of you as a killer of my best brothers and sisters
qui ont été forcé de fuir ou ont été détruit sans résistance.

O, Mamă, mă-ntrebi de ce-am plecat?
Parce que tu m'avait condamné à ce départ feeding me with the milk of hatred, plotting to be robbed of life's happiness falling apart

O, Mamă, va trebui oare să înțeleg cât voi trăi votre frivole douceur qui avait accepté le Diable Rouge et puis, growing fear, exiling liberty,
embraced the trashmen and the loss of dignity?

O, Mamă, de-ai ști ce mult aș vrea să pot vorbi
cu tine,
mais le sacré respect pour ma langue
m'empêche d'exprimer
freely my thoughts about hate and disgrace.
O, loving, mother, pays adoré!

Poem

Do?

Don't do as I do -
Do as I say -
Just don't do it -
Do it!
It's not up to you
. . . to do as I say
- Don't do it -

Downs and Ups

Angels, hell's belles

keep down

up fall

happy - frown and bear it!

sad - smile and bear it!

Goodbye, not . . . so long . . . ago.

Dear Dr. Smarandache:

Around early spring of '99 I was doing some research on the internet at a friends house in Maryland. During a break I was in the literature section, and was trying to find some information on any paradoxist literature, presses, pamphlets, recent movements, etc. I came across your name and movement, which in-turn led to discovering your site, and revealed an entirely new yet somehow instinctive arena of which I have subconsciously been a part of within my writing for sometime now.

I read through your pages with conviction, and began a progression in literature that I previously thought was impossible, residing in a small town on the shores of Maryland, where the only literature available was in every way mainstream and non 'instinctive, non 'fertile, and in immediate need of the revolutionary forms of poetry you speak of.

IGNORANT OF THE CAUSE

(play in one impossible act)

The Characters:

The Professor X (elderly)
Teaching Assistant A (Young)
Teaching Assistant B (Young)
The Voice of Destiny (Ageless)

Scenery:

A room with two doors: one on the left, the other on the right. The latter holding a notice that reads: "The Salon of Destiny". In the back, slightly towards the right, in a terrace. Professor X is sitting at his desk, drawn in treaties. Spectacle sit on the tip of his nose.

Enter Assistant A.

Assis. A: Professor X, you're expected at the conference!

Prof. X: (Mumbling) What conference?

Assis. A: About inner points operations.

Prof. X: (Puzzled) Inner points operations...?

Assis. A: Your famous work. "Axioms: Rules about inner points operations", published last year in the gazette.

Prof. X: I don't understand. What gazette?

Assis. A: The wall gazette, "Mathematicus".

Prof. X: I haven't heard of a gazette by that name. I'm a physician.

Assis. A: But you've been working on it for ten years. You're the Editor in Chief.

Prof. X: I think there's been some confusion.

Assis. A: Aren't you Professor X?

Prof. X: Well, yes, I am.

Assis. A: Well, then?

Prof. X: I have never in my life been Editor of Journals.

Assis. A: Them, Sport Editor.

Prof. X: I don't recall it.

The mailman rings the bell and brings the Professor a letter. The assistant reads it enthusiastically.

Assis. A: "Dear Professor. I have the pleasure of informing you that your work 'Axioms: Rules About Inner Points Operations' has been approved by our censorship staff.

Prof. X: (Frowns in puzzlement)

Assis. A: Can you believe how modest a scientist of his fame can be? Although the importance of his discoveries is overwhelming, the professor considers it as nothing.

Prof. X: I have nothing to say. I don't know what it is about - Assis. A: Sensational! What he wants to say is that he fears his work was nothing, but his research is only the beginning.

Prof. X: I tell you, I genuinely know nothing!

Assis. A: Certainly no one can say they know something when this something is particularly complex. You can't cover it's entirely in one breath. Every second a new discovery is being made! Therefore, you cannot have complete knowledge. While you acknowledge one thing, another is being published. lately, I have received, from the editorial office, lots of materials, and it falls to me the pleasant task of deciphering 15% of the work. Your paper is ingenious and open. Therefore, it may suit the taste of our readers. All goes under your review.

Prof. X: So, then I've written these Axioms? Rules?

Assis. A: Surely, I was by your side.

Prof. X: (More confused)

(Entering Teaching Assistant B)

Assis. B: The audience is waiting for us! C'mon professor!

Assis. A: Let's go.

(Both assistant take the professor by the arms and lead towards the terrace. From outside, the noise of the conference can be heard. The three characters stands with their backs to the audience.)

Assis. B: (Addressing invisible crowd) Professor X will now talk about the importance of his Axioms. Let's let him speak!

Assis. A: (To Assis. B) What exhausting work. The professor doesn't talk enough about those prints until he calculates the matter completely.

Assis. B: He is showing a tremendous amount of zeal.

Professor X: I haven't worked in the least for this paper.

Assis. A: (To the crowd) Unbelievable! Totally effortless, he creates a work of genius!

Prof. X: And it is of no interest to me!

Assis. B: Of course, if a minimum amount of work is sufficient to finish it!

(Both assistants bow in front of the crowd. The three then face the audience. A delivery man brings the newspaper in.)

Assis. A: (Reading the newspaper) Professor! Your scientific conference has been published on the first page!

Assis. B: (Takes the newspaper) Let me see! Another accomplishment you cannot acknowledge, due to the others.

Prof. X: I don't even know what Axioms are -

Assis. B: Indeed, the term has such meaning and is that it cannot be trapped in the pair of tongs of a definition.

Assis. A: Professor X has so deeply studied this term that in the end he's gone beyond the boundaries of just one word.

Prof. X: My skill is entirely different.

Assis. B: About professor's encyclopedia culture, we shall talk on another occasion.

Prof. X: And namely about non-special forces -

Assis. A: It is difficult to state in these days you are specialist in a simple field. Only an imposter may say it.

Assis. B: The points the professors was talking about were interior, you have heard!

Prof. X: So they might be, but I must commit myself. Was this a called conference?

Assis. B: (Reading) Today in the room of the University of Science, our distinguished Professor X has spoken on the famous Axioms of Inner Points. We further reproduce the discussion of the honorable professor - Assis. A: Read a bit slowly.

Assis. B: Axioms of Inner points... (Pause) I have nothing to tell you. I don't know what it is about. I genuinely know nothing! Not at least what these axioms are. I haven't the slightest notion, and I do not perceive it properly. I have an entirely different skill, and namely about special forces. So it might be, but I do not commit myself. I haven't worked in the least on this paper. And it is of no interest to me whatsoever!

Assis. A: Our research has been complete. You have demonstrated to them exactly what was needed.

Prof. X: Rubbish!

Assis. B: (Reaching his towards the professor) Our sentiments of deep respect.

Assis. A: And the crowd appreciates you at the open stage.

Prof. X: I still believe you are joking -

Assis. A: In any case, not us. Maybe you.

Prof. X: That it was only a force -

Assis. B: We feel that you are too tired from so much research. We advise you to get some rest for a few hours.

Prof. X: But I am not tired. You are confusing me!

Assistants: Please accept our apologies.

(Exit both assistants. The bell rings, and the mailman appears with another letter)

Prof. X: (Read the letter) Dear Professor. Regretfully, we bring your knowledge your paper 'Axioms: Rules About Inner Points' has not been approved by our censorship staff. Lately we have received lots of materials at our editing office, and it falls to me the unpleasant task of rejecting 85% of these materials. Your paper-work is too technical and hermetic. Therefore, it is not suited to the public taste.

(Saddened) I think someone is taking the mickey out of me. I'm going to speak with the Dean.

(He leaves and knocks on the door to the Dean's office)

The Voice: Come in!

(The professor enters. The following dialogue takes place behind the door the door.)

The Voice: Get in man!

Prof. X: I've entered.

The Voice: Come in at least!

(The professor leaves and comes back in again.)

Prof. X: I've entered again!
 The Voice: Get out! How dare you come in twice when others never enter?
 Prof. X: But you know I went out and then returned.
 The Voice: Get out again, but this time forever!
 Prof. X: First I would like to tell you why I'm here.
 The Voice: Man, go away from my life. Forever!
 Prof. X: I would like -
 The Voice: GET OUT!
 Prof. X: Thank you. (He comes back on stage and sits at his desk)

(Enter teacher assistant A) Assis. A: Professor X, it has begun an interesting scientific lecture.
 Prof. X: (Indifferently) What kind of lecture?
 Assis. A: About non-special forces -
 Prof. X: (Satisfied) Yes, the non-special forces - Assis. A: The famous proper work of Professor X. "Lineal Vectors of the Non-Special Forces", published last year in the review.
 Prof. X: This is my paperwork -
 Assis. A: Excuse me if I contradict you, but you are a mathematician while this paper is a work of physics.
 Prof. X: A mathematician?
 Assis. A: As always.
 Prof. X: I don't believe it. Possibly it might be an error?
 Assis. A: The review called it Physicus.
 Prof. X: But it seems to me that I was.
 Assis. A: Oh! That was 30 years ago when your father was alive.
 Prof. X: I don't remember.

(Enter assistant B in a hurry)

Assis. B: Let's hurry up sirs, we are losing our seats.
 Assis. A: Is the professor invited too?
 Assis. B: Surely, as a spectator.
 Prof. X: Spectator at my own achievement?
 Both Assistants: Let's go!

(They all leave through the left side)

Scenery:

Many chairs fill the stage. The lecture begins. The stage is in silence. From time to time, the professor stands and states):

- That isn't true. This theorem, I have discovered it!
 - You lie without shame! You lie! The result belongs to me. I have even a lecture for the device of measure and control of the non-special forces, as well as other important answers on the same topic!

(Both assistants hide in shame when the professor makes an outburst. Each grab a hold of his arms and pull him down, saying):

- Just keep quiet! Don't interrupt with your ideas!
- Sit down Professor X! You are a bit ill.
- It is useless to protest. Nobody believes you. The die has been thrown as the Masters wanted.

(Later, professor X leaves the amphitheatre numb and confused)

Prof. X: I shall have go again for a hearing with the Dean.

(He heads for the door on the right side of the stage and opens it)

The Voice: Get out!

Prof. X: But I haven't entered yet.

The Voice: Get out at once!

Prof. X: To get out must first enter.

The Voice: Don't bother me! GET OUT!

(The professor closes the door and falls to the ground. Both assistants then stand and applaud the end of the lecture)

L'ASSOCIATION ANONYME D'ASSURANCES POUR LA GLOIRE

à Jean-Paul Micouleau

- pièce de théâtre dans un demi-acte -

- le poète: avec timidité frappe trois fois à la porte. On ne le voit pas. Parce que personne ne répond, il ouvre. C'est un nain.

- la secrétaire: tape toujours à une énorme machine à écrire, qui est deux fois plus haute que le poète, et trois fois plus large, placée sur le plancher. Donc, elle va d'un bout à l'autre de la machine, pour appuyer sur les touches, parfois avec ses pieds, ses coudes, sa tête, ou bien des coups de poing. Sa façon de faire rappelle une danse mécanique, rythmique.

- le poète: Bonjour, mademoiselle.

(Pause pénible. Elle paraît n'avoir rien entendu.)

- la secrétaire: Depuis longtemps, je ne suis plus mademoiselle.

(Il rougit.)

- le poète: Excusez-moi! Vous... madame... (Le même jeu.)

- la secrétaire: Depuis longtemps, je ne suis plus madame! (Pause pénible.) Je m'appelle "L'Association Anonyme d'Assurances pour la Gloire".

- le poète (étonné): Donc, si vous êtes anonyme, vous n'avez pas de nom!?!?

- la secrétaire: Mais si! Mon nom se confond avec celui de l'Association Anonyme. Que désirez-vous?

- le poète: Madame... Association... signez-moi, je vous prie, ces papiers. (Il les sort de sa serviette.)

- la secrétaire: Je n'ai pas de signature! Il fallait plutôt revenir plus tard.

- le poète: Pardonnez-moi! Pourquoi?

- la secrétaire: Interrogez-vous vous-même!

- le poète: Moi, je n'ai aucune interrogation. Savez-vous, je suis poète. Cela ne point pour l'amour de l'arte, mais pour l'art de l'amour! Et... je pourrais vous dédier quatre vers immortels...

- la secrétaire: Merci, je n'en ai pas besoin. Mieux vaut quatre vers d'un service à thé! Ils seraient plus palpables.

- le poète: Je vous avoue la foi de non foie, une seule fois. Au début, j'avais écrit une demande pour monsieur le directeur de l'Association Anonyme d'Assurance pour la Gloire. Ultérieurement, j'ai appris qu'il était mort.

- la secrétaire: Ca ne fait rien. Vous avez la possibilité de lui envoyer la lettre, de la poursuivre dans sa tombe... Il recevra bien votre lettre et regrettera bien le temps perdu avec vous... Monsieur le directeur exigeait toujours le pourboire comme le pourmanger, et bien sur, après le pourpisser.

- le poète: Je lui aurais servi une petite casse-croûette, et du casse-poitrine, ensuite une casse-rolle et une casse-mine.

- la secrétaire: Et pour déboucher la bouteille, le tire-bouchon n'est pas?

- le poète: Vous-avez jusqu'à trois heures raison: tire-balle, tire-bouchon, tire-langue,
tire-pantalon!

Mais non, sans pantalons... (La secrétaire rit.)

- la secrétaire: Qui? Monsieur le directeur?
- le poète: Mais oui! Avec pantalons...
- la secrétaire: Décidez-vous! Votre réponse sera mise en question.
- le poète: Oh, la, la! Ma bonne occasion est méchante. Madame Association Anonyme, voilà ma prière envers la gloire. L'on m'a accusé de vol, alors que je suis un homme digne. Oui, on m'a soupçonné d'avoir pris les malheurs de mon collègue. Parce que les autres avaient des alibis, la suspicion est tombée sur la tête d'un individu insoupçonné, c'est-à-dire... moi... (il pleure). L'on m'a considéré comme un voleur.
- la secrétaire: Voulez, voulez. Mais intelligemment...
- le poète: Croyez-moi, madame Association, je ne veux pas le malheur des autres!
- la secrétaire: Mais les avez vous pris tous, absolument tous?
- le poète: Je ne suis pas égoïste... J'en laisse pour mon collègue, pour mon voisin, voyez-vous?
- la secrétaire: Oui, je vois... c'est-à-dire j'entends.
- le poète: Voyez-vous, pardon entendez-vous?
- la secrétaire: Oui, j'entend, mais pas assez bien. Car, j'ai souffert d'une otite...
- le poète: Moi, j'ai eu une grande, mais très grande - vous ne vous imaginez pas - très, très grande... insucces... vis-à-vis de mon recueil de poèmes. La gloire de mon collègue s'est alors cognée à mon échec.
- la secrétaire: Votre collègue est assuré à vie, chez nous Association pour la Gloire.
- le poète: Et moi? Suis je assuré à mort?... Ah, mon Dieu! (un éclat lumineux). Mais, monsieur le directeur y aurait pu changer quelque chose... (Il est très triste)
- la secrétaire: N'etone vous pas fier de votre métier?... Fier de votre métier?
- le poète: Je suis fier de mon métier.
- la secrétaire: Cher poète vous parlez avec une cohérente incohérence. A propos, ou étiez-vous nommé comme poète?
- le poète: A Trifouilly-les-Oies.
- la secrétaire: Cette localité est-elle très éloignée?
- le poète: Non, elle se trouve à cinq km de Caen.
- la secrétaire: Donc, vous n'avez pas de quoi pleurer chaque jour, vous faites la navette de Caen à Trifouilly-les-Oies. Et le retour, bien sûr. Moi, j'habite plus loin.
- le poète: Ou, exactement?
- la secrétaire: A Pétaouchnoc.
- le poète: Mais, oui! Elle est très renommée, cette ville.
- la secrétaire: Bien sûr. Celle ci se trouve à 6 km de Caen sur la direction de Quebec.
- le poète: C'est vrai, vous travaillez dans un bled paumé.
- la secrétaire: Par bleu!
- le poète: Mieux: par blanc!
- la secrétaire: Je voyage toujours dans le car. Mais c'est dangereux. Trois fois, on a volé mon sac.
- le poète: Le même sac?
- la secrétaire: Imbécile!... Après mon arrivée à Caen, je me promène tous les soirs jusqu'à minuit.
- le poète: Mais c'est très imprudent! Ne craignez-vous pas d'être abordée?...
- la secrétaire: Nous, c'est tranquille. J'aime la poésie de la nature.

- la secrétaire: Jadis, j'ai déambulé dans le parc, jusqu'à une heure dans la nuit. Et rien...
- le poète: Oh, désolé!...Donc, vous n'avez pas réussi à vous faire violée...
- la secrétaire: Pas du tout!
- le poète: Je vous conseille d'essayer encore une fois. Mais n'oubliez pas, à l'avenir, soyez plus provocatrice... (il remue les fesses)
- la secrétaire: A l'heure ou je vais dans le parc de Caen, il n'y a pas d'homme.
- le poète: Oh, madame... Pardon! Je le regrette profondément... Possédez vous une Renault, pour circuler dans la ville?
- la secrétaire: Non, je n'ai pas de voiture. C'est ma fille qui en a une... d'enfant!
- le poète: Et vous l'utilisez vous aussi?
- la secrétaire: Ce n'était pas moi! Monsieur le directeur de l'Association Anonyme pour la Gloire.
- le poète: Le directeur? Mais quelle age a-t-il?
- la secrétaire: Je ne suis pas sure: soixante, quinze, ou quatre-vingt-quinze, ou peut-etre trente quinze ans.
- le poète: Donc, il est jeune, ou bien vieux.
- la secrétaire: Vous avez raison, mais pas toujours. Pourquoi etre vous mé-content?
- la poète: Non, je suis content!
- la secrétaire: Etez vous méchant?
- le poète: Non, je suis chante.
- la secrétaire: Mais t'in-quiète pas pour cela!
- le poète: Mais alors, je m'en quiète! Ce soir, c'est la fin de mes jours. Et chaque soirée de même. Au moins, à ce moment-ci, pouquoi ne censez vous pas de taper à la machine. J'ai mal aux tampons d'ouate des oreilles.
- la secrétaire: Notre conversation, d'ailleurs, sans aucune valeur artistique, ni sociale, ni politique, je l'ai écrite pour d'histoire littéraire. Seulement des écrivains mineurs sont retenus par mon Association Anonyme, qui promulgue leur Gloire. Les célèbres très connus, sont devenus blasés justement grâce a leur grandes qualités et leur diffusion dans le monde. Ils ne présentent plus de nouveauté. Je vous félicite, vous êtes un poète petite, obscen, et anodine. Bravo! Vous achevez enfin cette vie, devenue la vrai oeuvre du poètereau que vous être.

An Imaginative Recapture of Certain Key Elements

First: a small rifle, you unravel figurations of the end of time. Next: bookshelves, livestock, a martini to teach them Sabbath-breaking and damnation.

First: a closet stuffed with scissors, carrots, and photocopied passages from the Gospel of Enoch.

Next: the children are always scapegoats.

First: freeze-dried foods, ice draped over a chair - this was a man's room.

Next: when he comes back, the crickets will be gone.

First: you carried her home yourself, never knowing her name. Next: you insist on a "soul sleep" after the body and soul die together.

First: Ozone, salad-size receptionists, a new house across the street.

Next: the morning you fell between death and resurrection, the table was full.

First: you set to work dreaming of childhood. Next: too much seems to vanish.

THE NEW WORLD ORDER

words: 1,100

Bulgaria has traded geographical space with Paraguay. So that former South-American country is now safely esconced in Eastern Europe. And the Balkan nation now resides next to Brazil. "The transferred countries", say spokespersons, "are expecting to gain substantially from their unprecedented treks across the Atlantic Ocean. All changes were completed on a weekend in the dead of night. Officials of the two nations' governments said that they hoped members of the international media wouldn't notice or suspect anything out of the ordinary. "It would have just been too hard to have to explain," added officials. Their hopes were fulfilled.

Brazilians, always quick up the uptake, immediately smelled a rat when they overheard people in what had been neighboring Paraguay no longer speaking Spanish, the traditional language. Instead they spoke an unidentified foreign tongue, later found to be Bulgarian. This raised a lot of Brazilian eyebrows not to mention questions. But Portuguese being their language, they were not prepared linguistically to query the new neighbours.

When newspapers and tabloids in the former region of Bulgaria began printing in Spanish, nonresident Romanians, Albanians, and Macedonians started complaining that they couldn't read about what was going on anymore. And it caused a big stink leading to an investigation at the United Nations Security Council. They discovered the truth about the two countries having traded places. People in the Balkans and all over the world haven't been the same since. And in which seat in the General Assembly each countries' ambassador should sit was being hashed out still.

Politicians and ministers everywhere have bandied that phrase about in the recent years. And it hasn't always been in the best of terms. But neither group, nor any other, has satisfactorily defined what The New World Order is or what it means exactly, even generally. That includes the world of wrestling.

One brave Bulgarian diplomat did admit that his countrymen and women hadn't the faintest idea of what the phrase was supposed to mean, either. But the government felt strongly that it had better come up with some significant action relating to The New World Order so they wouldn't appear to be ignorant or out of step with other nations.

"So", continued the Bulgarian, "after many meetings and much debate and deliberation, and scores of delivered pizza supremes, we came up with this idea of trading places with another country.

The concept just seemed to click and mesh with what The New World Order had to mean. We, then, decided to try our idea. Getting other nations to go along with us proved our most difficult obstacle. Each sovereign state we approached had one or more very good reasons to stay put where they were. And it was mighty hard to argue with them. But then we called upon Paraguay. They were cordial and ripe for change. And we soon struck a deal".

Naturally, some Bulgarians were a tad reluctant to leave Europe. But when they learned about the nice warm climate at the new location, most citizens, even stick-in-the-muds, jumped at the chance. Trully, they had no choice in the matter. But it was hoped that everyone would go along, at least for the ride.

It took a while for those involved to secretly pack up belongings, move out, board an ocean liner, cross the sea, find a home on the new land, and move in. And remember, they had to do all that without benefit of a truck rental firm or of a moving van company. But the combined populations of both countries managed with a minimum amount of effort or delay. Sure, some Bulagrians cried and many carped, but otherwise, they and things went swimmingly.

Paraguans have since found their new climate in what used to be Bulgaria somewhat harsh compared to what used to be Bulgaria somewhat harsh compared to what they'd been used to in South America. But many Paraguans, especially the elderly and the overweight, had felt for years that South America was just too dam hot.

Word of the two countries' moves and how well their peoples have adjusted has reverberated around the globe. As a result, Uruguay incidentally, also a former Spanish-speaking neighbor of Brazil in South America, is soon trading places with Uganda from the African Continent. This should work out quite well. The theme being touted to their citizens is "We're doing this all for 'U'." Though environments at those countries' respective latitudes are quite different, in recent days, a great interest in llamas, an indigenous South American animal, has arisen among Ugandans thanks to a new movie, Llama Come Home, being widely shown there. As far as Uruguans are concerned, their attitude is, "Why shouldn't we move out of South America if the Paraguans already have?"

There's also a hot rumor now making newsroom rounds all over the Western Hemisphere: Vermont in the United States is clandestinely negotiating with Portugal to exchange places see advantages in this tentative geographical realignment. No one outsider those two governments, however, are privy to, or can figure out, what those mutual advantages might be. But the talk is that such a move seems to be in keeping with the meaning and thrust of The New World Order, daringly kicked off by Bulgaria just a short while ago.

In any case, ordering maple syrup and sugar candy in the future from what is today Portugal will seem strange, indeed. And getting olives and canned sardines from area that was once Vermont ought to be a bit oddball, too. But what is life, discounting heartache and trouble, if not constant, unpredictable change?

Aside from those countries' moves, there doesn't seem to be any others on the horizon relating to The New World Order. Of course, that doesn't take into account what's happening down at the New World Deli on 6th Street. They've just introduced a new menu order: a hot pastrami sandwich on pita bread with a side order of potato salad and beans.

The End

¹Dear Mr. Smarandache:

Non-sentence? Non-style? Literature out of everything? “circadia” has been waiting for its whole life! It has no grammar and no subject, but it’s an experiment that, like Victor Frankenstein’s, runs a risk of creating a beautiful new race of poems. I have ended up trying to explain “circadia” to everyone else who has read it, which is very frustrating. It doesn’t mean, it just is, and it has a few themes woven through it. As for anti-language, some of the words in “circadia” aren’t even in English, and some have been here since the sixth century A.D. There are some phrases and even one simple clause, but forgive them. They exist for purposes of sound.

THE NEW WORLD ORDER

Bulgaria has traded geographical space with Paraguay. So that former South-American country is now safely ensconced in Eastern Europe. And the Balkan nation now resides next to Brazil. "The transferred countries", say spokespersons, "are expecting to gain substantially from their unprecedented treks across the Atlantic Ocean.

All changes were completed on a weekend in the dead of night. Officials of the two nations' governments said that they hoped members of the international media wouldn't notice or suspect anything out of the ordinary. "It would have just been too hard to have to explain," added officials. Their hopes were fulfilled.

Brazilians, always quick up the uptake, immediately smelled a rat when they overheard people in what had been neighboring Paraguay no longer speaking Spanish, the traditional language. Instead they spoke an unidentified foreign tongue, later found to be Bulgarian. This raised a lot of Brazilian eyebrows not to mention questions. But Portuguese being their language, they were not prepared linguistically to query the new neighbours.

When newspapers and tabloids in the former region of Bulgaria began printing in Spanish, nonresident Romanians, Albanians, and Macedonians started complaining that they couldn't read about what was going on anymore. And it caused a big stink leading to an investigation at the United Nations Security Council. They discovered the truth about the two countries having traded places. People in the Balkans and all over the world haven't been the same since. And in which seat in the General Assembly each countries' ambassador should sit was being hashed out still.
